ELECTRICAL COSTS IN BUILDING WORK UNDER INQUIRY

Attorney-General Seeks to Find if Certain Groups Are Violating State Anti-Trust Laws.

CONTRACTORS SAY THEY ARE COERCED

Agreement With Union Provides $2.80 Daily for Life Insurance Besides $13.20 Wage.

An inquiry is being made in St. Louis by Attorney-General Shartel to find out whether any of the operations of certain organizations in the electrical industry are contrary to any of the many provisions of the State's anti-trust laws.

Complaints have been made to the Attorney-General that some of the practices are violative of the intent of the law and are putting unfair costs upon building operations.

The Attorney-General, who intends to prosecute under a quo warranto proceeding before the Supreme Court in the event his investigators adduce sufficient evidence, began the inquiry following complaints from certain electrical contractors that they have been restricted in their operations as unwilling members of the organizations and that bids are forced to high levels by intimidation.

The Association of Master Builders of St. Louis, composed of general contractors, has joined with the Attorney-General in the investigation, the general contractors claiming that the organizations under inquiry have unreasonably increased building costs by their operations.

Organizations Under Inquiry.

The organizations under inquiry are the Electrical Employers' Association, composed of contractors only; the Electrical Protective Association, which provides death and annuity insurance for journeymen electricians and other employes of the contractors; the Electrical Approval Board, which approves bids and contracts, and the Electrical Listing Bureau, which figures the quantities of materials and specifies the number of hours of labor that will be required on any job.

A number of electrical contractors, who assert they are members of the organizations through threats of not being given union workmen, have made detailed statements in the last week to Assistant Attorney-General Smith B. Atwood in his St. Louis office at 1000 National Bank of Commerce Building, setting forth the operations of the organizations.

Before departing for Jefferson City yesterday to place these statements before the Attorney-General for analysis, Atwood said the inquiry had not proceeded to a point where he cared to disclose his findings.

Other electrical contractors have indicated they are ready to talk to the Attorney-General. Atwood will return to St. Louis tomorrow and will resume the investigation. He is being assisted by Richmond C. Coburn, special assistant Attorney-General, in the Central National Bank Building.

Daily Pay Totals $16.

The Electrical Workers' local union last July won a demand for an increase in wages from $12 to $13.20 a day. At the same time the contractors signed an agreement to join the Listing Bureau, the Protective Association and the Approval Association. They already belonged to their own organization, the Electrical Contractors' Association. Part of their agreement with the union provided they must pay $2.80 per day in addition to wages for each working man, for life and annuity insurance, which brought the daily charge for the workman to $16. In addition to this the contractors are charged membership fees and 3 per cent of the amount of their bids, all of which they are compelled to add to their bid.

Their profits and overhead are arbitrarily fixed, they assert, at 33⅓ per cent.

All these agreements and understandings are being probed by the Attorney-General's investigators.

Taft's Condition "Unchanged."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The condition of former Chief Justice Taft tonight is unchanged, it was reported by his physician, Dr. Francis R. Hagner, through the White House. Mr. Taft, the report said, was resting comfortably, with nothing new to be reported on his condition. The noon bulletin reported the former Chief Justice was "somewhat better."

BOOK CHARGES ALLIES GOT GERMAN MUNITIONS

Inquiry Ordered Into Accusation That Krupp and Thyssen Sold to Neutral Countries Which Supplied Enemy.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—Under the authority of Federal statutes relating to high treason and treasonable favoritism, an investigation has been ordered into reports that the Krupp and Thyssen munitions firms sold war materials to neutral nations during the great war, with the knowledge that they would be delivered to enemy nations.

These charges against two of Germany's largest munitions manufacturers are contained in a recently published book, "The Bloody Internationale of War Industry," by Otto Lehmann Russbueldt.

The book specifically accuses Thyssen of having sold infantry breastplates to Holland during the war at lower prices than the firm asked in Germany.

It alleges that the Krupps turned over to England patents for the manufacture of hand-grenade fuses. To substantiate this, Russbueldt cites a suit brought by a German bank, of which Dr. Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach was chairman of the board, against the English war munitions firm of Vickers. The suit is said to be for priority payment of one shilling a fuse, or a total of 123,000,000 shillings (about $30,750,000). The book alleges this claim figured on the debit side of the Vickers' ledgers at the time of the company's merger with the Armstrong company.

"From this figure one can realize how much the Krupps profited from the death of each German soldier," Russbueldt wrote.

AMERICAN SPENT FORTUNE ON CHORUS GIRL WIFE

Nelson Morris' Divorce Suit in Paris Discloses Outlay of $280,000 Thus Far.

Copyright 1930, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Amazing revelations of the money spent by an American millionaire, Nelson Morris of Chicago, on his French chorus girl wife, Jane Aubert, have been made in the Paris courts by his lawyer, in the proceedings asking the courts to reduce her present separation allowance. A total of $280,000 has been accounted for, including $60,000 for a suburban villa, $130,000 for jewelry and $40,000 for the expenses of a trip to the Riviera last summer. It was mentioned that Mrs. Morris recently spent $16,000 in two months.

A divorce suit is pending. Jane Aubert is now starring in a Paris music hall. She was formerly a flower girl, then a chorus girl.

SHOT MEXICAN PRESIDENT UNDER SPELL OF ANTHEM

Youth Who Wounded Ortiz Rubio Says He Does Not Think Executive Won Fairly.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22.—The inspiration of the closing strains of the Mexican national anthem moved him to shoot and wound President Ortiz Rubio, Daniel Flores, the assassin told newspaper men today in the first interview the Government has permitted with him.

He said he stood in front of the National Palace as the President was about to leave. Some of the crowd outside the palace took up the words of the national hymn and as he heard them say: "Mexicans, at the call of war, seize your swords and bridles," he lifted his pistol and fired.

Flores said he had never participated in politics, never smoked, never drank and had no dealings with Mexican Communists. He refused to reply when asked whether he was a supporter of the defeated presidential candidate, Jose Vasconcelos. He said he did not consider President Ortiz Rubio had been justly elected.

HOOVER PAYS HONOR TO FIRST PRESIDENT

Reviews Parade in Alexandria, Then Visits Washington's Tomb at Mount Vernon.

By the Associated Press.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 22.—This historic community which claimed Gen. Washington as one of its citizens, paid tribute to his memory today. President Herbert Hoover and Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia took part in the ceremony.

For more than an hour, the executives sat in a glass enclosed reviewing stand beside Christ Church, where the first President worshiped, reviewing the military parade honoring the 198th birthday anniversary of Washington.

Later, the President and Mrs. Hoover left unexpectedly to visit the tomb of Washington at Mt. Vernon before returning to the White House. At the tomb the President and Mrs. Hoover stood for a moment with heads bowed. The wreath which Mr. Hoover had sent early this morning by his naval aid, Capt. Allen Buchanan, was in a prominent place among a profusion of flowers. Leaving the tomb, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover strolled across the lawn to the mansion for a brief visit before returning to Washington.

Three times previously presidents of the United States—Taft, Wilson and Coolidge—have come here to do honor to Washington on the anniversary of his birth. In 1799 Gen. Washington himself reviewed a military parade here in his honor.

Earlier in the day the Masonic order and children of the American Revolution joined in a ceremony in the old Presbyterian meeting house, built in 1774.

Miss Eleanor Washington Howard, great grand-niece of Gen. Washington and last child of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon, placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier of the American Revolution.

With Arthur W. Davis, grand master of the Washington State Masons presiding, the Masons paid tribute to the memory of former members of the lodge buried in the old churchyard. Milton L. Meyers, grand master of the State of Oregon, standing amidst the weather-worn tombs from which many of the names had been effaced by time, placed a wreath in honor of all those buried there.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 22.—Luther A. Snow, 25 years old, a private in the Seventeenth Infantry, at Fort Crook, died last night, apparently of injuries suffered in a boxing match at the fort Thursday evening.

Snow boxed "Kid" Wondra and was knocked out in the second round. He enlisted several months ago at Des Moines, Ia., and his home is at Albany, Mo.

HOOVER PACIFIES G. O. P. REGULARS IN CONFERENCE

"We Will Have a Tariff Bill," Says Watson, Majority Leader, After Visit to White House.

'TALK SATISFACTORY,' SENATOR EXPLAINS

Meeting Follows Harrison's Suggestion That President Leans Toward Coalition Program.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—President Hoover made his peace with the Senate Republican leaders today on the tariff, Senator Watson of Indiana, the party chieftain, announcing after a White House conference that "we will have a tariff bill."

Mr. Hoover called Watson to the White House after the flare-up yesterday in the Senate. Senator Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, stirred things up when he called attention to a story in the Kansas City Star saying the President favored the tariff rates being adopted by the coalition of Democrats and Republican Independents.

This story, which aroused the Republican regulars, particularly Grundy of Pennsylvania, went undenied at the White House.

"Satisfactory," Says Watson.

Watson, who has been leading the fight against the coalition in the tariff contest, would only say after the White House discussion that "we had a satisfactory talk." He said the Republicans would continue their fight against any reductions in existing tariff rates by the coalition.

What Mr. Hoover said about the story in the Kansas City Star was not given out. Grundy had made some inquiries about the story and had told his colleagues, including Watson, that it appeared to be authentic.

Watson repeated today what he has said previously, that the President should refrain from seeking to guide Congress in the fixing of the 21,000 rates involved in a tariff bill. He seemed to have the assurance of the President that no action would be taken by the White House on rates until the tariff bill was presented to Mr. Hoover.

Changes in Conference Looked For.

The announcement by Watson that he would vote to send the tariff bill from the Senate to conference with the House was taken to mean that the Republicans would vote for the measure, although it has been rewritten almost entirely by the Democratic-Republican Independent coalition.

However, the Republican regulars are making it clear that they are not sanctioning the bill as it now stands and will vote for it only to get it to conference in the hope that a compromise measure will come out of conference.

Caraway Jocularly Bids Grundy Not to Be Downhearted.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The irrepressible Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, today composed a satirical statement designed to "reassure" Senator Grundy (Rep.), Pennsylvania, that President Hoover is not necessarily in favor of the reduced tariff rates written into the Hawley-Smoot bill by the insurgent-Democratic coalition, despite a story to that effect published in the Kansas City Star. The story represented the President as heartily in favor of the kind of tariff bill being written by the Senate coalition.

Grundy, exhibiting great indignation, had copies of the story made and circulated among his old guard colleagues, Caraway "reminded" him, however, that other callers had left the White House under impressions which subsequently proved to be erroneous, and bade Senator Grundy not despair. The statement, issued from Democratic National Committee headquarters said:

"Senator Grundy is very much exercised because a roving reporter of the Kansas City Star thinks that the President has indicated to him that Mr. Hoover is in sympathy with the reduced tariff rates effected by the coalition of Democratic and Progressive Republican Senators. Senator Grundy has only been with us a short time. When he has been a member of this body a little longer he will realize that not too much seriousness must be attached to what White House visitors say the President has told them.

"It must be recalled that Sen-

WOMAN FOUND MURDERED, HER JEWELRY STOLEN

Salt Lake Doctor's Wife Apparently Slugged, Then Run Over Several Times by Auto.

STRUGGLE IN CAR APPARENT

Body Discovered by Smelter Employe Near Magna and Abandoned Machine in Utah Capital.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 22.—The body of Mrs. Frank Moormeister, wife of a Salt Lake physician, was found today on a country road near Granger, 10 miles from this city. She had been struck on the head and then apparently run over several times by an automobile.

Several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry which Mrs. Moormeister wore had been stolen, Sheriff's officers reported. Her automobile was found on a street here later.

A maid in the Moormeister home said Mrs. Moormeister drove away in her automobile at 4 p. m. yesterday, saying she was to meet a woman, but would return in time for an appointment with a masseur.

The body was discovered by Ray Peterson of South Jordan, a night employe of a smelter at Magna.

An inspection at the scene of the killing led the officers to the opinion that Mrs. Moormeister and her slayer were returning from Bingham, a mining town near here.

The automobile evidently was traveling at a high speed when it turned from the highway into a dirt road where the body was found. The tracks indicated a struggle had taken place between the driver and another occupant, since the car had swerved wildly.

Mrs. Moormeister was beaten with a heavy piece of copper ore, the officers think, then was robbed of her jewelry, including two valuable diamond rings, two diamond bracelets and a diamond studded wrist watch. An imitation diamond necklace and a wedding ring were not taken.

The body, the officers surmise, was then laid face downward in the road and the car was driven over it repeatedly. Most of the clothing had been torn from it and shreds of cloth were found some distance along the road. There were fragments of copper ore in Mrs. Moormeister's hat.

Mrs. Moormeister, formerly Dorothy Hugentobler of Salina, Utah, married Dr. Moormeister here two years ago.

Dr. Moormeister's former wife was killed about six years ago in an automobile accident in San Francisco when the car in which she was riding overturned and crushed her.

COMPULSORY LIFE INSURANCE AS PREREQUISITE TO MARRIAGE

Speaker at Fraternal Congress Advocates It on Economic and Eugenic Grounds.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Compulsory life insurance as a prerequisite to marriage was advocated today by Probate Judge John C. Karel, of Milwaukee, Wis., at the National Fraternal Congress of America convention.

The insurance, taken out in favor of the bride, would serve two purposes, the Judge said. In event of the husband's death it would prevent his family from being left destitute and it would enforce the operation of eugenic laws which require each of the contracting parties to a marriage to be physically fit, he said.

ALICE DAVIS COMPETES IN PHILIPPINE TENNIS CONTEST

Daughter of Governor-General and Niece Both Enter Semifinals in Tournaments.

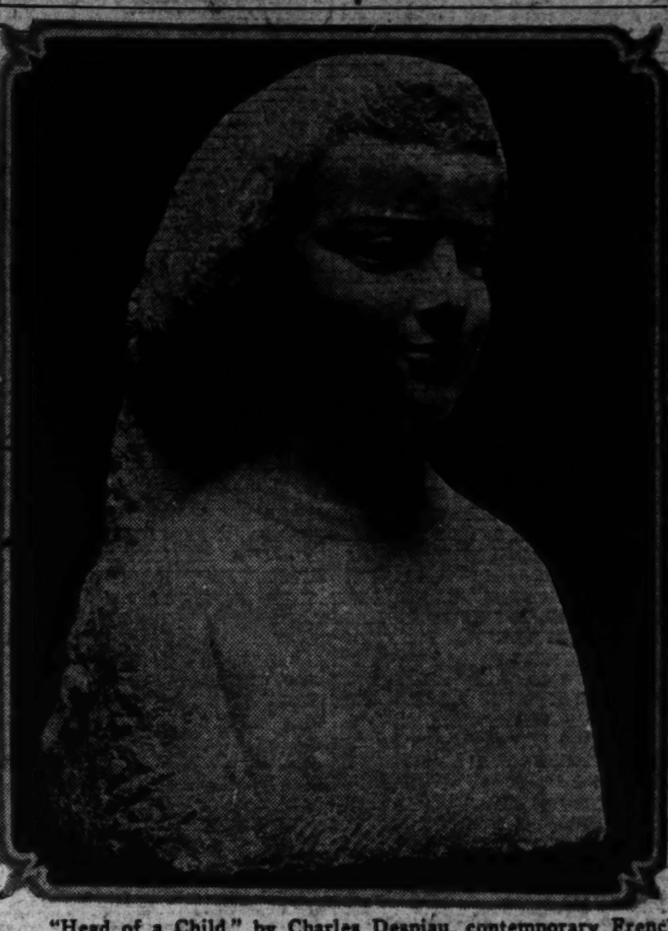
By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Feb. 22.—Miss Alice Davis, daughter of Dwight F. Davis, Governor-General of the Philippines, and Miss Alita Davis, his niece, entered the semifinals of the Philippine National Tennis Tournament today.

Alice Davis, who is a favorite to become woman champion of the islands, defeated Mrs. Schroeder, 6—1, 6—3; Alita Davis defeated Mrs. Berenguer, 6—0, 6—1.

Mrs. Felsia Ochoa, defending champion, also entered the semifinals, defeating Mrs. Moore, 6—2, 6—3.

Acquisition of the Art Museum



"Head of a Child," by Charles Despiau, contemporary French sculptor, which has been purchased by City Art Museum for $2500. It is carved in limestone.

TWO NEW SCULPTURES AT CITY ART MUSEUM

Modern French Pieces Costing $2500 and $1500 Are on View Today.

Two interesting sculptures by modern Frenchmen have been acquired by the City Art Museum. One is the Head of a Child, by Charles Despiau, for which the museum paid $2500, the other The Virgin of Alsace by Antoine Bourdelle, which cost $1500. Neither artist has been represented previously in the museum's collection. The pieces are on view today in the main hall.

Despiau's statue is a life-size head of a small girl whose face bears a whimsical half-smile. It follows the best modern practice in ignoring pictorial effect and studious copying of detail, achieving its appeal through simplicity.

Bourdelle's statue is a reduced copy in marble of his peace monument which has been placed on a hillside at Niederbruck in Alsace. The monument, three times life size, has been called "perhaps the most noble of all monuments of the Great War." The reduction of it at the museum is about two feet tall.

The original monument and other examples of the artist's work were shown at the museum during 1926. In the monument Bourdelle has synthesised the French Gothic tradition with the archaic Greek and impressed upon them a quality which is distinctly his own. The Virgin stands in an attitude common to French statues of the fourteenth century, with the weight of the body on the right hip, the body forming a gentle curve. Held in the right arm of the Virgin is the Infant Christ, with arms outstretched.

Despiau and Bourdelle, who died several months ago, were both pupils of Rodin, and Despiau served for some time as an assistant in the master's studio, but neither was influenced to an appreciable extent by his style.

Born at Mont-de-Marsan in 1876, the son of a humble plasterer, Despiau entered the Ecole des Arts Decoratifs and later the Beaux Arts, but an aversion to academic standards led him to leave these institutions, and for a while he was compelled to earn a living by coloring postcards. When he was 26 years old his work shown at the National Salon attracted the attention of Rodin, who entrusted to him the execution of several important works. In addition to his figures and portraits, which are not numerous, he has produced several monuments.

Bourdelle was born in 1861. He is best known for his "Hercules the Archer," now in the Luxemburg Museum, which at the time of its execution in 1909 was heralded as a turning point in modern sculpture.

River Ice Goes Out Early.

By the Associated Press.

WINONA, Minn., Feb. 22.—Breaking up the earliest in 11 years, the ice went out of the Mississippi River here today. Only once since 1899 has the ice gone out here earlier. That was in 1919, when the break-up came Feb. 17.

BALLOTS IN LITERARY DIGEST DRY POLL RECEIVED HERE

Three Questions to Be Voted on With 20,000,000 Expected to Participate.

Many residents of St. Louis have received postcard ballots in the Literary Digest's poll of nation-wide sentiment on the prohibition question. The recipients are asked to cross-mark an affirmative answer to one of the three questions, which are: (1) Do you favor the continuance and strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and Volstead law? (2) Do you favor a modification of the Volstead law to permit light wines and beers? (3) Do you favor a repeal of the prohibition amendment? Those using the ballot are asked also to indicate the state in which they reside. The ballots are not to be signed.

The Literary Digest, which conducted polls forecasting the outcome of the last three presidential elections, has sent out 20,000,000 ballots on the prohibition question, distributed among cities and rural communities to obtain the most representative expression of sentiment possible.

In 1922 the Literary Digest sent out 10,000,000 ballots bearing the same questions as to prohibition, and questions as to the proposed soldier bonus. Of 617,868 votes cast on the prohibition question in that poll, 236,329 were for continuance and strict enforcement, 253,009 for modification and 128,500 for repeal.

TWO SHIP COLLISIONS IN FOG OFF THE NEW JERSEY COAST

Maya and Monterey Returning to New York to Make a Survey of the Damage.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Two ship collisions occurred late today in a heavy fog off the coast, and two of the four craft were forced to turn back to port, damaged.

The more serious collision occurred 35 miles south of Sandy Hook, N. J., between the Ward liner Monterey, bound for Havana, and the Italian freighter Isarco, inbound from Norfolk, Va.

The United Fruit Co.'s liner Maya, outbound for Central America and the Swedish-American liner Kungsholm collided near Craven Shoals, off which the Kungsholm anchored after the accident. The Kungsholm reported slight damage and announced its intention of proceeding to the West Indies.

Both the Monterey and the Maya reported by wireless they were returning to Quarantine, in New York Harbor, to survey the damage. The Monterey anchored outside Sandy Hook bar late tonight.

WILKINS FLIES TO MONTEVIDEO

Explorer Reaches Uruguayan Port Ahead of Steamer.

By the Associated Press.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 22.—Capt. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, who is returning from the Antarctic, arrived here this afternoon in a hydro-airplane with Pilot Cheesmann. Sir Hubert left the Norwegian steamer Heinrich Ibsen when about 125 miles from this port and flew here in little more than an hour.

The explorer was given a reception by the staff of the American and British embassies and the Uruguayan authorities. The Heinrich Ibsen was expected later in the day with the other members of the Wilkins expedition.

FOUR MORE ARRESTS IN HOFFMAN KIDNAPING

Eight in Jail, Two of Those Detained, Cordes and Diren, Who Visited Abductor's Lair Having Been Freed — Two Out on Bond.

'GAS HOUSE GANG' MEMBERS SCATTER

Some Thought to Have Left City—Latest Victim and His Associates Will Be Called to Testify Before Grand Jury.

The police dragnet, spread for members of the "Gas House Gang" responsible for recent kidnapings of gamblers for ransom, resulted in four more arrests yesterday. Eight men remained in jail last night. Three other men and a woman arrested in the case were released.

The "Gas House Gang," it now appears, was scattered when 20 city detectives and county officers last Friday raided the gang rendezvous, Bayless Grove, notorious dance hall and liquor resort, on Bayless avenue, in southern St. Louis County, and rescued the latest victim, Jacob Hoffman, a Broadway bookmaker. Captive for 93 hours, Hoffman was under guard in a damp, dimly-lit basement room in the home of Joseph Sinovich, proprietor of the resort.

Hoffman, held at police headquarters as a material witness since his rescue, was released last night under a $10,000 bond, returnable Feb. 28 in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Two Men Released.

Anthony Cordes, St. Louis saloonkeeper, and his friend, Roy M. Diren, who were arrested when they drove up to the Bayless avenue house and inquired for "Joe," were released last night with the announcement by Chief of Detectives Kaiser that he was convinced they knew nothing of the kidnaping and called only to buy alcohol. Anna Sinovich and her son, John, were released on $10,000 bonds.

Of those still in custody, Gregory Campanella, 18, was described by police as a leader in the gang. Claude Gillman and John Pepe, who were guarding Hoffman, are classified as members of the gang. Another, Joseph Sinovich, resided in the house in which Hoffman was held prisoner.

The arrest of Joseph Costello yesterday, according to Chief of Police Gerk, is regarded as likely to lead to important developments. Costello said he was 27 years old, a laborer, and resided at 513 South Fourth street. Anthony Sarkis, 13, 1033 Chouteau avenue, and John Michaels, 21, 1032 South Thirteenth street, arrested last night, are described as associates of Gillman, Pepe and Costello. All three men have been detained frequently but never convicted of crime and all denied participating in the kidnapings.

The fourth man arrested yesterday was Oscar Adwell, 35, bartender for Sinovich at Bayless Grove. He said he had never been in Sinovich's home and knew nothing of activities there beyond what he read in the newspapers.

Hoffman was released at 8:30 p. m. under a bond signed by Beverly Brown, bondsman and bookmaker. He left police headquarters alone in a taxicab, stating he would confer with friends to straighten out some neglected business, then go to the American Annex Hotel, where he lives.

"I'm a sick man," he told reporters. "I was in bed with stomach trouble for three days and then I got kidnaped. First the kidnapers hold me and give me rotten food and then the police. I want to get a square meal."

Grand Jury to Question Hoffman.

Hoffman will be taken before the grand jury in its inquiry into the recent kidnapings. Indictments will be sought charging kidnaping for ransom, a crime for which the maximum penalty is death.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury will be Hoffman's brother, Carl Hoffman, also a handbook operator, and his backer, D. D. Murphy, circus owner, who denied paying ransom or receiving any request to do so. The kidnaped bookmaker told police he had been compelled to write a note

ACHIEVEMENTS OF NAVAL PARLEY REST ON FRANCE

Much Depends on Whether Cabinet of Chautemps Is Strong Enough to Hold Office Month or 6 Weeks.

FIRST TEST WILL COME ON TUESDAY

Conference Experts Continue Discussion of Special Ships—Tone of Uncertainty in Press.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The fifth week of the five-Power Naval Conference ended today with active negotiations suspended on account of the French political crisis, but with no dread of failure in the minds of the delegates.

As to the degree of success, however, the consensus tonight is that it depends on whether the new French Cabinet, organized by Camille Chautemps, is strong enough to weather the month or six weeks which still may be necessary to attain the highest aims of the delegations.

In some conference circles it is feared that formal negotiations have only a "sporting chance" of resuming Wednesday, the date set for reconvening when adjournment was taken.

Paris Not Overconfident.

Dispatches from Paris tonight were not overconfident that Chautemps would survive the Ministerial statement and debate thereon Tuesday. If he does, the French delegates—Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister; Albert Sarraut, Minister of Marine; M. Danelou, Minister of the Merchant Marine; M. Lamoureux, Minister of Finances; and Robert Bellanger, Undersecretary of Marine—will cross the Channel Wednesday and Chautemps himself plans to participate actively at a later date.

Should Chautemps be defeated Tuesday, the conference faces the danger of another delay.

While American Secretary of State Stimson was sight-seeing and Prime Minister MacDonald was entertaining the international journalists at chequers, the conference technicians were busy. At St. James's this morning they continued the consideration of special ships not included in specified categories for fleet tonnage plans. This work is expected to be completed early next week.

The conference is not likely to resume full activity before Thursday, even if Chautemps passes his first test in the Chamber of Deputies, for the French delegates could arrive only late Wednesday and have time for personal meetings with the other delegations.

Press Uncertain About Future.

The Observer and the Sunday Times, two of England's most influential papers, voice uncertainty about the future of the conference.

The Observer says that a very critical period in the negotiations has been reached, and the Sunday Times asserts that the high tonnage figures of the French naval demand threaten to disturb the whole basis of Anglo-American parity.

Both newspapers agree that the Cabinet change in France does not mean a change in French policy.

The Observer, however, thinks that the Japanese situation may be altered by the result of the national elections, and that the Government having been returned to office with greater power, may feel freer and, therefore, surrender some of the stiffness that has characterized the Japanese demands in London.

Chautemps Expected to Hold Power Till Parley Ends.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—The newly constituted French naval delegation intends to leave for London Wednesday with Camille Chautemps, the new Premier, a member.

Chautemps announced today that while he was going to accompany the delegation, Foreign Minister Briand would be in charge. Briand will head the delegation because Chautemps considers he has earned the honor of leading France's fight by services already rendered. Briand was a member of the original delegation before the fall of the Tardieu Cabinet.

The delegation is expected to stand largely on the Tardieu memorandum of France's naval position, although it is thought in some quarters there will be some softening of the demands.

Political circles here think opposition groups in the Chamber of Deputies will give Chautemps a sufficient majority Tuesday to enable him to go to London, that the London negotiations may be continued. If the Chamber intends to vote him out, these sources assert, it will wait until after the naval parley ends.

Nephew of the Shuberts To Direct Municipal Opera

Training School, Conducted for 11 Years, Will Be Abandoned — Twelve New Productions Planned

Milton I. Shubert, for many years an executive in the productions department of the Shubert Theater Corporation, has been engaged as general productions manager of the Municipal Opera and will supervise the 12 musical productions in the Municipal Theater in Forest Park from June 9 to Aug. 31.

The announcement was made by Max Koenigsberg, Arthur Siegel and M. E. Holderness, divisional directors of repertory, cast and publicity, respectively, who recently were empowered to make the arrangement. Shubert is described as a productions expert having participated in the staging of many Shubert shows, including "Blossom Time," "Student Prince" and "My Maryland." Recently he staged "Nina Rosa," an operetta now running at the Great Northern Theater in Chicago. He is a nephew of Lee and J. J. Shubert.

Contract Signed.

Shubert visited St. Louis two months ago and discussed terms. Final arrangements were made by Siegel and Koenigsberg in New York and Shubert's signed contract was received yesterday. He will take charge eight weeks before the season opens, beginning his work with the selection of a chorus and other preliminaries.

Under the re-organization plan recently adopted by the Municipal Theater Association, the productions department was divorced completely from the business department. Siegel, Koenigsberg and Shubert will confer shortly as to the musical director, stage director, assistant stage and musical directors and other membership of the productions staff.

The association's announcement states that, although the Shubert Theater Corporation will have no connection with the Municipal Opera, the engagement of Shubert will permit drawing upon the Shuberts for costumes, properties, operas, directors and principals. "We want the local productions to be properly cast even if we have to bring an entire new list of principals here each week," Siegel said.

Koenigsberg said that contracts for 12 productions, all new to the Municipal Theater stage, were under negotiation, and that the list would be announced as soon as arrangements are completed. Under the plan, Shubert will suggest the names of players for the principal roles in the various productions.

Training School Discontinued.

The Municipal Opera Chorus Training School, conducted for 11 years, has been definitely abandoned. The avowed intention of the opera management is to employ as many St. Louisans as possible, including choristers who would not have time for the training school, and allowing pay for rehearsals.

The usual campaign for a $100,000 guarantee fund, to be used in the event the season results in a deficit, has been started by M. E. Holderness and Walter B. Weisenburger, who are seeking the pledges of 1000 St. Louis firms and individuals. The auditorium committee, headed by Park Commissioner Pape, is drawing plans for the improvement of the Municipal Theater, including restoration of the promenade which formerly separated the boxes from the first section of seats.

BOY REPORTS FINDING NOTE FROM LOST ATLANTIC FLYER

Message Said to Have Been Found in Bottle Signed U. F. Diteman.

By the Associated Press.

BANTRY, Ireland, Feb. 22.—A message purporting to have been written by Urban F. Diteman of Billings, Mont., lone American airman who lost his life while attempting to fly the Atlantic last October, was reported today to have been picked up by a school boy, Frederick Slater.

The message, which was contained in a bottle, read: "Sinking fast in mid-Atlantic, petrol sinking low. Fighting awful headwinds, Oct. 23. U. F. Diteman."

The message was written on a half sheet of paper and was quite legible.

It was recalled that similar messages in the past purporting to come from planes and ships have been proved hoaxes.

Diteman set out from Harbor Grace, N. F., on Oct. 22 to fly to England and then dropped from sight. He was a cattle buyer at Billings, Mont., and then became interested in aviation. The home of his parents is in Portland, Ore.

WASHINGTON'S "BE PREPARED FOR WAR" APPLAUDED IN HOUSE

Representatives Set Precedent by Not Recessing While Clerk Reads Historic Letter.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A long established custom of the House was broken today when William Tyler Page, clerk of the House, delivered a formal address during the ceremony observing the birthday anniversary of George Washington.

Ordinarily the House recesses to permit anyone not a member to address it, and Page's speech is thought to have established a precedent.

Forty-five years ago today Page, as a page in the House, attended his first celebration of Washington's birthday in the House. Thirty-seven years ago he found some letters written by Washington in the files of a committee.

One of these he read today to the House. It was addressed to Robert H. Harrison, one of his revolutionary aids from Mount Vernon, Nov. 18, 1781. It thanked Harrison for his congratulations on the capitulation of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown.

When Page reached the passage, "One thing we are sure of, and that is, that the only way to obtain peace is to be prepared for war," the House interrupted with prolonged applause.

BYRD PARTY HOMEWARD BOUND IN SUNSHINE AND CALM SEA

Very Little Wind and Bark Has Passed Virtually No Ice in 24 Hours.

ON BOARD THE BARK, CITY OF NEW YORK IN ROSS SEA, Feb. 23.—Everything is still going fine as Admiral Byrd's flagship rolls along homeward-bound. Today we have sunshine and calm seas, with very little wind. We have passed virtually no ice in the last 24 hours. It is now Sunday because we skipped Saturday when we crossed the 180th meridian.

Our position at noon today was latitude 74.50 degrees south, longitude 178 degrees east, about 264 miles northwest of Discovery Inlet.

REAR ADMIRAL JONES ILL; ORDERED HOME FROM PARLEY

American Naval Expert at London Conference Suffering From Stomach Ulcers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, naval expert with the American delegation to the London conference, was ordered home today because of the condition of his health.

Admiral Jones was examined by Dr. J. J. Conybeare, the Harley street specialist, and H. M. Worth, radiologist, who diagnosed the case as serious ulcers of the stomach.

Secretary of State Stimson, head of the American delegation, expressed regret that Jones must leave.

"It is with the greatest regret that I will see Admiral Jones depart," said Stimson. "He has been a great help to me and the whole delegation and we all enjoyed working with him. It is my deepest sorrow that he is so ill that it will be necessary for him to return and that we will lose, together with the American people, the benefits of his previous conference experience and his intimate knowledge of the American navy."

NORRIS TO OFFER DRY CORRUPTION CHARGES

To Present to Senate Committee Accusations From All Over U. S.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Charges of corruption among public officers all over the country engaged in enforcing the dry laws will be placed before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Monday by its chairman, Norris (Rep.), Nebraska.

He said today people from Boston to San Francisco had been forwarding information alleging lawbreaking by officers ever since he introduced his resolution a week ago for an inquiry into enforcement conditions. The data will be given to the committee in support of that resolution.

After a week of conferences, there are indications that those favoring the inquiry may attempt to have the Senate Judiciary Committee go into the situation without seeking formal authority of the Senate. It is not clear just how the dominant dry forces either on the committee or in the Senate will line up on the proposal for an investigation. Norris himself is a dry. Other Republican drys, however, including Jones, Washington, and Robinson, Indiana, are opposed to any inquiry.

The issue rests with the Democratic drys, who have not disclosed their attitude. A decision by the committee is expected Monday. Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, author of the eighteenth amendment, indicated today he might favor an investigation if the committee named to make it were satisfactory. He did not say what sort of committee he preferred.

While Norris wants a far-reaching inquiry on a tour of the country by the committee. Others favoring the investigation would center it directly on prohibition authorities in Washington. Borah (Rep.), Idaho, is understood to favor an inquiry directed principally at the enforcement chiefs.

Assailing "politics in prohibition enforcement," Norris proposed today that this be remedied by a public order by President Hoover to those in charge of prohibition enforcement to disregard "politicians and their recommendations in selecting enforcement officers."

ator Smoot thought the President had told him that he favored a sliding scale on sugar, that Senator Bingham supposed the President wanted the duty removed from manganese, and that Speaker Longworth and Majority Leader Tilson, and the President's own secretary, Mr. Newton, thought that they had word that the Hawley bill, which they steam-rolled through the House of Representatives, was quite satisfactory to the President. Going back a little further, we remember that Congressman Britten of Illinois, after a conversation with Mr. Hoover, reported to the House that Mr. Hoover approved the 15 cruiser program.

"There seems to be a fatality about the interpretation those who talk with the President place on what he tells them. We know that for nearly a year even those Senators who like to appear as authorized White House spokesmen have been unable to learn his real attitude toward the tariff. So, members of all three of the Republican factions have gone ahead declaring that they, and they alone, had the key to the President's mind. Perhaps the wandering newspaper correspondent from Missouri will have no better luck in making his story stand up than have those others, so Mr. Grundy should not be downhearted yet."

BORAH ADVISES SOVIET TO END PERSECUTIONS

Senator Appeals Directly to Russia to Spare Christians and Jews.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, has cut through diplomatic red tape and has appealed directly to the Soviet union officials to stop the reported persecution of Jews and Christians in Russia.

Senator Borah has cabled to Litvinoff, acting Commissar for Foreign Affairs at Moscow, asking him for detailed information on the actual orders for the religious persecution and the true condition of affairs.

Asked to explain the details of his method of approach to the Soviet Union, which is not officially recognized by the United States, the Idaho Senator declined. It was a diplomatic case, he said, and not subject to public discussion at this time of the negotiations.

It is known, however, that a large number of protests have been received by Senator Borah from Christian churchmen and Jewish leaders throughout the country. Most of the protests have been by telegraph and letter. A number have been made to the Senator over the long distance telephone.

In the cablegram, Senator Borah is understood to have asked Litvinoff not to permit the execution of 20 Rabbis and other Jewish leaders at Minsk, Russia, who were recently arrested by the secret police on charges of counter revolutionary actions.

It is thought Senator Borah definitely informed Litvinoff that recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States, something the Russians have had their heart on for years, would be practically impossible should a religious warfare be started afresh in Russia.

The present intervention in Russian affairs by Senator Borah, acting alone, is not the first time the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee has resorted to direct action with unrecognized Russia, when the State Department and even the President chose not to act.

A year later the Senator appealed to Soviet officials to stay hasty action contemplated against the Catholic officials in Russia. His request was granted. Then, when the late Carl Ben Eielson, far North aviator, was lost on the flight in Siberian waters, Borah wired Soviet officials asking them that Soviet flyers be sent to search for him and his companion, Borland. He has given many letters to American travelers which have been honored in Russia as passports.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—Foreign press reports that 14 rabbis of the Minsk Jewish community would be executed were officially denied tonight.

13 KILLED BY AVALANCHE

By the Associated Press.

BOLOGNA, Italy, Feb. 22.—Rescue squads tunneling through the snow tonight had brought out the bodies of 13 persons from the ruins of the village of Villa di Mezzo, which was overwhelmed by an avalanche of snow that demolished more than 40 houses. They rescued five injured.

Seven persons are still missing.

135,000 Persons Attend Air Show In Eight Days at The Arena; Display Will Close Tonight

Leaders in Industry Here for Event—28 Technical and Business Meetings Held—Sale of Planes Total $1,500,000.

The nine-day exhibition of aircraft, engines and accessories closes at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue, tonight.

The display of 87 planes, 75 airplane engines and various aeronautical supplies and accessories attracted crowds varying from 12,000 to more than 20,000 daily. The attendance yesterday totaled 15,312 persons and the total attendance was about 135,000 persons. Attendance at the recent automobile show, which continued through six days, was 137,376 persons.

The exposition attracted more than 5000 persons connected with the aviation industry to St. Louis, including a number of notables. Charles L. Lawrence, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and inventor of the famous Wright Whirlwind engine; Herbert Hoover Jr., son of President Hoover, radio expert for Western Air Express; Maj. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic pilot; Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic by plane; Lady Mary Heath, English woman flyer, and others prominent in the industry attended technical and business meetings held in connection with the exposition.

Trans-Atlantic Plane Designer.

Giuseppe Bellanca, designer of the monoplane "Columbia," in which Chamberlin and Charles Levine crossed the Atlantic, arrived Friday. He discussed plans for a 12-passenger single-engined transport designed to reduce operating costs. Bellanca expressed the opinion that the dual ignition and general efficiency of the modern aircraft engine makes single engined planes as practical for transport work as two and three motored planes.

Twenty-eight technical and business meetings were held during the period of the show. Questions discussed included the increase of the present low rates on air lines, which approximate train fare plus Pullman, increasing of flying school requirements, particularly in the mechanical and limited commercial pilots courses, and the enlistment of automobile distributers as airplane dealers.

Sales of planes, engines and accessories reported during the show totaled approximately $1,500,000. The sales in general were to distributers and dealers for delivery this year. Sales to private owners also were reported.

Two records were set during the week. Miss Mildred Kauffman, 19 years old, of Kansas City, established a new record for women flyers with 46 loops. "Barney" Zimmerley, Marshall, Mo., test pilot, last Sunday established a new altitude record for light planes, reaching a height of approximately 27,500 feet in a Barling monoplane. Zimmerley's mark must be officially approved. The previous record of 22,250 feet was made in Germany.

Model Plane Contests.

Joseph H. Erhardt, 17 years old, 9020 Wise avenue, took the lead in honors in model plane flying contests yesterday by winning first in the senior indoor hydro event and second in the indoor hand-launched contest.

In the senior indoor hydro event, Erhardt won first with a time of 2 minutes 42.5 seconds; C. Leja of Chicago, second, and Ernest Marcouiller of Chicago, national playground champion for 1929, third. In the junior section of this event, first prize went to Andrew Madison, 4147 Olive street, with a time of 3 minutes 15 seconds; Ralph Kummer, 5652 Gravois avenue, second. There was no award for third place. Robert Licklider, 762 Harvard avenue, received honorable mention in the senior class.

Senior Indoor Winners.

In the senior indoor hand-launched contest, winners were as follows: Harold Dennison, Marion, Ind., first, with a time of 5 minutes 37 seconds; Joseph Erhardt, 9020 Wise avenue, second, and Rurick Meyers of Chicago, third. In the junior section, Kenneth Douzelot of St. Louis won first with a time of 4 minutes 21.3 seconds; Carl Fries, 7447 Arlington avenue, won second, and Charles Herr, 5222 Devonshire, third.

A silver cup awarded to the booth making the best appearance was won by the Aluminum Company of America, which presented an exhibit displaying aluminum parts of airplanes.

Two more contests this morning, an indoor fuselage flying model contest and a free-for-all event, will complete the competition. The winner of the most points will receive a 12-week ground-school course from the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service. There were 175 contestants and 10,000 young spectators at the contests yesterday.

Cliff W. Henderson, general manager of the show, issued the following statement last night: "St. Louis is to be commended on the spirit shown in connection with this event. The attendance was remarkable, and, coming after a supposedly bad period in the industry, gives an indication that manufacturers may expect a good business year."

The exposition was sponsored by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, representing 90 per cent of the manufacturers.

PREPARING GRAF ZEPPELIN FOR FLIGHTS THIS SUMMER

South American, Mediterranean and Spitzbergen Cruises on the Program.

By the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Feb. 22.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin is being overhauled for its spring and summer program which includes flights to South America and Spitzbergen.

During March it will go on a Mediterranean cruise, in April it will take 10-hour trips to the Alps and Austria; in May it will make a South American journey and in July and August will make three-day excursions to North Cape, Spitzbergen.

Dr. Hugo Eckener today denied contemplating establishment of a German-American transportation company aside from or in opposition to the International Zeppelin Transport Co., of which Charles E. Mitchell is head.

"We wouldn't dream of doing such a disloyal thing," he said. "Mr. Mitchell knows just what we are doing and in March I expect to see our American friends to continue negotiations for regular trans-Atlantic service."

The plans for the South American trip include a visit of the Graf Zeppelin to the United States. Permission has been granted by the United States Naval Department for the ship to use the Lakehurst naval base for refueling.

JAPANESE PREMIER IS VICTOR

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 2.—The final results of the national elections for the lower house of the Japanese Diet today swept the Minseito party of Premier Hamaguchi to victory with a majority of 80 seats over all other parties.

The Minseito party total was 23 seats, against 174 for the Seikukai party, its chief rival. The proletarians returned five members and other groups 14. Hamaguchi's followers lost only two of their seats in the preceding diet and gained 101.

POLICE VERSION OF WHY KIDNAPERS FREED RUEBLING

Chief Gerk Says Ex-Convict Sent to Get Money, Was Menaced With Knives and Guns.

ABDUCTION CALLED OFF TO SAVE LIFE

However, Underworld Understanding Is That Bookmaker Paid Ransom of $10,000.

Chief of Police Gerk last night told how Jess Ruebling, kidnaped gambler, was released without ransom, according to Gerk's understanding of the matter, through an act of counter-terrorism by Ruebling's friends against the kidnapers.

The version of the matter accepted by Chief Gerk is that the kidnapers of Ruebling sent an ex-convict, deemed a "tough guy," to collect a ransom for his release.

"This ex-convict," the Chief said, "went to two relatives of Ruebling and one of his friends, a bookmaker, with their demand for a ransom. The three crowded him into a corner, drew guns and a knife on him, and in a few minutes they had him at a telephone, sending a message to the men who had Ruebling that they would have to let him go, or else this emissary was going to be killed right then. The men who had Ruebling let him go when they got that message."

Underworld Story Different.

This story of Ruebling's release does not accord with the underworld understanding, which yesterday was that Ruebling had paid $10,000 for his freedom. Chief Gerk's information came from the men who professed to have overpowered the kidnapers' emissary.

Ruebling's own story has been that he signed two $5000 checks for his captors, but that the checks could not be cashed because he did not draw a circle about his name, this being a recognized part of his signature on checks. The underworld version of the matter has been, however, that the checks were made payable to an East St. Louis gambler, who cashed them and turned the money over to an agent of the kidnapers, Ruebling's release ensuing.

Continuing the investigation of the Ruebling case, city detectives yesterday drove with Ruebling out Highway 66 and a branch road to a farmhouse four miles south of St. Clair, Franklin County. Ruebling thought this might have been the place where he was held. He was not positive in his recognition of the place, and some of the investigators believe the place of his confinement was the Bayless avenue house in St. Louis County where Jacob Hoffman was held until his release by the police Friday.

Gamblers Change Tactics.

Ruebling did not make much of a complaint over his abduction and his friends, most of them gambling house attaches, were advised not to take vengeance after their own fashion. But when Hoffman was kidnaped for ransom a week later, the gamblers decided on direct action.

Four gunmen of the old school—not youthful "punks"—met in East St. Louis last Thursday and decided to wait no longer on the police. Their plans, as concurred in by all "the boys," was to "give it" to the kidnapers on sight. The youthful "Gas House" gangsters got word of this declaration of war. Chief of Police Gerk said yesterday he had been expecting some killings.

One reason why Hoffman's kidnaping aroused a lust for revenge was because Hoffman, in addition to his handbook shop at 112 North Broadway, was a partner with Tommy Hayes, "a first rate plunger with his pistol," who took the abduction as a personal affront.

Overplayed Their Hand.

A second reason was that the "big money" gamblers saw no reason why they should become the prey of lads just starting out to live by their pistols. Several gamblers had meekly submitted to the extortionists, but finally it was decided to call a halt. The "Gas House Gang" had overreached themselves.

Only a few years ago these gangsters were urchins in knee pants loafing around the gas tank at Third and Convent streets, from which they derived their title, and along lower Chouteau avenue. They constitute a second generation of the old Cuckoo gang, the leaders of which, Roy Tipton and Leo Cronin, are serving long terms in Federal prison for mail robbery.

So bold became these "punks"—as old criminals derisively dub their juniors—they perpetrated the holdup at the Mounds Country Club on the East Side last summer, according to underworld information, carrying away one of the officials as a hostage to prevent a hailstorm of bullets.

While police say they have the names of those who have been kidnaping the gamblers and will round them up on sight, the rival gunmen also are on the trail. Prior to the rescue of Hoffman, police

During March it will go on a Mediterranean cruise, in April it will take 10-hour trips to the Alps and Austria; in May it will make a South American journey and in July and August will make three-day excursions to North Cape, Spitzbergen.

Dr. Hugo Eckener today denied contemplating establishment of a German-American transportation company aside from or in opposition to the International Zeppelin Transport Co., of which Charles E. Mitchell is head.

"We wouldn't dream of doing such a disloyal thing," he said. "Mr. Mitchell knows just what we are doing and in March I expect to see our American friends to continue negotiations for regular trans-Atlantic service."

The plans for the South American trip include a visit of the Graf Zeppelin to the United States. Permission has been granted by the United States Naval Department for the ship to use the Lakehurst naval base for refueling.

JAPANESE PREMIER IS VICTOR

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Feb. 2.—The final results of the national elections for the lower house of the Japanese Diet today swept the Minseito party of Premier Hamaguchi to victory with a majority of 80 seats over all other parties.

The Minseito party total was 23 seats, against 174 for the Seiyukai party, its chief rival. The proletarians returned five members and other groups 14. Hamaguchi's followers lost only two of their seats in the preceding diet and gained 101.

A Study in Types—Persons Arrested in the Bookmaker Kidnaping Case

POLICE VERSION OF WHY KIDNAPERS FREED RUEBLING

Chief Gerk Says Ex-Convict Sent to Get Money, Was Menaced With Knives and Guns.

ABDUCTION CALLED OFF TO SAVE LIFE

However, Underworld Understanding Is That Bookmaker Paid Ransom of $10,000.

Chief of Police Gerk last night told how Jess Ruebling, kidnaped gambler, was released without ransom, according to Gerk's understanding of the matter, through an act of counter-terrorism by Ruebling's friends against the kidnapers.

The version of the matter accepted by Chief Gerk is that the kidnapers of Ruebling sent an ex-convict, deemed a "tough guy," to collect a ransom for his release.

"This ex-convict," the Chief said, "went to two relatives of Ruebling and one of his friends, a bookmaker, with their demand for a ransom. The three crowded him into a corner, drew guns and a knife on him, and in a few minutes they had him at a telephone, sending a message to the men who had Ruebling that they would have to let him go, or else this emissary was going to be killed right then. The men who had Ruebling let him go when they got that message."

Underworld Story Different.

This story of Ruebling's release does not accord with the underworld understanding, which yesterday was that Ruebling had paid $10,000 for his freedom. Chief Gerk's information came from the men who professed to have overpowered the kidnapers' emissary.

Ruebling's own story has been that he signed two $5000 checks for his captors, but that the checks could not be cashed because he did not draw a circle about his name, this being a recognized part of his signature on checks. The underworld version of the matter has been, however, that the checks were made payable to an East St. Louis gambler, who cashed them and turned the money over to an agent of the kidnapers, Ruebling's release ensuing.

Continuing the investigation of the Ruebling case, city detectives yesterday drove with Ruebling out Highway 66 and a branch road to a farmhouse four miles south of St. Clair, Franklin County. Ruebling thought this might have been the place where he was held. He was not positive in his recognition of the place, and some of the investigators believe the place of his confinement was the Bayless avenue house in St. Louis County where Jacob Hoffman was held until his release by the police Friday.

Gamblers Change Tactics.

Ruebling did not make much of a complaint over his abduction and his friends, most of them gambling house attaches, were advised not to take vengeance after their own fashion. But when Hoffman was kidnaped for ransom a week later, the gamblers decided on direct action.

Four gunmen of the old school—not youthful "punks"—met in East St. Louis last Thursday and decided to wait no longer on the police. Their plans, as concurred in by all "the boys," was to "give it" to the kidnapers on sight. The youthful "Gas House" gangsters got word of this declaration of war. Chief of Police Gerk said yesterday he had been expecting some killings.

One reason why Hoffman's kidnaping aroused a lust for revenge was because Hoffman, in addition to his handbook shop at 112 North Broadway, was a partner with Tommy Hayes, "a first rate plunger with his pistol," who took the abduction as a personal affront.

Overplayed Their Hand.

A second reason was that the "big money" gamblers saw no reason why they should become the prey of lads just starting out to live by their pistols. Several gamblers had meekly submitted to the extortionists, but finally it was decided to call a halt. The "Gas House Gang" had overreached themselves.

Only a few years ago these gangsters were urchins in knee pants loafing around the gas tank at Third and Convent streets, from which they derived their title, and along lower Chouteau avenue. They constitute a second generation of the old Cuckoo gang, the leaders of which, Roy Tipton and Leo Cronin, are serving long terms in Federal prison for mail robbery.

So bold became these "punks"—as old criminals derisively dub their juniors—they perpetrated the holdup at the Mounds Country Club on the East Side last summer, according to underworld information, carrying away one of the officials as a hostage to prevent a hailstorm of bullets.

While police say they have the names of those who have been kidnaping the gamblers and will round them up on sight, the rival gunmen also are on the trail. Prior to the rescue of Hoffman, police had anticipated bloodshed between the two factions.

Bookmakers May Return.

A number of local bookmakers who went on protracted vacation trips when the epidemic of ransom kidnapings broke out, may return when peace is assured.

The bookmaking business in the St. Louis district is no mean industry. It is bound up with a racing news service, with offices in the Buder Building, organized and controlled by Beverly Brown and "Clarence" Gully Owens, long identified with the Cuckoo gang as bondsmen, having offices at Fourteenth and Chestnut streets, convenient to the Municipal Courts Building.

The bookmakers are compelled to subscribe for this service in order to get the readings of probable odds posted just before a race at any track, the immediate result of all races, and bulletins on the betting of large sums at the track for the protection of "the book." The service, in short, is a clearing house for bookmakers.

FOUR MORE ARRESTS MADE IN HOFFMAN KIDNAPING INQUIRY

to Murphy, asking that he be ransomed. The kidnapers wanted $25,000 at first, but reduced their demand to $10,000.

The "Gas House Gang"—so called because its members grew up in the vicinity of the gas tank at Third and Convent street—it is charged, has harassed bookmakers for the last three months, by holdups never reported to police and by kidnaping gamblers for ransom.

Police Chief's Statement.

"The activities of these 'punks' (underworld term for young criminals) is at an end," Chief Gerk asserted. "We know them all and expect to have them all in custody shortly.

"We were looking for some killings, but not now, unless something further develops.

"There were about eight men in the gang. We have two of the leaders now and expect to have the rest before long.

"This whole thing would have been very simple to stop if the bookmakers and gamblers had given us any help, but they let this bunch of punks get away and scare them to death. A lot of the bookmakers were so greatly terrorized they quit the city. If they had come to us and told us their troubles, we could have handled the situation nicely."

By "killings," Chief Gerk meant police were informed that gamblers had retained gunmen to make a counter offensive against the extortionists.

Chief Gerk was asked about rumors that some gamblers had helped the extortionists to rob rival gamblers.

"That may be true," he said. "Some who were not winning might have 'put the finger' on others who had made big killings and were ripe for picking."

Negro Officer Gets Credit.

Full credit for discovering the Bayless Grove hiding place of the kidnapers was given by Chief Gerk to Detective-Sergeant Ira L. Cooper, a Negro, whose participation in the case is described elsewhere in this edition.

As has been told, Hoffman was abducted last Tuesday night by five armed and masked men who held up and robbed 20 men on the second floor at 112 North Broadway, the headquarters of the Mississippi Valley Showmen's Association and the D. D. Murphy Shows, Inc. Hoffman conducts a cigar stand and handbook shop on the first floor.

The week before, Jess Ruebling, former St. Louis County gambling house proprietor, but now active on the East Side, was kidnaped near his Lewis place home and held at "Bayless Grove" for 48 hours. He paid $10,000 for his release, according to underworld reports.

Previously, "Mulepole" Fritz and Harry King, East Side gamblers, living in St. Louis, had been kidnaped and forced to pay $35,000 and $28,000, respectively, according to reports verified by their associates.

Other reports, credited in handbook circles, but not fully verified, were that two other gamblers, Mark Gumperts and "Brassy" McDonald, had been forced to pay $20,000 each to kidnapers.

While the kidnaping was at its height, one downtown bookmaker related a story of fighting off kidnapers—a story which he subsequently admitted he had told for advertising purposes only.

In selecting Bayless Grove as their rendezvous, the kidnapers were in familiar territory. That section of the county has long been a stamping ground—and hunting ground, too—for gangsters. John Cody, Cuckoo gangster, was found murdered on Bayless avenue, Dec. 1, 1927. In the following August, the bullet-riddled body of F. Louis Pohlman, bootlegger and associate of gangsters, was found on the same road.

By a coincidence, Hoffman was held prisoner not far from the place where he was born. This was recalled by his father, Charles A. Hoffman, proprietor of a cigar store at Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenue, who visited his son at police headquarters. The senior Hoffman said he and his father conducted a roadhouse—not the modern sort, he emphasized—on the Lemay Ferry road in the 90's. Jacob, who is 34 years old, was born there, but the family moved away when he was a child.

Hoffman said neither he nor his other son, Carl, who has a handbook and cleaning and pressing shop at 7 South Broadway, had been asked to pay ransom for Jacob Hoffman. "We could have done so if forced to," the father said.

Incidentally, the kidnaped bookmaker, known to his associates as Jacob Hoffman, and so listed in the city directories, said his correct name is Jacob J. C. Hoffmann. "But," he added, "just call me Jake."

The resort at 4025 Bayless avenue, St. Louis County, where Jacob Hoffman was confined several days until rescued by the police.

BANKS, PUBLIC OFFICES CLOSE FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Former Senator Xenophon P. Wilfley Principal Speaker at Banquet of G. A. R.

Washington's Birthday was observed in St. Louis yesterday with the closing of the courts, City Hall, banks, postoffice and the Merchants' and Stock Exchanges. Department stores and most other downtown stores remained open all day as did the National Stockyards Exchange.

Besides the closing of the postoffice, delivery service on city carrier and rural routes was suspended except for one delivery to newspaper offices and large hotels east of Jefferson avenue. East St. Louis banks and city and State offices closed, and all departments except the Sheriff's office in the county courthouse at Clayton observed the holiday.

Last night the St. Louis Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution held a banquet at the Coronado Hotel at which former United States Senator Xenophon P. Wilfley was the principal speaker.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR REV. EDMUND DUCKWORTH

Had Been Rector of Church of the Redeemer and St. James' For 35 Years.

Ministers and religious leaders, including all the local clergy of the Episcopal church, will attend the funeral of the Rev. Edmund Duckworth, at 10 a. m. tomorrow, at the Church of the Redeemer, Washingtno boulevard and Euclid avenue. The Rev. Mr. Duckworth was rector of this church and of its predecessor, St. James' Church, for 35 years, resigning a short time before his death.

Vestrymen of the Redeemer congregation will be pallbearers at the church and at the grave in Bellefontaine Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the church from 2 p. m. today until the time of the funeral.

WEBSTER GROVES YOUTH ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL

Harry Nolkemper, 19 years old, ended his life by shooting himself in the right temple last night in his home at 13 North Gore avenue, Webster Groves. His body was found at 11:15 o'clock by his mother, Dr. Faith S. Nolkemper, osteopath, upon her return from a theater.

Nearby was a 25-caliber pistol and a note reading: "Bade spoke once too often. I can't stand it." "Bade," police were told, referred to the youth's brother, Ernest Nolkemper of East St. Louis, who had been with him earlier in the evening. He had quit work at The Arena last Tuesday.

KILLS GAMBLER, ALLEGING HE WON WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

Jo Cook, Reputed Miami Extortionist, Surrenders After Shooting M. H. "Doc" Beddell.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—M. H. "Doc" Beddell, 32 years old, Chicago gambler and gangster, was shot and killed tonight in a pool hall by Jo Cook, 29, who said Beddell had alienated his wife's affections and made derogatory remarks about her. Five minutes after the shooting, Cook, also an alleged extortionist, walked into the county jail, turned over his pistol and made a formal statement. He was held without bond.

Beddell died of a bullet wound in the heart. He came here from Chicago in November.

Warren L. Newcomb, Justice of the Peace, said Cook had been before him twice on charges of mistreating his wife, and that on both occasions Beddell and Mrs. Cook had intervened.

STABBED TO DEATH IN FIGHT

Joe Guy, 27 years old, a Negro, 1130A North Twentieth street, was stabbed to death in a quarrel over a woman in the kitchen of his home last night.

Ike Friend, 30, Negro, 1935 Carr street, was arrested at the Guy home and, according to police, admitted stabbing Guy.

Guy's body was taken to the Morgue. An inquest will be held.

HUGHES TO BE INDUCTED INTO OFFICE TOMORROW

First Case to Be Argued Before Him Will Be South Carolina Road Bond Issue.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Supreme Court, with Charles Evans Hughes at its head as Chief Justice in place of William Howard Taft, will resume its sessions Monday after a recess from Jan. 27.

Its first business will be simple proceedings inducting Hughes into his high office, and then the old members of the court will deliver a number of decisions in 53 cases which have been under consideration during the recess.

Among these may be rulings on the validity of the Hoch-Smith resolution, authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to reduce railroad rates to aid agriculture in distress, challenged by more than 400 railroads in the deciduous fruit case from California, and the challenge by the Duke interests in the Carolinas of the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission over interurban electric railways.

The first case to be orally argued before the court with Chief Justice Hughes at its head will be that brought by C. L. Johnson and other citizens of South Carolina, opposing a proposed $65,000,000 bond issue by the State for highway improvement.

LAST CHILD BORN AT MOUNT VERNON IN A "TALKIE"

Washington's Great-Niece Poses for Cameramen at Alexandria Program.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 22.—The last person born at old Mount Vernon, Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, 75 years old, great-niece of George Washington, spoke for the "talkies" at the memorial service here today.

On George Washington's birthday, in Washington's own flag-decked home town of Alexandria, she laid a wreath upon the white marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the Revolution, and said:

"I place this wreath in the name of the children of the American Revolution."

Then facing the cameramen and the microphone she added: "I am requested to say a few words. I am the last living child of John Augustine Washington, the last private owner of Mount Vernon."

In the quiet churchyard of the Presbyterian meeting house, Mrs. Howard—"Cousin Nellie" to many of the crowd—carried a crutch. She did not use it.

John Morrison Kerr Jr., 6, son of Mrs. Frances Washington Kerr, a great-great-niece of Washington, carried the huge wreath of red and white carnations which Mrs. Howard laid on the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier's grave.

FOUND DEAD, GAS TURNED ON

James Thompson, 73 years old, was found dead in his room at 1811A South Seventh boulevard at 7 o'clock last night. Two burners of the gas stove in the adjoining room were turned on but not lighted.

Police were summoned by William Hendel, who lives downstairs, when he noticed the electric light burning in the afternoon and received no response to his knock. Entrance was forced into the room, where Thompson lay on the bed. His body was taken to the Morgue. An inquest will be held.

TOOMBS TELLS OF DEAL TO MANIPULATE STOCK

Testifies He and James Bruce, New York Banker Planned It, but It Fell Through.

Roy C. Toombs, president of the defunct International Life Insurance Co., testified yesterday at a hearing conducted by Conway Elder, special master, into claims amounting to $495,000 against the insurance company.

Toombs is under sentence to serve three years in prison for fraudulent over-issuance of the company's stock. The sentence was affirmed by the State Supreme Court and Toombs is at liberty on bond while seeking a rehearing.

Toombs testified yesterday that he and James Bruce, New York banker and son of former Senator Bruce of Maryland, entered into an agreement to purchase the minority stock of the insurance company. Toombs, at that time, held about 23,000 of the 37,500 shares.

The plan, Toombs related, was that they should first cause the stock to depreciate in value, should buy it in and proceed to increase the value, then re-sell it and divide the profit. Bruce was to finance the deal. The deal was not carried out, as Toombs and the company became heavily involved, and the company went into a receiver's hands. Toombs had removed about $3,500,000 of the company's assets, through transactions which resulted in various indictments.

Counsel for the receiver for the insurance company is resisting the claims of the National Park Bank of New York, now Chase National, for $235,000 lent to the company; Stein Bros. & Boyce, New York banking concern, for a $130,000 loan; and the Southern Investment Co. for a $130,000 loan, all on the ground that Bruce, who was connected with the transactions, should have known that Toombs' methods were irregular and questionable. Bruce was vice president of the National Park Bank.

The receivership counsel has shown that the loans were secured in part by overissues of the insurance company's stock. The counsel contends that Bruce knew that, early in 1927, Toombs proposed to put up $800,000 in securities belonging to the insurance company as part of the collateral for a $3,000,000 loan to be made through Bruce, and that attorneys advised them that this would be a critical act, so that the deal fell through.

Other claims against the insurance company are to be the subject of a hearing March 6. Special Master Elder yesterday asked Toombs' lawyer, Harry K. Curtis of Chicago, whether Toombs would appear at that time, and Curtis said he would, unless the Supreme Court should interfere. Attorney Curtis is the son of the Vice President of the United States.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

Negro Policeman Gets Credit for Breaking Up Gas House Kidnaping Ring

Sergt. Ira L. Cooper Conducted Private Investigation After Receiving Tip, Then Told Chief What He Saw.

IRA L. COOPER.

Ira L. Cooper, slow-moving and methodical Negro detective sergeant, who lends a sympathetic ear to the gossipy confidences of his own people, has scored the triumph of an interesting career in the capture of some members of the gang of kidnapers which specialized in holding gamblers for ransom.

With the announcement that the gang had been smashed with the rescue of Jacob Hoffman, kidnaped bookmaker, and the arrest of nine persons, Chief of Police Gerk yesterday gave the full credit to Cooper, whose quiet investigation of a tip from a Negro source led to the police raid on the gang's St. Louis County quarters.

In accordance with police practice the source of Cooper's information is withheld, but it is understood that it came from a Negro employe or hanger-on at one of the gambling houses with which Jess Ruebling is connected, and that this Negro learned from his associates at the gambling house where Ruebling had been held captive.

Cooper, who heads the city's squad of nine Negro detectives, seldom works beyond the confines of his own race. Most of the successes of his 24 years as a policeman have been in cases involving Negro criminals. Occasionally, as in the kidnaping case, one of his sources whispers a tip which leads him afield.

First Word on House.

Cooper's investigation of the Hoffman kidnaping was typical of his quiet, unassuming method. "It was while Jess Ruebling was missing that a Negro told me that he thought the house on Bayless avenue was used by a gang of kidnapers," he said. "There didn't seem to be much to the information so I started to investigate without saying anything.

"I made several trips out to Bayless Grove and watched the place. There was nothing suspicious going on in the daytime and at night the place was dark. Then Hoffman disappeared. I kept hearing things about the house and decided to investigate some more.

"With two of my men, I went out Wednesday night and looked it over. We hid behind trees and saw several men go in and leave. Thursday night they brought another man out of the house, took him for a ride in an automobile and brought him back. I was sure it was Hoffman.

"The first thing Friday morning I went out and sized up the place by daylight to figure out how we could raid it without being seen first. Then I went down to headquarters and told Chief Gerk that I had located Hoffman."

Cooper's news was a surprise to other detectives who were busy investigating other tips on the whereabouts of the bookmaker. Twenty men, guided by Cooper, effected the subsequent rescue.

Story of His Career.

Cooper, who is 53 years old, has been proving consistently since he became a policeman in 1906, after failing as an optometrist, that Negro detectives are essential to the police force.

The son of school teacher parents, he attended grade and high school at Mexico, Mo., and obtained a degree in opthalmology at Northern Illinois College, Chicago. He hung up an optometrist's shingle in St. Louis and "starved for a year," as he describes it; then turned to the Civil Service and became a clerk in the Treasury Department here. A few years later he found himself sorting mail at the postoffice for $50 a month and looking around for more lucrative employment.

He applied to the Police Department and was accepted as a probationary patrolman at $65 a month. A year later he became a plain clothes man with the rank of patrolman and a salary of $90. His present position, dating from 1923 when the Police Board decided the Negro squad needed a chief of the same race, pays $216 in salary.

At headquarters, Cooper is always friendly and soft-spoken. Round-faced with a slight moustache, he is of heavy build, weighing about 250 pounds and about five feet 10 inches tall. Usually he is dressed in simple, unobtrusive business clothes and a black derby, with little jewelry beyond perhaps a ring.

Part in Stickney Case.

His achievement in the kidnaping case he attributes disparagingly to luck. However, he is proud of his work in the Stickney jewery case in 1924 when Mrs. W. Arthur Stickney was robbed of $15,000 worth of jewelry by two Negro highwaymen on the St. Louis Country Club grounds. Cooper, by his customary quiet method, traced the crime to two men who were acquainted with a friend of Mrs. Stickney's chauffeur. The chauffeur had gossiped carelessly about Mrs. Stickney's "valuable jewels." The robbers went to the penitentiary and Cooper shared in a $3000 reward.

Cooper is credited with the direction of an investigation which resulted in the conviction in 1917 of 12 Negroes in Federal Court for looting freight cars in the Terminal yards. Thefts had run upwards of $50,000 when Cooper suspected an "inside job" and assigned one of his men to work in the yards as a laborer. The pseudo laborer heard things, which resulted in arrests and confessions.

In 1924, Cooper was responsible for the conviction of five Negroes who had robbed the Mercantile Trust Co. of $12,000 in cash and $15,000 in travelers' checks. The Negroes, four of whom were trusted employes of the bank, were arrested by Cooper after he chanced to hear that Everett Lane, bank messenger, was dazzling his comrades with a roll of bills "six inches thick."

Two days after the Bank of Chesterfield, St. Louis County, was robbed of $4200 in 1924, presumably by white men, Cooper learned that two Negroes had divided a large sum of money in the dressing room of a tailor shop patronized by Negroes. The two men, both light-skinned, and a white man were identified and convicted.

Feared by the Negro underworld and highly respected by the law-abiding section of his community, Cooper lives at 4404 Enright avenue with his wife. His son, Chauncey I. Cooper, 23, is a teacher of pharmacy at Meharry Medical College, Nashville, and his daughter, Lucana, 20, is a senior at the University of Minnesota, where Chauncey graduated in pharmacy with honors. Lucana is preparing herself to teach French and sociology.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Since four of the five members of the Federal Radio Commission were confirmed yesterday by the Senate Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, indicated today he would withdraw his objection to the renomination of William D. L. Starbuck of Connecticut for a place on the commission. On Wheeler's motion action on Starbuck's name was deferred until Monday.

The President reappointed the entire commission. Wheeler objected to Starbuck and Charles McK. Saltzman of Iowa. Saltzman after a debate in which Wheeler attacked the administration and particularly Lawrence Richey, one of President Hoover's secretaries, Saltzman was approved along with the others.

Jewish Organization Meeting.

An organization meeting of the Conference of Jewish Men's Organizations will be held at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. HELD UP IN AUTO, ROBBED OF $450

Meat Market Owner Crowded to Curb by Armed Men in Another Car.

Crowded into the curb by another machine from which leaned a man with a sawed-off shotgun, Edward Stuerman, proprietor of a meat market at 1515 Hamilton avenue, was robbed of $450, the day's receipts, as he was driving home along Goodfellow avenue near the Wabash railroad tracks at 10:30 last night.

When Stuerman stopped his car three men alighted from the other machine, displaying revolvers, took a $225 diamond ring and a $35 watch, in addition to the money, and ordered him to walk south.

After their car had departed Stuerman returned to his machine and found that two baskets of groceries had been taken also. Stuerman lives at 4405A Strodtman place.

Two men who had ordered sodas produced pistols and forced Leslie Thompson into the rear of his drug store at 3900 Ashland avenue at 10 o'clock and forced him to open the safe, from which they took $100. Thompson's wife and 7-year-old son were present. On their way out the robbers rifled the cash registers and took $125 more.

Fred Sanders, proprietor of a confectionery at 3501 North Twentieth street, frustrated the efforts of two robbers at 7 o'clock by running to a stairway and shouting to his wife to get his revolver. The men, both of whom had pistols, fled.

UNIVERSITY CITY TO VOTE ON $250,000 SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Election March 7; Erection of Two Buildings and Purchase of Three Sites Planned.

A proposed bond issue of $225,000 for school development will be voted upon in University City at a special election March 7. The funds are to be used for the purchase of three new school sites and the erection of two new buildings, if the issue is approved.

Plans call for the purchase of five acres of ground at Hanley road and Carleton avenue and the construction of the first unit of a grade school, the construction of a portable school on Walton road north of Olive Street road, and the acquisition of a third site for a grade school near the new high school at Balson avenue and Jackson boulevard.

New school facilities are needed to relieve the present crowded condition, according to Dr. H. G. Lund, chairman of a Bond Issue Committee formed after the Board of Education determined upon the special election. No new grade schools have been erected in University City since 1923 and the number of students has increased 250 per cent since that time, Dr. Lund says. Promoters of the bond issue think that the approval of the bond issue will not involve an increase in the school tax rate.

College Graduates Attention

Also, to fathers and mothers who have a son who they think can qualify for a good position.

We are looking for a young man, a resident of St. Louis. We plan on adding a man to our sales organization with outstanding natural ability and inclination toward sales work. We invite correspondence from ambitious, vigorous young men, of the right character, education, personality and personal appearance: of good height and physique, and who have had proper home life and parental training.

Experience in our line is secondary, as it takes one to two years to train salesmen, but we are willing to spend the time and money, as with the right man to start, our training makes them the best business men and who will have the highest earnings in the end. We have been long established, are financially responsible, and manufacture a high-class product sold only to a good class of trade. Therefore, our business is worth making it a life's work.

We do not want pampered sons, or men who are lacking in ambition, forcefulness, or definite purpose. We do want young men whose circumstances should make them appreciate an opportunity, and who are unafraid of hard work, and who have as an asset the natural ability of being able to sell themselves. There are many young men who are by temperament, intelligence, and personal appearance qualified for creative selling of a standard business product manufactured by an established concern.

This is the first time we have cared to advertise in this way, and trust our message will be understood by a few discerning and worthy young men of this type. This advertisement is published by an out-of-town corporation, whose expanding business necessitates establishing a permanent headquarters in St. Louis, with a man who would also travel the surrounding territory throughout this part of the country.

Please address your replies to Box No. F-83, care of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who will forward same to us for acknowledgment and personal interview.

You, too, can keep spare rooms rented by advertising in the Post-Dispatch Room and Board Columns.

DETROIT MAN'S BODY UNEARTHED ON BEACH

Florida Police Believe George Seymore, 72, Was Lured From Home and Slain.

By the Associated Press.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 22.—The body of an elderly well-dressed man found partly buried in the sand on Hollywood Beach yesterday, was identified today as that of George Seymore, 72 years old, of Detroit, Mich. Police expressed belief that he had been lured to the beach from his winter home at Miami and robbed and slain.

Identification of the body was established through L. O. Scarboro, Chief of Detectives at Miami; A. H. Glenn of Detroit, and L. N. Smith of Miami. Glenn and Smith live at the house in Miami, where Seymore made his winter home.

The aged man was known to have carried considerable money. Glenn and Smith said he had been accustomed to retire early at night and that they had never known of him leaving the Miami area before.

The body was found on the beach by a woman guest of a hotel. Officers said there was a fresh wound on the temple.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict that the cause of death was unknown.

William Locke, Novelist, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

ROQUEBRUNE, France, Feb. 22.—William J. Locke, famous British novelist, is seriously ill at his villa here and slight hopes are held for his recovery. Locke, who is 67 years old, is the author of numerous novels, one of his best known being "The Beloved Vagabond."

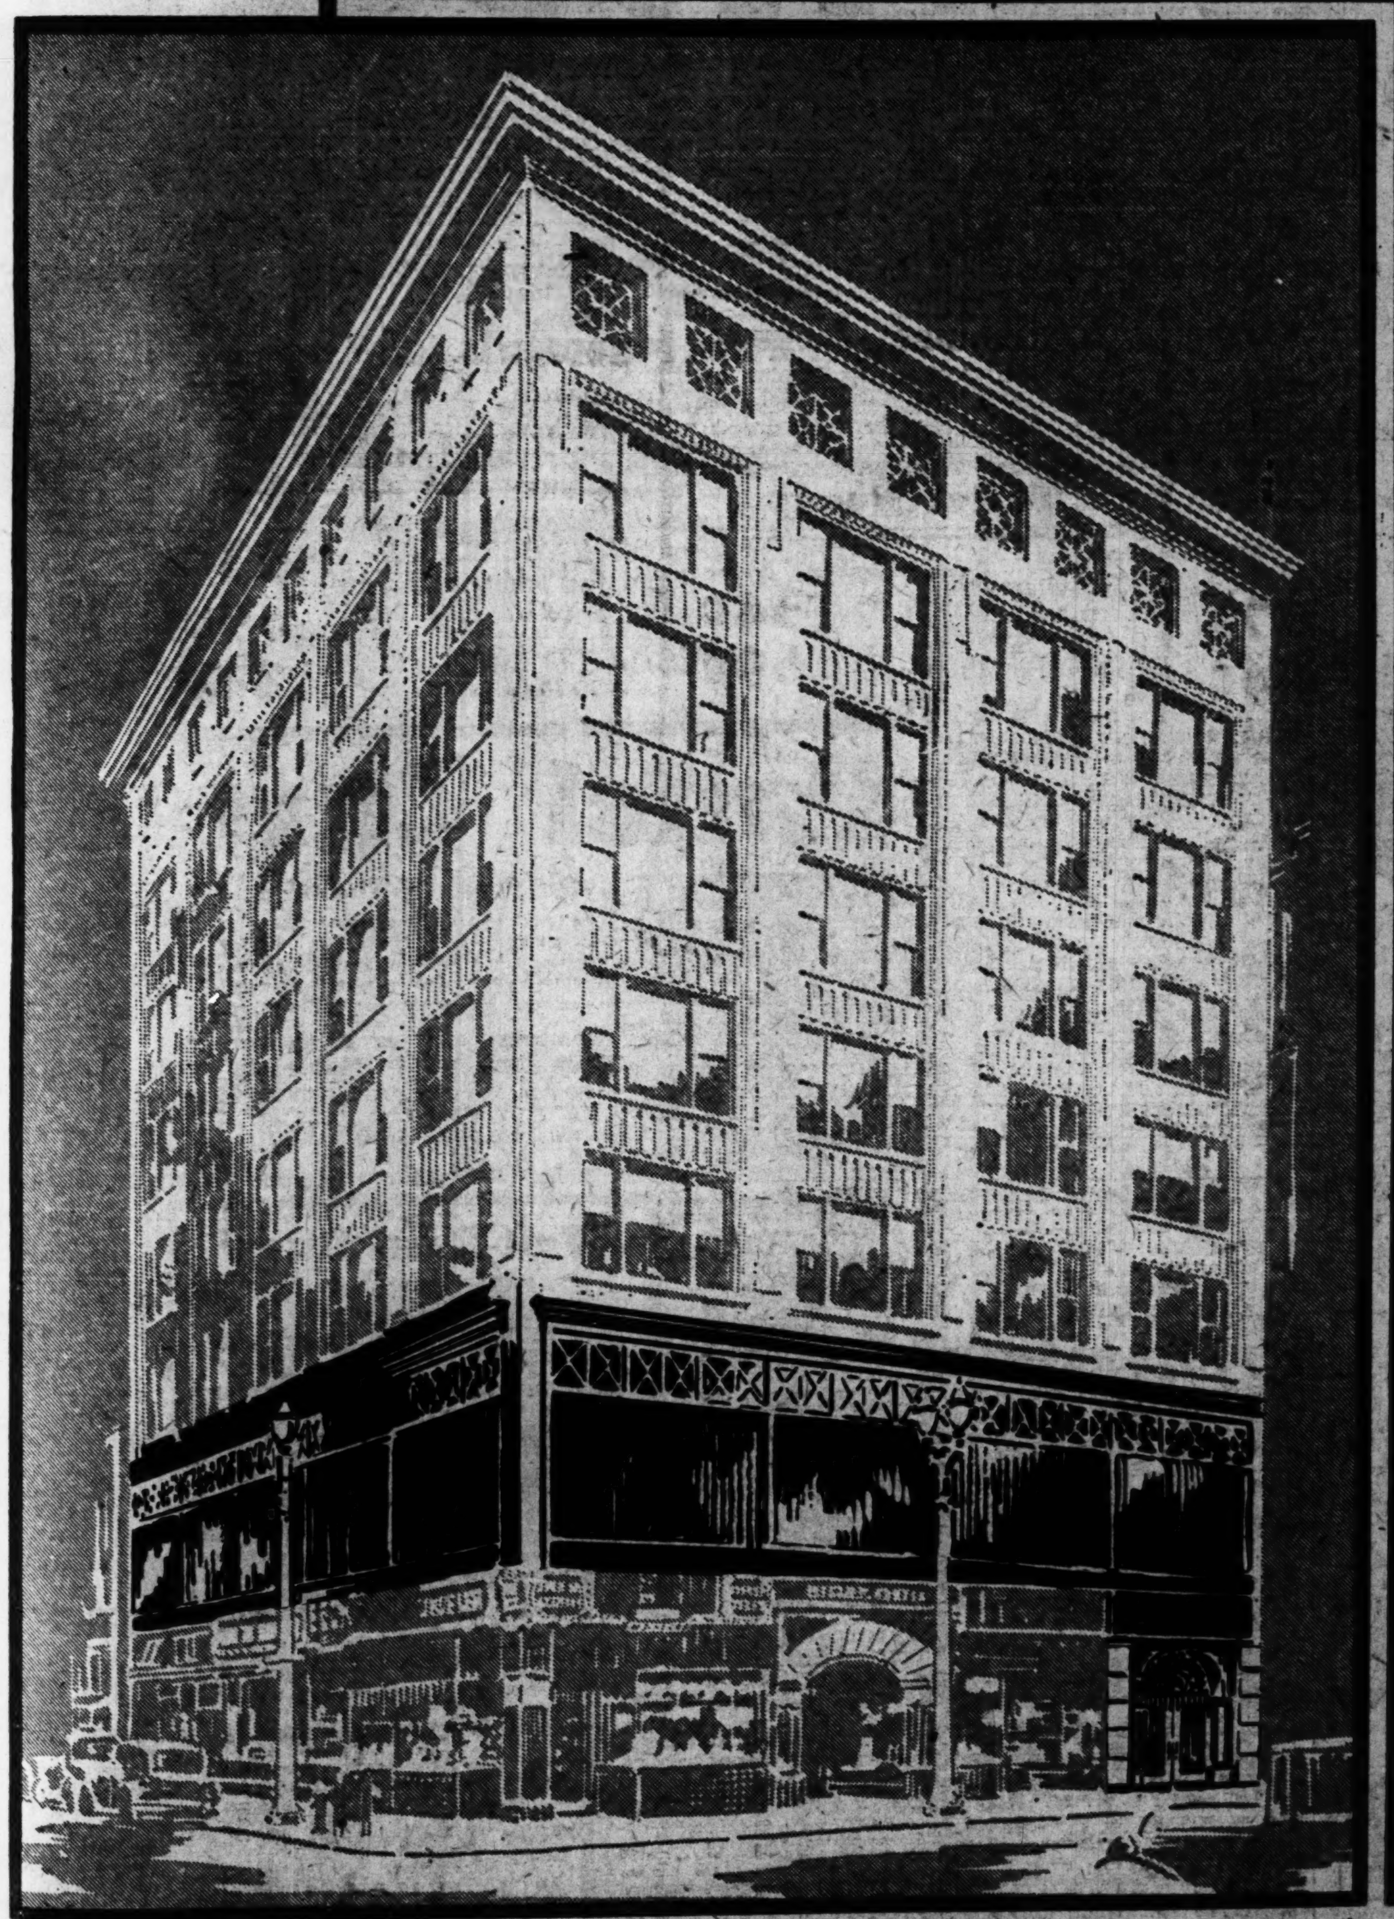
"Announcing—the opening of St. Louis' most complete display of RUGS and CARPETS"

OPEN THREE EVENINGS

For this special occasion our showroom will be open Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings until 9 p. m., other days till 5:30.



THIS ENTIRE SECOND FLOOR DEVOTED TO RUGS AND CARPETS EXCLUSIVELY

TOMMOROW morning at 8:30 we open this magnificent new salesroom with the most stupendous display of Rugs and Carpets in Wilton, Axminster, Velvet and Oriental Reproductions, ever witnessed in St. Louis. Located right in the heart of the greatest shopping center, we invite you to come in and celebrate with us this unusual event. Bring your friends! Whether you had planned on buying or not, we urge you to see the thousands of luxurious floorcoverings on exhibition. All that is new and authentic in rugs and carpets is here—the season's newest, most up-to-date patterns and colors.

Here, at last, is a store devoted exclusively to the sale of rugs and carpets, here you can choose everything in floor coverings from the largest display at the lowest prices. The finest, most complete rug salon you have ever seen. Over 2500 rugs to choose from! All sizes—all grades. A display so beautiful, so complete with fascinating designs and gorgeous colorings.

For 56 years we have manufactured rugs. We are rug specialists. We know how rugs should be woven to wear well. It has been our life's work. Many of the luxurious Wilton and Velvet rugs and carpets, we offer you at low factory prices, are manufactured in our own factories from the choicest, long fiber, imported new wools. They are deep piled, exquisite creations, designed by our own staff of designers with delicate Oriental patterns and colors that rival hand-woven masterpieces of the East. Besides this, our display includes all the grades of the country's leading mills. We are the same organization which has manufactured, for 56 years, the nationally known Olson Duo-Velvety rugs—rugs that are rewoven from your old rugs, carpets and clothing.

Every rug is unconditionally guaranteed. Our reputation of 56 years for square and honest dealing is your assurance that you will be satisfied or your money refunded. Now is the time to choose your rugs.

FUNERAL OF WIDOW OF ALTON JUDGE TO BE THIS AFTERNOON

Mrs. Mary F. Baker, 89, Died at Home of Son-in-Law, Clark McAdams.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary F. Baker, widow of Judge Henry S. Baker, for 16 years City Judge at Alton, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. H. Ferguson, in Alton.

Mrs. Baker, who was 89 years old, died of infirmities Friday evening at the home of her son-in-law, Clark McAdams, 6041 Cabanne place. She was a daughter of Capt. O. M. Adams, who operated the steamboat White Cloud between St. Louis and New Orleans. It was upon the White Cloud that fire broke out in 1849, destroying many boats and property along the river front.

Besides Mrs. McAdams and Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Baker is survived by four sons: M. M. Baker of Peoria, Ill.; Hundley Baker, Springfield, Ill., and Henry S. and Sidney Baker, both of Alton.

Let your tooth paste buy you a good tie

Buy yourself a new tie with what you save by using Listerine Tooth Paste instead of dentifrices in the 50¢ class. The saving averages about $3 per year per person, assuming you use a tube a month.

See how quickly this modern dentifrice makes teeth white—lustrous

YOU are urged to try Listerine Tooth Paste, made by the makers of Listerine and in every way worthy of the Listerine name.

We ask you particularly to note how swiftly it removes stubborn discolorations, tartar plaques and fermenting food particles.

Note, too, after a few brushings how white, lustrous and brilliant your teeth become. Such results are due to modern cleansing and polishing agents present in this unusual dentifrice. Many years of study preceded their selection. Their purpose is to cleanse speedily but with absolute safety. They do this because they are harder than tartar and consequently remove it. But they are softer than the precious enamel, and so are harmless to it.

Listerine Tooth Paste not only gives you ideal cleansing but definitely improves the hygiene of the mouth, for it also contains the antiseptic essential oils of Listerine with their marked potency to inhibit the growth of dangerous bacteria in the mouth.

Incidentally, at 25¢ Listerine Tooth Paste saves about $3 per year per person when compared with dentifrices costing 50¢ or more. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

"SIEGFRIED" WELL PRESENTED AT ODEON

German Grand Opera Company Scores in Third of "Ring" Cycle.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

CHARACTERS.

Wanderer	Gotthold Ditter
Siegfried	Rudolph Ritter
Alberich	Hans E. Hey
Mime	Alexander Larsen
Fafner	Laurenze Pierot
Brunnhilde	Margarethe Baumer
Erda	Helena Lanvin
Bird of the Forest	Milo Miloradovich

Conductor, Ernst Mehlicn.

The Germand Grand Opera Company presented the third performance of its St. Louis engagement last night at the Odeon. The opera was "Siegfried" with Rudolph Ritter in the title role and when the third act had been brought to a close with what is probably the most intoxicating music ever written, Richard Wagner's ascendancy in the realm of human passions was once more supremely demonstrated.

The third act of "Siegfried," like the second act of "Tristan," is made up of music so charged with eloquence that its devastating effectiveness is inescapable. It defies not only changes in musical fashions, but the imperfections of human voices and man-made instruments as well.

Last night's production, needless to say, was not without those imperfections. But it should be sufficient reward for those hard working artists who undertook the chief roles in this, the third drama of the "Ring" cycle, that their skill was sufficient to disarm criticism almost from the start.

Ritter's Siegfried hardly challenged the memory of Jean DeReske, but it was a forthright, thoroughly masculine portrayal. The role of Brunhilde was delivered adequately by Margarethe Baumer. Gotthold Ditter again scored with a resonantly sung and searchingly acted portrayal of the Wanderer and Alexander Larsen proved to be the best Mime it has ever been the fortune of this reviewer to hear.

Ernest Mehlich conducted.

Gadski, Lippe and Gross Effective in "Die Walkuere."

"Die Walkuere" the second opera in the "Ring" cycle was presented yesterday afternoon with Richard Gross as Wotan, Carl Braun as Hunding, Karl Jorn as Siegmund, Juliette Lippe as Sieglinde and Johanna Gadski as Brunhilde. Ernest Knoch conducted and in that fact lay the important difference between "Die Walkuere" and the performance of "Rheingold" given on the preceding evening.

"Rheingold" made a favorable impresison on the opening night because the stage personages were able singers, well schooled in their parts and because the music was of such power that it could not be denied. But the orchestral support was of a distinctly pedestrian nature. From the first bar of "Die Walkuere" one was aware of a different hand at the helm. The music leaped and sparkled, attacks and releases were incisive, the distribution of emphasis was such that one could have easily followed the dramatic action with one's eyes closed and a performance, that lasted four hours and a half seemed short.

Mr. Knoch's sureness of touch was of course communicated to the singers who abandoned themselves to their roles in a way that caused all minor deficiencies to seem unimportant. The sense of the ensemble was apparently always present with the singers so that the audience always got the full force of the drama.

This was particularly evident at the close of the first act. The famous love duet, sometimes referred to as the "Spring Song" certainly represents Wagner on a relatively low level of inspiration. If the singers were allowed to dwell on it, to caress it or to force it in any way out of its place as an integral part of the dramatic action the effect would be unbearably sentimental.

Mr. Knoch and the two singers took it in tempo and with the dramatic elements emphasized. The audience was visibly stimulated and spent the interval between the first and second acts in the throes of an unusual excitement.

The singers deserving special commendation were Madame Gadski, Madame Lippe and Mr. Gross. Mme. Gadski's vocal equipment was not always reliable, but her dramatic authority was unimpeachable. The Valkyrs also turned out to be lively and likeable Amazons.

No unusual scenic effects were attempted. The thunderous ride of the Valkyrs was left to the orchestra and the imagination.

"The Rire" cycle and the present engagement of the company will be brought to a close tonight with a performance of "Goetterdaemerung." The performance begins at 7:15 p. m.

RELATIVES AT ROYAL SICKBED

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 22.—The serious illness of the Queen of Sweden here is causing considerable anxiety among royalty. The King and Queen of Italy have requested daily information regarding her condition. The Prince of Hesse has been at her bedside and Princess Ingrid, daughter of the Swedish Crown Prince, has arrived in Rome to be with her grandmother. King Gustav of Sweden visits her majesty frequently and hourly bulletins are sent to Sweden.

A medical communique issued last night said the Queen was having difficulty with respiration and that the heart action was unsatisfactory.

CHARGES FORMER BUSINESS LEADER STOLE $400,000

District Attorney of Stockton, Cal., Says Embezzlement Will Total That Amount.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKTON, Cal., Feb. 22.—W. S. J. Ranney, former prominent Stockton business executive, arrested in Little Rock, Ark., last night, is wanted here on 23 counts of grand theft in connection with the alleged embezzlement from the Harris Manufacturing Co. of funds which District Attorney Guard C. Darrah said would total $400,000.

Ranney, whose wife recently obtained an interlocutory degree of divorce on the ground of desertion, disappeared April 25, 1923, a day preceding a special meeting of the directors of the Harris company, of which he was business manager. The meeting followed an earlier one which had been called after the discovery by other employes of apparent discrepancies in Ranney's accounts.

Ranney is alleged to have made out payroll checks to other persons, collecting the money himself. Other irregularities are also charged.

Authorities said extradition proceedings to return Ranney here for trial would be begun immedately.

THREE MEN ARRESTED AFTER FILLING STATION HOLDUP, FREED

Released for Lack of Evidence; Were Taken After Chase From Grand and Chouteau.

Three men arrested Friday afternoon in connection with the robbery of a filling station on Chouteau avenue, east of Grand boulevard, were released yesterday for lack of evidence. They were Leslie Payne and Edgar Simonin, both of Belleville, and Adie Gordon, East St. Louis.

They were arrested after a chase on Chouteau from Grand to the Free Bridge by William J. McDonnell, attendant, and a traffic policeman, in McDonnell's machine.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN, STANDING IN SAFETY ZONE, HIT BY AUTO

Driver, Who Does Not Stop Is Overtaken by Patrolman After Chase of Six Blocks.

Miss Irene McMahon of 2621 Caroline street, and Miss Lucille Spath of 2620 Caroline street, were knocked down and injured by an automobile which did not stop last night. They were standing in the safety zone at the northeast corner of Jefferson and Olive.

Samuel Gilmore, a poultry dealer of 1340 Merchant street, drove the car which struck the two young women. He was arrested six blocks from the scene of the accident by a pursuing patrolman in a commandeered automobile. At city hospital physicians said he was drunk. He was charged with careless driving, operating an automobile when intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

Miss McMahon suffered a wrenched right knee and a sprained back. Miss Spath suffered a wrenched right knee and an injured hand. Both young women, after treatment at city hospital, were taken home.

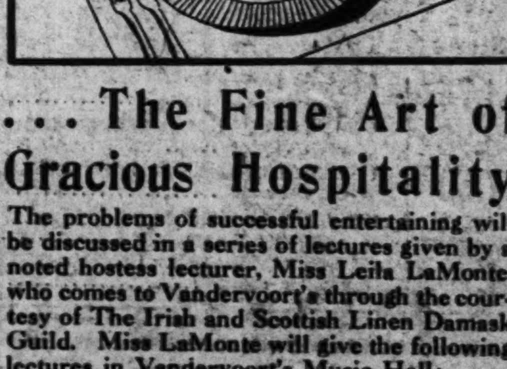
Buying New Home Furnishings

On our convenient deferred payment plan, differs from paying all other living expenses in one great respect. You continue to enjoy your furniture years after the payments have ceased.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

. . . how much the small sums squandered daily on ephemeral things, would amount to, if applied on attractive home furnishings? Our Home Budget Bureau will supply you with some interesting facts about home budgeting. A helpful service that is entirely without cost or obligation.



. . . The Fine Art of Gracious Hospitality

The problems of successful entertaining will be discussed in a series of lectures given by a noted hostess lecturer, Miss Leila LaMonte, who comes to Vandervoort's through the courtesy of The Irish and Scottish Linen Damask Guild. Miss LaMonte will give the following lectures in Vandervoort's Music Hall:

Wednesday—New Fashions in Linen.
Thursday—Modern Manner in Table Setting.
Friday—The Smartness of Simplicity.
Saturday—The Lure of "Lovely Linen."

Quick Relief!

Have you ever tried Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets? If not you should do so and perhaps find the relief you have long sought.

These tablets were first placed on sale in drug stores in December, 1894, thirty-six years ago, and have steadily increased in popularity ever since as attested by millions of users.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain no soda nor any harmful ingredient, but the desired alkaline effect is secured by a pleasant combination of Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate with other ingredients for the prompt relief of that acidity, discomfort after eating, nausea, fullness after meals, etc. They are a modern antiacid. One of them will neutralize 2½ times its weight of acid material in the stomach.

Make This Test!

Purchase a 25c, handy pocket tin of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from your druggist, use after meals and note the quick relief from discomfort after eating.

WANTS CONGRESS TO RESTORE FARM LOAN BOND VALUE

Congressman Rainey of Illinois Urges Affirmative Action in Testimony Before Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Affirmative action by Congress to restore the depreciated value of farm loan bonds was demanded of the House Banking and Currency Committee today by Congressman Rainey (Dem.), Illinois.

Rainey, continuing his testimony of yesterday, in which he recommended merger of the Federal Land Banks with the Joint Stock Land Bank system, said Illinois officials were seriously considering preventing the sale of the securities in that State under the blue sky laws.

The committee is holding hearings on the Letts bill to provide enforcement of double liability of stockholders of joint stock land banks.

The Illinois Congressman estimated that $400,000,000 in bonds and stocks of the Joint Stock Land Banks were held by banks throughout the country, and emphasized the seriousness of the situation resulting from their depreciation, which he placed at 50 per cent.

Urging that the committee approve the measure, Rainey said it proposed to increase the spread from one to one and one-half per cent in borrowing and loaning rates, as in the Federal Land Bank system; permit the banks the same privilege of the Federal Land Banks in issuing bonds to 20 times the amount of their capital stock rather than the present 15 times and to provide agents to supervise farms taken over by the system. The bill, he said, has the approval of the National Grange.

HOOVER SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The school for mountain children, built by President Hoover near his camp on the Rapidan River in Virginia, will open next Monday. The teacher, Miss Christine Vest of Kentucky, and the pupils will begin their work at 11 a. m.

The formal opening of the school will come later when Mrs. Hoover and others, who will help in dedication ceremonies, are able to get to the school building. At the present time the roads in the section are not passable.

MISSOURI PRO ONE STROKE BETTER THAN BOBBY JONES

By the Associated Press.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 22.—Horton Smith, the blonde young golf wizard from Springfield, Mo., continued his par-shattering play through the final two rounds here today to post a 278 for the 72 holes and win a one-stroke victory over Bobby Jones, national open king, in the $3000 Savannah open.

The 21-year-old youngster, who learned his golf in the Missouri Ozarks, turned in cards of 70 and 71 for the two rounds today, and these scores, together with the 71 figure of Thursday's first round and the brilliant 66 yesterday, gave him the victor's share of $1000.

As his scores indicate, the youthful money maker clung close to par and shot steady golf throughout the three-day grind. His 66 Friday was punctuated with brilliant shots.

Jones Falters.

After breaking the course record with a great 65 on his morning round, the Atlanta barrister faltered on the final round and took a 72. His 137 today, coupled with his 142 of the opening two rounds, gave him a final score of 179.

Seven strokes behind the leader was Bobby Cruickshank, the canny Scotch professional from Purchase, N. Y., who took second prize money of $500. The little Scotchman scored a 69 on the final round to pull himself into a preferred position. His 142 of today with 143 yesterday, gave him a gross of 285.

Al Espinosa, the veteran links wizard from Chicago and young Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., were tied for fourth place with 286. Al had 144-142 for his score, while Dudley paired a 141 yesterday with 145 today.

Ten Birdies for Smith.

Smith registered ten birdies as he made his way over the final 36 holes, while the runner-up, Bobby Jones, had 13 birdies and an eagle. However, most of Bobby's great shots were made on his record-breaking morning round.

The cards of the leaders:

Magnolia to Referee Sharkey-Scott Bout At Miami Thursday

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—Lou Magnolia, the acrobatic and colorful New York referee, who lifted the glove of Jack Sharkey as a token of victory over Willie Stribling in the first Battle of the Palms a year ago, will be the third man in the ring next Thursday night when the Boston sailor meets Phil Scott, the British champion, in the 15-round match topping the second winter fistic festival here.

Confirmation of Magnolia's selection, announced by the Miami Boxing Commission, after a conference with the rival managers, was the only definite development of a day which saw most of the combatants start tapering off on their workouts, re-enforcements arrive in substantial numbers among the experts as well as notables, and a continued depression in region of the box office.

No Foul Claim for Scott.

Magnolia, originally suggested by Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, was accepted for Scott by his manager, Jimmy Johnston, with the understanding that the three confer Monday with the boxing commission to remove any question about regulations. Johnston reiterated his statement that he does not desire to have Scott win on any technicality, such as a foul.

"If we lose, we want to lose on a knockout," Johnston remarked. Expert opinion, thoroughly canvassed today, indicated more than half of the 200 newspapermen here from various parts of the country hold the belief that this is the way Scott will lose. Not a single unqualified selection of Scott to win by any means, has been registered by any of the assembled critics, a situation that probably is almost without parallel for a heavyweight fight having so important a bearing on the championship situation. The best that these camp followers can say for Phil is that his chances of lasting the 15-round limit, or of getting "the nod" on points on an outside chance, will be "improved" if he manages to stick

YOUNG NACIONALISTA KAYOES JOHNSON

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Feb. 22.—Young Nacionalista, 123-pound Filipino fighter, won by a technical knockout tonight over Kid Johnson, 129, in the third round of a contest for the junior lightweight championship of the Orient. Nacionalista also knocked out Johnson in December, that fight lasting less than two minutes.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Time to Insist.

BENNY BASS vs. Eddie Shea, the best fight that has been arranged for St. Louis since the law legalizing boxing went into effect, is announced today. The bout is a "natural" for St. Louis, both fighters having built up fine reputations by their excellent work here. The Arena should be packed at popular prices, because one thing has been done to convince the public that all is well—the referee will be selected by the Missouri Boxing Commission.

Last time Bass fought here he brought in Referee Harry Ertle and his lightning "count." Ertle is a man of wide experience and all that. But with two first-class local officials available, there was no need of outside officials. An attempt to bring in one by Bass would have revived the suspicion that Benny wants protection.

Bass has a low blow record. He has lost something like half a dozen fights on fouls. He lost one in St. Louis when he hit Lenard low. Shortly after his last fight here he lost another on a foul to a Boston fighter. He just can't "keep them up" at times. The idea of bringing his own referee was this: Making title weight, he could lose his crown on a foul; but his own referee might protect him against that eventuality.

Bass CAN fight right, if he tries. The Commission's referee will force him to be watchfl of the other fellow's rights.

What, Again, Mique?

MIQUE MALLOY is thinking of serving us another helping of that celebrated beef trust, Carnera, the Colossus of Venice. Mique is considering promoting at The Arena a match between the Italian and Chuck Wiggins, next March, which he thinks will give St. Louisans a better idea of the real merit of Primo.

Such a match probably would give Primo some painful moments, and might indeed expose any Achilles heel that may afflict the Man Mountain. Chuck is a naughty, naughty fighter. He hits 'em where they ain't looking for hits; and he doesn't allow a few rules to interfere with the method of his delivery or landing wallops.

As a street brawler, it takes a wagonload of police to whip him; but it can be done. Chuck found that out, a few months ago, when he undertook a single-handed assault on the Indianapolis police force. Chuck realized his mistake, after a few weeks in jail. He now knows better than to take on more than half the force at one time.

As to Carnera, there is no doubt that Chuck's reputation is an open book to Manager Leon See, and therefore no match with Chuck could be possible. Carnera's advisers would be fearful of another of those fouls which are scattered here and there through Wiggins' record.

Out With the Dope Books.

HARRY WHITNEY did a great favor to Kentucky Derby fans when he failed to nominate Whichone and Boojum. That is because the public had already predetermined that no 3-year-old in the country was equal to the task of beating Whichone and possibly Boojum as well. Now, the race is wide open; several horses have an equal chance and interest and speculation both will season this turf tidbit.

As a matter of fact there is no real guarantee that the 2-year-old superiority of Whichone and Boojum will continue in their 3-year-old form. In fact, one gathers that they have not

BILLIKEN FIVE BEATS OKLAHOMA AGGIES, 30-22

The St. Louis University Billikens won their twelfth victory of the season last night at the expense of the Oklahoma A. & M. basketball team in a game played at the Billikens' gymnasium before approximately 1200 spectators. The Aggies from Stillwater, Ok., who have not won a Missouri Valley conference game this season trailed the locals all the way and were on the short end of a 30-22 score at the final whistle. Washington U.'s Bears beat the Aggies, 33-23, Friday night.

The Bills played good and bad basketball in winning. The regulars with Strong, Oldfield and Drury starring worked beautifully on the offense during the first half. Oldfield and Strong bagged four and three field goals during the first period and were mainly responsible for the Bills 21-7 lead at the intermission. Lyle Drury, regular center, was the only man to play well throughout the contest and his three field goals were all of the sensational variety.

Nylkos Tries Reserves.

Nylkos started his reserves at the half time and Coach Rody of the visitors sent in three of his regulars who viewed the first half of the game from the bench. Ley of the field and Collins, his team visitors was first to score from mate followed with a free throw. Kennedy and McPartland scored free throws for St. Louis making the score 23-10. Roberts scored from the field for St. Louis and Ley registered two points for the visitors and the St. Louis regulars took the floor.

The Billiken regulars did not play up to the form exhibited during the first half. There was no scoring for the first five minutes and with 13 minutes of the second half gone Harrison, the visitor's center sank a pair of field goals from long range. Drury scored his second one hand shot but Harrison scored again this time on a free throw making the score 27-17.

Bills Depart Tomorrow.

There was very little good basketball shown by either team during the rest of the game. Strong and Oldfield missed many shots and the Bills passed poorly. The visitors never threatened the locals lead but missed many chances on free throws.

The Bills will depart tomorrow night for Iowa City, Ia., where they will meet Iowa University in a return game the following evening.

FURTH SETS WORLD INDOOR RECORD FOR 70-YARD LOW HURDLES

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Sol Furth of New York University set a new world indoor record of eight seconds flat for the 70-yard low hurdles at the Union College invitation board track and field games here today.

Furth equaled the old record in winning his heat and clipped a tenth of a second from it in winning the final.

He also hung up a new meet record in the 70-yard high hurdles. His time in this event was 8.9 seconds.

Donnay, reserved some distance back of the early pace for the first five furlongs, worked his way up gradually thereafter and closing with a rush through the stretch, overhauled the leaders and was drawing clear. Uluniu, displaying good speed from the break, moved into the lead approaching the half-mile pole and holding on gamely in the final drive, outfinished Strongheart. Latter moved up steadily rounding the final turn to challenge Uluniu for the leadership and held on gamely in the final drive.

$2 mutuels paid: Donnay, win $4.90, place $2.90, show $2.40; Uluniu, place $3.50, show $3.10; Strongheart, show $2.80.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 22.—Donnay, from the Rancocas Stable, won the George Washington Birthday Handicap, feature of the racing program at the Fair Grounds track here this afternoon. Mrs. R. Pollard's Uluniu was second and the Walbri Farm's Strongheart was third.

The winner was the favorite and paid $4.90 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

The purse was worth $2420 to the winner's owner, $500 to the second, $250 to third and $100 to fourth, Ruane.

Donnay raced far back during the first five furlongs, then ran forward and, closing with a rush through the stretch, passed Uluniu and Strongheart, winning easily by a length. Uluniu showed speed from the start and outfinished Strongheart. The latter made a game effort to head the leaders but did not have the speed.

Scratches were numerous in several races, due to the muddy condition of the racing strip.

A good early lead enabled Heartache to win the opening event, the first of two in a row over the mile and one-sixteenth route. Dar-Fur, from the stable of F. H. Jones, took the second.

Then came two six-furlong sprints, which went to Extreme and Elizabeth Bolla. The latter had to beat only three horses in the fourth event.

STEIN LEADS THOMA 518 PINS; 10 GAMES TO GO

Otto Stein Jr., St. Louis' greatest bowler, practically clinched victory over Sykes Thoma of Peoria in their 60-game inter-city bowling match at the Washington alleys last night, winning the 10-game block by a margin of 186 pins to increase his lead to 518 pins with but 10 games to go.

Stein, who is the American Bowling Congress all events champion, gave the greatest match exhibition recorded in this city for a long time in taking last night's series, rolling over 200 in each game to average 229 pins per game. His 10-game total was 2297 pins, while Thoma counted 2111.

Thoma in defeat again gave a fine account of himself, trying hard at all times in the face of impossible odds and for the second straight night rolled his series without a miss. Thoma counted 256 in the final game, his highest effort to date on the local planks. Stein had a high single game of 271 in his sixth try.

The scores:

Thoma—
203 200 195 225 213
169 202 226 222 256—2111
Stein Jr.—
206 203 216 234 239
271 227 227 248 226—2297

50 game totals: Thoma, 10,418; Stein Jr., 10,936.

Jess Haines and Fred Frankhouse at Training Camp

By the Associated Press.

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 22.

THE arrival of another pitcher and the club's trainer today heralded the approach of the spring training season of the St. Louis Cardinals, scheduled to get under way March 3.

The new arrivals in camp are Harrison, J. Weaver, trainer, and Jess Haines, pitcher. Fred Frankhouse, another member of the hurling staff, arrived this morning.

Weaver said tonight that beginning Monday Haines and Frankhouse would launch their training under his direction. While the reporting date is a week off, Weaver said several players would be in camp before that time.

TOM PACKS ANNOUNCES BATTLE AT THE ARENA

BASS IS FLOORED TWICE IN DRAW WITH ANDERSON

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22.

BENNY BASS, junior lightweight champion, and "Cowboy" Eddie Anderson of Chicago, fought a ten-round draw, featured by nine knockdowns, here tonight. Bass' title was not at stake.

The ninth round, with both fighters endeavoring to land a knockout punch, was replete with thrills which kept the audience on their feet most of the round. During this session the champion was knocked down twice, while Anderson was on the canvas three times. Anderson had been on the floor four times in previous rounds.

The decision of the referee in calling the bout a draw met with favor of the fans.

By Damon Kerby

Benny Bass of Philadelphia, junior lightweight champion, and Eddie Shea of Chicago, foremost contender, will meet in a 10-round fight at The Arena, March 28, under the auspices of the Missouri Department, American Legion Auxiliary, Matchmaker Tom Packs, who obtained the fight, announced last night. The men will fight at the title weight of 130 pounds, and the championship will be at stake.

The announcement by Packs that he had obtained the signatures of both Bass and Shea ends a keen competition for the match that had ben waged by local and out-of-town promoters since Bass won the title from Tod Morgan in New York last December.

Bass' appearance here against Shea will mark the second time Benny has defended his title. His first title defense was also in St. Louis, when he knocked out Davey Abad here in three rounds, on Feb. 3.

Ticket Prices Not Decided On.

Ticket prices for the Shea-Bass match will be determined after a survey of the seating accommodations, according to Packs, who has arranged a conference tomorrow with Ben G. Brinkman, president of the National Exhibition Co., owners of The Arena, and Edward G. Foristel, representing The Arena Sports Club.

Packs stated the fighters would report here about 10 days before the bout and would establish training camps.

Puncher Against a Puncher.

Against Shea, Bass will meet a more worthy foe than he did in Abad, in the opinion of those who have watched the three men in action. Shea has a killing body punch, the power of which can be verified by Peewee Kaiser, who took a terrific lacing from Shea on the opening Arena fight program last November. Abad, in contrast to Shea, is a powder-puff hitter. He could not keep Bass away with cleverness alone, and the champion, after the first round, had Abad where all that was needed was a finishing punch.

Shea believes today that it is only because of an unlucky break that he is not now junior lightweight champion, instead of Bass. The titleholder, Tod Morgan, had been beaten by several fighters in non-title bouts and the feeling was general in boxing circles that the first top-notch fighter who obtained a title bout with Morgan would win the title. Shea tried to get the match, but without avail, while Bass, after extensive angling, was successful. The result is history.

Shea Earns a Chance.

There was some justification in Morgan's refusing Shea a match for the title, however, on his record. There were a couple of defeats in Shea's record during the past year, suffered at the hands of Andy Martin of Boston, and Earl Mastro, the Chicagoan. Shea lost to Martin April 19 and, after knocking out Buck Timidy and Phil O'Dowd (the latter in St.

Boston at St. Petersburg, Fla.
Philadelphia at Winter Haven, Fla.
Cincinnati at Orlando, Fla.

By J. Roy Stockton

Bill Killefer, who has gained a reputation as one of the outstanding developers of pitchers in baseball, will make his formal debut as manager of the Browns Tuesday morning, when he holds the first spring training workout of the season at West Palm Beach. The advance squad of Brownies, including pitchers, catchers and young infielders and outfielders, will arrive at West Palm Beach shortly after sunrise Tuesday morning.

Secretary Willis Johnson will be in charge of the small contingent that will entrain here this afternoon for training camp. The party will include the demon secretary, Outfielder Ted Gullic, Infielder Ed Grimes, Pitchers Chad Kimsey and Alvin Crowder, Stanley Shanks a young catcher, and Trainer Tommy Bramell. Other players wil join the squad at Memphis and other points on the way south.

Killefer May Be Optimist.

Killefer, if he really is hopeful that the Browns will be in the fight for the 1930 pennant, must be rated as one of the best of our optimists. Last year the Browns, with Dan Howley as manager and Killefer as Dan's assistant, finished fourth, trailing the Athletics, Yankees and Indians.

It is difficult to see how the team, with no important improvements, can hope to climb any higher. Fred (Powerhouse) Bennett, who was with the Browns several years ago, is coming back to try for a place in the outfield again. He is said to be a good hitter and to have improved in his fielding, which was not satisfactory when he was with the Browns previously. Sammy Hale, who tried for several years to win a regular job with the Athletics, has been obtained to bolster the infield, but Killefer has said that he does not count on Hale as a regular. Hale was obtained from the Mackmen in a trade which sent Wallie Schang back to the scene of his first big-league activity.

To replace Schang the Browns have Bernard Hungling, a veteran catcher from Newark. However, he is not considered likely to remain on the roster and Killefer has stated that he is after another catcher.

Four pitchers have been added to the roster. They are Fred Stieley from Beaumont, Earl Caldwell from Waco, Herman Holshauser from Baltimore and Rolland Stiles from Tulsa. Holshauser was obtained in a trade that sent Frank McGowan to Baltimore and Killefer expects the right-hander to help the Browns, though with Baltimore he won only nine while losing 10 games.

Killefer's big problems will be to develop more batting power and to bolster his infield. If he could bob up with a good third-sacker and some sluggers, the outlook would not be so bad.

Except for third base, Killefer will have a fine infield. Blue is as good as any of the first-sackers and Oscar Melillo played brilliantly at second base last year, indicating that he had regained his strength. Kress has developed steadily and should rank with the best shortstops in 1930.

The catching staff of Ferrell and Manion would be satisfactory if the two men could go through the year without injury, but it would be risky to go along with only two backstops.

Killefer undoubtedly will watch Fred Schulte hopefully. This boy was a knockout in the American Association, but never has arrived as a big leaguer. He seems to have everything, but never has hit up to expectations. If he could hold up his end and Bennett were to make good, the Browns would have a pretty fair outfield trio, with Heine Manush in left.

DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL BASKET MEET MARCH 4-8

The pairings announced by the St. Louis district committee of the Missouri State High School Association for the annual elimination basketball tournament, to be held March 4 to 8, inclusive, at the Washington U. Field House, offer some interesting speculations.

St. Louis University High, one of the strongest teams in the tournament, opens the meet, playing Normandy at 4 p. m., March 4. An hour later University City, one of the semi-finalists last year, opposes Central. Cleveland, rated as a possible contender, meets Wellston in a second round match at 8 o'clock the first day. The defending titleholder, McBride, opposes Principia in the upper bracket at 9 p. m. the same day.

Soldan, the leader of the City High School League, is the last team in the lower bracket, playing St. Charles at 9 o'clock Wednesday. Unless some upset occurs, Soldan should easily reach the finals in its division.

In the Class B pairings the championship Ferguson team opposes Fairview at 5 o'clock on March 7. The other finalist in this class will be determined between Hancock and Jennings, both members of the county league.

The pairings:

CLASS A.
Cleveland 8 p. m. Tues. Wellston } 7 p. m. Thurs.

ANOTHER "PREVIOUS" SCHMELING CONTRACT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—More trouble is looming for Max Schmeling, the German contender who has promised to meet the winner of the Sharkey-Scott tilt in a championship match here in June.

Now that Madison Square Garden, balked in its effort to pair Sharkey and Schmeling last summer by a previous contract, has purchased the troublesome paper from Humbert Fugazy, another "previous" contract has been discovered. Jess McMahon, former Garden matchmaker now promoting for himself, claims a contract signed by Schmeling for a battle under his direction, must be lived up to before the Teuton can fight anyone else.

HANCOCK HIGH WINS OVER WATERLOO, 40-18

WATERLOO, Ill., Feb. 22.—The Waterloo High School was defeated here tonight by the Hancock High School of St. Louis County, 40 to 18. The score at the half was 26 to 10, with Hancock retaining an easy lead throughout the game. Only during the second quarter did Waterloo threaten Hancock's lead.

MEMPHIS PAIR AND BATES WIN HANDBALL TITLES

City Fireman Mike Cunningham "laid off" yesterday afternoon, and with his youthful partner, Robert Weiller, the veteran handball player forced Sam Atcheson and Sam Johnston of Memphis to go three games to win the National Y. M. C. A. doubles handball championship at the Downtown Y.

Merrit Bates of Columbus, O., won the singles title by defeating Otto Berg of Toledo, O., in a hard fought three-game match, 13-21, 21-12, 21-10.

Cunningham, showing the same fire that made him city champion for years, and Weiller fought valiantly to bring the title to St. Louis, but while the old spirit of Mike was there on the handball court, his legs could not carry him through to victory.

The two Sams put up a hard fight, and forced Mike and Weiller to the limit in the first game, which the St. Louisans won, 21-19. The Memphis pair came back to take the second contest, 21 to 15. The hard battle began to tell on Mike. He responded gamely in the third game, making some great "kills" both on the offense and defense, but Atcheson and Johnston put on a seven-run rally in the fourth inning, came back in the fourth to get four more for a 16-4 lead, which Cunningham and Weiller, who showed brilliantly at times, could not overcome.

The scores of the games by innings follow:

Bates Victor in Singles.

Berg, who was favored to win the singles title because he had defeated Bates in the Ohio State tournament, found his brother Ohioan a Tartar yesterday afternoon. Berg got off to an eight-point lead in the first two innings of the first game, but Bates piled up eight points in four innings to tie the score in the seventh. Berg came back in the ninth to get six, but the game went 21 innings before Berg could win out.

Bates scored seven times in the opening inning of the second game, and three more in the second, while Berg could count only one. In the ninth, Bates scored eight points to win the second game and square the match. The third game went 12 innings when Bates, playing great ball, tallied five to go out.

The scores of the games by innings follow:

FIRST GAME.
Berg—5 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 6 0 0 0 1 2 1 2 0 0 0 0 1—21.

OLD TIMERS ANNUAL CHARITY SOCCER GAME OFF BECAUSE OF RAIN

Rain and its resultant muddy field yesterday caused postponement of the annual Old Timers' charity soccer game, scheduled for Sportsman's Park.

NORTHWESTERN WINS, 34 TO 32, OVER ILLINOIS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 22.—In a wild but clever shooting game, Northwestern defeated Illinois in a Big Ten conference basketball game here tonight, 34 to 32, after Illinois had held an 18 to 17 lead at the end of the half.

Illinois sprung a big surprise by going into a 10 to 1 lead during the first four minutes of play, but Northwestern came back strong and started shooting baskets from all parts of the floor and while Illinois was only successful in adding 11 more points, the Wild Cats had garnered 27 points, which gave them a 28 to 21 advantage.

Illinois then turned the tables and repeated their early performance and scored nine points in quick order, placing them in a 30 to 28 lead. Northwestern tied the count at 30 all but a field basket by Riel and another long one by Walter put the Wild Cats into a four-point advantage with but two minutes of play remaining.

Captain Mills of Illinois hooked his seventh basket of the game, narrowing Northwestern's lead by two points which they held during the remaining minute of play.

The box score:

Michigan Defeats Indiana, 21 to 18.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Feb. 22.—The University of Michigan passed Indiana in the Western conference basketball race tonight with a 21 to 18 victory and virtually eliminated the Hoosiers from further title consideration. The Wolverines, with an alert style of play, controlled the ball a majority of the game, and the uncanny shooting of Chapman and Daniels kept them in the lead.

Branch McCracken, Indiana center, was the mainstay of the Hoosier play and added 11 points to his season's scoring total, with five field goals and one foul.

Outside of a spurt midway of the first half, when the Crimson overcame an eight-point lead to tie the score at nine all, Indiana failed to show any ability to penetrate the Michigan defense. The Wolverines led 14 to 11 at the half.

Purdue Defeats Minnesota, 42-24.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 22.—Purdue pounded a few more rivets in its hold on the Western conference basketball leadership by drubbing Minnesota, 42 to 24, in the Gopher field house here tonight. It was the Boilermakers' eighth straight triumph in the conference.

Charles "Stretch" Murphy and Sammy Wooden collaborated in heavy field goal scoring and together registered 31 points, of which 16 belonged to Murphy.

Chicago in First Big Ten Victory.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. — Paul Stephenson, a 145-pound forward from Elkhart, Ind., playing the last four minutes, scored eight points to give Chicago its first victory of the Big Ten basketball season, a 23 to 21 triumph over Wisconsin's powerful five.

The Maroon victory was the biggest upset of the conference championship campaign and was a severe blow to Wisconsin's hope of at least sharing in the title.

Pembroke Defeats Principia, 16-11

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 22.—Pembroke School defeated the Principia team of St. Louis, 16 to 11, on the former's court tonight. Pembroke led at the half, 9 to 4.

Leon See, Carnera's Pilot, Has Managed Boxers for 25 Years; Develops Stars

By W. J. McGoogan

St. Louisans who saw Primo Carnera, giant Italian boxer, knock out Buster Martin, of Tulsa, Ok., at The Arena here recently recall a short, rather stout man who acted as Primo's chief second and they also noticed that he acted in the same capacity for Jean Boireau in his match with Lou Terry.

He was Leon See, manager of both the above named boxers, developer of Boireau, handler of a large stable of boxers which has produced nine champions of France and seems well on the way to having its Wild Boar insignia on the trunks of the next heavyweight champion of the world.

See has been a manager of boxers for 25 years, that is, except for the four years which he spent in the French army during the war. He has handled hundreds of good and some not so good aspirants for ring titles.

Maintains Home for Boxers.

He operates on a system comparable to that used by the St. Louis Cardinals in baseball. "Get 'em young and teach 'em." He has a large home on the outskirts of Paris in which there are some 15 or 16 rooms. His home is equipped with a gymnasium and an indoor boxing room. On the grounds outside the house is an outdoor ring and the whole thing is situated on the fringe of a forest or what in this country would be called a little "woods." Here See has his men do their road work under the watchful eyes of two trainers he maintains in his establishment at all times.

See has about 15 boxers under his wing continually, some five of them, he says, would be called first-class boxers, another five would be styled second-class men with promise of developing into stars while five would be novices.

Takes Boxers When Young.

It is See's practice to take charge of his boys at a tender age and to permit them about three years to show their wares. Some of them, he says, show that they lack the ability to go far in their chosen profession within two or three weeks and are dropped, while others take quite a while to show whether they have the stuff or not.

Sometimes it is necessary for See to support a boxer's family while the boy is learning his trade. A case in point is that of Jean Boireau. He celebrated his twenty-first birthday while in St. Louis and for three years has been with See's stable.

When Boireau sought a trial with See, he told the manager that he was the sole support of his mother and his grandmother. He was working as a carpenter at the time. See liked the boy's looks and decided to take him on. So for a year or so it was necessary for him to support Boireau, his mother and his grandmother.

"But," said Leon, "after Boireau developed he earned enough within six months to pay me back for all the money I had put into him. I am under an expense of approximately $600 per month for the maintenance of my home and my boxers, but if I manage to get one good man out of 10 he pays for all the rest in a short time after he matures.

Boxing an Industry in France.

"Boxing is quite an industry in France. We have several clubs and boxing cards are held each week, or oftener, for which the headliner receives the equivalent of $1000 to $5000 in American money.

"I have tried to conduct my stable in such a way that a promoter knows that if he needs a boxer in any of the various divisions he can always get a good one from me. One who will be on the ground ready for the fray at the appointed hour and that helps my boys to get bouts.

"I have refereed thousands of bouts in France during my career. You know a referee in France receives no money for his services and that is the way I think it should be. It is better for a referee not to be paid. That is the way it is with the Boxing Commission of France of which I have been a member for 10 years. None of the commissioners is paid for his work. They are all men of means who serve for the love of the game. As a result there is very litle trouble about boxing in France. Then there being only one commission there is no competition between such bodies for cards as you have in this country."

LEON SEE.

Predicted Title for Carpentier.

It seemed unusual that a man connected with boxing as long as See had been in France apparently had nothing to do with George Carpentier's career, but when questioned about the matter, it developed that Leon had refereed one of Carpentier's early scraps and at that time predicted a brilliant future for him. Let us tell how it happened.

"There was a man who promoted little boxing cards in a village called Maison-Lafitte, near Paris. He asked me to referee a bout on a Sunday afternoon between a jockey, whom I knew, and a French boy who was unnamed.

"I entered the ring and saw a little boy apparently 14 or 15 years of age sitting on a stool in one corner. I paid no attention to him, thinking he would disappear when the boxer entered. Soon afterward in walked the jockey, a flyweight, but at the same time a mature man. I asked where the jockey's opponent was and was told it was the little boy.

"'What!' I said to the promoter, 'Do you think I will have anything to do with a boxing contest between a man and a boy? Why, you are mad, man.' But the promoter insisted that the bout had to go one, so on reflection I decided it would be better for me to referee than another. So I agreed to handle the bout, warning the promoter that if the child appeared to be in danger I would call the fight off in the first second. So I ordered the bout to begin.

"Up jumped the little boy, and in a second or two had the jockey flat on his back. I was amazed. The kid displayed remarkable form. Within three rounds he had knocked the jockey down three times. Then the jockey fouled him and I awarded the bout to the boy.

"I walked over to his corner and asked, 'Boy, what is your name?' and he replied 'Georges Carpentier.' "How old are you?" I asked, and he said he was 14. 'Just remember this,' I told him, 'I do not know how big you will grow or what class you will ultimately fight in, but whatever it is you will be the champion of the world one day.'

"Many years later Carpentier came to me in Paris, recalled the conversation to me and said, 'Well, it is the light-heavyweight division of which I am champion.'"

Mortimer Wins National Racquets Title Fourth Time

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—Stanley G. Mortimer of Tuxedo, N. Y., won his fourth national racquets championship here today by defeating Clarence C. Pell, veteran New York star, in a spirited five-game match at the Tennis and Racquet Club. The scores were 15-7, 1-15, 4-15, 15-6, 18-15.

Mortimer's wonderful service and accuracy during the final game enabled him to overcome Pell, who has held the title nine times. Pell dominated most of the match and during the fifth game he appeared a certain winner when he ran up a 13-7 lead.

At this point Mortimer staged his great stand. He used his vicious service and remarkable accuracy to tire out the New York veteran. The latter, when he won the second and third games, ran Mortimer ragged to make the "gets."

St. Goddard Sets Record, Wins Annual Dog Derby

By the Associated Press.

QUEBEC, Feb. 22.—Mushing his way over the hard packed 120-mile snow covered course in record breaking time, Emil St. Goddard today won the eighth annual Eastern international dog derby.

The youthful musher from The Pas drove his team of huskies over the three laps of 40 miles each in a total-elapsed time of 11:01:27—five minutes and six seconds faster than the record hung up by Leonhard Seppala, veteran Nome, Alaska, driver, last year. Seppala's time in 19299 was 11:06:33.

Clinging to the heels of the flying St. Goddard to take second place was Seppala. The Nome musher drove his dogs over the course in 11:06:27, six seconds better than his own mark of last year. Hector Chevrette of Quebec was third with a total elapsed time of 11:35:30.

For finishing first St. Goddard received $1200 in cash and a silver cup. Seppala won $800 while third place was worth $600 to the Quebec musher.

Failure in Business, Turns Hold-up Man.

THEREIN the moral that we read
Is simply this, my son:
If at first you don't succeed,
Get yourself a gun.

And the Dotted Line.

Of course there are holdup men in business who never use a gun. Their only weapon is a fountain pen supplemented by a hypnotic eye and the gift of gab.

Many of these boys are artists in their line and after they have painted the prospectus in glowing colors, the prospect finds that he has been done in oil.

The stickup business is risky and a stretch in the pen isn't anything to write home about. In the first place, the work is too confining and in the second place it doesn't pay anything. Just board and clothes.

See where entire staff of American League umpires had their pictures taken. The fans will get their number later.

In numbers there is strength. There are now a third as many umpires to a game as there are players. And in a world and sometimes a crucial series, there are nearly half as many.

But unlike the player, the umpire sticks it out, regardless of the number of errors he may make. Nobody can put him out but himself. Fat chance.

And considering that the player is accountable only for his own errors, while the umpire passes on every play made in the game, his error column is remarkably free from blow-holes, blisters and wind-shakes.

Why, Certainly.

ILLINOIS HURDLER TIES WORLD RECORD; OHIO STATE WINS MEET

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 22.—Ohio State today handed Illinois its first Big Ten indoor dual track defeat since 1916, squeezing out a 46-to-40 victory when Dan Strother, Buckeye quarter miler, nipped Keith Hampton, Illinois sophomore, in the last leg of the mile relay.

Lee Sentman of Decatur, Ill., equaled the world indoor mark for 75 yards of high hurdles, defeating his teammate, Rodgers, and Petersilg of Ohio State in :09.4.

PRINCIPIA SWIMMERS DEFEAT WYANDOTTE IN KANSAS CITY POOL

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 22.—The Principia swimmers defeated the Wyandotte High team, 41 to 34, in a dual meet at the Wyandotte pool here this afternoon.

The Principia and Wyandotte split even in firsts, each taking four, but the Principia's representatives collected enough seconds and thirds to pull them through to a victory.

YOUNG CORBETT GETS VERDICT OVER FIELDS IN NON-TITLE GO

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Young Corbett of Fresno, Cal., reached the peak of a brilliant career here this afternoon when he won a 10-round decision over Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, in a nontitle bout witnessed by 20,000 persons.

The milling was fast and furious from start to finish, but Corbett's advantage in the early rounds found favor for him in the eyes of Referee James Griffin. Fields closed with a rush that had his rival on the run in the ninth, and in the last round the Fresno boy was visibly tired and hanging on.

Ringside opinions varied, and many veterans of the game figured the champion was at least entitled to a draw. A shower of cushions and paper programs into the ring followed the decision.

Taking the play away from his opponent with the opening gong, Corbett landed a left to the jaw that sent the titleholder back on his heels. The Fresno boy's left-handed style puzzled Fields in the second and third sessions, and the champion was on the receiving end of many jolting punches to the face and body.

Fields got going in the fourth and scored with rights to the jaw to win the round, but Corbett came back in the fifth to outpunch his rival, meanwhile tieing him up in the clinches.

Going into the ninth, Fields sensed he was on the short end, and he drove into Corbett with a two-handed attack. The tenth saw the titleholder bore in viciously. He crowded Corbett from rope to rope, but the rally failed to impress the referee sufficiently.

Threatening weather held down the attendance for the outdoor affair, with the result that the gate receipts failed to establish a new record for Northern California. The gate was estimated at $55,000, short by $8000 of the total set by the James Jeffries-James Corbett heavyweight championship here 27 years ago.

Kirkwood Easily Defeats U. City

Kirkwood High ran rough shod over the University City High team in the second half of their basketball game at the Delmar fives new gym to win 20-10, in the only County league game played last night.

The game started slow, the score being tied at 2-2 at the end of the first quarter, and at five all at the end of the first half. University City gained all its points in the first half on free throws while Huckleberry tipped in two from under the basket to keep his team in the running.

After the intermission Kirkwood drew away on two setups by Newcomb, never to be headed again. At the end of the third quarter, Kirkwood held an 11-8 lead and increased it in the final quarter, while holding the University City five to two free throws. Huckleberry, high scorer, along with Newcomb, played well for Kirkwood, while Vescovo and Meisel showed up creditably for Coach Muhl.

38 ROUNDS OF BOXING ON EAST SIDE CARD

Professional boxers are to be active for the Ainad Temple Patrol at Ainad Temple in East St. Louis for the tihrd time this season next Thursday night with a total of 38 rounds of boxing called for in the five contests, each to a decision of the referee and two judges to be named by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

Matchmaker C. F. Nelson has the following program arranged:

Ray Alfane, East St. Louis, vs. Tommy Bambrough of Springfield Ill. Ten rounds. Weight, 14[illegible] pounds.

Fred Cullen, Los Angeles, Cal vs. Russell Gross, Quincy, Ill. Ten rounds. Weight, 175 pounds.

Digger Nelson, Granite City, vs. Jackie Coogan, Indianapolis. Six rounds. Weight, 114 pounds.

Jack Cory, East St. Louis, vs. McCoy, St. Louis. Six rounds. Weight, 147 pounds.

Ardell Hoffman, Belleville, vs. Harry Barker, Jefferson Barracks. Six rounds. Weight, 135 pounds.

JOHNSTON MEETS SEELEY IN TENPIN FINAL

E. J. Johnston will bowl K. Seeley in the finals of the Wellston Chamber of Commerce individual elimination tournament on the Wellston Recreation alleys at [illegible] o'clock today. Johnston and Seeley won there way into the finals by defeating two strong bowlers, Ray Ziegler and Frank Wilman, respectively. The winner of the match will be presented with a diamond medal.

to his feet for a half dozen rounds.

Old timers recall that John L. Sullivan was the unanimous choice to beat James J. Corbett at New Orleans in 1892, when the result completely upset predictions. There have been sufficient other upsets of startling character to furnish precedent for Scott to win but if he does, the shock will be heard from Miami to Timbuctoo.

Sharkey 3 to 1 Favorite.

Sharkey was quoted a 3 to 1 favorite today, on the basis of a wager of $9000 to $3000, reported by the press headquarters to have been made by R. G. Wilson of Boston with L. G. Fanning and Gerald Wooster, both of Macon, Ga., taking the short end. The same parties wagered $3000 at even money that Sharkey wins by a knockout in six rounds.

With this situation respecting the main go and in spite of a strong supporting cast headed by Victorio Campolo and Johnny Risko, semi-finalists, the Madison Square Garden Corporation faces its biggest financial failure in the heavyweight business since the Tunney-Heeney championship "flop" in 1928. The reasons in both instances appear identical, based on a lack of competitive thrills, in spite of the angle of international rivalry between Britain and America.

With the show only five nights away, the prevailing opinion tonight was that it would be fortunate to gross around $200,000, only half of last winter's total. About a week ago detailed box office figures were given to the press, indicating an advance sale of $163,000. It was learned definitely today that this figure not only has not yet been reached, but that the actual cash receipts so far are hardly more than $100,000, probably less.

Advance Sale Disappointing.

Although William F. Carey, garden president, declined to deny or confirm these figures or offer any substitutes, he frankly admitted the advance sales has been "most disappointing." He indicated the garden would consider itself fortunate if it breaks even on the venture. Carey, because of the necessity of a trip to South America on business, will not see the fight. He leaves Miami next Monday for New York and is booked to sail Feb. 28.

More optimistic is Frank J. Bruen, general manager of the garden, who has devoted most of his time to management of the Hialeah racetrack. Bruen has insisted all along that the fight will draw as big a gate as 1929. He reiterated tonight his statement that the next few days would see a boom in box-office business.

Referees for Other Bouts.

In addition to Magnolia, referees for the other four bouts on the card were selected today as follows: William (Kid) McPartland of New York, for Campolo-Risko; Johnny Brassil of Boston, for Loughran-Charles; Frank McCracken of Philadelphia, for Maloney-Bouquillon; Howard Livingston of the Miami American Legion, for the Daring-Bianchi opener.

The main event is scheduled between 9:30 and 10 p. m., Eastern standard time. The Loughran-Charles bout probably will be put on after the Scott-Sharkey match.

The "Madison Square Garden Stadium," located on the outskirts of Miami, has been reconstructed in the process of transplanting from Miami Beach, with an increase in the seating capacity from [illegible],000 to 50,000.

Increase in Cheaper Seats.

As a concession to less bulging bankrolls, there will be 15,000 more seats than there were a year ago in Flamingo Park but the choice tickets bear the familiar $27.50 stamp. So far there has not been the slightest indication of any speculating.

Sharkey easily dominates the preliminary scenery, without any such competition as he had from the Stribling family circus last year. None of the ancient artifices of the ballyhoo are needed to reveal that the Boston sailor is in fine fighting condition, nor has anything happened so far to change the prediction of experts that he will enter the ring with a big advantage in fighting equipment, speed and punch, over the British champion. Lanky Phil Scott, even in training, retains what is apparently a natural expression of apprehension. Phil gives the impression, even in walking around, that he expects at any moment to be sandbagged without warning. His "secret punch" has put up a lot of bad fights to offset his good ones and he may be due for a "bad one."

FLYERS LOSE SECOND IN ROW TO TULSA, 3-2

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 22.—Celebrating the final home game of the season, the titled Tulsa Ice Oilers scored three goals in the third period to defeat St. Louis' stubborn Flyers, 3 to 2 and went into a tie with Kansas City for first place in the American Hockey Association.

The Missourians scored once in the opening canto and again early in the third.

A loose Tulsa defensive and some mighty fine combination work by Cameron and Goyer midway the first period enabled the St. Louis outfit to take the lead and they fought stubbornly to hold it throughout the second canto.

Goyer, rushed the puck into Tulsa territory, firing at goalie McCusker as he sped by the cage opening but the shot missed. The Flyer center dashed to the backboard, recovered the rubber disc and passed it out to Cameron who was engaged in a contest of stick holding with Ade Johnson, Tulsa. Cameron won for he broke loose just in time to take the pass and flip the rubber into the Oiler cage.

The Tulsans barely missed tying the count at the start of the second period when Gus Marker broke away from the whole crowd and dashed in toward the Flyer cage. But Clark, St. Louis, defense spoiled that chance by tripping the Oiler wing. Clark was sent to the penalty box for the offense but the home boys never threatened seriously again during the canto.

Powley, after taking a pass from Acoste, fired from just inside the Tulsa blue line for the second St. Louis goal, catching Goalie McCusker in a lazy position just after the start of the third period.

Then Bill Borland and McPherson combined efforts to hand Tulsa its first counter, the "shrimp" poking the rubber into the net after Borland had driven it through a group of players. Johnson scored the second and tying goal soon after on a pass from Borland, and with only four minutes to play, Fred Metcalf, spare wing, took the puck from a lively mix in front of the St. Louis net to score and hand Tulsa its victory.

McCusker, Tulsa goalie, was fined $25 for rough play.

"come along" as well as anticipated. Still, if entered they would have been held down to 3 to 1 in the betting and so ruined future book operations.

It is interesting to note that the opening quotations from Louisville show that Flying Heels, Spinach and Gallant Fox are equal choices at the good odds of 10 to 1, with Desert Light, Dedicate and Goneaway at 12 to 1 and Crazy Coot, Crossbones and Ned O. at 15 to 1.

There will be plenty of long shots played, with a long chance that a Black Gold or a Flying Ebony will bob up to give joy to the long-shot shooters.

Son of Flying Ebony.

FLYING HEELS has a splendid chance, winning seven races and finishing second three times in 10 starts! Considering the class of 2-year-olds he faced, it is a real record and would give him a look in, even against Whichone, were that one a starter.

Kentucky this year will not have the strong hand usually supplied by E. R. Bradley. The Idle Hour farm will be represented by Buckeye Poet and Breezing Thru, winners of two and three events respectively last year.

One of the horses that will come in for plenty of attention is Lightning Jones, a son of Midway, whose winter campaign has focused attention. Lightning Jones has started no fewer than 25 times and has been out of the money only five times. He has won eight races and was second and third six times each. He looks like a real good race horse.

Parnell Bound has won more races than any other candidate, owning 12 victories out of 25 starts and finishing unplaced only seven times. That compares with Black Gold's pre-Derby record.

Such Funny Tennis.

JUNIOR COEN of Kansas City and "Bunny" Austin of England played one of the funniest Alphonse-Gaston matches ever seen in that comical Europe, yesterday. Bunny was a bit late in reporting for the match, whereupon Coen, peeved, threw the first set to Austin. Then Austin, getting right back at Coen, threw the second set to Coen.

Then both boys threw all they had into the next and final set, and Bunny defeated Junior, 8—6!

After which, those who had paid to see a real tennis match threw a fit, a somersault or a couple of razzberries, the dispatches failing to say which.

It is evident that not all the temperament has departed from the pastime of tennis with the decline of Big Bill Tilden and Susanne Lenglen. In a game supposed to be the last word in sportsmanship, such actions indicate mere peevishness.

Bill Tilden sure set bad precedent in temperament when he tossed that set to J. O. Anderson in a Davis cup match, all because an official had given Big Bill a one-point break in his decision. The new generation seems to be copying Bill.

Let's Go.

THE National Boxing Association has succeeded in getting a change of conditions in favor of Londos, for that title wrestling bout with John Pesek. The $20,001 will be divided 60 and 40 between the winner and loser.

That kills Londos' main objection to the event. Londos ought to be satisfied, even though the bout is held in Columbus, the home of Pesek's manager. But it is not Pesek's home and there is no reason to believe the crowd's sentiments can affect the outcome of the test, in any case.

The referee will be named March 3 at Memphis by the championship committee and both men will have to abide the man named, or default. Let's hope both accept and settle this long-winded talk-championship.

WESTERN LEAGUE TO DRAFT SCHEDULE AT ST. JOSEPH MEETING

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 22.—Dale Gear, president of the Western League, today announced that a meeting to arrange the playing schedule of Western League baseball teams originally set for Monday in St. Joseph, Mo., had been postponed until next Tuesday.

Gear said inability of several Western League baseball club owners to attend the meeting Monday was responsible for the change in the meeting date.

Haas' Catch of Grimm's Fly Toward Left McGraw's Idea of a Smart Play

This is the eighth in a series of 10 articles by John McGraw, in which the manaeyr of the New York Giants describes the great plays of the 1929 world series. An article appears each Sunday in the Post-Dispatch.

By John J. McGraw,
Manager, New York Giants.

IN the big series the great fielding plays should be classified as those of the mind and those of the hands and legs. I have told of Wilson's great catch while sliding on his stomach, which comes under the latter heading, but for a case of clever calculation, or calling the turn, I choose for my eighth great play the catch of Grimm's long fly made by Mule Haas in the seventh inning of that last game.

At the time this neat piece of work apparently had no bearing on the result and I doubt if some of the fans remember it. Even so, it may have been the stopping of a dangerous rally.

"MULE" HAAS.

All through the series Grimm had been a much feared man at bat and the A's had studied him closely. It is almost uncanny how they called the turn on him at critical moments. Being a lefthanded hitter, a natural supposition would be that Grimm would hit generally toward right field. In one game, however, Grimm shoved a hit down the left foul line. Soon thereafter Simmons made a one-handed catch of his foul fly to left. This may have been the tip-off to Connie Mack, a keen student of the direction to which batters hit.

Haas Shifts for Grimm.

While the Cubs were still in the lead, Grimm went up in that seventh inning, with Walberg pitching. Walberg was using his fast one wth deadly effect. Haas stationed himself in dead center but suddenly he moved over toward left field—a shift that surprised baseball men present. I am inclined to give Connie Mack credit for moving him over there but, of course, we couldn't see into the dugout.

No sooner had Haas shifted than Grimm laced a beauty that started toward left center like a two-bagger. To the astonishment of the crowd Haas, bobbing up all of a sudden, was right under the ball and made a perfect catch in left center.

In my mind I could see Connie Mack moving Haas over there by a wave of his scorecard, and if he did, Connie is as much entitled to credit for that great play as Haas. There was nobody on base at the time and the side quickly went out.

A Really Smart Play.

The smartness of the play is that the A's after checking up the drives Grimm had made to left field, figured this to be the time, and they called the turn.

The shifting of fielders often is determined by whether the pitcher is a fast ball man or a curve pitcher. The fact that Walberg is a lefthander also had its effect. Against slower right handers, the A's moved the other way for Grimm. On one occasion they also got him in that direction.

On the great play I have just described, Haas got Grimm on the first ball pitched. He had changed his position just in time.

Louis) in one and two rounds, he went against Mastro in his first hard bout after his defeat by Martin. When he lost to Mastro it appeared that he was on the way down.

Shea started over again, fighting against opponents of lesser note. He won the newspaper decision here over Young Montreal in one of his matches. In recent bouts he has shown that he has regained the form that put him near the top before the Martin and Mastro reverses, with the result that he was the man sought as the logical contender for a championship fight with Bass.

Commission to Name Referee.

Matchmaker Packs said that the selection of a referee would be entirely in the hands of the State Commission. This is according to the State laws, but in some cases when a champion defends his title, he is permitted to name his own referee.

Such was the case in Bass' fight here with Abad. Despite the fact that St. Louis has at least two referees who are qualified to officiate in a championship match, Glassman insisted on bringing in Harry Ertle of Jersey City. This did not set well with the local fight-going public, some even maintaining it was because Bass was known to commit occasional fouls that he insisted on bringing in his own referee. In Bass' next fight, following the Abad event, he was disqualified for fouling, for the seventh time. The bout, with Sammy Fuller at Boston, was above the title weight and the title was not at stake.

Negotiations for the contest were concluded by Packs during a trip to Chicago, where he spent most of the past week conferring with managers of the fighters. A member of Packs' publicity staff said that Mique Malloy, who recently showed Primo Carnera at The Arena; Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium, and Billy Mitchell of Milwaukee, had offered Bass purse guarantees ranging from $15,000 to $20,000, and that Packs topped their bids. Packs refused to say what amount he guaranteed the fighters.

Decisions are not permitted under the State law, so Shea must either knockout Bass, or be awarded the bout on a foul, to take the championship.

HEIBEL TAKES LEAD IN CONGRESS CLASSIC

John Heibel bowled his way into first place last night in the Congress Open Classic on the Congress Alleys with a score of 1627. Heibel's high game was 245. Dave Knapp was close to the leader with a count of 1623. Dave rolled the high game of the day when he totaled 269 in his third game. To Coach Georgetown

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Appointment of Richard ("Red") Smith as baseball coach of Georgetown University was announced today by university officials. Smith graduated from Notre Dame in 1927 after playing three years of varsity baseball and football. He was with the New York Giants for a year as catcher, later going to Montreal in the International League and spending last year with the Boston Braves.

McGRAW LISTS CARDS AMONG CLUBS IN THE FLAG HUNT

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—JOHN McGRAW believes that the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburg Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals will be difficult assignments for his New York Giants during the 1930 National League baseball play.

McGraw arrived here today from Havana on route to San Antonio, where the Giants are gathering for spring training under his management.

He predicted that he would have a hard-fighting team, but at this stage would make no forecast as to the standing of his team at the end of the season.

MUNY BASKET SEMIFINALS SET TOMORROW NIGHT

The semifinal round in the elimination series of the men's Municipal Basketball League will be played tomorrow night at the St. Louis University Gymnasium. Two good games are scheduled with the Bell Accountants meeting the Los Angeles club at 8 o'clock and the Shells playing the Y. M. H. A. at 9 o'clock. The Accountants easily disposed of the D. A. Club Wednesday night, while the Celts almost defeated the Los Angeles team. This should prove to be an interesting game and unless the present holders of the city title show a reversal of their last game's form, the Bells will eliminate them from the running.

Both the Shells and the Y. M. H. A. won their last games easily and an exciting battle should result. These teams are on edge and in the best of condition.

Entire Huskie Crew Back.

The entire linemen of eight oarsmen who rowed Washington to second place in the Poughkeepsie are back this year.

EXTRA INNINGS by J. Roy Stockton

High Cost of Baseballs.

THE average bill of a major league ball club for baseballs, annually, is between $8000 and $10,000. That would have dumbfounded the financial geniuses of a few years ago, who used to engineer two or three baseballs through an entire contest, and at a time when a major league baseball cost the club owners about one buck.

In June, 1913, in a game between Cincinnati and Chicago, only ONE baseball was used in nine innings.

Last year the National League alone used 55,930 baseballs, an average for each game per club of 52. A great many of these baseballs were used in practice or training camp, however.

Not Bad Pitching.

IN THE great increase in the number of baseballs used lies a plausible explanation of the alleged pitching "weakness" and the hitting splurge of today.

The pitcher gets a new ball, smooth and hard to grip, every few minutes of the game. The batter hits a ball which, throughout the game, is high in visibility and always resilient.

In the days of the dirty ball, the constant pounding by the batters destroyed its resilience, lowered its visibility and made it far easier to pitch effectively.

If the average baseballs per club dropped from 52 to 25 or fewer, for the season, the pitching probably would come back and the batting go back, noticeably.

Some Boner.

ONE heard little during the off season about that great baseball player, Rabbit Maranville. He will again be with Boston next season, but not as he had hoped—as leader under a two-year contract. Once more he will be in the ranks, as shortstop, and again under Bill McKechnie, who got the job because the Rabbit fumbled a hot one sent straight at him.

That was when Owner Fuchs in mid-season last year wanted to send Rabbit West with the team in the role of temporary or trial manager. Rabbit went on his dignity and wanted a contract outright as manager.

He thereby kicked Old Man Opportunity right where he was about to sit down. The controversy, which reached the newspapers, angered Fuchs, who called off the deal entirely, hiring McKechnie at the end of the season.

A little diplomacy on the part of Maranville might have won him the job. However, the Braves still have a great shortstop, and it's something of a guess whether it would have an equally great manager had he been given the post.

Johnny (Peewee) Kaiser, popular St. Louis featherweight, and Lou Terry of South St. Louis, have trained down to their best fighting weights for the feature match of Tuesday night's professional boxing show at the Coliseum, according to Tommy Sullivan, matchmaker for the Frederick Stockham Post of the American Legion.

Kaiser, who will enter the ring weighing 128 pounds, will be outweighed five pounds owing to the fact that he agreed to permit Terry to weigh 133 pounds the night of the fight.

Terry's record shows he has not suffered a setback in two years. The most outstanding fighter he has defeated is Eddie Anderson of Casper, Wyo., whom he outpointed in an Indianapolis ring. Bob Riley, manager of the 23-year-old Carondelet boxer, claims that Terry has never been knocked off his feet in 57 matches. Among the battlers he stopped in one round are Walter (Red) Roland of St. Louis, and Jimmy Hackley, slugging Indianapolis featherweight.

Kaiser Won Five Straight.

Kaiser has won his last five matches. After he put up a game battle with Eddie Shea, Chicago's slugging Italian, several months ago, he knocked out Kid Clark, of Scott Field; outpointed Pete Zivic, Pittsburg veteran, and Kid Lencho, Mexican fighter, and scored two decisions over Marvin (Kid) Woods, of Indianapolis, on points and the other on a knockout.

Chico Cisneros, rugged Mexican featherweight, who will trade blows with Billy De Foe, veteran St. Paul boxer, in the third 10-round battle, checked in town yesterday and engaged in a stiff workout at the Olympic gymnasium. The Mexican scrapper jumped rope and worked the pulleys prior to sparring with Pete White, a local puncher, in a four-round session. He appeared to be in fine physical condition. For the past three months Cisneros has been boxing regularly in and around Little Rock, Ark.

Prenzel Due Today.

Matchmaker Sullivan stated that Kurt Prenzel, former German welterweight champion, will arrive this morning and hold a workout at the Olympic gymnasium in preparation for his 10-round battle with Little Jackie Horner, St. Louis fighter. Prenzel, according to word sent here, held the German belt for six years before he came to this country. Horner added another victory to his list last Wednesday night when he stopped the southpaw Jack Donovan, of Chicago, in an early round, at Springfield, Ill.

Jackie Davis, youthful Springfield, Ill., lightweight, who owns an impressive record, arrived last night for his six-round scrap with Corp. William Rothermel, of Jefferson Barracks. The four-round curtain-raiser will show two Negro battlers in action.

Sullivan reports a satisfactory advance sale of tickets, claiming that $2500 worth of tickets have been purchased.

PARNELL BOUND, MISSOURI BRED, LEADS DERBY ELIGIBLES IN VICTORIES

WON 12 RACES AS 2-YEAR-OLD; FLYING HEELS LIKELY FAVORITE

A Missouri-bred horse, Parnell Bound, stands at the top of the list as the most frequent winner among the 149 entries for the fifty-sixth renewal of the Kentucky Derby, to be contested at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., on May 17. Parnell Bound won 12 races as a 2-year-old, five more than the probable Derby favorite, Flying Heels. Like almost every horse bred at Ben Jones' stock farm, Parnell Bound has the blood of the great sire Seth. He is by Nutcracker-Princess Seth.

Flying Heels, with seven victories in 10 starts, has a better winning average than Parnell Bound and it is also true that Gifford Cochran's colt conquered a higher class of horses than those that succumbed to the Missouri horse. Flying Heels' purse winnings total $79,460, whereas Parnell Bound earned only $13,570.

The Audley Farm's Gallant Knight also won seven races last season, but he started 18 times and was out of the money six times.

Sidney Grant, owned by Bartlestein and Unna, was the "iron horse" of the lot. He was started 38 times and won only three races.

Lightning Jones, which has had the advantage of actual competition at New Orleans this winter, is quite familiar with the starting gate for he has gone to the barrier 25 times. His record is impressive in that he has won eight races, some of them recently.

The 2-year-old performances of Derby candidates are not necessarily a criterion of how the horse will run in the 3-year-old stakes. Sixteen of the horses entered have never gone to the post and out of the group of 52 maidens may come the winner.

Women will make a big bid for Derby honors this year, as nine members of the fair sex have made nominations. Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt of New York, owner of the Fair Stable, has the most pretentious condidates among the turfwomen in Desert Light, winner of the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes last fall, and Sarazen II. Desert Light won $32,230 in 1929 while Sarazen II accounted for $26,500.

Son of Derby Winner, Favored to Win the Derby

FLYING HEELS,
Whose sire, Flying Ebony, won the Kentucky Classic after having been quoted at 50 to 1 in the winter books. Flying Heels is equal favorite for the 1930 race with Gallant Fox and Spinach.

Bears Meet Tigers Tomorrow

The Washington University basketball team goes on its final road trip this week, meeting Missouri at Columbia, tomorrow, and Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater, Thursday. The game with the Aggies will close the Bears' Missouri Valley Conference schedule.

It is not expected that Kingsley Weintge, a guard, will be able to make the trip with the squad, since he is still troubled by tonsilitis. Weintge was able to get up yesterday, but Coach Don White stated that the big guard probably would have to stay at home.

White also added that he may change his lineup against the Tigers, if Bert Springer's foot, which was injured in the game with the Oklahoma Aggies, does not show an improvement. If Springer does not start, Ray Duncan will be the guard chosen to play opposite John Lichtenfeldt. The forward line will be the same, with Red Ted Saussele at one position and Burt Constance at the other. Ed "Moose" Meyer will be the center.

In addition to the regular five, Harvey Jablonsky, Don Whitehouse and Bob Houghtlin will travel with the Bears.

Missouri owns one decision over the local team, having won, 33 to 30, in the first meeting. The Bears had little trouble subduing the Oklahoma Aggies and should finish the conference campaign with another victory to its credit.

Collins Drove in 134 Runs.

Jimmy Collins, Rochester first baseman, drove in 134 runs last year, 10 less than Dale Alexander, now with the Tigers, drove in the year before for Toronto.

ISLAM, AT 20 TO 1, SETS MIAMI MARK IN HANDICAP

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—Islam, recently acquired by Jack Howard, upset all dope by romping away with the Miami Jockey Club Handicap here this afternoon. Islam was ridden by Dainty and was quoted at 20 to 1. Sandyford, in M. Shea's silks, was second, and J. McGee's Fairy Maiden third. A. W. Wenzel's Low Gear was fourth.

The victory of Islam was the first that horse had scored in months and it was a distinct surprise to the 15,000 race fans who journeyed to the track. Islam created a new track record for the nine furlongs by stepping it in 1:50 1-5.

Near By and Partisan, coupled as the G. D. Widener entry, failed to show anything worth while and finished away back. Molasses Jane, also a well-played mare, failed to show in the picture.

Sandyford, with his brilliant early speed, ran into the lead, followed by Islam and Molasses Jane. Sandyford led to the stretch where Islam got in front and won by two lengths. Sandyford took the place by five lengths over Fairy Maiden.

The fractional time was as follows: 23 3-5, :47 3-5; 1:12 4-5, 1:37 3-5 and 1:50 1-5.

Webster Defeats Maplewood, 16-13

Webster High School's basketball team surprised last night when it defeated Maplewood, County League champions, 16 to 13 on the Webster floor, in a game which required an extra period.

Maplewood's regular center, Brossard, was out of the game because of an injury.

Hicks and Nisbet scored field goals in the overtime session to give Webster the victory. These two each scored 5 points for Webster, while Miller, with six points, led Maplewood in scoring.

The box score:

DUPO AND MADISON TIED FOR LEAD IN CAHOKIA LEAGUE

The Dupo Community High School, by virtue of a 48-to-28 victory over O'Fallon Friday night, went into a tie with Madison for the lead in the Cahokia Conference basketball race. Each team has won 10 of 12 games.

Morris, with nine field goals and seven free throws, for a total of 25 points, led the Dupo scorers. Coffman of Dupo and Niedereiker of O'Fallon each scored five field and two free goals.

ANDRESITO WINS FEATURE EVENT AT HAVANA

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 22.—The Cherry Tree honors at Oriental Park today went to the locally owned Calmito Stable when Andresito, ridden by J. Guerra, outlasted E. E. McCallum's Cadet in the final strides, with Baltimore a fast closing third. Going to the far turn Andresito was under urging and darted away from opposition, opened up a safe lead. Cadet found an opening on the inner rail, slipped through entering the stretch while Baltimore was gaining steadily. Andresito began to falter in the final sixteenth but Cadet was unfortunate in having been taken to the outside and in the final strides was going strongest of all and would have been winner in a few more yards. Baltimore closed steadily and was a bang-up third.

The Valley Forge claiming affair at six furlongs witnessed a triumph for L. B. Councill's Carolman, ridden by J. Judy, while Clifton's Maid raced to place with Motor Chief a fast going third. The victory completed a double for Judy, who previously rode Phi Delta. The weather was ideal and the track was slowly drying out.

WESTMINSTER WINS M. C. A. U. BASKET TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FAYETTE, Mo., Feb. 22.—Central College today relinquished all claim to the basketball championship of the Missouri College Athletic Union when the effect of the ineligibility of McBride of Drury was learned to be retroactive, thus giving Westminster a perfect record. Central College lost yesterday to Rolla and a previous game to William Jewell, which places the Eagles in second place.

PESEK-LONDOS MATCH WINNER TO GET $12,000

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22.—Al Haft, manager of John Pesek, heavyweight wrestler who is matched to meet Jim Londos of St. Louis in a world's championship match under the direction of the National Boxing Association at Columbus, March 12, agreed here today to change the terms of the original Columbus bid to permit the winner to receive 60 per cent and the loser 40 per cent of the $20,001 purse. Under the new terms, the winner will get $12,003.

The original terms of the Columbus Athletic Club bid called for Pesek to receive $12,001 and Londos $8000, win or lose. Ed White, Chicago, manager of Londos, refused to accept the original terms of the match and suggested a 60-40 division. N. B. A. officials, who prevailed upon Haft to change the terms, were endeavoring today to reach White to learn if he will accept the new offer.

The championship wrestling committee of the N. B. A., it was announced today, will meet at Memphis, Tenn., March 3, to choose a referee for the Columbus match and attend to other important wrestling matters.

A diamond belt, emblematic of the world welterweight wrestling championship, was presented to Jack Reynolds, winner of the Reynolds-Charley Grip match for the title at Music Hall Sports Arena, list night.

A similar belt will be given by the National Boxing Association to each winner of a championship held under the auspices of the association. The Reynolds-Grip match was the first of a series of three or four championship battles to be decided.

Other world championship matches to be decided under the auspices of the N. B. A. headquarters here are the Pesek-Londos match at Columbus and one between Hugh Nichols and the winner of a Pinky Gardner-Joe Banaskie match at Schenectady, N. Y.

First elimination match for the world's middleweight wrestling championship was set today to be held in Des Moines, Ia., March 10. Gus Kallio, Finland, and Ralph Paracaut, Spencer, Ia., will be the principals. The decision was made by the N. B. A. here at a public opening of competitive bids. Earl Conrald, Des Moines, promoter, made the highest offer, $5000.

Coen Beaten by English Net Star

BEAULIEU, France, Feb. 22.—H. W. Austin, English Davis Cup star, defeated Wilbur F. Coen Jr. of Kansas City, America's eighth ranking player, in the semifinals of the Beaulieu tennis tournament today by scores of 6—0, 0—6, 8—6 in a match marked by "Gaston and Alphonse" tactics.

Coen got into the prima donna class by throwing the girst set when Austin was an hour later in arriving, and the Englishman returned the compliment by winning the second set. Then they both settled down to hard battle with Austin winning out.

In the doubles semifinals, Bill Tilden, the American champion, and Coen defeated Louis Worms and Von Kehaling by scores of 2—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Sansone to Box Moore at Overland

Joey Sansone, Olympic A. C. lightweight, who is a brother of the rugged Mike Sansone, and Farrell Moore, Barney McCarthy's promising fighter, have signed articles to meet in one of the five special matches on next Tuesday night's amateur boxing program at the Knights of Columbus hall, 2400 Woodson road, in Overland, St. Louis County, George Wilsman, Matchmaker for the Overland Athletic Club, announced last night.

Another match will bring together Clifford Doetzel, former Western A. A. U. flyweight champion, and Woodrow Williams, holder of the district bantamweight crown.

Mike Sansone has been coaching his youthful brother for the past few months and states he is a promising fighter. Both Joey and his foe, Moore, are slam-bang scrappers and it is expected that the match will end in a kayo.

Doetzel and Williams have met on two former occasions, with the former winning both battles by close margins. The first meeting was a thriller from start to finish. Going into the final round, the battlers were even on points and a belated rally enabled Doetzel to take the verdict. Williams also made the going interesting in the last bout two weeks ago at the South Broadway A. C., but dropped the decision owing to two knockdowns.

Matchmaker Wilsman has a list of fighters signed for the other matches. Among the scrappers who are willing to box at the opening county show are Jesse Pitts, Elmer Howell, Merrill Gilbert and Billy Williams, Olympic A. C.; Harry Greb, Doaa A. C.; Jimmy Garry, Overland A. C., and Farrell Thompson, Tower A. C.

The show will be held under the auspices of the Mississippi Valley Athletic Association.

HELLRUNGS OPPOSE TABLERS IN U. S. SOCCER CUP MATCH TODAY

EFENSE WILL E TESTED ON OTH SIDES; MUD NO HANDICAP

Although mud will serve to take me of the color out of today's ccer cup game at Sportsman's k, it is not likely to effect the tcome of the match in which hnny Marre's Tablers will op- se Tate Brady's Hellrungs. The nner of the game will represent Louis in a Western division mifinal on March 2.

Both clubs have gone well in the d. Heavy footing cuts down effectiveness of small men, as so strikingly demonstrated last nday, when the Ben Millers iled to function against the blers, but there is only one light- ight on each of the contending ubs today, to wit, Harry Boch- eek, at inside right for the blers, and Eddie Hart, at inside t for the Hellrungs.

Picking the winner is no easy k, but there is no question that re will be goals scored on both sides. Tight though the Hellrung defense has been (letting through only 19 goals in 12 games) the Tablers are sure to find a way of penetrating it at least once. At the other end of the field, Sam Dueker, too, will have to dig the ball out of the net at least once. Either team is capable of scoring a flock of goals if it gets things moving just right.

Jim Cronin, former Municipal League and U. S. Olympic team member, will start at center forward for Marre's club but in view of the heavy condition of the field it is probable that he will give way in the second half to Harry Ratican or John Prindable. Cronin has suffered from ill health this season and is not as heavy and strong as he was a year ago when the gave promise of becoming a really great center forward.

Cronin will have his old Olympic squad teammate, John Kane, feeding him from center halfback. Two youngsters, Dorley and McGirl will form the fullback line of the Tablers but in all other positions Marre has veteran timber, including the perennial star outside right, Al McHenry.

Halfbacks the Key Men.

The Irish-German-Jewish halfback line of the Hellrungs, consisting of O'Hara, Lehman and Tuvil, may have the winning or losing of the game upon its shoulders. If this trio plays at top form the Tabler forward line will rarely get the ball under complete control.

Robert Murphy, who is "Ribby" to soccer fans, will blow the starting whistle at 3 p. m. sharp.

ENGLISH RUGBY TEAM DEFEATS FRENCH, 11-5

By the Associated Press.

TWICKENHAM, Feb. 22.—England beat France by a score of 11 to 5 in an international rugby match today. Prince George and Prince Arthur of Connaught were among the 55,000 spectators at the exciting struggle. England held a slim lead of 6 to 5 at half time but steadily increased its score in the second period while holding the French scoreless.

KOLSTERS AND SCHENBERGS ARE FAVORITES IN SOCCER PROGRAM

If Saturday's rain ceases before noon today, a capacity crowd will probably view the Municipal Soccer League elimination matches at Fairground Park this afternoon. A well-balanced program is offered in which the champions of four public parks groups compete for the right to meet in the grand final. The Kolsters, title winners in Group 2 at Fairground, are expected to win from the Cook A. C., champions of Sherman Park, in the opening game, and the Schenbergs, Carondelet flag winners, will be favorites in their match with the Longos, champions of Group 3 at Fairground.

While it is conceded that John Scully has a very promising team of youngsters in the Cook A. C., the greater experience of the Kolsters seems to give the latter club the edge. A year from today, if the Cooks stick together, they will be formidable title contenders. It would be folly for the Kolsters to take their young opponents lightly, for the Cooks may upset the dope.

Composed almost entirely of former professional league players, the Longos appear on paper a better club than the Schenbergs, but the South Side team has the advantage of better cohesion, smoother team play and youth. This game is certain to bring out stirring situations, promising a busy afternoon for Referee Dick Wall.

Starting time of the first game is 1:15 p. m. and of the second game 3:15.

SCHENBERGS FAVORED TO BEAT CRYSTAL CITY IN GIRLS' TITLE GAME

One of the hardest-fought games of the season is expected Wednesday night when the Crystal City and Schenberg clubs, tied for first place, clash for the championship of the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball Association, at Crystal City. In a contest that has no bearing on first place, the Bachelors will meet the Headlights.

The Schenbergs will hold a practice session at Battery A today, followed by another workout tomorrow, in anticipation of a hard battle. Crystal City expects to be bolstered by the return of its two stars, the Politte sisters, who have been unable to play lately because of being vaccinated. Two hard drills have been scheduled by the "Red Devils," who are eager to win before the large home turnout.

Thousands of smokers say "10 cents for cigars is just a Habit"...

They used to think they had to pay 10¢ for a mild, sweet, thoroughly contenting smoke . . . until they met WHITE OWL.

Now they realize that 3 for 20 cents is enough. In fact to pay more than that is a habit from the days of small production and hand-made cigars.

WHITE OWL is machine-made of fine tobacco in a generous size, foil-wrapped to hold all the flavor. To convince yourself, compare.

CONCORDIA WINS OVER KIRKSVILLE TEACHERS, 33-26

Concordia Seminary won its seventh consecutive basketball game last night, defeating the Kirksville State Teachers, 33 to 26, at the Armory. About 400 persons saw the contest.

Concordia had a lead of 16 to 14 at the half and increased it to 20 to 14, before the Teachers did any more scoring. The lead was cut down and Kirksville went ahead on Frank Bigsby's two field goals, which made the score 22 to 21 in favor of Kirksville. Harold Brauer's field goal put Concordia into a lead which never was relinquished.

The game was rough at times, although Capt. Bigsby of the visiting team was the only player ejected because of personal fouls. The Teachers had 16 fouls called against them and Concordia 11.

Substitutions were as numerous as the fouls, a total of 23 players getting into the game. Of these Concordia had 11, including Lambert Mehl and Spitzenfeil, who had been on the injured list.

Bigsby was the high-point scorer with three field and three free goals, for a total of nine points. Wilbert Werling led the winners with two field and four free goals for eight points. "Hoss" Brauer, who played a nice floor game, scored three times from scrimmage and once from the foul line.

National A. A. U. Handball Meet Begins Tomorrow

St. Louis' second national four-wall handball tournament in a week will get under way tomorrow morning, with the A. A. U. meet at the Young Men's Hebrew Association. Sixty-three of the leading handball players of the country will play in the singles and doubles matches. Twenty players who played in the national Y. M. C. A. tournament last week have entered the A. A. U. classic.

Alfred Banuet of the Olympic A. C. of San Francisco, National A. A. U. champion, will defend his title. Ward McMillan of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who, with Banuet, holds the national doubles title, will not attend the tournament, and A. W. Paynter of the Olympic Club will pair with Banuet in the doubles.

Merrit A. Bates of Columbus, O., who won the National Y. M. C. A. singles title yesterday afternoon, is entered in the tournament, along with Otto Berg of Toledo, who played Bates for the title. Sam Johnston and Sam Atcheson of Memphis, the new Y. M. C. A. doubles champions, also are entered.

Other leading players in the tournament include George Quam, the one-armed Minneapolis star; B. Markwell of Kansas City, G. McArthey of Detroit, J. Powers of Los Angeles; Ben Jacobs, Dr. Senitella, C. B. Bergherm and H. F. Grobe of Chicago; Mike Cunningham and Robert M. Larmore of St. Louis.

The pairings will be made today.

SCHAFFER TO MEET M'DERMOTT IN SPECIAL GO AT SOUTH BROADWAY

An inter-club bout between Carl Schaffer of the South Broadway A. C. and Tim McDermott of the Olympian A. C. was announced last night by Matchmaker Willie Miller as one of the special events on Thursday night's amateur boxing card at the South Broadway arena.

Schaffer is rated one of the foremost featherweight punchers in local amateur circles, having dropped only two decisions in 26 bouts.

McDermott, although a newcomer in tourney competition, has had a year's experience in sparring workouts with Pete White and Paul Steadman, local professionals. The Olympian A. C. ringster celebrated his debut in active competition two weeks ago with a victory over Mike Logaglio, a flashy South Side scrapper, who previously had four successive triumphs to his credit.

Another feature attraction on Thursday night's program will bring together Ernest Doorac of the South Broadway club, and Carl Holst of the Olympian squad, in a heavyweight special. Doorac won his last four engagements, scoring knockouts in three of them. Russ Conklin, Edward Drouhe and Stanley Schulz were his kayo victims. Holst fought his way to near-championship honors in the last Western A. A. U. tourneys last year, winning five out of six bouts.

A Carload Purchase of 1930 Steinite Screen-Grid Radios at an Extremely Low Price

Complete... Installed in Your Home... Ready to Operate.. $78

Steinite Radios—always one of America's foremost values . . . now becomes doubly so through this fortunate purchase. Incorporating all the newest improvements, and enclosed in a Steinite cabinet of more than usual beauty—this Radio represents, in our opinion, an outstanding value. Inasmuch as we were able to secure just 137 sets to offer at this remarkable price—we urge you to make your selection early to avoid disappointment.

Three Screen-Grid Tubes
(A Total of 7 Tubes)

Push-Pull Audio Power Stage With "245" Tubes

Real Humless Reception

Exceptional Tone Fidelity

The Steinite set is manufactured completely in Steinite's own factories—each part is matched, resulting in a perfectly balanced product. The output of the set matches the in-put capacity of the speaker . . . even the acoustical properties of the cabinet are designed to bring out the best in tone quality. Steinite Sets are time tested—for Steinite marketed the first successful all-electric set and has specialized in this field for the last five years. The fact that over a million Steinite all-electric sets are operating in American homes today, is your assurance of complete satisfaction. This set brings a new life and beauty to every note—room-filling volume free from distortion—outstanding performance—and ruggedness of construction that means durability and long life.

British Passenger Airplane Safeguards Stricter, American Record Better, Official Says

Maj. Clarence M. Young Contrasts 25 Craft Operated by Imperial Airways With 600 in U. S. on Regular Schedule.

A COMPARISON of the British and American requirements safeguarding airplane passengers on established flying routes was made by Major Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, while in St. Louis last week for the international aircraft exposition.

CLARENCE
M. YOUNG.

WALTER E. SCHMIDT-REX

"In comparing the regulation of commercial flying in the United States and Europe," Major Young said, "it must be borne in mind that in our country we have been regulating commercial flying for but three years, during which there has been an orderly development of airways, radio and weather service. The scope of operations extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to Mexico, and includes 96 aircraft manufacturers, 25 engine makers and 27 major air lines, each operated as a private enterprise. In Europe there are two major air transportation companies, The Imperial Airways Limited of England, and the Deutsche Luft Hansa, each with a central base of operations. With these facts in mind the comparative difficulties of regulation may be readily understood, and I am free to say that American manufacturers and operators, with a few exceptions, are making an enviable record."

"The supervision of aircraft in the United States as in England, begins with plans for a proposed plane," Major Young continued. "In England it is the Air Ministry that passes on plans. In this country the experts of the Department of Commerce must approve the plans before the first fuselage is laid down. Our inspectors are in every factory, keeping a close watch on production. Each new model is subjected to a rigid test flight by a Government pilot, and any change from the approved plan must be submitted to the Department and later subjected to tests in flight. Practically the same careful system is employed in England."

Pilot Regulations Compared.

For the protection of the American public, the Secretary explained, all approved type planes are marked "C" on wing and fuselage. An experimental type is marked "X," and is not to be used in transport service. A license card specifying the prescribed load is to be found in the cabin of an approved type ship and passengers are free to examine it.

"Pilot requirements in England appear more stringent at first glance than in the United States," said Major Young after reading a London News article in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, in which Government safeguards for commercial flying were discussed.

"The British transport pilot must have 1000 flying hours before he is eligible for license, while in the United States the student with 200 hours training may take the transport examination," he continued. "That does not necessarily mean that he will be licensed, and it is practically certain that he will not be placed in charge of a plane in regular service until his air experience equals or exceeds that of the British pilot. One requirement of the British pilot not in effect in the United States is that he have a second class navigator's license. The American transport pilot must pass an examination on navigation and meteorology, but is not licensed for navigation. Our transport men, like the British, are required to be able to use radio and other facilities for their assistance, and are examined for their knowledge of engines and the stress to which a plane can be subjected. Perfect physical condition is necessary and physical examination begins before a flying student begins his instruction and continues periodically throughout the pilot's career.

Rigid British Inspection.

"British supervision of transport craft in service is still more rigid than in the United States, but again it must be borne in mind that the Imperial Airways Limited operates with 25 craft, while in the United States there are more than 600 planes in daily service on regular schedule. At Croydon planes are inspected before each flight by licensed mechanics, who search for defects in engines, craft and instruments. Careful operators in the United States check their planes similarly after every round trip over a line. The difference in the inspection system is that in England the plane is subject to independent inspection at any time by the aeronautical inspection directorate of the Government. Planes in service are inspected by Government experts in the United States only after a major overhaul, or repairs made after a crash.

"The development of lighted airways, radio, and weather service as aids to safety has been intelligently carried on by the Department of Commerce. Although all passenger planes in this country are not now equipped with radio, as are those of the British, the time is coming when such equipment will be required, as was predicted by Herbert Hoover Jr., at one of the technical meetings held here. The Government will continue an orderly development of radio and weather reporting facilities, but should an operator choose to start in new line over territory where these safety measures have not been provided by the Government he will have to install radio and weather stations at his own expense.

"Rules governing operations in bad weather are the same in the United States as in Europe. If a pilot decides the weather is too bad to fly, no one can order him to take off. The company, however, reserves the right to refuse a pilot permission to fly under unfavorable conditions."

Major Young called attention to commercial flying operations in the United States last year, as set forth in statistics of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Passengers, mail and express were flown on an average of 90,000 miles daily, one-fourth of the operation being at night. Although the number of transport operators dropped from 32 to 27 due to consolidations, the number of planes in service jumped from 294 in 1928 to 619 last year. Miles flown in scheduled operations totaled 20,242,890, as compared with 10,472,000 in 1928. Passenger business on lines throughout the country tripled, the number of persons carried last year being 165,263. Mail poundage doubled the 1928 figures, totaling 7,096,930 pounds, and express carried was reported at 197,538 pounds. In all this operation the fatality record was but one death for every 1,200,000 miles flown.

Record Less Impressive.

The Imperial Airways record shows 5,457,000 miles flown in the five years and nine months of the company's existence. Passengers carried numbered 132,633 persons, less than were carried last year in the United States, and the fatality record is one death for every 303,000 miles flown. In England the Government conducts a searching inquiry into air crashes. This is also done in the United States and the Federal policy with regard to making public such findings will be changed shortly, it is expected. The theory in the past has been that witnesses will not speak openly when they know their testimony may become public.

"Air transportation in the United States appears to have a bright future and I can assure the operators of full co-operation from the Government," said Major Young. "Competition will bring success to the careful operator and serve to eliminate those who are less careful as the public becomes more air-intelligent."

The difference between commercial flying operation in Europe and the United States with reference to Government subsidy was discussed briefly by Major Young.

"The Imperial Airways Limited received about $1,770,000 from the Government for the current fiscal year, and the German Luft Hansa was handed about $4,000,000 last year by its Government, he said. The American operators are seeking no subsidy and at present are carrying passengers at an unprofitable rate in order to educate the public to air travel."

What the Byrd Expedition Accomplished

Geography, Geology and Meteorology Enriched By Hazardous Flights and Sledging Journeys

Mountain Ranges Discovered and Surveyed With Aerial Camera—Plane Trip Over Pole Nov. 28—Nonexistence of Carmen Land Established.

More Than 1,000,000 Words Were Sent and Received by Radio — Important Work Done in Recording Magnetic Conditions.

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1930, by the New York Times and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

This story is published in St. Louis exclusively in the Post-Dispatch. All news articles from the Byrd party or from special correspondents assigned to it will appear only in the Post-Dispatch in this city.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica.

THE most important accomplishments of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition have been the exploration flights on which new mountain ranges have been found and a new land discovered; the geological sledging journey to the Queen Maud Range, which has yielded rich results in an entirely new field, and the aerial surveying by means of which the tangible discoveries on the flights will be brought back to civilization. Important meteorological, magnetic and other work has also been done.

Admiral Byrd feels that the results of the flights and sledging journeys have been more than he had anticipated. The finding of the new mountain range to the northeast on the last flight, while not entirely unexpected, was a much greater discovery than he had hoped for. As a matter of fact, one of the odd things about the flights has been that in areas where discoveries of land were looked for nothing was found, and where Admiral Byrd did not expect to find much except ice-covered islands and a low-lying coast a magnificent mountain range popped out of the ice-rimmed sea.

The entire area surveyed by aerial camera has been conservatively estimated at 150,000 square miles, and the area seen on the flights is probably much larger, for the camera was not used on all the eastern flights of last year. That is a huge territory, probably a much greater territory than was ever discovered or surveyed by one expedition, because of the efficiency of the airplane for this work. When added to this area is that included by the geological party to the east, the extent of the operations becomes indeed large.

Penetrates New Area.

THE first flights were made the day the Fairchild plane was tested last year on Jan. 15. On that day Admiral Byrd made a short exploration flight along the coast toward Discovery Inlet, on which he was able to see far into the interior because of the excellent visibility. It was a district into which no one had hitherto penetrated, for although there have been many ships in Discovery Inlet and in the Bay of Whales, nobody had gone inland between these two points.

His first real exploration flight was to the northeast in the hope of reaching land north of King Edward VII Land, the land which holds in the great curving ice sheet to the north and west. That had always been one of his major objectives. After passing the Scott Nunataks, however, he found low clouds barring his passage and was forced to turn south.

Even at that time, however, he thought he saw clouds around the peak of a distant mountain to the northeast, although he was not sure that it was not a mirage or mere cloud bank such as deceives the eye in polar regions. But shortly after he turned south he saw rising before him the tops of a new mountain range which began about 50 miles south of the Nunataks and curves south and west in the shape of a crescent. This was the Rockefeller Range.

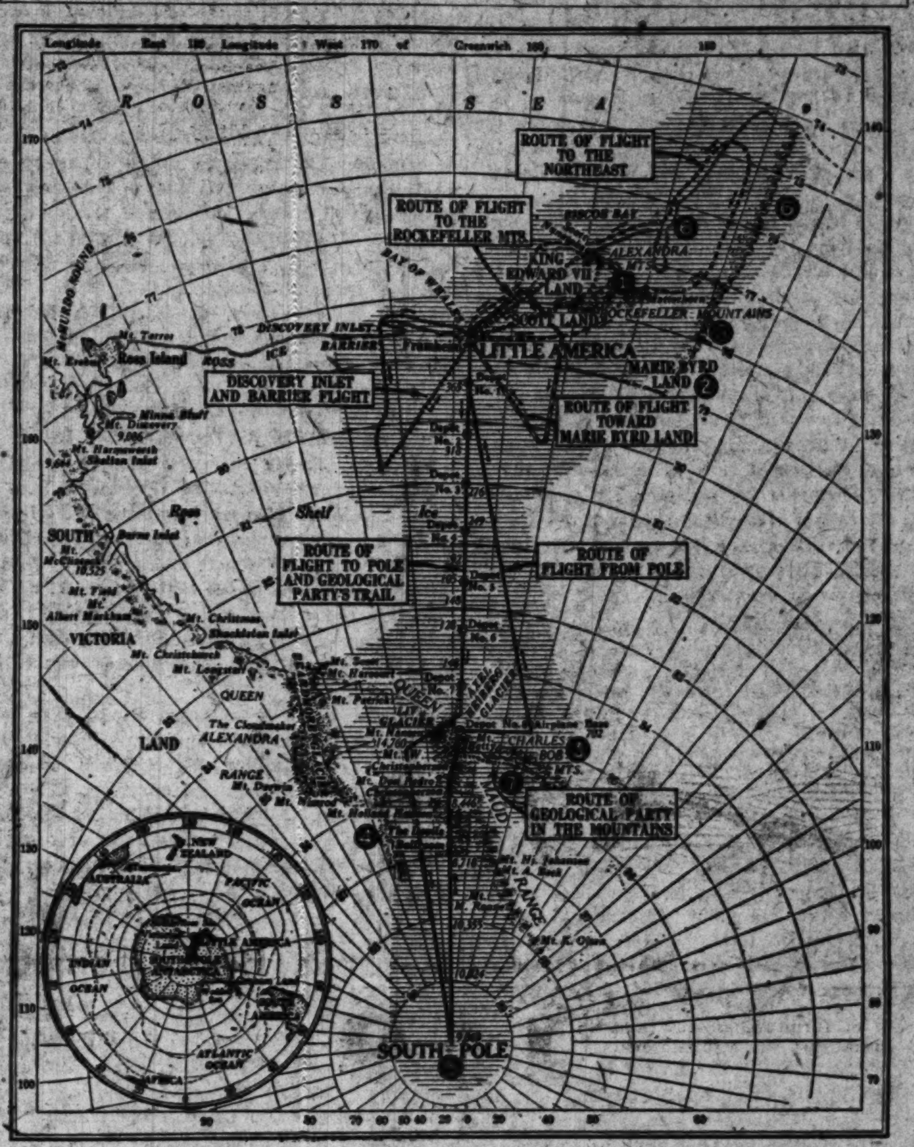
Sees New Mountain.

A SECOND time, on Feb. 18, he tried to penetrate to the mystery in the northeast, flying this time with two planes, the Fairchild and the Fokker, but again was turned back by thick weather. On turning south, however, he saw a mountain to the east beyond the Rockefellers and other signs of land in an area he named Marie Byrd Land. He kept on to the south far beyond the point reached on the former flight and saw what he thought to be a rising barrier, indicating land. It was for this reason that he was inclined to believe that on the flights south he would confirm Amundsen's appearance of land at about 82 degrees south.

That ended the exploration flying for the season, although Capt. McKinley made a surveying flight to the Rockefeller Range and mapped these mountains. Later Dr. Gould flew over there in the ill-fated Fokker, and by means of observations on the ground definitely located the range and also obtained some geological specimens which indicated to him that the mountains were formed of material similar to the low-lying Alexandra Range, further north. It was on this trip that the Fokker was destroyed in a terrific storm and Admiral Byrd rescued the stranded geological party by a dangerous flight late in the season.

The area between King Edward VII Land and Lat. 80 degrees 70 minutes S., west of the 150th meridian, which marks the boundary of the Ross Dependency, was named for Capt. Robert Falcon Scott.

Areas of Antarctica Explored by the Byrd Expedition



From basic data and interpretations supplied by the American Geographical Society of New York.

THE shaded area on this map and the black area in the inset represent the extent of the territory explored and observed by Admiral Byrd and his associates. The outstanding achievements, in chronological order, are indicated by the numerals and are the following: 1—Discovery of the Rockefeller Mountains, Jan. 27, 1929. 2—Discovery of Marie Byrd Land, Feb. 18, 1929. 3—Discovery of Charles Bob Mountains on depot-laying flight, Nov. 18, 1929. 4—Discovery of new mountain range on flight to South Pole, Nov. 28, 1929. 5—Conquest of the South Pole by airplane, Nov. 29, 1929. 6—Discovery of Barrier Inlet and vast coastal mountain range on flight to the Northeast, Dec. 5, 1929. 7—Route of geological party through the mountains, this journey resulting in the accumulation of much scientific data and the erasure of Amundsen's Carmen Land from the chart of Antarctica.

Flight Towards Pole.

THE first flying this season was directed toward the pole, as that was the most difficult from a flight standpoint because of the distance to be covered and the altitude at which the plane would have to fly to pass over the Polar Plateau. It was preceded by a base-laying flight on Nov. 18 to the Queen Maud Range, for it was found that the load limit imposed by altitude would make it necessary to refuel the plane at the mountains on the return flight.

On this trip it was hoped that a view of the land supposed to lie east of the trail in Lat. 82 degrees S., would be seen and that a view would be obtained of Carmen Land. Much to Admiral Byrd's surprise, not only did he not see the two mountains which Amundsen reported having seen in Lat. 82, but there was also no sign of Carmen Land. High-pressure ridges running out into the Barrier from the foot of the Queen Maud Range were traced far to the east, and it was suspected that in poor visibility this pressure had formerly been mistaken for land.

A base was established to the west of Axel Heiberg Glacier, about five miles north of a mountain which, despite its size, was only one of the foothills of the mighty range behind it, and fuel and food were left there. On the way home loss of fuel from a number of causes compelled a forced landing on rough surface just north of the pressure ridges at 81 degrees 10 minutes south. The plane in camp was flown out to the larger ship with gasoline, and after two trips the big ship was again started and reached its home field at midnight on the 20th. It was on this flight that Admiral Byrd saw the mountains which he named the Charles Bob Mountains.

Pole by Midnight.

THE polar flight was started in the afternoon of Nov. 28 and the pole was reached after midnight. The route south was up Liv Glacier, to the right of Axel Heiberg, and the plane barely forced its way over the top of the pass after food had been thrown overboard to lighten it. From there the route lay straight to the pole, and after it had been reached the plane flew on a course that would insure passing close to the pole before turning and heading for home. In returning, it passed over the Axel Heiberg Glacier and reached the Ross Barrier, where it landed at the mountain base and refueled. An hour was spent there and the plane returned to Little America after 17 hours and 39 minutes in the air.

The nonexistence of Carmen Land was confirmed on this flight and the visibility was so good that Admiral Byrd was able to see far to the eastward. On the Polar Plateau he found that the Queen Maud range was much more broken up than had been assumed. He also saw a new mountain range on the plateau running approximately from latitude 85 degrees 30 minutes south and longitude 178 east to latitude 87 degrees 15 minutes, longitude 177 degrees east. This mountain range is west of a small range already on the charts between the trails of Amundsen and Scott. All positions given are approximate and will be more definitely located when the charts are made.

The next long flight, and perhaps the most important flight made was that to the northeast on Dec. 5, when a new mountain range, high and running for at least 250 miles before it vanished in the southeast, was found. It apparently forms the eastern side of the Ross Sea, corresponding to the great mountain ranges on the west side of the sea. So far as their southern end could be observed, they ran from latitude 79 south and longitude 146 west to latitude 74 degrees 15 minutes and longitude 143 degrees 20 minutes west.

Aerial Camera Survey.

ADMIRAL BYRD flew first to the Scott's Nunataks at the western end of the Alexandra range, then across Biscoe Bay and to a point parallel with the mountains and outside the coast line, so that the coast and some of the shelf ice with ice islands could be surveyed with the aerial camera as well as the range itself. He turned east to a point about 50 miles south of the northern end of the range, and somewhat closer to the mountains, flew south again until he could alter his course to come back over the mountain called the Matterhorn, east of the Rockefellers, and on to his base. He found a long depression between the eastern end of the Alexandra Mountains and the new mountain ranges, and in it many signs of pressure and huge open pools of water far in from the coast, showing that there is water east of the Alexandras. Although there was apparently a high barrier to the south of this depression, the location of water there, together with the eastern extension of the Ross Barrier, as the result of the southern flights and the nonexistence of Carmen Land, may serve to strengthen the probability of some connection between the Ross and the Weddell Sea. Certainly the barrier has been greatly extended to the eastward.

That was the last important flight of the season, for immediately after it the sky clouded over, warm weather began, and for more than a month flying was out of the question because of the impossibility of seeing either the horizon or the snow surface. The complete loss of all landmarks in this milky opaqueness can hardly be imagined by those who have not experienced it.

On Jan. 22, however, the sun shone again and a flight was made along the coast to Discovery Inlet and then south 140 miles into the interior of the Barrier. About 100 miles south of the inlet a pressure ridge suggesting the presence of land beneath it was observed and two of those in the plane thought they saw rock in this pressure. The others were not certain, however, that the rock existed, although the pressure was unmistakable. Admiral Byrd also felt sure that to the south the Barrier rose considerably 300 or 400 feet above the surface at the point where pressure existed. The interesting thing about this indication of pressure was that it was almost due west of the pressure area on the trail to the Queen Maud Range.

That flight wound up the season's exploration flight, as it was then too late in the year and the weather was too uncertain to hazard a long flight to the southeast. The total mileage of the planes for the two season's flying was about 11,000 miles.

Geological Work.

THE first geological investigations were made in the Rockefeller Mountains when Dr. Gould was flown there by airplane late last season. He found that the mountains were apparently of the same nature as the Alexandra Range, composed of granites and associated rocks.

The main geological work of the expedition, however, was the southern trip to the Queen Maud Mountains. This was one of the longest sledging journeys for a strictly scientific purpose ever made, covering in all, including the preliminary journey, 1500 statute miles.

The ice conditions, the rolling pressure waves and wide crevasses at the foot of the mountains were carefully investigated during the entire progress of the trip. One strange formation similar to the fluffy balls of snow seen by Amundsen rolling across the surface were also found by the geological party. They were localized in one small area and there formed like small cylinders so light that they crushed to powder in the hand.

The first investigations of rock were on Mount Nansen, where beacon sandstone was found showing a connection with the mountains on the western side of the Ross barrier. The party then turned east and went across the position, where Carmen Land is marked on the former charts, confirming the observations from the plane that this land did not exist. Study of the rocks and glaciers were made on this eastern trip and specimens ob-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Another Mother's Experience.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AFTER reading the letter on prohibition by "Mother," I feel constrained to write of my experience, not my opinion, on the subject.

I was reared in a family, a social group, in which a glass of wine, beer, or on special occasions a cocktail, was a part of the gesture of hospitality. I have never known a "don't" in connection with it. It was not necessary. I have four brothers and a sister. We have never seen intoxication in our home, or in our social group. I have yet to meet a finer, and in its best sense nobler, man than my father or to know a family life lived on standards higher than ours. Needless to say, not any of my brothers or sisters have an abnormal appetite for alcoholic drinks. It seems insulting to suggest that they might have. They are healthy, respectable adults, not weaklings and morons. Naturally this frenzy for prohibition has left me somewhat cold—until in the last years, as I see my own son growing tall. Now I am becoming afraid of prohibition and what it has put into the world in which I must send him.

I have a relative who is a militant prohibitionist. Her son has been reared in that atmosphere. She would be filled with horror if she thought he drank alcoholic liquor. She uses him as an example of the modern young man under prohibition. Twice he has been at the point of death as the result of bootleg whisky. The truth has been carefully guarded from the mother. That is perhaps a pity. There are too many women who talk nonsense because they are shielded from life.

I am afraid, raising my son under prohibition. I am sure there will be a college football victory, other occasions when he will step from the high road to temporary indiscretion as young men have been known to do before him. A generation ago a night of worry for the mother, a day of discomfort for the son was the price paid. Now I look into his clear, fine, intelligent eyes and wonder if he will have to pay with a life of blindness or death.

One reads of the refusal of Congress to discontinue the use of deadly poisons to adulterate commercial alcohol which does leak out into the bootleg market. We fight against the savagery of war. I should rather have my son die in battle than to have him blinded or killed by the savagery of the fanatics of prohibition.

Sometimes I lie awake at night thinking of it and I imagine myself a new Charlotte Corday lying in wait upon new Marats drunk with their own blind intolerance. ANOTHER MOTHER.

A Boulder Dam Scandal?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ARE we going to have a Boulder Dam scandal like our Fall oil scandal? Watch it, folks. J. P. GALLUS.

Unemployment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT is very apparent even to the casual observer that unemployment is increasing and that business depression, a condition that would be termed a panic were it to occur during a Democratic administration, is growing worse, deceptive political propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding.

In some of our large cities processions of men and women are marching on the local seats of Government and asking for bread or rather the means to earn it, but are being given a stone.

Meanwhile, instead of doing something to remedy this deplorable state of affairs, the Republican bunk peddlers who, during the last presidential campaign, pictured an era of prosperity that would mean a chicken for every pot, in the event of their success at the polls, are busying themselves in Congress discussing more prohibition laws and enacting a tariff bill that will raise the already high cost of living and add more misery to the hapless condition of the poor and unemployed.

It is safe to say that a good many of the men and women who are out of work consider themselves fortunate if they find a mess of neck bones in the pot, let alone a chicken, when they return home in the evening, fatigued and depressed, after trudging the streets all day in a fruitless search for work.

If the "Great Engineer" does not bestir himself to action and evolve some concrete plan to cope with this very serious situation, besides calling conferences and indulging in other empty gestures, he may find it necessary again to assume his avocation of almoner extraordinary, not this time to stricken Europe, but to the richest country in the universe, the United States of America.

How to End "Government by Acreage."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Post-Dispatch, commending Gov. Caulfield's apportionment fight, rightly attributes the cause for constitutional disregard in this matter to an urban-rural conflict.

Elect our legislators at large by the Hare system of proportional representation as is done in Ireland, Germany, Belgium and 20 other countries. It obviates the need of expensive primaries and apportionment and would end "government by acreage" as existent in our gerrymanderocracy. CITIZEN.

CONFUSING THE NAVAL ISSUE.

It was to be expected that by leaving our jingoes at home the American delegation to the London conference would expose itself to misrepresentation.

Congressman Britten, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, is one of those who insist upon confusing the issue. Mr. Britten affects to believe that we should have naval limitation, but he is opposed to what he terms interference with the protection of our maritime commerce. This paradox is not unlike many others, all arising from failure to understand the nature of the London conference or the wish to embarrass it.

The conference has resulted from failure of the Washington conference to make any agreement among the naval Powers as to auxiliary vessels. The Washington treaty related to capital ships. The result was a cruiser race, and it was to stop this cruiser race that the London conference was called. It was the expectation of Messrs. Hoover and MacDonald that if the cruiser race could be stopped and the agreement with respect to capital ships continued from 1931 to 1936, the nations would be on their way to an actual reduction of all naval armament.

Therefore to say that the conference is resulting in more and not less ships, as Hon. Charles M. Hay charged against it a few days ago; or to make it appear that the purpose of the conference is to make us take little cruisers while giving Britain big ones, as Mr. Britten intimates, is to confuse the people of the United States and embarrass the sincere efforts which Messrs. Hoover and MacDonald are making to stop naval rivalry among the sea Powers. That is, to stop the cruiser race is the immediate objective of the conference. To pave the way for a reduction in naval armaments is its ultimate aim.

The people of the United States are, we are sure, in complete sympathy with these objectives. They do not want their country to set the example of a naval force far beyond its necessities, because they know what an insuperable burden our wealth could impose upon other peoples. The people of the United States ask only the protection of themselves and their interests. They realize that the necessities of Great Britain differ from our own. It would be in disparagement of that human progress which Messrs. Hoover and MacDonald seek to advance for us to insist that England's cruiser strength must come down to the cruiser strength necessary to the United States or the cruiser race will go on. Charles G. Ross, Post-Dispatch representative at the conference, puts this matter in a nutshell:

> Under the proposed settlement there would be a stabilization of British cruiser strength at approximately its present figure, while the United States, in order to attain parity, would have to build 18 new cruisers. This would be a net increase of three cruisers and 14,500 tons over the present American strength in cruisers built, building or authorized. The acceptance of such a formula would end the cruiser race between the two countries.

There is nothing paradoxical about that. The United States may or may not build all those cruisers. The point is that if the cruiser race is not brought to an end public opinion will become alarmed by stories of what the other naval Powers are doing and we shall revert to the great naval building program of 1926 which resulted from failure of the Geneva conference.

CONGRATULATING THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

The University of Illinois has chosen for its new president Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, and for that choice Illinois is to be congratulated. Ten years ago Dr. Chase assumed the presidency of North Carolina. At that time the institution was just another Southern university, held fast to conservatism and worse by the attitude of the countryside. It did not remain that way long under the Chase regime. Things began to happen, and before long the University of North Carolina reared its head among the most progressive, unfettered institutions of the land. For that great transformation, Dr. Chase is given full credit of wise and brave leadership.

That Illinois chose wisely when it reached out for Dr. Chase is obvious, and highly creditable to its trustees. So doing, the neighboring university announces to the academic world its will to progress. It sets a fine example to the universities of the Middle West and its neighbor states, which too often need such an example. The choice of Dr. Chase marks the University of Illinois as an academic leader.

REDEEMING PORTO RICO.

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt's recent message to the Porto Rican Legislature contains high hopes of a better day for that island, whose economic woes were brought sharply home to America by his account of want and starvation there several months ago. Gov. Roosevelt proposes no panaceas or revolutionary ideas for Porto Rico. All his suggestions have been tested and found beneficial in this country or elsewhere.

The rehabilitation of Porto Rico, says Gov. Roosevelt, depends on use of two methods: economy of administration and introduction of constructive measures. He finds the Government's tax receipts running about 25 per cent behind the budget, and municipalities in even worse straits. To remedy this, he proposes scientific budgeting and consolidation of offices. By abolishing paid school directors, for instance, and substituting unpaid school boards, he thinks $100,000 a year can be saved without impairing educational efficiency.

Agricultural conditions are the important problem in Porto Rico, aggravated by the dense and growing population. The island had 953,000 inhabitants when it came under American control in 1898; today the population is estimated at 1,459,000. Farm production has increased, but not sufficiently to care for the population. Large scale unemployment has resulted. The plight of the small farmer is particularly bad, and to benefit this class is one of Roosevelt's chief aims. He proposes intensive farming, to be fostered by farm bureaus, better marketing facilities and better transportation. Establishment of industries is dictated by the dense population, and the Governor calls attention to natural assets which should be developed by acting manufacturing interests. Other plans are for health service, public works, school and university expansion and publicity to attract tourists.

Here are ideas by means of which Porto Rico can work out its own salvation. It has an industrious, intelligent people well fitted for a high standard of progress. The island is rich in potentialities, but the people are poor—this is the nub of the situation. With united effort and capable administration, the days of suffering should become memories of the past.

THE AIR SHOW.

The most impressive feature of the International Aircraft Exposition, it seems to us, was the volume of sales. More than $1,000,000 worth of business was done. More effectively than rhetoric those figures record the airplane's economic arrival. The demand was general enough, according to competent analysis, to prove that aviation no longer has to "live on itself." Flying has passed from the professional stage to the popular. That may not be news, but the merchandising story of the week has grippingly told that news.

Viewed from any angle the show was a success. Spectacularly, exhibitionally, in point of attendance, it "went over big." It is a matter for local satisfaction that St. Louis was found to be exceptionally equipped and appointed for this exposition. Whether the city becomes the country's aeronautical center, we venture no prophecy, but the experience of last week recalls Lindbergh's judgment that St. Louis, because of its geographical and atmospheric advantages, ought to be the air capital of the United States.

That our aerial education is progressing was revealed in the note of safety so continuously stressed. Not so long ago that word was practically deleted from the aviation lexicon. Now it is, so to speak, the "theme song." We were assured, on high authority, that the "fool-proof" plane will presently spread its infallible wings. The "personal equation," so indispensable today, is to be subordinated by mechanical invention. The pilot of tomorrow, it was predicted, will have as simple and routine a job as the driver of an automobile. One enthusiast went so far as to say that aviation would be the safest means of transportation.

Safety is, of course, the airplane's holy grail. Once attained humanity will take to the skies in a repertory of craft from roadster to limousine, from canoe to stately ship.

WASHINGTON AS TRIPLE-THREAT MAN.

No sooner is the cherry tree myth exploded to the enduring credit of George Washington than along comes Dr. James Hosmer Penniman of Philadelphia with the announcement that the first President was the "best all-around athlete of his day." "On a football team composed of the best athletes of all time," continues the Doctor, "such athletes as Hercules, Ajax, Samson, Richard Coeur de Lion, with Ulysses as quarterback, George Washington would be the triple-threat man."

In other words Washington would have been a combination Albie Booth and Ernie Nevers, and instead of commanding the Colonial armies he would probably have turned out to be a New York bond salesman. All in all, we think we prefer the Washington who made it first down at Georgetown to a possible Washington who might have gained five yards through tackle in the big game with William and Mary.

CHICAGO'S GENEROUS ATTITUDE.

The Post-Dispatch published last week the hearty commendation given by the Chicago Tribune to a proposal that all surveys on the Mississippi River above St. Louis should have as their objective a nine-foot channel to the head of navigation.

Great strength for the nine-foot channel has recently come from an unexpected quarter. Hitherto the army engineers have opposed it; but Major-General Lytle Brown, their chief, has reversed the traditional attitude upon this powerful front. Gen. Brown thinks that since the lower Mississippi and the Ohio are to have nine-foot channels, the upper Mississippi, as an integral part of the inland waterways system should also have a nine-foot channel. He considers it essential to the whole project.

As may be guessed from the Tribune's approval of this view, the attitude of Chicago is as generous as it is wise. Indeed, the success of the whole inland waterways movement is due to a realization of interdependence upon the part of the whole Valley. Illinois is spending more money upon inland waterways than any other Valley state. Chicago is looking down the Illinois River to the sea. Only a very rich state, backed up by a prodigious city, could contemplate such a project as that which proposes to make the Illinois River a highway for bulk freights. And only a deep channel from the mouth of the Illinois to New Orleans can make such a highway mean anything. The Tribune therefore says the upper Mississippi should have a nine-foot channel, though the relation of that project to Chicago's own enterprise on the Illinois is only that relation which every part of the inland waterways development bears to the whole.

Old Soak, the First Parrot of the Land, continues his adventurous career in his old romantic fashion. As usual, he is in trouble again. The conscientious reader, up on his parrots, will recall, of course, the Old Soak's previous difficulties—how he became Secretary Stimson's close friend while Mr. Stimson was in the Philippines, how he was left behind when the Stimsons journeyed to Washington because: (1) Mrs. Stimson refused to enter the capital carrying a bird cage; (2) Old Soak spoke a highly explosive form of Chinese; (3) he had an unusual appetite for furniture. But to Secretary Stimson's honor, he remained true to Old Soak, which soon joined the Stimsons in Washington.

Since then the parrot has behaved himself, and it was hoped the edifying influence of diplomatic Washington had mellowed him. But—Stimson goes to the London conference. And Old Soak, left in the keeping of the Pan-American Union, sputters, "Hello, Old Soak. Hello, Old Soak," punctuating each announcement with a scream. And now he's in the basement. What's wrong? Does he miss the Secretary? Undoubtedly. Is he jealous of the notoriety come to the more feverish of his species? Perhaps. Whatever the cause, we are convinced he is an incorrigible old roisterer, and we don't care to say any more about it.

Public Utilities: A Real Political Issue

Rise of public interest in utilities problem gives birth to genuine issue, as contrasted with shadow boxing over non-essentials; people concerned over growth of interests big enough to challenge Government; more intelligent politics and dropping of pretense predicted; may give liberals what they need to form new party.

The "Roving Correspondent" (Edwin G. Pinkham) in the Kansas City Star.

THE shaping of the public utilities issue in Congress, as forecast in the Star's Washington dispatches, promises to give a new and significant turn to American politics. On the whole a healthy turn, probably; a turn away from the pretense, shadow boxing and chicanery that in all legislative assemblies and in all countries inevitably attend the discussion of issues raised for the convenience of politics.

This new issue is one that tends to lead away from these unrealities into a field of legitimate politics, of politics in the proper sense of that abused and much degraded word. The arraying of opinion on one side and the other of controversies involving opposing theories of government, or affecting the welfare of the people, or of interests that may have special requirements of their own, is politics in the true meaning of the word. The power and utilities issue is one calculated to bring public opinion back into this realm.

It is therefore an honest issue, which is not the least of the grounds of its importance. It is both political and economic. It is political because it involves a legitimate difference of opinion as to whether an interest so vast as to affect the whole population of the United States is one that can safely be left to the development of private enterprise or whether it ought to be owned or controlled by the Government of the United States. It is economic because its present private development, involving the control of many great national resources, implies a tremendous leverage in these hands on every business, industry and community in the country.

This certainly is an issue then upon which public opinion and political parties properly can divide, and if its importance can be brought to public understanding by discussion in Congress, and by such contests as that over the confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes, we shall have in coming campaigns more intelligent politics, both in Washington and in the country, than we have had in recent times.

That the great utility development in the United States constitutes an interest big enough to challenge the power of the Government itself is not to be denied. Whether it is challenging it at this time is quite another question, but at least it is known, and the fact is in no way remarkable, that it is doing what it can, politically and otherwise, to keep its activities free from the hands of public authority. That, of course, is what all big business is trying to do; it is natural and in the view of a great many Americans, legitimate and necessary to the service these utilities render to the public.

But what is called liberalism in our new political alignment takes a very different view. It asserts that this great and growing private interest is challenging the exercise of a function that heretofore, in theory at least, has been reserved to the sole authority of the National Government. That is the function of protecting the people of the country from oppression, whether political or economic. It rejects the view that any great monopoly controlling a commodity essential to every community and individual in the country can be trusted to exercise that control in the public interest.

It holds this economic power is too great to be in any hands except those of the Government, and it directs particular attention to the danger of any process that takes the regulation of this power away from legislative authority and gives it to courts which are beyond the reach of the political representatives of the people. The resources from which these utility interests derive their mechanical power, in some cases, are national in character, it is asserted, and not properly subject to private development, and this furnishes another reason these interests should be publicly controlled.

This is the background of the new national issue that may easily, in the near future, cause a complete realignment of political force in this country and relegate to the political junk heap many of the so-called issues that have served politics in the past. Strictly, there have been few real political questions involved in those issues; none perhaps fundamental in character except the tariff, and that question has long outlived its original political character. It is recognized today as economic, and also as sectional; it is not a national question at all, except that it is determined at intervals by Congress, which, as it has been said, decides which congressional districts shall tax the other congressional districts.

The issue now rising is national and far-reaching, and since the existing parties are split on it there may be in it the opportunity liberalism has been looking for to create a new political opinion in the country which may develop into a new party composed of the left wings of the present ones. Here liberalism would have a far wider and more productive field than it has had while it represented merely the anti-prohibition convictions of Americans. It would be pretty hard to make a liberal party out of just those Americans who desire a drink; but on an issue involving economics that touch millions of Americans—that is, to determine whether essentials to American life are to be publicly or privately controlled—such a political portent might emerge.

Whatever the American people may decide about this issue, if Congress ever gets through talking about it long enough to give them a chance at it, it will at least be refreshing to have a political controversy up that is genuine and not simply manufactured for the entertainment of campaign crowds.

The Speaker's topic will be something like this: "Wit and Humor of the House of Representatives as Observed from the Speaker's Dais."

It will introduce to the public a volume which Author Bowman says is a cross-section of the humor of people prominent in the official life of the United States. From Cabinet officers, Senators, diplomats, Representatives, Governors of states and others, Bowman has collected stories. Some are based on personal experiences, some on amusing situations observed by the author, and some on hearsay.

The lowest temperature in he magnetic house was 37 degrees elow zero Fahrenheit, and it avraged about 20 degrees below for long period of time.

The auroral record is very complete and accurate and is probable the most complete section of the magnetic work. Aurora were seen on more than 90 per cent of clear nights and sufficient data obtained to determine the characteristic types, color movement, intensity, direction and frequency. Correlation with the magnetic radio data should form an interesting section of the general scientific results.

Sudden Summer Rise

AN investigation was made of the temperature and constitution of the barrier. The data from early winter to the end of January is complete and interesting. Particularly noticeable in regard to subsurface temperatures is the sudden upward rise at the height of summer. Sudden temperature changes in the air during the rest of the year have not produced this abrupt change below the surface. The sun's rays actually penetrate the snow to some depth. The heat obtained from the sun was indicated by the way in which dark objects sank in the snow—a tarpaulin 15 feet square sunk nine inches in two sunny days.

In connection with the sun's radiation, observations have been made since sunrise. The highest black bulb thermometer, a thermometer which is so insulated that it registers the amount of heat radiated by the sun, was 115 degrees above zero Fahrenheit on Dec. 28. It must be remembered that this does not represent the actual outdoor temperature.

Temperature records in underground tunnels and snow huts are interesting as having a bearing on the change in crystals on the roof. Determinations of the density of the barrier snow at different depths have been made and this data with sub-surface temperatures will give information on the conductivity of the snow. Investigations have also been made of the cooling power of the atmosphere under different conditions and of the dust content of the atmosphere which was found to be about half that found for the Pacific Ocean.

Radio Traffic in Year

THE fact that the radio traffic sent in and received messages at Station WFA, Little America, during the year of its existence has well exceeded 1,000,000 words, is an indication of the use the expedition has made of the extensive radio communication facilities. This traffic consisted of press dispatches, expedition business and personal messages of members of the expedition, and was principally handled with The New York Times radio station WHD in New York. A good portion was also handled between the various expedition contingents at New Zealand, the ships with airplanes and the trail parties. Through the courtesy of the New Zealand Government the Little America station was able to communicate with the ships while they were in port at Dunedin. The naval communications system handled navy official government messages through Samoa, and radio amateurs not only in the United States but in many other parts of the world were of assistance in tests and in the handling of personal messages

Most of the radio communications have been carried on various assigned frequencies from six up to 18 megacycles (one megacycle equals 1000 kilocycles) corresponding to wave lengths from 17 to 50 meters. Communication conditions with the Northern hemisphere, at least, have been best during our summer season when conditions are most nearly uniform at both ends of the circuit, whereas during our long winter night absence of the sun's rays seems to play havoc with the heaviside layer so essential for short wave communication, and summer-time static interferes with reception of signals up North. Yet by continuous trial of various wave lengths and careful observation of incoming signals, daily contact was maintained with WHD with the exception of only a few days during the entire year.

The station has frequently been in direct communication with Bergen, Norway, and recently on several occasions exchanged radio signals with the world's most Northern radio station, RPX, of the Russian polar meteorological party wintering on Franz Josefland.

Short waves have given reliable communication with our airplanes and trail parties. Two-way communication was established on one flight between a plane and New York. The plane sets were also constructed to provide long-wave communication with the base over short distances and a directional radio beacon of the airways type was constructed at the base as well as a radio compass. This was done to meet sudden weather changes. Communication was maintained with the plane while it was over the South Pole.

The so-called skip distance zones of the short waves have been verified and studied. One most valuable scientific radio work has been the study and exact measurement of the local heaviside layer at the various seasons, which has thrown much light on the communication conditions experienced here. In general the heaviside layer here appears to resemble conditions experienced on winter days in the United States, but during the period of darkness the concentrated layer seems to break up and drift apart with a multiplicity of thin layers at widely different heights. Records obtained at sunrise during spring further substantiate existing theories of the formation of the dense reflecting layer by the sun's rays.

Kites and Pilot Balloons

THE meteorological work of the expedition includes both surface and upper air investigations. Surface observations similar to those maintained at a first order meteorological station in the States have been made during the entire period since the expedition left Dunedin. These observations consist of a systematic record of barometric pressure, temperature, humidity, wind direction and velocity, cloudness and precipitation, together with visibility and other optical phenomena such as aurora halos, mirages, etc. For the most part the observational work has been carried on hourly both day and night.

Investigations of the upper air were made by means of kites and pilot balloons. Approximately 400 pilot balloon observations have been made for obtaining the wind direction and velocity at various altitudes. The soundings have been carried on continuously since Jan. 15, 1929, when the station was established at Little America. Many of these soundings reached altitudes of more than 30,000 feet.

The unbroken series of observations is considered a most valuable contribution to Antarctic meteorology in as much as the observations throw considerable light upon the atmospheric circulation in the high southern latitudes. The soundings were also of great value for current use in selecting a condition suitable for making exploration flights. The upper air movement was found to be the only criterion which gave any indication as to the weather to be expected in the immediate future.

Meteorograph records were obtained by means of kites and airplanes on 40 days during the last three months. These records gave the pressure, temperature and humidity at various levels. These data were obtained on the polar and other exploration flights and promise to be of much value.

Value of Aerial Survey

THE aerial survey is a new feature of polar exploration and has been found of great value. The simple overlapping photographs of which the survey map is composed have been found to be of great value already—they were valuable to the geological party on the southern trip—and many of them are also beautiful pictures of the mountains. They show pressure and the movement of the ice as could nothing else, and their study will well repay the glaciologist and help to elucidate some of the problems connected with the movement of the barrier.

The aerial mapping was begun on the flight to the Rockefeller Mountains last year, when a continuous pictorial map of them was obtained and also an outline of the Barrier for about 60 miles east of the Bay of Whales. Since then this coastal survey has been extended so that it includes about 400 miles of coast from Discovery Inlet to the northern end of the new mountain range to the northeast. This survey was made from the sea side of the cliffs, so that the face of the icy wall is shown with all its indentations and irregularities in height.

On the polar flight the aerial survey was made on one side of the route going out and on the other returning, so that it gives a complete picture of the territory seen from the plane. The mountains of the plateau on either side of the route are shown in this group. This is perhaps the longest single mapping job ever done, about 1600 miles being covered.

A large part of the coast line was mapped on the eastern flight, on which the mountains which rim the eastern side of the Ross Sea were discovered. The photographers of this country and the shelf ice and inland water pools and pressure ridges are most interesting.

An aerial survey was made on the flight to Discovery Inlet and southward over the Ross Barrier. The Bay of Whales was also mapped completely, including the heavily crevassed and broken area to the east and west at the foot of the bay, which, under careful study, should reveal any of the causes for the formation of this indentation.

In addition to the aerial survey of the bay, a careful survey on the surface has been made from East and West Capes to the bottom of the bay, so that in later years it will be possible to determine just what changes have taken place in the formation of this curious indentation in the Barrier.

In all about 1600 pictures have been made on these exploration flights, giving a complete record of the territory seen.

THERE have been two major sledging journeys as well as several shorter ones and a tremendous amount of freight sledging. Last year 250 tons of material were freighted from the ship New York to the base and 440 tons from the Barrier cache, where the Bolling was unloaded, to the base, or a total of 665 tons of material drawn by dogs on sleds. An average of seven tons a day was hauled during these operations and the heaviest loads were more than a ton. The loads averaged 160 pounds per day per load for each dog, and the heaviest loads were 245 pounds per day for each dog. There were 10 teams at work during the unloading, using an average of 76 dogs per day. The mileage during these operations, if one team had been used, was 12,300. The eastern and depot laying trips last season covered 225 miles more.

This year the supporting party traveled 360 miles and the geological party, including a preliminary trip of 200 miles, traveled 1300 miles, a total of 1660 miles. In addition there has been a lot of minor sledging, including hauling in of seals and surveying and sounding trips.

A number of soundings have been made near camp, none of which revealed the presence of land very near the surface. A sounding in front of Little America gave a depth of about 1600 feet. Soundings in the crevasses to the southwest gave a depth of 1500 feet and some to the south and east gave between 900 and 1000 feet.

There has been a lot of miscellaneous work in which the collection of natural history specimens has been an important part as well as observations of the life of the seals, whales and penguins in the bay.

$17,800 JUDGMENT AWARDED TO WIDOW OF A. R. RUSSELL

Woman to Receive Fees and $5000 Damages From Late Husband's Law Partner.

A judgment of $17,800 against Abraham M. Frumberg, attorney, with offices in the Bank of Commerce Building, was awarded to Mrs. Ionia Russell, widow of Alexander R. Russell, former law partner of Frumberg, by a jury in Circuit Judge Lashly's court at Clayton Friday.

The suit, filed by Russell before his death last March, was for a one-tenth share in a fee of $150,000 collected by the firm of Laughlin, Frumberg, Blodgett & Russell, and by John T. Fitzsimmons, another attorney, in July, 1928. Naming Frumberg, Laughlin and Fitzsimmons as defendants, Russell also had asked for $25,000 punitive damages. At conclusion of the plaintiff's evidence, largely drawn from Russell's deposition, Judge Lashly sustained a demurrer, holding that Fitzsimmons and Laughlin were not liable under the claim and leaving Frumberg as the sole defendant. The jury was out an hour and 15 minutes.

The case grew out of a suit filed by Mrs. Sophie Meier of Gumbo, in 1926, in which she sought to establish her claim, as an illegitimate daughghter, to the entire estate of the late William P. Edenborn, multimillionaire railroad builder. This suit was settled by compromise in April, 1928, for $300,000, of which the lawyers were to receive half. Defense testimony was that this sum was reduced to $128,000 by expenses. The jury awarded Mrs. Russell $12,500 as her husband's share in the fee and $5000 punitive damages.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A DISFIGURED SKIN

Blemishes are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, eruptions and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the intestines and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood, but in many instances the intestines create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate; then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will help prevent the formation of toxins in the intestines. It also stimulates excretion and secretion, thus coaxing the filtration of the blood of impurities and helping clear the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually helps make pimples disappear.

LIQUOR SHIP SEIZED, 2000 CASES ABOARD

Coast Guard Destroyer Captures British Schooner Off Long Island Shore.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Feb. 22.—Two liquor running vessels and 2000 cases of liquor were seized by a Coast Guard destroyer today in the Atlantic Ocean off the Long Island shore. The vessels were the British schooner Isabel H. and the American gasoline-powered boat Mohawk.

The destroyer on patrol came upon the liquor craft shortly before dawn, while the Mohawk, a contact boat, was taking on a load of contraband, under cloak of darkness and heavy fog.

Caught unawares, neither the schooner nor the Mohawk had a chance to escape and men from the destroyer were sent aboard them. It was found there was considerable liquor on the contact boat, although she had not completed taking on her load from the schooner. Both vessels were seized and with their crews and the liquor, taken to New York.

EIELSON-BORLAND AIRPLANE CORTEGE DELAYED BY WRECK

One of Six Ships to Be Repaired Before 1000-Mile Trip to Fairbanks.

By the Associated Press.

MOTORSHIP NANUK, CAPE NORTH, SIBERIA (via Point Barrow, Alaska), Feb. 22.—Five airplanes, two of them Russian junkers, were ready here today for the aerial funeral procession to Fairbanks, Alaska, with the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic flyer, and his mechanic, Earl Borland, who were killed last November on a flight to the Nanuk.

A sixth plane, its landing gear broken when Pat Reid, Canadian aviator, returned in it yesterday from Teller, Alaska, will be repaired before the air journey of nearly 1000 miles to Nome, and then to Fairbanks, is started. Commander Slipenov, Russian aviator, brought the bodies of Eielson and Borland here yesterday from the spot 90 miles southeast of North Cape where their plane crashed.

The American, Ed Young, and Reid will fly the two Fairchild cabin planes in the funeral procession and probably will carry the bodies, accompanied by the Russians in the junkers planes and pilots Joe Crosson and Gillam in their open cockpit machines.

MAJ. YOUNG CONTRASTS BRITISH AND AMERICAN AIR SAFETY RECORDS

Operation of the Luft Hansa, which corresponds to the Imperial Airways, was discussed by Walter E. Schmidt-Rex, general traffic manager for the company, who was a visitor to the air show. In 1929 the Luft Hansa carried 87,000 passengers for a total of 6,000,000 miles, with a fatality record of one death for every 500,000 miles of operation. Government regulations are not as severe as those in England, Schmidt-Rex said. After a pilot is licensed the Government requires periodical physical examination, but all other supervision is in the hands of the company. Engines must be overhauled every 300 hours, but inspection of craft is left to the company experts.

Brilliant Functions At Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.

CONCERN in Washington society over a lagging social program at the White House was dispelled when Mrs. Hoover arranged the State dinner for diplomats for Thursday night, followed by a musicale which took the place of the regular diplomatic reception.

The reception to members of the House, originally set for that night, was shifted to next week in favor of the function, to which all members of the corps were asked, making a diplomatic dinner and reception fall on the same evening. The plan was so successful that many are wondering why this was not thought of before.

Mrs. Hoover, following her return Monday from the Florida fishing trip attended several concerts and was a guest Tuesday, at the Senate Ladies' Lunch Club. At one of the concerts she wore a becoming black velvet gown and a not too small black velvet hat.

Mrs. Hoover will be guest of honor Tuesday at the annual congressional club breakfast. Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, wife of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of vice president Curtis, will attend. Mrs. Porter H. Dale, president of the club, will preside.

Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador of Great Britain to this country since 1924, and Lady Isabella were busy with social engagements up to the last moment preceding their departure Wednesday, when Sir Esme retired from the diplomatic service. The Diplomatic Corps gave them two massive silver candelabra. The gift was presented by Dr. Hernan Velarde, Ambassador of Peru, who succeeds Sir Esme as dean of the corps. Sir Ronald Charles Lindsay, who succeeds Sir Esme, will arrive late in March, and will fill his third diplomatic post in Washington. He was second secretary of the British Embassy under the late Lord Pauncefote and under Sir Mortimer Durand. Lady Lindsay was Miss Elizabeth Sherman Hoyt, daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt of New York, and is a niece of Sir Ronald's first wife's mother, Mrs. Don Cameron. Sir Ronald's first wife, who was Martha Cameron, daughter of former Senator Cameron, died in 1918 while nursing soldier influenza patients.

Some of the Washington girls are going in for the English game of badminton, a first cousin to tennis but played with shuttlecocks. Miss Betty Thorpe, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe, whose engagement was announced to Mr. Arthur Pack, commercial secretary of the British Embassy, is one of three who are organizing a group of girls to learn the game. She is assisted by Miss Julia Culbertson, debutante daughter of the United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. Culbertson, and Miss Bina Day Deneen, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Deneen of Chicago.

Regatta the Feature Of Week at Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.

THE Washington Birthday regatta on Friday and yesterday brought to a climax a week filled with social activities. Lake Worth presented a vivid and beautiful picture of activity, the resort hotels on both sides of the lake with their tropical grounds serving as a picturesque background. Numerous yachting parties and cruises featured the regatta. Sportsmen entered craft in the hydroplane races included Harold S. Vanderbilt, New York; Edward Small Moore, New York; Paul Moore, Convent, N. J.; Wooster Lambert, St. Louis; and Henry Farnsworth, Detroit.

Several society leaders are appearing on the beach in "Gob Edward Larsepetaoi t t t Style" Pajama ensembles. Mrs. Edward Larsen (Carol Dempster) New York, wears one that might have been borrowed direct from the Navy. The jacket is double breasted, and she wears a striped silk handkerchief tied in a sailor's knot. The trousers are in tropical sailor style.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Richards of New York, gave a dinner dance last Monday night at their villa. Members of New York society attending the affair included Miss Frances Gillmore, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Orson D. Munn, Grover Whalen and James H. R. Cromwell, son of Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Gwynedd Valley, Pa., have arrived at the Everglades Club, and have as their guests the Grand Duke Alexander of Rusisa. Those entertaining recently at the Everglades Club include Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thomas, Minneapolis; Horace H. Work, Madison, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall, Chevy Chase, Md., whose honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Mills, also of the fashionable Washington suburb, and Dr. and Mrs. Mark W. Trude, Chicago. Mrs. Homer A. Wessell of Cincinnati gave one of the largest luncheons of the week at the Everglades.

The Embassy Club continues to attract members and their friends. William Wood Plankinton of New York and Milwaukee entertained a group of the younger set there Tuesday evening. Eleanor Hutton and Pauline Munn, well known in New York's debutante contingent, were in the party.

In the opinion of many, the boxing tea at the Oasis Club on Thursday was the high light of the week. This event was attended by about 400 members of the most exclusive circles in Palm Beach. Phil Scott and Tommy Loughran, boxers, put on an exhibition. Bouts were followed by tea and dancing. Contestants were introduced by Sir Oliver Duncan of London. Anthony J. Drexel (Tony) Biddle arrived at the club early in the week.

MRS. RICHARD H. YOHE, a bride of Feb. 17. She was Miss Nedra Culler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Culler of Northwood avenue. —Dieckman.

MISS MARY ELLEN BLEAKNEY, daughter of Mrs. J. A. Bleakney, 6007 Cates avenue, whose engagement to Carl L. A. Beckers has been announced. —Strauss.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Lucky Mother

"My success with Elva isn't just luck," says Mrs. C. Freeberryser, 4018 No. 20th St., St. Louis. "It is due to a plan.

"She has escaped the ill-effects of colds and upsets because at the first sign of a cold; of unpleasant breath, coated tongue or feverishness, I regulate the bowels with California Fig Syrup. She loves its taste and I like its gentle, thorough action."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. For fifty years physicians have endorsed this pure vegetable product. It tones and strengthens stomach and bowels; stimulates appetite; encourages digestion and assimilation. Its use helps make sallow, listless children rosy and energetic.

Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine; safe for infants, effective for children in their teens.

NO GRAY HAIR

Just Like Finding $4.25!

If your hair is faded, streaked or gray, and if you want your money's worth—don't pay $5 or more for a fancy name on a fancy bottle or for a trick treatment.

For here ... at last! ... is an amazing formula that quickly and safely restores the hair to its natural coloring ... And it costs only 75c!

You can mix it yourself. Just blend Sage Tea and Sulphur in the correct proportions. Better, your druggist has it prepared and ready to use. Ask him for Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur .. quickly restores gray, streaked or faded hair to its natural coloring.

Dainty Violet Dell, of "Lady Fingers," is wearing the LONG BOB. Her lovely hair shows the results of PROPER CARE.

Protect Your Hair
This easy way

YOU, too, can say goodbye to hair-worries, if you'll learn this simple method of caring for the hair. It is known to hundreds of stage and screen stars; used by thousands of women and girls, who haven't time for laborious methods.

Sprinkle a little Danderine on your brush tonight. Then as you brush your hair you'll feel the soothing, toning effects.

For over 30 years, specialists have recommended Danderine; to dissolve dandruff; help stop falling hair; tone the scalp, encourage the hair to grow long, silky and abundant.

The first application gives your hair new life and lustre; makes it softer; easier to manage; holds it like you arrange it. Evidence beyond doubt proves the benefits of its regular use.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS FOR PRESENT SCHOOL RATE

Points Out Desirability of Retaining 85 Cents Per $100 Valuation in Election.

The League of Women Voters is urging support of the continuance of the tax rate for school purposes of 85 cents per $100 valuation in the special election on March 25.

The League points out that if the present rate is not maintained it would automatically revert to 60 cents per $100, resulting in a reduction of about $2,700,000 annually in the schools' income. In this event, it is suggested, the Board of Education would be unable to meet estimated costs of operation during the next four years and would be unable to provide building funds without issuing bonds.

City Club Chorus to Sing.

The City Club Chorus, a male glee club, will sing at a dinner dance at the club next Saturday evening. John W. Bohn is director of the chorus.

VOTERS ARE URGED TO KEEP 85-CENT SCHOOL TAX RATE

School & Home, Board of Education Publication, Points Out What Will Happen if It Is Cut.

What may be expected to happen if the people do not vote, at the special election on March 25, to retain the 85-cent school tax rate for the next four years, is told in the current issue of School and Home, a Board of Education publication which has been given to all public school pupils to take to their homes.

Without special authorization of the election, the school tax rate would revert to the constitutional limit of 60 cents on the $100 assessed valuation. This would mean an immediate reduction of $2,750,000 annually in school income from taxes. Other effects, if the present 85-cent rate is not continued, says School and Home, would be:

"A heavy cut in the appropriation of every department; the children and the entire city will pay the tragic price. One opportunity after another will be taken away from the children, also from adults seeking cultural opportunity and vocational training for self-advancement.

"Overcrowded rooms will result, with the inevitable bad effect on health. No districts will get new buildings, no matter how serious the need. The progressive program for vocational education will be curtailed. The opportunity for higher education through the establishment of a college will be lost. The summer schools will be closed. The summer playgrounds will be discontinued. The evening schools will be greatly curtailed.

Only One Bond Issue.

"If the evening schools, physical training, manual training, home economics, free textbooks and supplies, industrial schools, summer schools, open-air schools, special schools and other of the important functions of our present system were eliminated, only half of the revenue lost by reverting to the 60-cent rate would be saved. The other half would need to be made up by discontinuing some of the fundamentals of our present system."

Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee, pointed out in School and Home that the Board of Education has operated the school system for nine years on the 85-cent rate without incurring a deficit and is not now seeking an increase of tax rate but only retention of the existing rate, although "very few tax-supported bodies have operated during the past nine years of high costs without asking for increased revenue."

Furthermore, he said, St. Louis schools have been built out of tax income directly, with only one bond issue for construction in 32 years or more—$2,000,000 in 1916, when costs soared, and $834,000 of this issue has been paid off. The expenditures of school systems in a number of comparable cities for interest on bonded indebtedness exceeds the entire funded debt of the St. Louis system, Dysart said, and "our buildings surpass those of other cities in beauty and utility."

He called attention to the desire of alumni and other friends of Central High School to have a new building constructed as a permanent home for that institution, the first high school west of the Mississippi River.

Reasons for Support.

"I think we have every reason to congratulate ourselves over the state of our public school finances," said Dysart, "and that our Board of Education is entitled to the confidence and support of the public."

School and Home, in an other article, lists the following reasons for supporting the 85-cent rate:

Enrollment in elementary, intermediate, high and vocational schools has been increasing steadily, overcrowding many buildings; pupils are remaining in school longer and rising to higher grades than before, 88 per cent of the eighth-grade graduates last month having gone on to high school, compared with 51 per cent four years before; unsatisfactory portable school buildings are housing about 4300 pupils, although they should be used as a temporary expedient; damage or destruction of buildings by the 1927 tornado placed an additional burden on school finances; inauguration of a thorough vocational training system places new requirements on income; "unless St. Louis supplies the money for the additional school needs she has no right to invite into the new industrial district so rapidly developing any industries whose hordes of skilled workmen will demand fair treatment for their children."

Increase in Enrollment.

Enrollment of the regular day school system for the third quarter of the school year, now under way, is 102,332, or 854 more than in the corresponding period a year ago, the Board of Education announced yesterday. Included now are: Teachers' colleges, 488 pupils; high schools, 13,848; intermediate schools, 6470; elementary schools, 77,966; special schools, 1637; vocational school, 1279; pre-vocational, 27; continuation schools, 608. In addition, there are 13,543 persons attending evening schools and 237 in Saturday morning classes.

The five white high schools, with 12,246 pupils have 2919 more students than their proper capacity, as follows: Beaumont, 2634 enrollment, an excess of 134; Central, 1473 enrollment, an excess of 473; Cleveland, 2557 enrollment, an excess of 757; Roosevelt, 3382 enrollment, an excess of 882; Soldan, 2672 enrollment, an excess of 672. Two new high schools are under consideration.

All of the high schools and the 109 elementary schools will hold open house on some evening shortly before the tax election, to show relatives and friends of the pupils the modern methods of teaching and offer entertainment programs by the children. The high schools all will have mass meetings in their auditoriums during the week of March 17.

Talks Over Radio.

Each of the high schools, including the two for Negroes, will have a boy and a girl selected by its student body to represent it in radio programs in support of the tax campaign. The 14 children each will deliver a four-minute talk. The boys will speak over KMOX the evening of March 21 and the girls over KWK the next afternoon. Listeners will be asked to pick the most popular speakers by the citizens' committee.

In an announcement of its support of the 85-cent tax rate, the League of Women Voters expresses gratification that the Board of Education has kept within the estimates made at the time of the tax campaign four years ago for improvements, salary increases and operating costs. However, the league adds:

"How long has it been since the methods and spirit of our St. Louis Public Schools have been evaluated? Would it not be a wise investment to call upon an agency such as the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching to make a study of the St. Louis Public School System? In order to maintain an intelligent pride in the value of their public school system, citizens need this information, and the Board of Education will probably welcome this suggestion as a constructive request."

Among recent indorsements of the 85-cent rate were votes of approval by the Martha Washington unit of the Steuben Society of America and the Henry Ames School Boys of the Latter Eighties, an organization of men who once attended Ames School.

WRITES PASSION PLAY

—Strauss Photo.
FATHER DANIEL A. LORD.

FATHER LORD WRITES MODERN PASSION PLAY

It Will Be Presented at Odeon, April 5, 7 and 8, by Webster College Alumnae.

Father Daniel A. Lord, S. J., editor of "Queen's Work," has written a modern passion play, "A Fantasy of the Passion," that will be presented at the Odeon the evenings of April 5, 7 and 8. The production will be sponsored by the Webster College Alumnae Association and will be given under the personal direction of Father Lord.

"St. Louis is to have its own passion play. A dramatic application of those sufferings to St. Louis and the modern St. Louisan will be given in the reverent spirit of Lent," said Father Lord.

"A Fantasy of the Passion," distinctively modern, does not present the sufferings and death of Christ directly as do most similar plays. Instead it tells the part played by the suffering and death of a successful man of the modern world who lives, sins, heedlessly piles up a fortune and snatches what pleasure he can, forgetting that his sin, quite as much as the nails, fastened Christ to the cross. The story does not take place in Jerusalem of nineteen hundred years ago, but in St. Louis of the year 1930.

Among the plays Father Lord has written and produced in St. Louis are two pageants, "The Giant Killer" and "The Dreamer Awakes," which were given by the universities and colleges of St. Louis with a cast of several hundred. "A Fantasy of the Passion" will be played by a mixed cast, eleven men and four women.

Briefly the story is one of a man knocked down by an automobile on Good Friday and carried to the hospital. He learns that by 3 o'clock he will be dead. He, apostate, successful man of affairs, fond of life and pleasure, fights the idea of dying. Then in delirium he lives his life again, each episode of his career is repeated. In the end, the clock strikes 3, and the tragedy of Good Friday ends for him.

The scenery will be designed and executed by St. Louis artists. The curtain is not to be lowered during the performance.

STEAMER TO LEAVE CAIRO FOR MARDI GRAS TOMORROW

The Cape Girardeau Will Have 100 Passengers, Including 47 From St. Louis.

The Steamer Cape Girardeau will leave Cairo at 3 p. m. tomorrow carrying 100 passengers to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Several of the passengers, who include 47 St. Louisans, will take their automobiles.

Except for harbor boats and the operation of a few coal tugs, river commerce out of St. Louis has been closed since last December. Owing to the severe winter the first excursion is 20 days later this year than it was in 1929.

The start is to be made from Cairo to preclude the possibility of ice floes, lodged at various points upstream, floating down and delaying departure, it was said by T. T. Lewis, president of the Eagle Packet Co., which operates the Cape Girardeau. The steamer will dock here March 18 with a cargo of 6000 sacks of sugar for St. Louis merchants.

Two Chicago Stations Go Upon Equal Time Basis

WENR and WLS Begin Sharing Channel 50-50, as Ordered by Court—Broadcasters Object to Shifts Affecting KMOX and KYW—General Duplication on Cleared Waves Predicted.

WENR and WLS, Chicago, are now operating on the 50-50 schedule ordered by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, instead of on the old basis of two-sevenths time for WENR and five-sevenths for WLS.

Today, WENR is to broadcast from 8 a. m. to 12:30 noon; 3:30 to 6 p. m., and 8 p. m. to midnight.

WENR's weekly schedule is: 10:15 a. m. to 11:45 a. m.; 3:30 to 7 p. m., and 8:30 to midnight.

WLS is to use all other time, except that on Saturday WLS will use the period from 7 p. m. to midnight.

WENR may use the time each day from midnight to 3:30 a. m. if it chooses, while WLS will have the 3:30-7 a. m. time.

As some of the stations affected by the proposal of the Federal Radio Commission, to shift them around in the bend between 1020 and 1190 kilocycles, are objecting, it is virtually certain that the changes will not go into effect before May 1. The consent of all the stations must be obtained before the shifts can be made. The Comsion appears determined to make the changes as soon as possible.

KYW, Chicago, has filed a petition with the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia for an order to restrain the Radio Commission from making any change affecting its 1020-kc. channel until a decision has been reached on a previous appeal. The 1120-kc. wave length is supposed to belong to the Second Zone, and was assigned to KYW with the proviso that it would go back to the Second Zone when some station in that zone could prove that it was entitled to it. KYW's original appeal was against the commission's ruling that the channel had been "borrowed" from the Second Zone. WCAU, Philadelphia, Pa.; WWJ, Detroit, Mich.; and WLBW, Oil City, Pa., all Second Zone broadcasters, have asked for the 1020kc. wave.

Authorization of WCFL, Chicago, to operate for two hours after sunset on 970, the cleared channel used by KJR, Seattle, Wash., is regarded as the first step toward duplication of stations on all cleared channels assigned to the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts regions. A dozen or more requests that stations be permitted to conduct similar experiments on cleared channels have been received. The Commission has replied in each case that the consent of the station on the cleared chanels must be obtained.

Applications of WOS, Jefferson City, for half time on 630 kc. and of KFRU, Columbia, Mo., for an increase of time on 630 kc, have been denied.

The Commission has denied applications of the Spence Hardware Co. for a new 7½ watt station at Kennett, Mo.; of Howard O'Rourke, Hayti, Mo., for a new 10 watt station; of Myrl E. Jones, Springfield, Mo., for a new 250 watt station; of the Kansas City American, Kansas City, Mo., for a 250 watt station.

Two Chicago Stations Go Upon Equal Time Basis

WENR and WLS Begin Sharing Channel 50-50, as Ordered by Court—Broadcasters Object to Shifts Affecting KMOX and KYW — General Duplication on Cleared Waves Predicted.

WENR and WLS, Chicago, are now operating on the 50-50 schedule ordered by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, instead of on the old basis of two-sevenths time for WENR and five-sevenths for WLS.

Today, WENR is to broadcast from 8 a. m. to 12:30 noon; 3:30 to 6 p. m., and 8 p. m. to midnight.

WENR's weekly schedule is: 10:15 a. m. to 11:45 a. m.; 3:30 to 7 p. m., and 8:30 to midnight.

WLS is to use all other time, except that on Saturday WLS will use the period from 7 p. m. to midnight.

WENR may use the time each day from midnight to 3:30 a. m. if it chooses, while WLS will have the 3:30-7 a. m. time.

As some of the stations affected by the proposal of the Federal Radio Commission, to shift them around in the bend between 1020 and 1190 kilocycles, are objecting, it is virtually certain that the changes will not go into effect before May 1. The consent of all the stations must be obtained before the shifts can be made. The Commission appears determined to make the changes as soon as possible.

KYW, Chicago, has filed a petition with the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia for an order to restrain the Radio Commission from making any change affecting its 1020-kc. channel until a decision has been reached on a previous appeal. The 1120-kc. wave length is supposed to belong to the Second Zone, and was assigned to KYW with the proviso that it would go back to the Second Zone when some station in that zone could prove that it was entitled to it. KYW's original appeal was against the commission's ruling that the channel had been "borrowed" from the Second Zone. WCAU, Philadelphia, Pa.; WWJ, Detroit, Mich.; and WLBW, Oil City, Pa., all Second Zone broadcasters, have asked for the 1020kc. wave.

Authorization of WCFL, Chicago, to operate for two hours after sunset on 970, the cleared channel used by KJR, Seattle, Wash., is regarded as the first step toward duplication of stations on all cleared channels assigned to the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts regions. A dozen or more requests that stations be permitted to conduct similar experiments on cleared channels have been received. The Commission has replied in each case that the consent of the station on the cleared chanels must be obtained.

Applications of WOS, Jefferson City, for half time on 630 kc, and of KFRU, Columbia, Mo., for an increase of time on 630 kc, have been denied.

What Is Coming in Broadcasts

Speech by Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith Among Radio Events This Week.

APPEARANCE of several singers of more than American reputation, including Marguerite d'Alvarez, the Peruvian contralto; the radio debut of a new singer with Roxy's Gang and the story of an explorer's single handed struggle through the swamps and forests of the Amazon jungle, are among broadcast features scheduled over St. Louis stations this week. Some of the programs of more than mere popular appeal are as follows:

MONDAY.—Listeners will get an opportunity, in the General Motors concert at 8:30 p. m. over KSD, compare the singing of "Old Man River" by an operatic basso of world-wide fame with the versions of musical comedy and vaudeville singers. For Ezio Pinza, basso of the Metropolitan Opera, has chosen that well-known song to contrast with the "Veau d'Or" aria from "Faust," an air from Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and a song of Tosti. Helen Sada, a soprano, is to make her radio debut with Roxy's Gang at 6:30 p. m. over KWK. Her career was sponsored by members of the Scranton Kiwanis Club who got an audition for her with Roxy, who placed her in his chorus and had her coached. She won her chance in Roxy's Christmas show when she substituted for Dorothy Githens at a minute's notice. Music by American composers is to be played by the Rochester Civic Orchestra in the Stromberg-Carlson concert over KWK at 9 p. m. The Anglo-Persians will play music by eight noted composers, including Sibelius, Goldmark and Friml, at 9 p. m. over KSD.

TUESDAY.—A speech by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York is scheduled at 9:30 p. m. over the Columbia chain. "Ethics of Lobbying" will be discussed in a Voters' Service period at 6 p. m. over WOW, WDAF, WHAS, WKY and other stations; Lewis Cummings, explorer and soldier of fortune, will be featured in an Eveready program at 8 p. m. over KSD. He is to describe his two-year struggle to travel from the Andes through the Amazon country to the Carribean Sea. Harry Armstrong, who wrote "Sweet Adeline," is to take part in a Happy Wonder program at 8:30 p. m. over KSD. Songs of the sea and selections from "Pinafore" by a male quartet are programmed for a Libby concert at 7:30 p. m. over KWK.

WEDNESDAY—Music by two of the great virtuosi—Rubenstein and Kreisler—is to be played in the Mobiloil concert over KSD at 7:30 p. m. James Melton, tenor, is to be the soloist. Olive Palmer is to sing Friml's "Giannina Mia," and Bishop's "Last Rose of Summer" in the Palmolive program at 8:30 p. m. over KSD. Paul Oliver's solos are to be "Macushla" and Berlin's "Russian Lullaby."

THURSDAY — Jack Buchanan, starred in Cochran's London revue, "Wake Up and Dream," and Jessie Matthews, featured in the same production, are to take part in a special Columbia chain broadcast at 6 p. m. William Hain, tenor; John Barclay, baritone; Lillian Bucknam, soprano, and a symphony orchestra are to give a Columbia chain grand opera concert at 9 p. m. Soloists in the R. C. A.-Victor hour over KSD at 9 p. m. will be Marguerite d'Alvarez, internationally known contralto, and Armand Tokatyan, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera. Mme. d'Alvarez is to sing the great arias from "Samson et Delila" and "Carmen." Devora Nadworhey is to sing the title role in a broadcast of "Carmen" by the National Grand Opera Company of the NBC over KSD at 10 p. m. Theodore Webb will be the Toreador, while Julian Oliver will have the part of Don Jose.

FRIDAY—The Eastern Tour Division of the National High School Orchestra, representing half of the organization's 300 young musicians, is to play two numbers in the Walter Damrosch musical appreciation period over KSD and KWK at 10 a. m. The program will include "The Blue Danube" waltz of Johann Strauss; Foster's "Swanee River," Siegfried's Rhine Journey from the "Die Goetterdaemmerung" of Wagner; the Andante from Haydn's Symphony in D-minor; Dvorak's "In the Spinning Room;"

KAYE DON of Great Britain, who will pilot the "Silver Bullet," expects to average better than 250 miles an hour up and down the seashore course. He is seen at the wheel.

Kaye Don Will Attempt to Lower Segrave's Speed Mark

RACING in this country will get under way with a fortnight of speed trials against time over the sand course at Daytona Beach, Fla., beginning March 15. Apparently the only contestant who will appear in an attempt to lower Sir Henry Segrave's record of 231.36 miles an hour, established last year, will be a fellow Englishman, Kaye Don. Don already holds the world record for one mile from a standing start at 100.77 miles an hour. He set this and 12 other records, mostly for stock cars, in Sunbeam and Bugatti cars at the Brooklands course in England in 1929.

The Sunbeam "Silver Bullet" he will pilot next month has been specially built in the Sunbeam company's factory in England, following the design of Louis Coatelen, a Frenchman, who has built automobiles in England for 30 years.

In 1929 Segrave drove the 900-horsepower Irving Napier Leon "Golden Arrow." The "Silver Bullet" has two 12-cylinder motors banked in a V shape, each said to be capable of delivering about 1400-horsepower each. Don asserts he will attain 250 miles an hour.

Coatelen, one of the foremost British automobile designers, recently perfected what he calls a "high speed injection Diesel" heavy oil motor, the fuel of which is injected into the cylinders at high pressure, the charge being fired by the heat of compression. Thus no hot tube or electrical ignition is necessary, it is sadi.

He believes that in the Sunbeam he has solved the problem of visibility by the ingenuous suspension of the driver independently of the body of the car. The seat is suspended and pivoted with a counter weight equal to the weight of the driver and this, Coatelen asserts, will enable the pilot to keep in a constant position, irrespective of bouncing.

Strong steel hoops over the top section of the body will, presumably, protect the driver should the car roll over. They are said to be sufficiently strong to hold the weight of the car off the driver

First Auto Built 161 Years Ago

In 1769 the Initial Self-Propelled Vehicle Appeared on the Roads of France.

IT IS hard to believe that the automobile is 161 years old. It is harder to believe that the first vehicle that bore the name automobile, meaning self-propelled vehicle, could have any relationship to the dashing, lively creation that bears the same name today. Both, however, are facts. They mean that, at the age of 161 years, the automobile obviously has found the fountain of youth.

To find the first automotive vehicle which functions with any degree of similarity to those in use today, one needs turn back the pages of history not more than 40 years. But to discover its counterpart, the first "automobile," takes one back a few years before the American Revolution. Nicholas Cugnot, a French captain of artillery, is credited with having built the first vehicle that may claim relationship with the modern motor car.

Cugnot's creation had a power plant run by steam, but nevertheless it takes its place at the head of the automotive procession. That was in 1769. Shortly afterward, the first automobile made its appearance in the United States. It also was built around a steam engine by Oliver Evans of Philadelphia, and it traveled through the city streets successfully about 25 years after Cugnot's vehicle steamed over French roads.

The Gasoline Engine.

Inventors continued to work with varying success for the next century. Then came Otto Daimler, generally credited with the invention of the gasoline engine. He first used it on a bicycle, transmitting power through a chain. But along came Levassor and Panhard, who had been building coaches for the crowned heads of Europe, and developed a transmission device with a clutch, a series of reduction gears, and a differential at the rear.

In 1892 there appeared the power buggy of Charles Duryea. It had a one-cylinder engine placed vertically under the seat with a flywheel at the lower end. A second car was built by his brother, Frank Duryea, who equipped it with a water-cooled cylinder, timing gear to open the exhaust valve, a constant level carburetor, an electric igniter, and batteries to provide current. The transmission was similar to that of the first—friction disc.

Out of these experiments grew the Duryea Motor Wagon Corporation formed in 1895, and a product of this company won the Chicago Times-Herald race which has been credited as the first ancestor of the automobile races of today.

While European designers continued to struggle with the problem of obtaining enough power with which to drive the new vehicles, Elwood Haynes in 1894 built the second American motor car, assisted by Edgar and Elmer Apperson. It weighed 900 pounds and delivered one horsepower. When it moved, this creation whizzed along at six miles an hour.

Haynes and King.

Men still were unwilling to swap their horses for the new contraptions. But Haynes was not one of these equestrian-minded individuals. He stepped out and built a two-cylinder, opposed, valve-in-head, four-cycle engine that developed four horsepower. He and the other hardy pioneers in the dawn of the automobile era had their worries. Engines were cumbersome with valve mechanisms that were fickle, ignition systems that were uncertain, and carburetion that would worry even the optimism of an inventor.

Then cylinders began to multiply, first from one to two and then from to two to four. Charles B. King sponsored the car which at least sounded more like the car of today. It had a detachable cylinder head, a five-bearing crankshaft, tubular chassis members, and other features that have a familiar ring. Later, however, King and Haynes went back to twin-cylinder engines.

Any picture of progress in these early days would be incomplete without mention of Alexander Winton, successful bicycle manufacturer, who in 1896 brought out his

Mardi Gras in New Orleans An Attraction To Motorists

City in Festive Mood As Celebration Draws Near to Climax March 4 with Series of Parades and Balls—Auto Route via Memphis, Tenn., Jackson, Miss., and Old Spanish Trail Recommended.

IT is carnival time in New Orleans. The Mardi Gras, which began Jan. 6 with the Twelfth Night Revelers, will come to a gala climax on March 4. Briefly, the program for the remainder of the celebration, which annually attracts many motorists from St. Louis, is as follows: Tomorrow, Ball of Oberon; Tuesday, Ball of the Atlanteans; Wednesday, Ball of the Krewe of Mystery; Thursday, Parade and Ball of Momus; Saturday, Ball of the Mystic Club; March 3, Parade and Ball of Proteus, and March 4, Parade of Rex, Parade and Ball of Comus and Parade and Ball of the Druids.

Motorists traveling to New Orleans from here are advised to take this route: Over the Free Bridge and out Illinois No. 13 to just below Marissa; Illinois No. 152 to Duquoin, No. 2 to Carbondale and No. 13 to Harr'sburg. From there south on No. 1 across the new bridge over the Ohio River at Paducah, Ky., then U. S. No. 45 to Fulton, Ky., Tennessee No. 31 to Memphis, U. S. 51 to Jackson, Miss., U. S. 49 to Hattiesburg, U. S. 11 to Slidell and U. S. 90 to New Orleans.

One will pause, perhaps, at Memphis, which the French settled about 1608, building strong forts to resist hostile Indians. Many years later the Spaniards also built forts to protect their settlements on the lower Mississippi. The real settlement of the town, however, did not begin until about 1819. One of the greatest naval conflicts of the Civil War was fought just on the river at this point.

Good Road to Jackson, Miss.

South from Memphis an excellent gravel road, with some concrete, leads to Jackson, capital of Mississippi. This city was founded in 1829 and named after Andrew Jackson, hero of the Battle of New Orleans in the War of 1812.

On the last lap of the journey, Highway 90 crosses the famous Pontchartrain Bridge into the Mardi Gras city.

The tour department of the Automobile Club of Missouri advises that the above route is preferable to any other at this time of the year, as it avoids detours and is in excellent condition. The total distance from St. Louis is 804 miles by this routing.

And the French quarter in New Orleans, commonly called the Vieux Carre! Odd! Intriguing! Old, picturesque and entirely different from most places. Ancient houses with balconies set off by lace-work iron railings from the courtyards, where cool shadows provide welcome surcease from the merciless heat of the summer sun.

Old and New City.

Then there is modern New Orleans, with its fine hotels, banks, newspapers and department stores. Obviously one may live in two worlds at the same time—the old and the new.

In New Orleans there is probably the only monument in the world commemorating the deeds of a pirate. Dominique You, who was a lieutenant under the La Fittes, volunteered to assist in the defense of the city when the British threatened with a huge fleet and land force. His services, as well as those of the La Fittes, were so valuable that all were pardoned, but it was You who evoked the greatest praise of Gen. Jackson, who said: "Were I ordered to storm the gates of Hell, I should not fear for the result if I had Dominique You to help me."

Highway 90 is also known as the Old Spanish Trail, because it was used by the Spaniards going from Florida into the Mississippi Valley.

Hilarious throngs make merry day and night in the Creole City during the Mardi Gras. The Veiled Prophet celebration in St. Louis is comparable to it. Carnival crowds line the streets for the parades, singing, shouting and greeting each of the ornate and awesome floats with bursts of applause.

It is a time for carefree enjoyment and the whole city is in a festive mood, extending hospitality to the thousands of visitors who go there each year.

Rigid Precision Marks Work at Oakland Plant

Material, Parts Thoroughly Inspected by Highly Trained Staff.

The new Oakland eight and the new series Pontiac big six are being built under the most rigid precision standards in Oakland history—a standard of accuracy that involves an almost endless series of inspection checks and rechecks.

Responsibility for the precise care observed in the manufacture of Oakland and Pontiac cars rests with W. H. Vann, chief inspector.

"Our material, parts and assembly inspectors are all trained specialists—experts in one particular detail of inspection," said Vann. "In addition we employ a group of 15 final inspectors who might well be termed superinspectors. Only these chosen men have the authority to place the final okey on a car after it has left the end of an assembly line.

"The asembly lines are divided into four 'inspection zones,' beyond which a car cannot pass without an inspection okey. If it fails to pass, it is removed, given special attention and started back on the assembly line where it again is checked by the same inspector. A complete inspection record accompanies each car as it progresses through the factory.

"Because of the extreme care with which our motors are built, inspection on the motor lines is particularly rigid. Piston pins, fitted to within .0003 of an inch, are given nine separate inspections. Cylinders must be within .0005 inch of a perfect circle and the pistons are given a selective fit by veteran workmen so skilled that they themselves could qualify as inspectors. Ten samples of molten metal are taken from the foundry each day and analyzed by expert metalurgists. A motor block is broken up daily to be tested for hardness and uniformity."

Besides its constant inspection of material and assembly operations, the inspection department maintains a motor checking room where a complete Oakland motor and a complete Pontiac motor ready for installation are taken each day for disassembly and detailed inspection.

Where Automobiles Are Carefully Inspected

Rigid standards of precision are used in building Oaklands and Pontiacs. The photograph shows some of the 15 final inspectors looking over a couple of the cars.

1930 Sales Higher

More Franklin cars were delivered at retail by dealers during the month of January, 1930, than during the corresponding month last year and the gain over 1929 figures has been maintained to date in the current month, H. H. Franklin, president of the Syracuse, N. Y. automobile plant, states.

Willys Lowers Railroad Time On Coastal Run

Two test runs made on the Pacific coast during last week demonstrated the claims made by Willys-Overland, Inc., as to the speed both in second and high gear possible with the 1930 Willys Six.

The first run, with the transmission locked in second gear, was made from Los Angeles to San Diego, 132 miles. With Eddie Pullen, ex-champion dirt track and road driver, as pilot at the wheel, the Willys Six covered the distance in two hours and 57 minutes for an average speed of 44.76 miles an hour.

Immediately after this second-gear run, Pullen took the same stock Willys sedan and, leaving Hollywood at 9 p. m., an hour after the Los Angeles departure time of the Lark, express train between Los Angeles and San Francisco, on which George M. Graham, vice president in charge of sales, Willys-Overland, Inc., was a passenger, and arrived in the Golden Gate City two hours ahead of the train, clipping three hours off of the fastest railroad running schedule between two cities.

Urges Drivers Be Examined as to Their Eyesight ptometrist Blames States for Not Passing Laws Requiring Tests.

Negligent State officials were re-onsible for at least 60 per cent the 30,000 or more deaths re-lting from automobile accidents
1929, in the opinion of Dr. Ed-
n H. Silver of Washington, D. C., airman of the Motor Vision of e American Optometric Associaon.

"I refer particularly to the ofcials of the two-thirds of the ates which require no examinaon, either mechanical or physical, prospective motor vehicle opertors," Dr. Silver said, describing s view. "When there is an auto ccident, these officials are as uch 'accessories before the fact' s the man who turns a mad dog ose in the streets. They should e held not only morally but legal-responsible for the results of uch accidents, especially when here is loss of life or injury to a erson or persons."

Besides his connection with the ptometric Association, Dr. Silver a member of the National Safety ouncil, is a Fellow of the Amerian Academy of Optometry, and is ne of the foremost authorities on "motor vision" in the United tates. For 20 years he has sought o have an eyesight test included n the examination of every appli-ant for a permit to drive a car.

10 Laws Require Tests.

Today a physical examination, ncluding an eyesight test, is reuired of applicants for driving ermits in Connecticut, Maryland,
assachusetts, New Hampshire,
New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Rhode Island, Vermont and the District of Columbia. This examination is in no sense similar to that required of an applicant for life insurance. It is rather a subjective examination, demonstrating the ability of the applicant to see,
o comprehend, to reason, respond,
ct and use good judgment.

Dr. Silver points to the vital statics on automobile accidents in he United States in 1929, prepared by the Census Bureau, as justificaion of his claim that every driver hould undergo an examination as o mechanical and physical ability o drive.

"Washington, D. C., which has model examination law, including n eyesight test, had the lowest per capita death rate from automobile accidents of any city of 00,000 or more population," he pointed out. "The death rate here was 14.8 per 100,000 persons.
In Chicago, where there is no examination, the number killed was 26.9 per 100,000, the highest in the United States. Baltimore, with a aw, had the second lowest death rate, with 14.9, while Cleveland,
O., where there is no examination, had the second highest death date
—23.6."

78th Birthday Celebrated by Studebaker Co.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 22.—Studebaker this week celebrated its seventy-eighth anniversary. During the first 68 years of its history Studebaker's total sales amounted to $560,833,172. During the decade which ended Dec. 31, 1929, total sales amounted to $1,336,000,000. Studebaker executives point to this as proof of the virility of this ancient institution.

The growth of the business from a little frontier blacksmith shop is an epic in America's industrial history. The original capital amounted to only $68, but cash was the least of the resources. Imbued with a sense of the inevitable growth and expansion of their country, the two founders, Henry and Clem Studebaker counted themselves rich in indomitable purpose and a will to succeed.

Shortly after the business was established John Studebaker, a third brother, joined the firm. By the end of the century Studebaker had become one of the largest vehicle builders in the world.

The first Studebaker gasoline car was built in 1904. It was a far cry from the present-day Studebaker champion automobile, but as automotive engineering progressed Studebaker was always to be found in the forefront.

Designers Seek Strength in Steel Body Construction

The designers' aim in developing the new Durant composite bodies was to combine the strength of all steel bodies with the quietness of wood construction without any of the inherent disadvantages of either. Cowl and front pillar assembly is all steel, riveted and welded together with one strong, safe unit which, in turn, is securely held down by six bolts passing through both the body sills and the chassis frame. Door lock pillars, doors, wheel housing and rear kickup sills are also of steel. Wood is used for main sills, belt and roof rails, rear window framing and roof slats. Where steel pillars attach to wood sills and rails substantial brackets, integrally welded to the columns, are securely bolted, instead of being screwed, to the wood members. Corners are strongly braced with steel gussets to add to the great structural strength.

Trout Fishing In State Parks Opens Saturday

WITH the opening of the trout fishing season in Missouri State parks next Saturday, the Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch is prepared to furnish routings to fishermen-motorists.

The bureau advises that the trout are particularly plentiful in Bennett Springs and Montauk State Parks, either of which may be reached handily by motor from St. Louis.

Its 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada, St. Louis and vicinity maps and individual State maps are also available at a slight cost, the bureau announces.

Edward Walsh Is Made Service Head Of Walsh Motor Co.

EDW. WALSH

Edward Walsh, who has two brothers in the automobile industry in St. Louis, William and Frank, has taken charge of the service department of the Walsh Motor Car Co. Five years ago he had the same position. When the company gave up the Ford franchise he became a traveling representative of the Ford Motor Co.'s St. Louis branch.

Later he became associated with the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. in the radio division.

The Walsh Motor Co. is known for its slogan, "No Delay Service."

Royal Automobile Has Compartment For King's Sword

A Packard de luxe eight sedan limousine, recently delivered to King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, is said to be one of the most elaborately equipped automobiles in Europe.

Like the seven other Packard eights owned by the royal family of Jugo-Slavia, the car is painted a dark blue. Its fittings even include a built-in case for the King's sword.

The space under the glass partition separating the rear compartment from the driver's space is divided into a number of compartments. A large locker in the center is fitted with a leather lunch kit, equipped with a complete silver and gold table service.

In a double compartment at the right are thermos bottles for warm foods and a large toilet case. Thermos bottles for hot or cold liquids are fitted into a cabinet at the left of the center locker and in the top of this space are a first-aid kit and a large cigarette case.

The sword compartment extends across the top of the three compartments and the lid which protects the sword against dust becomes a shelf when closed. Immediately in front of this is a tray to accommodate a large roll of road maps.

All of the cases for the various compartments, including even the thermos bottles, are covered with finely tanned pigskin leather. The built-in compartments are finished in highly polished walnut to match the woodwork trim of the rest of the car's interior.

With this latest car of his royal highness the garage of the royal court in Belgrade now houses eight Packard eights. Four are limousines, two cabriolets, one a specially built car with a long body to accommodate servants and baggage and the other is equipped with a body especially designed for hunting.

New Five-Passenger Victoria Is Popular

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 22.—Public response to a new body type, offered for the first time by the Hupp Motor Car Corporation at the New York and Chicago automobile shows, indicates the popularity of the five-passenger coupe in this country for both business and pleasure driving.

The new body type, known as the victoria coupe, is now available in both Model "C" 100-horsepower eight, and the Model "H" 133-horsepower eight Hupmobile. Both cars are of the straight eight type.

Hake Is Elected President of the Royal Tire Service

Announcement is made of the election of Roland Hake as president of the Royal Tire Service Co., which operates a superservice station at Thirty-third street and Washington boulevard. The company handles all lines of U. S. tires, including the popular U. S. Royal cord.

Picturesque Oil and Gas Station On Highway 61

The "Alvarado," a picturesque super service station, patterned after the Spanish, has been opened by the Kelso Oil Co. at the intersection of U. S. Highway No. 61 and West Broadway, a mile from the business section of Cape Girardeau, Mo.

A 24-hour service is obtainable for purchase of gasoline and oil, lubricating, greasing and tire and accessory service. A general waiting room and a specially furnished lady's rest room are features. In addition, there is a dining room finished in buff tile and textone walls, with cypress-beamed ceiling. There are accommodations for 45 persons at unique Spanish tables.

A conveniently placed driveway and approach is smoothly paved, in a dark color to prevent glare. The approach covers 400 feet along the highway.

Used Car Branch

A new used car branch has been opened by the Reichardt Chevrolet Co. of 220 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves at 4106 Olive street. It is in charge of J. H. Endicott who for three years was with the South Side Buick Co. and who has been used car manager for Reichardt since November.

Service Station of Spanish Design

The "Alvarado," erected on U. S. Highway No. 66, out of Cape Girardeau, Mo., offers a restaurant for the convenience of its patrons. Waiting room and cafe furniture and fittings carry out the exterior Spanish motif.

Upholstery Tears Spread Quickly.

Procrastinating about having any part of the car repaired usually is costly. It is particularly so with regard to tears or worn spots in the upholstery. Seat cushions, particularly, get much harder usage than the owner realizes. If the fabric covering, or leather either, is torn or worn have tht place repaired or patched immediately to prevent it from spreading.

C. F. Gatzweiler of St. Charles Named A Dodge Dealer

Announcement is made by Joseph A. Schlecht, secretary of the Millstrand Motor Co., St. Louis Dodge Brothers distributer, of the appointment of another Dodge dealer—Charles F. Gatzweiler Motors, 222-24 South Main street, St. Charles.

Gatzweiler has been in the automobile business in St. Charles since 1920 and is a native of that town. He will handle the complete line of Dodge cars, trucks, busses and motor coaches.

By a coincidence, it was Schlecht who sold Gatzweiler his first automobile many years ago. The two have been friends ever since.

Auto Commerce Body Acts to Remove Old Cars From Highways

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The 'collegiate flivver" and other wheezing, palsied automobiles of venerable vintage are doomed to the scrap heap.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce announced that the industry would expend $15,000,000 this year in removing unsafe cars from the highways. The plan, indorsed by the chamber's Board of Directors, involves the scrapping of 400,000 machines in addition to the normal scrapping by the motor companies, and proposes that the manufacturers provide a fund for removing permanently those automobiles that menace the safety of other highway users.

State Liable for Accidents Caused By Its Vehicles

Pedestrians and Motorists Protected by Recently Upheld Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The validity of a law making a state liable for injuries received by pedestrians and motorists, when caused by the negligent operation of state-owned motor vehicles, has been sustained by the Supreme Court of California, according to the legal department of the American Motorists' Association.

"Action of this court will meet with the approval of motorists throughout the country," declares J. Bordon Weeks, president of the A. M. A. "It in effect upsets the old common law theory 'that the King (or state) can do no wrong.'

"It is estimated that there are approximately 300,000 automobiles operated by the Federal and state governments in this country. A person injured by an automobile owned by the Federal, state, city or county government, should have the same right of recovery as though his injury was sustained through the negligence of a private automobile operator. A law, similar in purpose to the California law, should be enacted in each state."

The California act, passed by the last Legislature, makes the State and certain designated political subdivisions, responsible for the negligent operation of any motor vehicle operated by a State employe. It further provides for insurance indemnifying the State in case of liability.

Validity of the act was questioned primarily on the ground that it was class legislation, the objection being that it inured to the benefit of only those injured through automobile accidents and precludes others that might be injured through some instrumentality of the State, other than an automobile.

"This objection," the court pointed out, "goes only to the policy of such legislation. The wisdom of the legislative department of the government, in adopting such a policy, is not the concern of the court. It is enough if the statute strikes ot the evil where it is felt and reaches the class of cases, such as automobile accidents, where it most frequently occurs."

Gardner Exports Gain

Surpassing all previous records for any similar period in many years, the export sales of Gardner cars for the 11 months ending Nov. 30, 1929, showed an increase of 87.3 per cent, according to T. F. Fowler, director of exports. "This increase," said Fowler, "means that one out of every five cars produced by Gardner during this period was for export shipment. We are proud of this record and of the part St. Louis is playing throughout the world in furthering the most universal means of transportation."

Michigan Law Limits Speed to Ability to Stop

Oldsmobile Brakes Made With Idea of Meeting This Need.

Safe driving speed today depends upon the efficiency of a car's braking system and is being legally recognized as such by the laws of several states. This fact is pointed out by Oldsmobile engineers in their description of the improved four-wheel brakes used on the Oldsmobile six.

Michigan, called the motor State, was one of the first legally to recognize thatf an arbitrary speed limit was not a fair or adequate solution of road safety, the engineers report. As a result of this finding, the Michigan Legislature abolished a fixed speed limit about three years ago and substituted a definition of safe driving instead. This reads:

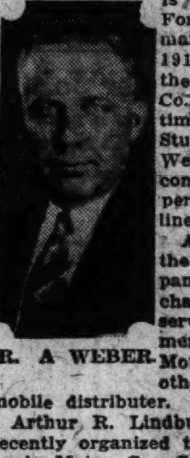
"Any person who drives any vehicle on the highway shall drive the same at a careful and prudent speed not greater nor less than is reasonable and proper, having due regard for the traffic, service and width of the highway and any other conditions then existing. And no person shall drive any vehicle upon the highway at a speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

It is pointed out that the final sentence of this section of the law clearly defines the legal speed of an automobile to be the ability of the brakes to bring it to a stop within the clear distance ahead.

With cars traveling within 10 yards of each other, an automobile with inefficient brakes would be violating the law if it traveled faster than 20 or 25 miles an hour, where another car with proper brake equipment could drive considerably faster and yet be driving in a safe and legal manner.

To meet these changing ideas of speed and safety on the highways Oldsmobile engineers tested various kinds of braking systems for months before selecting what they believed would prove the most efficient.

Appoint Weber Service Manager Of A. R. Lindburg



R. A WEBER.

Appointment of R. A. Weber as service manager of Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., Studebaker-Erskine distributor, is announced. Formerly service manager, from 1911 to 1918, of the Weber Motor Co., which at one time handled the Studebaker line, Weber has had considerable experience in this line.

After leaving the Weber company, he took charge of the service department of the Gross Motor Co., another local automobile distributer.

Arthur R. Lindburg, Inc., was recently organized to succeed the Lurie Motor Car Co., as StudebakerErskine distributer.

British Driver Seeks To Lower Record Set By Sir Henry Segrave

in the event of an upset.

Another unique idea in construction is the double aluminum shell of the body, through which the water for cooling the motor is circulated.

Wheels are wire spoked and tires 27 by 7. The fabric used for the tires is of special silk. There is only enough rubber used to make the surface smooth. A heavy tread would not stay on under the terrific centrifugal force of the wrirling wheels. The pressure used in the tires will be about 130 pounds.

Armor Plate Protection.

An unbroken armor plate covering underneath decreases wind resistance and acts as a protection in case a wheel should collapse, the theory being that the car would slide along on its armored stomach and not turn over, although this presupposes that it will encounter no change in beach contour sufficient to roll it over. The upward sweep underneath at the front is expected to aid the car should it leap from the beach and skim into the ocean.

The "Silver Bullet" is a rear-drive car, with two propeller shafts geared to the rear wheels, passing beside the driver on either side.

It will be the first year that the city of Daytona Beach will hold the trials. Previously, independent organizations have sponsored the exhibitions at irregular intervals since 1902.

The city will also sponsor stock car speed trials, as its major contribution to the automobile industry. A number of entries are expected in this division. The first was the German Mercedes-Benz. Val Haresnape, former secretary of the racing board of the American Automobile Association, will be in charge of the trials, which will be run off under A. A. A. supervision.

The most modern astronomical timing device available has been purchased through the Bureau of Standards. It will time a car to within one-two hundredth of a second. It will be installed on a concrete and steel tower beside the course.

Many Safety Precautions.

In an effort to prevent a recurrence of the fatalities that marred the speed events last year and in 1928, spectators will be kept back 12 feet from the edge of the sand dunes which line the course. Approaches to the ocean will be closed off by gates. In front of the grandstand the dune bank will be reinforced by a stockade of palmetto piling.

Frank Lockhart was killed in 1928 when a rear tire blew out and he skidded. In 1929 Lee Bible cut the throttle of his Triplex Special too quickly and plunged to death at the finish of the measured mile, the car also striking and killing a photographer.

Coatelen will accompany Don to this country week after next. He also designed the "Mystery S," in which Segrave established the first world record in excess of 200 miles an hour in 1927.

Moving from France, where he obtained his first experience in the DeDion-Bouton works, Coatelen, in 1901, found employment with the Humber Co. in England. In 1907 he collaborated in the production of the Hillman-Coatelen and a year later joined the engineering staff of the Sunbeam Motor Co., Ltd.

Long before the war he became interested in aviation and when the war broke out his product, the Sunbeam-Coatelen engine, was said to have been the only one of British manufacture, in big production, which had sufficient power to fly British seaplanes.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Body by Fisher

This Superb Buick . . . 132-Inch Wheelbase Every Inch a Luxury Car

Princely beauty is wedded to superlative performance in Buick for 1930—and these qualities are developed to an extraordinary degree in the 132-inch Buick models.

Thousands of men and women who formerly purchased much higher priced cars now are turning to these luxurious Buicks.

Ultra-smart Bodies by Fisher endow these cars with surpassing charm. The ninety-nine horsepower Buick Valve-in-Head engine provides performance-abilities that are a revelation. Characteristic Buick sturdiness imparts the maximum of reliability. And these superb Buicks combine marked advantages of safety and comfort, including new Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes, new Road Shock Eliminator, Lovejoy Duodraulic Shock Absorbers, adjustable front seat and countless other conveniences.

Buick holds the record for popularity among fine cars. It wins from two to five times as many buyers as any other automobile priced above $1200. It is the choice of discriminating America.

See your Buick Dealer—today. Inspect and drive these luxurious Buick models. You'll find that Buick is the ideal car for you.

Buick for 1930 is offered in three series and three wheelbases, with 15 body types priced from $1260 to $2070, f. o. b. factory. Special equipment extra. All available on the extremely liberal G.M.A.C. time payment plan. Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values.

$100,000,000 in 1930 for Federal Road Program

Congress Expected Soon to Make Appropriations for Next 3 Years.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The State highway systems will receive the benefit of the expenditure of more than $100,000,000 of Federal-aid money during the current fiscal year. Congress shortly is expected to authorize the largest sum yet available for the nation's road construction activity in the next three years.

Congress recently appropriated $31,400,000 of the $75,000,000 authorized for the fiscal year 1930. Included in the Department of Agriculture appropriation bill is an item of $32,800,000, representing the unappropriated remainder of the $75,000,000 authorized for 1929. With the $42,200,000 further authorized for the current year, more than $106,000,000 will be forthcoming from the Treasury before June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

For the three succeeding years, the pending Federal-aid bill provides an annual sum of $125,000,000, an increase of $50,000,000 a year. This sum is declared imperative if the work is not to fall behind. In addition, there would be made available $12,500,000 for forest roads, the same bill increasing the amount for that road-building activity of the Government $5,000,000 a year. Throughout this program the forest roads have been given an appropriation equal to one-tenth the sum authorized for improvement of the State systems, so that the same ratio is preserved in the legislation designed to increase the amount to be spent on the highways in the States.

motor carriage equipped with a one-cylinder engine developing 10 horsepower. Even at this early date Winton's car ran 150 miles in one day on a trip from Cleveland to New York. Among its mechanical features were a hydrocarbon feeder, an electric ignitor, and a governor to regulate the operation of the inlet valves, a problem that had been bothersome from the start.

These early cars were priced from $1000 to $1200.

The Stanley Steamer.

Steam continued to hold its own as a source of power for the early cars and the Stanley Steamer that came out at the beginning of the century was capable of a speed of 30 miles an hour. This required more efficient stopping equipment and it was given a set of high-powered friction brakes.

About this time the infant industry began to display financial possibilities that attracted capital, and Pope, Locomobile, Packard, Autocar, Stearns, Cadillac, National, Peerless, and Olds took their places in the bid for the market. Many authorities regard the years from 1900 to 1905 as the most important, and they were fraught with tremendous activity both here and abroad.

Changes in design and mechanical features now began to assume considerable proportions. In 1900 the steering wheel displaced the tiller and lever used previously. Float feed carburetors, from Europe, came into general use. Following the French practice, the engine was placed at the forward end of the car under the hood.

Many ideas in effect today were established early. The reach rod idea in frame construction was displaced, and lamps that made the car usable at night were the products of 1900. The next year there were 13 cars that had motors at the front of the car. Car trouble, of course, was much the usual thing. Tires, particularly, offered their difficulties, and so the double-tube tire was introduced.

First 6-Cylinder Car.

Among the other early phases of design were the attempts to apply power to all four wheels and to mount engines on a three-point principle of suspension. The designer also was hard at work on the vibration evil. The modern type of radiator came to America from Germany in 1903. One of the most significant advances recorded in 1903 was the development of the mechanically operated valves.

Cars then began to lose their buggy-like appearance in favor of wheelbase lengths of more than 100 inches. Shock absorbers in the form of spiral springs supplemented the regular spring system. In 1904 appeared the remedy for the topless car in the canopy top borrowed from France. The next step was the equipment with windshields.

Elimination of vibration by the use of a six cylinder car was conceived by Napier in England. Then came France's contribution of the skid chain. Shock absorbers became more popular, and side and rear entrance tonneaus attained greater popularity.

Four-Wheel Brakes in 1907.

By 1905 the ignition lock had appeared to foil the automobile thief. About the same time appeared power tire pumps, rims taking either clincher or straight side tires, horns, the folding top and further increases in wheel base length.

Several sixes were introduced in the United States in 1906, and with them came the removal of the cam shaft from the crankcase. Runabouts with more power and with rumble seats gave the cars about this time their appeal to youth.

Four-Wheel Brakes in 1907.

By 1905 the ignition lock had appeared to foil the automobile thief. About the same time appeared power tire pumps, rims taking either clincher or straight side tires, horns, the folding top and further increases in wheel base length.

Several sixes were introduced in the United States in 1906, and with them came the removal of the camshaft from the crankcase. Runabouts with more power and with rumble seats gave the cars about this time their appeal to youth.

About 1907 began a dispute that was not to be setled for more than two decades; namely, whether forced feed, gravity, or splash engine lubrication systems were superior. In Europe it was forced feed, but on his side of the Atlantic the splash system found favor.

As cars picked up in speed the speedometer was added. During the next three years casting cylinders en bloc began to win support in this country, the style having been set in France. England made its contribution to headlighting, studying reflectors, lenses and headlight placement. Four-wheel brakes about this time first appeared in Italy.

Before 1910, America placed the steering wheel on the right hand side. Left hand steering was introduced in this year by the Owen car and within a comparatively brief period nearly 200 other manufacturers followed up its advantages.

In this same year roller bearings came along to make front wheels turn more easily, and patents were issued on the sleeve valve engine.

One of the outstanding developments was the electric starter introduced in 1911. Another advance was the introduction of the "completely equiped" automobile. Quietly but steadily, high tension ignition progressed until its adoption marked the overcoming of ignition problems theretofore so perplexing.

By 1912 nearly 1,000,000 Americans had become somewhat familiar with automobiles. That was for passenger purposes. At the same time the commercial truck had begun to attain a real foothold. By 1913 the electric starter and electric lights were on the cars at the national show. Closed cars were put on the market in this year and were well received.

And the Car of Today.

The first V-type eight appeared in 1915, and worm gear final drive gradually was being displaced in favor of spiral bevel gears. Fuel induction systems were being improved with the introduction of the vacuum tank supplying the substitute for gravity feed. The cone clutch began to fall before progress in disc clutch design.

Progress continued in the post-war period, and in 1923 came the four-wheel brake development that gained rapid ground. Of comparable importance was the introduction of the balloon tire and the offer of the closed car at open car prices.

Changes in metallurgical features were being made, cast iron giving way to aluminum alloys in piston materials, and silchrome steel became the material of which valves of the later cars were made, to withstand higher operating temperatures.

Great changes came within the period from 1924 to 1929. Worm gearing and hypoid final drive, four-point engine mounting with rubber inserts at suspension points to smother vibration, counterweighted crankshafts, tortional vibration dampeners, improved types of four-speed transmissions, heavier propeller shafts, two universal joints instead of one, disc clutches with rubber vibration absorbing insets and, finally, the appearance in this country of front wheel drive with its modification of design features may be recorded. Cooling problems have been studied and thermostatic control has resulted.

These developments with the luxury of appointments, outward beauty and the marked comfort of the modern car have made the automobile of today a descendant, perhaps, of those first crude vehicles, but one that is so vastly superior that at times it appears that the reltaionship exists in name only.

Goodrich Merges With Miller Co. In Big Tire Deal

AKRON, O., Feb. 22.

NEW history has been written into the records of the rubber industry with the final act of merging the Miller Rubber Co. with the B. F. Goodrich Co. this week, following the merger of the Hood Rubber Co. with Goodrich last August. In but little more than six months, Goodrich has advanced from third to second largest in the industry.

The Miller Rubber Co. was next oldest to Goodrich in the Akron area, having been established about 38 years ago. Goodrich celebrates its sixtieth birthday anniversary this year. Adding the Miller drug sundry and footwear lines to the Goodrich and Hood lines gives Goodrich a most prominent place in the rubber industry with respect to these two lines.

Quick Starting And Deceleration Called Important

New Pierce-Arrow Line Has Larger Brakes, Faster Pick-Up.

Despite higher road speeds and heavier traffic, motor car travel is comparatively safer today than it was a few years ago, according to automobile traffic authorities. Traffic conditions have made quick acceleration and speedy deceleration two paramount requisites of the modern car.

Deceleration depends upon the efficiency of the brakes. Acceleration depends upon the reserve power of the engine.

For example, one of the fastest and most powerful cars on the market, Pierce - Arrow's new straight eight can be brought from a speed of 40 miles an hour to a stop within a distance of 54 feet, engineers say.

This is accomplished by the larger self-energizing mechanical four-wheel brakes of the new models.

In accelerating qualities, Pierce-Arrow's new silent, clashless gearshift combines the powerfud "pick-up" of intermediate gear with the silence of high gear, and the result is what is claimed to be the world's fastest traffic acceleration. Herringbone, V-shaped gear teeth, which are permanently in mesh, account for the quiet operation of intermediate, while an ingenious toothed-clutch device accounts for the clashless feature, which makes shifting at any speed easy, even for the novice.

The 1930 line of Pierce-Arrow models, now offered to the public, embraces three groups. In addition to an array of straight eights of new and larger dimensions, the company is introducing a slightly smaller model at a somewhat lower price, thus extending its market. This car has a wheelbase of 132 inches, an engine of 115 horsepower and a factory price of from $2695 to $2875, depending on style and equipment.

New Big Roadster Proves Popular at National Auto Shows

Buick's leadership in its field has been definitely demonstrated during the present automobile show season which is now drawing to a close. At the national shows in New York and Chicago, as well as the shows in other cities throughout the East and Middle West, Buick proved itself a central attraction among the exhibits.

Enthusiastic approval of the new big roadster, which was offered to the public for the first time during the New York show, has marked the appearance of the car in other cities. This car, built on the long 132-inch wheelbase, is a symbol of the world of sport and the great outdoors. It has long, low racy lines which are dressed off with a tailored, smartly finished, low top. The fittings are luxurious in every detail and the car is offered in three different and attractive color combinations.

Few automobiles appeal to such a wide range of motorists as the Buick. In contrast with the big roadster is the series "40" line of six models designed to meet every motoring need. This series is built on a smaller wheelbase—118-inch, and with an 80½-horsepower motor which develops a speed in excess of 70 miles an hour.

Convertible Style In Auto Bodies Grows in Favor

When the sun shines and the weather is warm and balmy the motorist likes to ride with his top down. When the thermometer hits zero, however, he demands the protection of a closed car.

For those who are interested in figures, the rise and fall of the open car and the tendency toward the closed models, present an interesting picture. For instance, in 1919 the automobile industry produced 1,496,652 open cars as compared with 161,000 closed ones, while some 10 years later the figures stood at 3,564,462 closed cars and 460,000 open ones.

Now the convertible is coming into its own, and chiefly, points out R. H. Faulkner, vice president of Auburn, because it has all the advantages of both the open and closed models with none of the disadvantages. Then, too, it has a lot of snap and dash which appeals to the feminine heart.

Using the Cowl Lights.

Cowl lamps usually are used only for parking. To make them most efficient, the motorist should see to it that they are properly aimed. They are subject to loosening up, sometimes very quickly.

Appointed Assistant Regional Sales Head Of Willys-Overland

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 22.—E. D. Knowles, Southwestern regional manager, Willys-Overland, Inc., with headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., has been appointed assistant to the sales manager, Western division, according to George M. Graham, vice president, in charge of sales.

As an aid to P. C. Gartley, general sales manager for this same division, Knowles' duties are materially expanded since the Western sales division comprises the entire Western half of the country, including the Pacific Coast states.

Knowles' promotion follows two years' work as Southwest regional manager, when he joined the Willys-Overland organization. Under his direction, the position of Willys-Overland in the Southwest has been strengthened in the building up of the wholesale distributing as well as retail sales and service organization representing Willys-Overland.

A smoother 60-horsepower engine in this finer car with a famous name

You will naturally expect unusual smoothness when you drive the New Series Pontiac Big Six. It is improbable, however, that you will be looking for anything like the freedom from roughness and vibration which you will actually find. For among the many improvements which make the New Series Pontiac Big Six a finer car, are new-type rubber engine supports which insulate the engine from the frame. The increased smoothness thus achieved in Pontiac's big 60-horsepower engine is still further increased by added stiffness in the crankcase, which reduces crankshaft vibration to the minimum.

And this is only one of a number of recognized Pontiac qualities which the New Series Pontiac Big Six offers in still greater measure. New bodies by Fisher, smartly styled and finished in attractive new Duco colors, provide a most pleasing version of Pontiac's established beauty. Greater riding comfort is afforded by improved Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, which Pontiac includes in its standard equipment. And greater safety results from such improvements as the sloping windshield which lessens headlight glare, and the improved, internal, four-wheel brakes which have been made still more effective.

But why not let Pontiac speak for itself? Come to our showroom now and see this finer car with a famous name. Arrange for a demonstration so that you can take the wheel and discover its impressive performance yourself. In no other way can you appraise the increased value of the New Series Pontiac Big Six!

"Carbo-Solve" Now Used to Combat Carbon in Chryslers

Local Distributer Declares It Is an Aid to Long Life, Efficiency.

Chrysler engineers assert they have practically eliminated the carbon bogey by a unique decarbonizer on the Imperial "77" and "76" models. By merely pulling a plunger underneath the dash, owners are assured, after many miles of driving, the same efficient performance that an engine develops when the new car is delivered, the engineers say.

After extensive research in conjunction with leading chemists, Chrysler engineers have adopted "Carbo-solve," a fluid which dissolves the carbon effectively, and allowing it to be blown out the exhaust.

To provide for the convenient and periodic use of Carbo-solve," the decarbonizer equipment has been installed under the hood on the right hand side of the body dash. This fixture, holding six ounces of the "Carbo-solve" fluid, is connected to the inlet manifold and controlled by a plunger from the driver's compartment.

When the plunger is pulled out with the engine running at a fair speed at normal driving temperature, the "Carbo-solve" is drawn into the engine, thoroughly saturating the combustion chambers. After this injection of "Carbo-solve," the engine is stopped and allowed to stand several hours, permitting the carbon to be thoroughly dissolved. When the engine is again started, the loosened carbon particles and other foreign matter are blown out the exhaust.

The starting of several makes of cars now calls for seeing that the hand throttle is closed. To follow the usual custom with these cars simply delays the start.

The arrangement of instruments on the dash of the 1930 Essex combines beauty with utility, setting a motif which is carried out elsewhere in the car's interior.

Delco Auto Radio To Be Distributed By United Motors

The entire sales and service of the new Delco automotive radio, manufactured by General Motors, is to be handled by the national organization of United Motors Service, according to Ralph S. Lane, president and general manager of United Motors. This is the first authentic information regarding the marketing plans for this radio, which has been developed by General Motors.

With branches in 27 cities in the United States and Canada and approximately 3000 authorized service stations covering the entire country, United Motors provides an organization well established in the automotive field and ably equipped to meet service demands.

"The radio receiving set, as automobile equipment, is the latest and probably the most interesting development offered the car-driving public," Lane said in discussing the new product. "Its introduction under the well-known trade name of Delco will tend to create prompt acceptance and confidence. As United Motors for a long time has handled the sales and service of Delco-Remy starting, lighting and ignition equipment, Delco batteries, Delco-Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and Delco commercial motors, it is well qualified to take over the same functions for the Delco automotive radio."

Sales Director Finds 1930 Line Meets Approval

The 1930 Marmon line, covering all important price classifications for the first time with straight eights, is meeting widespread and definite acceptances throughout the country, according to Thomas E. Jarrard, Marmon general sales director, who has just completed visits to 19 automobile shows, ending the first phase of a four months' business tour of the country.

Discussing the new cars, he said: "Every car in the entire Marmon line this year is new throughout, although the engines are the final result of four years of experience in building straight eights. The $1000 field is covered by the Marmon-built Roosevelt, the $1500 field includes the new 8-69, in the $2000 field is the new 8-79, and in the higher price ranges is the new Marmon big eight.

Describes Trip Across Sahara In Motor Truck

A description of the trip made by Sir Charles Markham and Baron von Blizen-Finecke in an International truck across the Sahara desert several months ago, was given by George W. Small, of the advertising department of the International Harvester Co., at a meeting Wednesday night at the local International Harvester establishment, 4010 West Pine boulevard.

The public as well as members of the local International organization, was present. M. F. McCarthy, branch manager, presided.

Fleet Tests Tires

When you take your car on a long trip you probably think your tires are undergoing a pretty strenuous test. And so they may be, too. But, as tests go, they receive only a casual test. The Fisk Tire Co. has a fleet of cars on the roads every hour of every day and every day of every year putting automobile tires through every conceivable test. By this method they learn just how tires can be made to wear longer and furnish greater comfort and roadability for motorists. It was as an indirect result of these tests that Fisk developed the air-flight principle tire.

At St. Louis Airfields

A GREATER variety of aircraft was in operation at Lambert-St. Louis Field last week than at any previous time in the history of the field.

On Thursday, the peak day for operations, there were 197 visiting planes at the field. The craft varied from tiny monocoupes and a Baby Ace to 18-passenger Condors and several amphibian models. Prospective purchasers and many who were not took demonstration hops. Pilots put their craft through various aerial paces, including snappy takeoffs and steep ascents. By way of curbing the enthusiasm of those inclined toward recklessness Department of Commerce inspectors and Field Manager Parks grounded 10 pilots who persisted in stunting over the landing area. The grounding was for the period of the show and offenses were not serious enough to cause revocation of licenses.

Among the noted pilots participating in the demonstrations at the field were: Clarence Chamberlin, Capt. Frank Hawks, Phil Love, "Speed" Holman, Amelia Earhart, Elinor Smith, Jimmy Doolittle, and a number of others. Holman entertained the crowds on several occasions with a breath-taking demonstration of his special racing Laird.

Illuminated Wind Indicator.

An illuminated wind indicator mounted on a 40-foot steel tower is being tried out at Lambert-St. Louis Field. The cone, which resembles a miniature dirigible, is 18 feet long and three feet in diameter and is visible for a distance of about two miles from the air at night, according to observers.

1361 Curtiss-Wright Alumni.

Statistics for Curtiss-Wright Flying Schools during 1929 show that 1361 students were trained, spending 36,650 hours in the air without a major accident. Many more students will be trained during 1930, when all of the 40 Curtiss-Wright schools are in operation, "Casey" Jones, president of Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, declares.

Students Get Jobs.

George L. Hays and Russell Pearce, St. Louisans, and R. W. Buchanan, recently licensed as transport pilots after completing a course at the Universal Flying School, were placed as transport pilots on the Universal Lines last week. E. W. Luhrsen, another transport graduate of the Universal School, is now instructor at the Wood River (Ill.) Aviation School.

121 Planes Visit Parks.

Lambert-St. Louis Field was not the only busy spot last week. Parks Airport housed 121 visiting planes, representing 30 types, last Wednesday night. The visitors included eight officers of the Illinois National Guard from Chicago, who flew here for the air show.

Capt. Sparks' Record.

Capt. John P. Sparks, new commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, served as an instructor at Issodoun, France, during the World War. He is regarded as one of the most expert pilots in this section of the country.

Visitors to Air Show.

Among the visitors to the air show were Ralph Damon, former production manager for the Curtiss-Robertson plant here, and "Bud" Gurney, former mail pilot. Damon is now assistant to J. A. B. Smith, executive vice president of the Curtiss-Wright organization. Gurney has been operations manager for Continental Air Lines at Cleveland for the last six months, but resigned, effective March 1.

Batts in New Post.

Carl T. Batts, manager of the Curtiss-Wright base here since it was established last spring, has been made assistant to David Visel, vice president in charge of national sales for the Curtiss-Wright organization. Batts, who will leave for New York this week, will be succeeded here by James K. Tully, who will also be manager fo the new Curtiss-Steinberg Airport on the East Side.

For Longer Flying Courses.

The proposal that 100 hours' flying time, in place of 50 hours, be required for students seeking limited commercial licenses is of particular interest locally because of the four flying schools here. The proposal was made at a meeting of flying school operators during the air show. It was also suggested that, if the required flying time were doubled, that the scope of a limited commercial license should be increased to cover barnstorming activities and privilege to instruct, providing the pilot could pass the regulation instructor's test.

Used Plane Department.

It was also agreed at one of the meetings held in connection with the show that the time has come when airplane dealers will have to take back used planes, just as automobile dealers take back used cars. It was suggested that a central agency be established for the distribution of used ships taken on trades.

Basketball Game.

The basketball team of the Universal Aviation School at Kansas City, Mo., flew here Friday for a game with the team of the local Universal School. The local team will fly to Kansas City next month for a return game.

Guard Planes to Be Inspected.

The personnel and flying equipment of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, National Guard, will be inspected at Lambert-St. Louis Field today, the occasion being the annual Federal inspection. Tomorrow records and buildings of the unit will be inspected.

Dinner for Executives.

Executives of the Curtiss-Wright organization who attended the show were entertained at dinner at the home of Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Manufacturing Co., Wednesday night.

AND UP—F. O. B. FACTORY

Big . . . roomy . . . commanding in performance . . . impressive in appearance . . . a true Dodge Brothers product in dependability—these are the qualities that are sweeping the new Dodge Brothers Six into instant popularity everywhere. The more carefully you judge this car by what it is, and what it can do, the more you marvel at the fact that it is the lowest-priced Six—the lowest-priced closed car—the lowest-priced car with safe, silent Mono-piece Steel Body—the lowest-priced Six with weatherproof 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—ever offered by Dodge Brothers.

A NEW 8 IN LINE

AND UP—F. O. B. FACTORY

Evaluate the new Dodge Eight-in-Line first from the standpoint of engineering. Study its down-draft carburetion, mechanical fuel pump, air and oil cleaners, the power it delivers from its 220.7 cubic inch piston displacement, the matchless action of its big internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes. Then consider the advantages in comfort, luxury and safety of hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers, pillow-type upholstery, exquisite modernistic appointments, low-swung, silent, safe Mono-piece Steel Body. The sum of all these features at such a price can only be described as sensational value.

OY SCOUTS' CIRCUS WILL OPEN FRIDAY

vestiture Ceremony for 950 Tenderfoots to Be One of Events.

The eighth annual St. Louis Boy ocut Circut, at The Arena next riday and Saturday evenings, will the occasion for one of the rgest tenderfoot investiture ceremonies ever held in the Middle West, according to Charles Mills, ctivities director of the Boy Scout ouncil. More than 950 boys will e sworn in as tenderfoots and gold adges will be presented to them ignifying their rank.

The new Scouts are recruits who ave been signed by local troops uring an achievement roundup hat has been running in St. Louis ince last December. One of the chievements required in the oundup was the signing fo a quota f recruits by each troop, while art of another achievement consisted of enlisting 12-year-old boys, n the theory that a boy who joins Scout troop when he is 12 will ccomplish more in scouting than f he waits until he is 14 or 15.

The investiture will be on the ircus program Friday evening. Presentation of honors to Scouts who have won them during the oundup, will be Saturday evening. The Saturday night ceremony will also include awarding of achievement streamers to troops which have met the requirements of the roundup, or any of its four parts. These ceremonies will be the only alternate events of the circus, the remainder of the program being he same both evenings.

Four other acts at the circus are: a pageant, "Scouts of Today, Men of Tomorrow;" a "Frontier Days" pageant, with covered wagons and Indians; an airplane exhibit, during which scale models built by the scouts will be flown; and, as the climax, a pioneering event in which 28 troops will erect, within a few minutes, towers, bridges, derricks, log cabins, leanos, and other wood structures.

The program will also include a staged rescue from a burning building, first aid events, a clown act, a drum and bugle corps, and music by the St. Louis Boy Scout Harmonica Band. More than 7000 scouts will march in the Grand Entry parade around the arena floor.

A dinner and meeting of the Circus Committee and the council Activities Committee will be held at the arena Tuesday evening, to discuss final plans for the circus. The meeting will be open to all scout leaders of the council.

Troop Notes

West District.

Scout Robert White was elected Scribe of Troop 26, of the Delmar Baptist Church, at the meeting last week. At the meeting the troop registered with 33 active and three associate scouts. Scouts White, Tom McConnell, Robert Smock, and Donald Weir of the troop passed the district Board of Review last Wednesday, and as a result will receive first class adges at the Scout Circus Saturday evening. The troop has qualified in all four parts of the Achievement Roundup, and will be presented with a gold Achievement streamer at the circus.

The Mohawk patrol, with 132 points, is leading in an inter-patrol contest in Troop 30, of the Y. M. H. A. The Sioux patrol, with 128 points, is second, while the Comanches and Apaches are tied for third with 103 points each. The Navajo patrol is fifth, and the Senecas are last. The Sioux patrol won a patrol drilling contest at the meeting last week, the Comanches taking second. The troop was also inspected by the troop committee, to meet one of the requirements for the Achievement award. Several tests were passed at the meeting.

Members of the troop participated in several outside activities durg the week. Patrol Leader Louis Platt took charge of the meeting of Troop 7 Friday evening. All officers of the troop attended a meeting Tuesday to discuss the first aid exhibit the troop will give at the Scout Circus, and all candidates for first and second class rank attended the Board of Review Wednesday. One of the officers was in charge of signaling the review.

A new patrol, made up of first class scouts who have met certain requirements, was organized by Troop 49, of the First Presbyterian Church, at a meeting of the troop last week. The new patrol, which is called the Rangers, is composed of Scouts Eugene Hall, Jerrie Price, and William Phremmer, formerly of the Owl Patrol, and Russell Meredith, formerly of the Lion patrol. Scout James Redman was appointed patrol leader of the Owls to take the place of Scout Hall, while Scout Fred Cimmerman was made assistant patrol leader in the place of Scout Price. Scoutmaster Gillespie gave a talk, explaining the purpose and activities of the Rangers. The remainder of the meeting was spent in games, test-passing, and practicing for the Scout Circus.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

BOY SCOUTS' CIRCUS WILL OPEN FRIDAY

Investiture Ceremony for 950 Tenderfoots to Be One of Events.

The eighth annual St. Louis Boy Socut Circut, at The Arena next Friday and Saturday evenings, will be the occasion for one of the largest tenderfoot investiture ceremonies ever held in the Middle West, according to Charles Mills, activities director of the Boy Scout Council. More than 950 boys will be sworn in as tenderfoots and gold badges will be presented to them signifying their rank.

The new Scouts are recruits who have been signed by local troops during an achievement roundup that has been running in St. Louis since last December. One of the achievements required in the roundup was the signing fo a quota of recruits by each troop, while part of another achievement consisted of enlisting 12-year-old boys, on the theory that a boy who joins a Scout troop when he is 12 will accomplish more in scouting than if he waits until he is 14 or 15.

SPECIAL BOARD OF REVIEW TO TEST SCOUT CANDIDATES

To Meet at Michael School Wednesday to Examine First and Second Class Ranks.

A special board of review, to examine Boy Scout candidates for second and first class ranks who were unable to attend the regular boards of review last week, or who did not complete their requirements, will be conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council at the Michael School next Wednesday evening, according to William Puffer, educational director of the council. The review is held to enable as many Scouts as possible to qualify in the Achievement Roundup in progress as a preliminary to the Scout Circus.

As the review is open to Scouts from all four districts of the council, the examining staff will be composed of representatives from each of the district boards. The review is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

Troop Notes

West District.

Scout Robert White was elected Scribe of Troop 26, of the Delmar Baptist Church, at the meeting last week. At the meeting the troop registered with 33 active and three associate scouts. Scouts White, Tom McConnell, Robert Smock, and Donald Weir of the troop passed the district Board of Review last Wednesday, and as a result will receive first class badges at the Scout Circus Saturday evening. All officers of the troop attended a meeting Tuesday to discuss the first aid exhibit the troop will give at the Scout Circus, and all candidates for first and second class rank attended the Board of Review Wednesday. One of the officers was in charge of signaling at the review.

A new patrol, made up of first class scouts who have met certain requirements, was organized by Troop 49, of the First Presbyterian Church, at a meeting of the troop last week. The new patrol, which is called the Rangers, is composed of Scouts Eugene Hail, Jerrie Price, and William Phremmer, formerly of the Owl Patrol, and Russell Meredith, formerly of the Lion patrol. Scout James Redman was appointed patrol leader of the Owls to take the place of Scout Hail, while Scout Fred Cimmerman was made assistant patrol leader in the place of Scout Price. Scoutmaster Gillespie gave a talk, explaining the purpose and activities of the Rangers. The remainder of the meeting was spent in games, test-passing, and practicing for the Scout Circus.

Forty-five members of Troop 60, of the Union Avenue Christian Church, were present at an inspection conducted by Troop Committeeman Williams, Lambkin and Blakemore at a troop meeting a week ago Friday evening. Thirty-five scouts and four committeemen attended the church in a body Sunday, to hear a special scout sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Campbell. Both the inspection and church attendance were part of the troop's observance of Scout Anniversary Week.

Seventy-one tests, in cooking, camping, tracking and fire building were passed by the scouts of Troop 90, of the Temple Shaare Emeth, while on a hike to the Osage Hills quarry last Sunday. Forty-six scouts and officers went on the hike. Eight new scouts have joined the troop recently: Harvey Zucker, Harry Greensfelder, Melvin Mayer, Robert Palan, Howard Lessen, Joseph Blath, Jerry Levitt and Jerry Marx. Forty-two scouts attended the meeting last week.

Senior Patrol Leader Bob Miller, of Troop 113, which meets at the Church of the Messiah, has passed the last merit badge required for the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest in scouting. The troop completed its requirements for Part 3 of the Achievement Roundup last week, when an inspection of the troop by Troop Committeemen Goddard and Chamberlain enabled the troop to reach 125 points in the contest. Twenty-five of the thirty-one resistered scouts were present for the inspection, and twenty-four were in uniform. The troop is planning to give an entertainment for the Laymen's League of the church, eleven scouts will present three acts; first aid and life saving, knot-tying, and signaling. Scribe Herman Hochstein has been elected chairman in chairman in charge of the entertainment, while three committees have been appointed by Scoutmaster Rebore to take charge of the three acts. Senior Patrol Leader Miller will have charge of the knot-tying, assisted by Scout Sam Schwartzberg; Eugene Hahnel, assisted by Charles Solomon, Sidney Yawitz, and Bob VanMeter, will conduct the first aid; and Joe Hemker, assisted by Will Casey and Frank Daniels, will have charge of the signaling.

Because of increasing membership, the troop is organizing a new patrol. The present assistant patrol leaders, Charles Solomon, Will Casey, and Sam Schwartzberg, will take an examination to see who shall be patrol leader, while a similar test for assistant patrol leader will be taken by Scouts Frank Daniels, Jack O'Neill, Ely Bornstein, J. L. Shatto, Frank Yawitz, and Bob VanMeter. The Silver Fox patrol won review at the last meeting, the Beavers were second and the Tigers third. No co-operation ribbon was awarded, as the three patrols were judged to be even. The winning patrol next week will receive two ribbons instead.

North District.

Two new recruits have been signed up by Troop 3 of the Grace Holy Cross Church, and Scouts Hunt and Herbert Wallberg have become first-class scouts, in the troop's efforts to qualify in the Achievement Roundup which will end with the Scout Circus. Scouts Hunt and Wallberg completed their first-class requirements by passing their swimming tests.

More than 350 parents and friends attended a presentation of a Standard Troop Award to Troop 122 of the Sherman Park Community Center at Bailey Hall, Feb. 15. This award is made to troops who have met high standards in scouting. Two other presentations were also made: the Grand Prize for the best booth at the 1929 Merit Badge Show, held last fall, and a prize of a sleeping bag to Senior Patrol Leader Andrew Aylward for selling more tickets to the show than any other scout in St. Louis. The Standard Troop emblem was given by Scout Commissioner H. D. McBride, while the other two presentations are made by Activities Director C. H. Mills of the local scout council.

Troop 151, of the Jennings Union Church were presented with an American flag by the Daughters of America, Victory Council No. 10, at a meeting at the Jennings High School the night of Feb. 15. After a talk on the purpose and principles of the lodge by Mrs. Clara Hendricks, the flag was formally presented to the troop by the lodge drill team, under Mrs. Charles T. Carter. Mrs. J. C. Kimbiel, who gave a talk on the history of the flag, was followed by Mr. Kimbiel, as Uncle Sam. Scoutmaster William Reeves conducted a Tenderfoot Investiture Ceremony, after which the scouts played games and sang scout songs. The serving of refreshments concluded the program.

The presentation of the flag was sponsored by Mrs. M. Knowles of the lodge.

Both Mills and McBride made talks. "The Show Boat Minstrels" gave two sketches, Scouts Edward Marshall and Joe Coffey presenting a skit "Dunder and Blitzen," and Scouts Edward Frank and Gene Britt following with a minstrel piece entitled "No Sense Nohow." The troop drum and bugle corps played. The troop attended the Aircraft Exhibit in a body yesterday afternoon.

A new North District scout troop, Troop 154, was organized at the Black Jack Lutheran Church last week, under the sponsorship of that institution. Paul G. Kutscher has been appointed scoutmaster. Eleven scouts registered at the first meeting, which was conducted largely by Deputy Commissioner L. F. Jaeger and Scoutmaster William T. Reeves of Troop 151, of the Jennings Union Church. Troop 154 will meet on Wednesdays hereafter.

South District.

The scouts of Troop 105, which meets at the Church of the Assumption, practiced knot-tying with neckerchiefs for the Scout Circus, at the regular meeting of the troop last week. An inspection was held, and a game played. The evening's program concluded with a scout closing ceremony.

Four new 12-year-old scouts, Dean Meyer, Roy Mueller, John Pelikay and Reid Freurmuth, enlisted in Troop 247, of the Froebel School, during Anniversary Week. The troop is attempting to qualify in all four parts of the Achievement Roundup which will end with the Scout Circus.

The Mothers' Auxiliary of Troop 168, gave a Valentine party for the scouts at the St. Pius School, troop headquarters, in place of the regular troop meeting last week. This troop recently celebrated its first anniversary by holding a Parents' Night, which was attended by parents, friends of the scouts, and officers from other troops. A Tenderfoot Investiture Ceremony was conducted, and talks were given by Activities Director Mills of the local scout council, Field Executive Laemmli, Deputy Commissioner Maxwell, Deputy Commissioner Kleykamp, and Father Meagher, troop adviser.

Troop 32 has been organized in the South District, under the sponsorship of a group of business men who live near Shaw's Garden. The troop, which has already signed 20 members, will meet in a hall at 3939 Magnolia avenue on Friday evenings. Elmer A. Kleykamp Sr., has been commissioned scoutmaster of the troop, while his son, Elmer Jr., has been appointed senior patrol leader. Both are Eagle Scouts. The troop committee consists of Robert L. Spelbrink Sr., chairman, John J. Griffin, and William A. Chard. The troop is planning to participate in the Scout Circus at the Arena this week, and has already sold more than its quota of tickets.

HUDSON'S Great 8

Questions the Wisdom of ever paying more for any car

Its rich appointment; beautiful, well-groomed and distinguished appearance

Its outstanding performance, thrilling action, brilliant and surpassing smoothness

Its wealth of detail, finished inside and out with the care and workmanship of exclusive cars

Its remarkable economy in operation—high mileage per gallon of gasoline and its reliability and sturdiness

And its pride of ownership, in every particular of motor car satisfaction, questions the wisdom of ever paying more for any car.

It is a question that motordom is everywhere asking. It is revealed in hosts of new owners turning to Hudson from every size and price field. It is confirmed in the most spontaneous welcome ever extended an eight-cylinder car.

This is the car which all Hudson's past achievements are set aside to produce. That fact alone speaks for a remarkable development. When you see and ride in it you will understand that an entirely new standard of motor value has been established.

It genuinely questions the wisdom of paying more for any car.

WNAC May Be Key For 4-City Chain

A four-city broadcasting chain, with WNAC, Boston, as key station, is being organized. WNAC for several years has been supplying programs to WEAN, Providence, R. I. Now WLBZ, Bangor, Me., also has effected a hookup with WNAC.

Establishing a link in the chain at Worcester, Mass., depends on favorable action by the Federal Radio Commission on a petition by the operators of WNAC to move WLEX, now at Lexington, Mass., to Worcester.

GRAHAM

Eights and Sixes

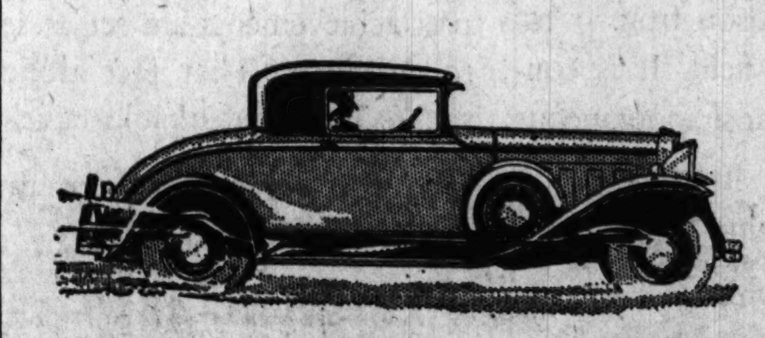
The next great step in motoring safety—protection from flying, splintered glass—is inaugurated in the new Graham Eights and Sixes. The Grahams and the Graham dealers conceive it to be their duty to provide all possible security for those who motor. So they jointly forego all profit on the complete protective equipment of shatter-proof safety plate glass in every Graham car—protection in every windshield and door and window.

The Graham brothers' one and only manufacturing purpose is to build cars so excellent, so fine in appearance and so efficient in performance that it will be perfectly clear to anyone that nothing can be gained by paying higher prices than Graham prices. A case in point is the

NEW GRAHAM EIGHT



VERY GOOD CARS AT LOW PRICES

These beautiful new cars of 122-inch wheelbase are superbly powered with engines of 100 horsepower, very speedy and with unusual flexibility provided by the special Graham three-speed and four-speed transmissions. Performance is made more brilliant and more reliable by the advanced engineering of carburetion, manifolding and manifold heat control. Seating and driving arrangements are such that the car fits itself to the owner by means of adjustable front and rear seats, pedals and steering column. All bodies now Graham-built in Graham factories to the high standards of the Graham quality. Standard Eight, $1445 and up. Special Eight, with time-proved four-speed transmission, de luxe bodies and trim, $1595 and up. Sixes in many body types, $895 and up. Prices at factory.

Here and There on the Air --- --- ---

By J. L. S.

ANDRES SEGOVIA, the Spaniard whose guitar playing has won him musical rank with the finest of pianists and violinists, is to be soloist in the Atwater Kent concert over KSD next Sunday night. The Atwater Kent Quartet also will be on the program.

William Brewster, first ruling elder of the Pilgrim colony in Massachusetts in 1620, will be the central figure in the radio drama to be broadcast in the Columbia School of the Air period over the Columbia chain at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon. The Thursday program in this educational series will be entitled, "Friends in Bookland." The "friends" will be characters from such books as "Ivanhoe," "Tom Sawyer," "The Three Musketeers," "The Last of the Mohicans" and "The Morte d'Arthur."

Facts relating to the National Prohibition Poll to be conducted by the Literary Digest will be discussed in a series of broadcasts on 26 nights, beginning tomorrow night over KWK and other NBC Blue Chain stations.

Floyd Gibbons, the "Headline Hunter," will be the speaker in this series of 15-minute broadcasts. In addition to his discussion of the prohibition poll, Gibbons will give news reports and analyses of current events.

In the eastern time zone, the new program will be heard at 6:45 o'clock, Eastern Standard time. The pragram will be repeated at 10:45 Central time through stations in the Central and Mountain time zones.

A separate program, similar to the one in which Gibbons will be featured, will be broadcast on the Pacific Coast every night except Sunday, beginning Feb. 24. In this program John D. Barry, veteran newspaper man and radio speaker, will handle the poll and news events in the same manner as Gibbons.

The plan of the poll is to send ballots to 20,000,000 representative Americans by mail to determine whether public sentiment is for continuance and strict enforcement of the Prohibition amendment and the Volstead law, whether modification in favor of light wines and beers is desired, or whether a repeal of the eighteenth amendment is favored.

Gibbons will go on the air every night, except Sunday until March 25.

Reports in New York are that the elaborate broadcasts by the National Grand Opera Company are to be done away with by the National Broadcasting Co. It is said that the cost of this feature, which never has been on a commercial basis, is regarded as excessive, especially in view of the artistic defects of such tabloid presentations. The productions necessitate a permanent company of 10 soloists, including Julian Oliver and Devora Nadworney, in addition to a chorus and full orchestra, all under the direction of Cesare Sodero.

Mary Hopple, who sings in many N. B. C. broadcasts, was robbed recently of jewelry and clothing that she valued at $2500. Thieves ransacked her apartment while she was rehearsing in an N. B. C. studio in New York.

LUPE VELEZ is to sing in the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman hour over the Columbia chain at 8 p. m. Tuesday. She will sing from Los Angeles, while Whiteman directs his orchestra from San Diego, Cal. The Mexican Marimba Band of Agua Caliente is to be featured with Miss Velez.

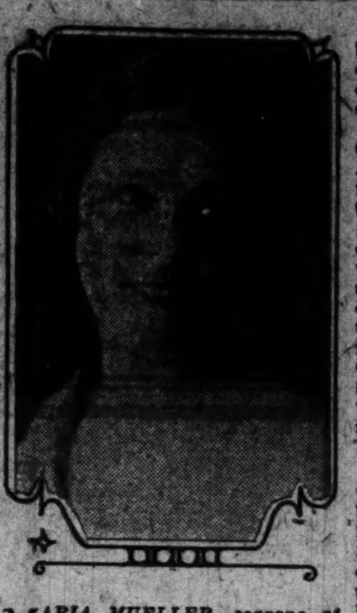
KMOX NOTES — William La Master, baritone, and Marguerite Reid, pianist, will be heard hereafter on Tuesdays at 6 p. m. instead of Friday evening. * * * A new children's feature is set for Mondays and Fridays from 5:10 to 5:25 p. m. It will be humorous patter and songs by a quartet composed of "Old Nick," "Bit o' Honey," "Pop Schuttler" and "Almond Chew." * * * Mrs. Gladys M. Petch, British lecturer, known as "the woman with the perfect radio voice," who has spoken over the most important broadcasting stations in Italy, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, England and America, and over the NBC and Columbia chains, will give an educational talk Wednesday evening at 7:15 * * * Four simple rules for making meals enjoyable will be given by Mrs. Florence Lee, food expert of the Women's Radio Institute, in a talk Tuesday at 9:35 a. m. * * * John Stamford, tenor and announcer for WGN, Chicago, is to be "guest announcer" over KMOX. He will sing and announce special programs daily. * * * "Songs of the Fireside," a skit with "home songs," is a new Sunday and Wednesday night feature presented by the "Vagabonds" from 10:20 to 10:30 o'clock, beginning tonight. The characters will be "Uncle Charlie," a wealthy farmer; "Columbus," a dumb but willing farm hand, and the "Sheriff." * * * A new Sunday afternoon program on KMOX from 1:30 to 2 o'clock, starting today, will be given by a quartet of mixed voices and an instrumental trio of violin, 'cello and piano. * * * Marion I. Reid, soprano, and Allene Herron, pianist, heads of the vocal and musical departments of Hannibal-La Grange College, Hannibal, Mo., will give a recital over KMOX this afternoon from 12:30 to 1 o'clock. * * * William Wallert, basso soloist with the Washington University Glee Club, will sing over KMOX Friday night at 10:10.



MARIA MUELLER, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, who is to sing in the Atwater Kent Hour over KSD at 8:15 tonight.

Buster Keaton will make his radio debut over the Columbia chain tomorrow evening at 6:30 in the "Voices from Filmland" program.

Al Boasberg, Hollywood comedian and writer of dialogue talkies, and Lottie Howell are also billed.

Ernest Bloch's rhapsody, "America," will be given its first broadcast by the Roxy Symphony Orchestra, under Joseph Littau at 10 o'clock this afternoon over WLW. This composition was awarded the $3000 prize offered by musical America for the most worthy symphony from an American. "America" was selected from 200 compositions submitted for the final choice of the judges, among whom were Walter Damrosch, Koussevitsky of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Gabrilowitsch of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Alfred Hertz of the San Farncisco Orchestra. The composition is based on the line of Walt Whitman, "O, America, because you build for mankind, I build for you."

What's New In Radio Industry

Trades Association to Elect Directors — Wiebe, Wrape, Sampson and Gaertner Honored at Cleveland Convention — Total of $11,000,000 Being Spent on R. C. A.-Victor Plant in New Jersey—Fada Introduces New Model —Zenith Puts Loops on Two Sets—Trade Notes.

DIRECTORS of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association are to be elected Wednesday evening at a dinner meeting at Hotel Kingsway at 6:15 o'clock. The Nominating Committee has selected the following as candidates: Manufacturers' agents—John F. Meyn and O. C. McCanne; dealers —Roger Putnam, George Gaertner and John C. Schmitt; jobbers—Dan Hyland and Fred A. Wiebe. These additional names have been placed on the ballot independently: dealers—Arthur C. Brandt; jobbers—George W. Van Sickle and W. A. Ward.

St. Louisans Elected Officers of National Body.

Fred Wiebe was elected vice president of the National Federation of Radio Trades Associations at the convention in Cleveland last Monday, while on Tuesday George F. Gaertner of St. Louis was elected a director. Julian Sampson and Harold Wrape were appointed members of the Federated body's Advisory Committee as past presidents. Wrape was made chairman of the committee.

Automatic Tuning Device in New Fada Receiver.

A new Fada receiver, Model 40, has "light-o-matic" tuning, as well as a tone color control by which one can bring out the higher or lower notes as he pleases. The "light-o-matic" device can be so set that whenever a desired station is tuned in, a light will show exactly as the station is being tuned to best advantage.

This receiver uses three AC screen grid tubes and 27 type tubes in the detector and first audio stage, while the last audio stage has two 48 type tubes in push pull. Another feature is overall shielding of the tuning condensers, which shuts out interference from local stations. The cabinet is of walnut in unusually attractive design.

Hollander Opens Radio Store.

Louis Hollander, widely known as a radio merchant, has opened a new radio and general accessories store at 111 North Broadway, between Pine and Chestnut streets.

Gordon Gets Eveready Tubes.

James C. Gordon, Inc., has been appionted distributor of Eveready Raytheon radio tubes.

RCA-Victor to Spend More Millions on Factory.

The RCA-Victor Co. announces plans to spend $7,500,000 in 1930, of which more than $5,500,000 will go for a new building at Camden, N. J., for making radio parts, assembling receivers and shipping. In addition, $2,000,000 worth of equipment is being sent to the Camden plant from General Electric and Westinghouse factories for use in radio production. The $7,500,000 expenditure is in addition to that of $3,820,000 authorized last year.

It has been decided that not only Victor radio sets, Electrolas and records, but also R. C. A. Radiola receivers, which formerly were manufactured in General Electric and Westinghouse plants, will be made in the Camden plant of the R. C. A.-Victor Co.

Loops on Two Zenith Sets.

Two of the new Zenith receivers are loop-operated models, designed for use in homes or apartments where a built-in directional aerial will assist in getting better reception and eliminating interference. Both models have the new nine-tube special Zenith screen grid chassis with double push pull audio, automatic tuning and automatic station indicator. Zenith reports a growing demand in metropolitan centers for sets of a selectivity requiring directional loop aerials.

Loftin-White Amplifier Kit.

A kit for making the Loftin-Wihte direct resistance coupled amplifier, which has been creating a stir among the fans who still like to "build their own," is being introduced by Electrad, Inc. Using an AC screen grid tube, a 45 type tube and an 80 type rectifier tube, it is a phonograph amplifier of extraordinary tone quality. By using a suitable coupler, it can be used in place of the regular audio amplifier with virtually any receiver, though its use with a superheterodyne probably would be difficult.

New Arcturus Tubes.

High speed production of 10 improved types of Arcturus tubes has started in the new factory at Newark, N. J.

Gold Ring on This Tube.

A gold plated band is being built into Van Horne tubes, between the top of the base and the glass bulb. It is said to act as a radiator of heat.

Receivers on New Trains.

Three trains added by the C. B. & Q. Railroad have Stromberg-Carlson receivers among their equipment. The sets are of the Model 846 type with automatic volume control. The sets are installed in the club or play cars.

RMA Banquet in June.

The R. M. A. banquet, broadcasting from which is one of the big radio features, has been tentatively set for June 4, during the weak in which the annual radio trade show is to be held at Atlantic City.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

NOW PEOPLE ARE BUYING WITH THEIR EYES OPEN

HAVE you noticed how sensible your friends have become about radio? The questions they ask are growing more shrewd. "Who made this radio?" "How long have they been in business?" "What do people who bought their sets say about them?"

Atwater Kent has made precision instruments for twenty-eight years; radio for eight. Atwater Kent Radio has gone into—just think of it!—nearly three million (3,000,000) homes!

So we have been able to build the largest radio plant in the world. Here the efficiencies of "straight line" production are made even more effective by amazing machines designed by our engineers.

We have one of the world's really great radio research laboratories. Here are men who study and experiment day and night to find new ways of improving our radio—and then adopt them only when they are proved. The marvel born of this experimenting is Atwater Kent's use of Screen-Grid tubes. It gives you enormous new power. It refines and clarifies reception and makes it more "pure" and hence more beautiful.

The Screen-Grid Atwater Kent was ahead of the field when we introduced it. With all its new improvements—it is ahead of the field today. And THAT you can prove by your own comparisons.

When you buy a 1930 Atwater Kent, you buy a proved radio from a proved manufacturer.

And despite the refinements it may offer over any other set, you pay only Atwater Kent's price!

MODEL 1035—Radio of superb performance with a lowboy cabinet of distinction, adaptable to any room in any home. $109

Model 1060—$121, less tubes

Prices slightly higher west of the Rockies and in Canada

Government" at 8 p. m., on KSD.

"Majestic Theater of the Air," at 8 p. m. over KMOX.

The National High School Orchestra, making its first Eastern appearance, will be a feature of the broadcast.

Three hundred musicians, selected from high school orchestras in practically every state in the Union and from several island possessions will assemble in Atlantic City for the broadcast. Included in this group is a harp ensemble, the largest in the world and one of the most unique musical combinations ever to be heard on the air.

A diversified program of instrumental music will be presented by this group of students, whose ages range from 14 to 20 years. Selected as the best musicians in their respective high school orchestras, the members of the organization have the advantage of an eight-weeks rehearsal period as a unit each summer. These rehearsals are held at the National High School Orchestra Camp at Interlochen, Mich., where a symphony concert is given once each week under the direction of such famous symphony directors as Frederick Stock, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Joseph Maddy, John Erskine and Walter Damrosch.

What Is Coming This Week in Net Broadcasts

"The Mill" of Raff and "We," Dunn's composition written to depict musically Lindbergh's flight to Paris. Selections from Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste" are programmed for Jessica Dragonette and the Cavaliers in the Cities Service hour over KSD at 7 p. m. The love story of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States, and his wife, Rachel, will be dramatized over KWK at 7:45 p. m. The entanglements into which a farmer's wife fell after being liberated from drudgery on a Kansas farm by the discovery of oil will be related in a True Story drama at 8 p. m. over KMOX. Incidentally, the role of Mary in these dramas is played by Nora Sterling, while the Bob is William Brent. Fred Vettell, tenor, will be the True Story soloist. Barre Hill, a widely known tenor, is to sing in an Armour concert at 8:30 p. m. over KWK. Emil Mlynarski, 'cellist, is to be soloist in a Curtis concert at 9:30 p. m. over KMOX. The story of John Fitch, credited by many writers with inventing the first practical steamboat, will be dramatized at 9 p. m. by the Crosley Players over WLW.

SATURDAY—Mark Wessel, a young American composer, will be at the piano during a performance of the scherzo from his Sinfonia Concertante for horn, piano and orchestra in the General Electric Hour at 8 p. m. over KSD. The work is a symphony, with solos for piano and horn. Wessel was born on a farm near Coldewater, Mich. He developed talent as pianist and composer at Northwestern University, and later became a professor in the college. In 1922-23 he studied abroad, and two years ago gave up his professorship at Northwestern U. to devote his time to composition and concert work in Europe.

KFUO NOTES—On Thursday at 3 p. m. a Gospel Sermon in French will be broadcast by R. Pera. • • • The male quartet of Zion Lutheran Church, under E. Thuernau, will sing Friday at 9:30 p. m.

Fiorito Will Lead Orchestra in New Maytag Program

An orchestra led by Ted Fiorito will be featured in a new series beginning tomorrow night at o'clock. Retting and Platt, piano players, and a vocal also will be heard in these programs over KWK. The program will be sponsored by the Maytag Washing Machine Co. of Newton, Ia.

STOCKS WAIT ON BUSINESS; THREE-MONTH GAINS HELD

Feeling Exists That Market Is Not Entitled to Any Further Protracted Rise Without Assurances of an Improved Commodity Situation or a Smart Upswing in Industry This Spring.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Evening Post, in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Apparently the stock market is content to rest on recent achievements now until it gets some new sign on business. While the market is retaining stubbornly the ground gained in three months of advance, a feeling exists that it is not entitled to any further protracted rise without assurances of an improved commodity situation or a smart upswing in industry this spring. The post-panic rise was halted temporarily in December but viewed broadly has run to date exactly three months—from Nov. 13 to Feb. 13. In the last eight days the market has seemed weary but not sick. Let us see what progress it made in the crucial spaces between these two thirteenth dates. In those 90 days stocks swung forward 45 points from their panic bottoms restoring a good slice of the 113 that had been lost between Sept. 7 and Nov. 13. Expressed in another way, the post-panic recovery gave the market back four of every 10 points that had been lost in the crash.

Recovery Has Been Rapid.

"Except that the recovery this time has been impressively rapid there is nothing unusual about a return to happier days in the stock market after a crash. The advent of a panic in the market invariably unsettles public confidence in stocks but once the storm has passed the market invariably recovers. And that is not all. Always in the past it has returned within a reasonable period to levels higher than ever before. Within a year after bottom was struck in the rich man's panic of 1903 the market regained all that had been lost—and then kept on going up another full year. Within two years after the 1907 panic stocks recovered all that had been lost. Within a year and a half after the 1916-1917 war crash stocks were back at their old highs. Within four years after bottom was reached in the collapsed 1919-1920 post-war inflationary market stocks were setting new tops—and once there the market kept on going up for another four years without any serious setback.

Falling Commodities a Factor.

"Falling commodity prices recently have presented the most serious menace to a market that until this year had not feared danger from such a quarter. In priding ourselves on prosperity without commodity inflation we did not suspect that leading staples would move on down from recent stabilized levels. Wheat this week for May delivery fell to a fresh low at $1.12¾ and cotton was heavy, though it did not drift into new low ground. The ramifications of this decline in commodities reach far. While the country has proven its ability to make money in the face of gently falling commodity prices, the downward pace set recently has been too rapid for comfort. Overproduction in 1929 in particular industries and a lack of co-ordinated activity between leaders are depressing influences that can be lifted with the adoption of wiser and more far-sighted policies by industry itself.

Await New Assurances.

"Where the course of business is heading we cannot tell from the threads now visible. Still the assurance given in the January figures that bottom in the recession has been passed is comforting. The production index rose to 117 in January from 108 in December. That is an impressive comeback. Its significance lies in the breadth of the improvement. The upswing reflects gains from a variety of industries rather than the abnormal movement of one or two. February reports to date on building are somewhat more confusing than were those for January. The motor industry is not yet itself able to prognosticate the extent of the spring demand for cars. With new assurances from these two industries in the next six weeks sentiment in the market would improve measurably. Indeed it is difficult to separate the movements in the stock market and in business. The one looks to the other. Each in a peculiar sense is dependent on the other.

METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The demand for copper has remained quiet, foreign consumers taking moderate tonnages and domestic fabricators generally limiting purchases, with the exception of wire mills. The latter are taking somewhat larger quantities. Buying, however, is said to be under the current production rate, which has led to some expectation of an increase in the supply of unsold metal at the end of the month. Producers continue to maintain electrolytic at 18 cents delivered in the Connecticut Valley in the expectation that consumers will soon enter the market more actively.

While the lead market was steady here and moderately active, there was a sharp break at London.

The zinc market was not as active as recently, while the tone was somewhat unsettled owing to the weakness that developed abroad which was said to be in sympathy with lead.

SETBACK TO WHEAT IN TRADE OF WEEK

Prices Are 20 Cents a Bushel Lower Than a Year Ago—Visible Supply Large.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Mountains of wheat in sight and world imports the scantiest in years are just now among the outstanding features of the grain trade. An additional striking aspect is that wheat prices here are 20c a bushel lower than a year ago. Increasing the difficulties of the situation, it is only four months to the beginning of a new crop year, with nothing at present to indicate that exporting countries will not obtain at least average crops, piling up another wheat surplus.

Compared with a week ago, the Chicago wheat market shows 5⅝c to 6⅝c a bushel setback. Corn is 2⅛@2⅝c to 2⅝@2⅝c down, oats 2c to 2⅝c off, and provisions lower 17c to 37c.

Although too early to tell how much domestic wheat acreage is lost by winterkilling crop expert says that to match the increase the country has seeded compared to last season's harvest, it would be necessary to wipe out the equivalent of all the acreage in Ohio and Indiana. However, the development of a real crop scare backed by authentic advices of severe loss of acreage would undoubtedly have a drastic effect on the market. According to a current estimate, the prospective world's carry-over of wheat is only about 150,000,000 bu in excess of the average of recent years.

Somewhat offsetting the fact that the time is already short to work the United States wheat visible supply down to normal before a new crop is at hand, it is asserted in trade that farm stocks of wheat are much smaller now than a year ago. It is added, too, that from his season forward a larger percentage of wheat than heretofore will be carried in commercial stocks rather than on the farms. Practically universal use of combines and the marketing of wheat right after harvest are the principal reasons noted.

Corn and oats are relatively steadier than wheat chances not now promising any burdensome receipts of corn, whereas the outlook is for good shipping demand here owing to shortness of forage crops East.

Provisions have declined owing to sympathy with grain.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.

THE New York Stock Exchange, Curb Exchange, Cotton Exchange and other markets were closed today in observance of Washington's birthday. Exchanges in other cities also were closed.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange, Merchants' Exchange, St. Louis Butter, Egg and Poultry Exchange and banking institutions were closed yesterday. All will resume business as usual Monday.

WHEAT PRICES SLUMP ON WINNIPEG MARKET

Lack of Overnight Expo Trade and Weakness of Liverpool Called Factors.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 22.—The gains which the wheat market registered yesterday were lost to day in a short session which saw prices decline 2⅛ to 3⅛ cents. The slump was blamed on lack of overnight export trade and weakness of Liverpool quotations.

Pit trading was featureless through the greater part of the session, with the commission houses making moderate offerings in the face of limited demand.

July wheat dropped 2⅛ cents to $1.16⅝; May, at $1.15, was off 2⅝, and October, at $1.17⅝, was off three cents.

LIVESTOCK ELSEWHERE

CHICAGO, Feb. 22 (U. S. Department of Agriculture).—Cattle, receipts, 400; compared one week ago fed steers, steady to 35c lower; in-between grades, mostly 25c to 35c off; lower grade light yearlings, 50c to $1 lower; fat she stock, 75c to $1.25 lower with cutters 25c to 50c off; bulls, 25c lower and vealers, $1 down; fairly satisfactory market on steers due to broad shipper demand but sluggish on all grades of she stock; extreme top steers, $15.10; best yearlings, $15; bulk, $11.50 to $13.75; replacement steers scarce at $9.75 to $11 mostly; bulk $11.50; killing quality less desirable than a week earlier; supply figures considerably larger both locally and at principal markets; heavy steers scarce, however, making for limited beef tonnage.

Sheep—Receipts, 2000; practically nothing on sale; 2000 direct; by the week, 93 doubles from feeding stations, 19,500 direct; compared week ago, slaughter classes strong to mostly 25c higher; bulk good to choice fat lambs 93 pounds down, $11 to $11.50; choice kinds, $11.60 to $11.90; top, $12; few 100 pounds, $10.15 to $10.35; yearlings, $8.75 to $9; good to choice fat ewes, $5.50 to $6; few down to $5 and below; feeding lambs unchanged; bulk good to choice, $9.50 to $10.25; top, $10.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 6000, including 3000 direct; market steady to 15c higher, with weighty butchers showing most advance; top, $11.60; compared one week ago, mostly 25c higher, closing at new high levels for the season; shippers, 1500; estimated holdovers, 1000; butchers, medium to choice 250-300 pounds, $10.80 to $11.20; 200-250 pounds, $10.85 to $11.60; 160-200 pounds, $11 to $11.60; 130-160 pounds, $10 to $11.40; packing sows, $8.75 to $10; pigs, medium to choice, 90-130 pounds, $9.25 to $11.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 22.—Hogs — Receipts, 500; market 10c higher; top, $21.25; bulk sales, $10.80 to $11.25. No receipts of cattle.

HOG MARKET FAILS TO HOLD EARLY WEEK RISE

Top of $11.60 Recorded, Best Price Since Latter Part of August, 1929.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 22 (United States Department of Agriculture).—A lower price level, which affected practically all slaughter classes, featured the week's trade. Compared with the close of last week, steers, mixed yearlings and heifers sold 25c to mostly 50c lower, spots off 75c; cows, cutters, low cutters and bulls weak to 25c lower; vealers 50c lower; stocker and feeder steers and feeding cows and heifers strong. Tops for week: 882-pound mixed yearlings $14; 882-pound yearlings $13.75; 1226-pound matured steers $13.50; 650-pound heifers $12.75; cows $10; sausage bulls $8.25; vealers $15; stocker steers $11. Ten loads of steers averaging 1329 to 1379 pounds sold in the narrow spread of $12.25 to $13, while practically the same number, scaling 1200 to 1292 pounds, ranged from $11.40 to $13.50, with bulk $11.50 to $13. Steers averaging 1101 to 1175 pounds ranged from $11.50 to $13.10, bulk $11.85 to $12.50. Lightweight steers, which were much in the majority, ranged from $8.85 to $13.75, bulk $10 to $12.75, which was also bulk of all steers. Fat steers went principally from $12.50 to $13.25; fat mixed yearlings and heifers largely $11.75 to $12.75; most medium fleshed descriptions $10.25 to $11.50. Bulk of cows earned $7 to $8.25; low cutters mostly $4.25 to $5.25. The practical top for sausage bulls was $7.75 at the close of the week. Good and choice vealers brought $14 Friday, as compared with $14.50 at the close of last week.

Hog Prices Best Since Aug., 1929.

Marketings of swine this week totaled around 67,800 compared with actual arrivals of 66,076 last week and 71,082 corresponding week last year. Shipper demand was broad on early sessions this week and prices rose to the highest point reached locally since the latter part of August, 1929. Top on Tuesday reached $11.60 but a sharp reaction followed and by Thursday extreme bearishness had forced all classes downward nearly 50c. Friday recorded a substantial comeback and indicated that a good demand can be expected at the present levels of live prices. Dressed pork at Eastern wholesale markets recorded sharp upturns at the opening of the week and, though reductions were reported later, material net gains were noted for the period. Saturday deals were quoted strong to 10c higher, which trend also rules market price compared with a week ago. A top of $11.50 was paid for a few loads of sorted light hogs, with some at $11.45, while bulk of desirable material averaging downward from 200 pounds cashed at $11.40. Butchers scaling 200 to 225 pounds cleared at $11.25 to $11.40, with 225 to 250 pound kinds holding a spread of $10.85 to $11.25, one load of desirable 230-pound weights $11.10. A load of heavy hogs scaling 321 pounds registered $10.60. Most 130 to 150 pound light lights went at $10.25 to $11.25, with desirable 100 to 130 pound pigs ranging from $9.50 to $10.50. A few packing sows were found at $9.25 to $9.50, according to weight and condition.

Lambs Steady to Lower.

Receipts of sheep and lambs this week totaled approximately 4900, compared with actual arrivals of 6905 last week and 4351 corresponding week last year. Curtailed marketings exerted a bullish influence in lamb trade and the downward course of the market was checked. About midweek some recovery was recorded, but with declining prices elsewhere, prices were set back again on Thursday, and for the week quotations were steady to 25c lower. Sheep, though scarce, declined about 25c. Compared with a year ago at this time, fat lambs sold this week about $5 lower and sheep about $4 lower. At the high time this week city butchers paid $11.75 for a load of choice 73-pound fed native lambs and on the same session the packer top was set at $11.60 for 80-pound Colorados. On later sessions good 87 to 92 pound native and Colorado lambs cleared at $10.75 to $11 on packer account and no choice lambs were offered late. Odd lots of around 100-pound weights finished the week around $10. A moderate number of clipped lambs were offered during the period. Top on clipped lambs was $10.75, paid by a city butcher for 77-pound natives, while packers paid $10 to $10.25 for good 83 to 86 pounds shorn natives and Westerns. Throwout lambs sold largely around $8.50 for wooled kinds and odd lots of fat ewes earned $4 to $5.50.

Horses and Mules.

HOG MARKET FAILS TO HOLD EARLY WEEK RISE

Top of $11.60 Recorded, Best Price Since Latter Part of August, 1929.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Feb. 22 (United States Department of Agriculture).—A lower price level, which affected practically all slaughter classes, featured the week's trade. Compared with the close of last week, steers, mixed yearlings and heifers sold 25c to mostly 50c lower, spots off 75c; cows, cutters, low cutters and bulls weak to 25c lower; vealers 50c lower; stocker and feeder steers and feeding cows and heifers strong. Tops for week: 6-pound mixed yearlings $14; 862-pound yearlings $13.75; 1226-pound matured steers $13.50; 650-pound heifers $12.75; cows $10; sausage bulls $8.25; vealers $15; stocker steers $11. Ten loads of steers averaging 1329 to 1379 pounds sold in the narrow spread of $12.25 to $13, while practically the same number, scaling 1200 to 1292 pounds, ranged from $11.40 to $13.50, with bulk $11.50 to $13. Steers averaging 1101 to 1175 pounds ranged from $11.50 to $13.10, bulk $11.65 to $12.50. Lightweight steers, which were much in the majority, ranged from $8.85 to $13.75, bulk $10 to $12.75, which was also bulk of all steers. Fat steers went principally from $12.50 to $13.25; fat mixed yearlings and heifers largely $11.75 to $12.75; most medium fleshed descriptions $10.25 to $11.50. Bulk of cows earned $7 to $8.25; low cutters mostly $4.25 to $5.25. The practical top for sausage bulls was $7.75 at the close of the week. Good and choice vealers brought $14 Friday, as compared with $14.50 at the close of last week.

Hog Prices Best Since Aug., 1929.

Marketings of swine this week totaled around 67,800 compared with actual arrivals of 66,076 last week and 71,082 corresponding week last year. Shipper demand was broad on early sessions this week and prices rose to the highest point reached locally since the latter part of August, 1929. Top on Tuesday reached $11.60 but a sharp reaction followed and by Thursday extreme bearishness had forced all classes downward nearly 50c. Friday recorded a substantial comeback and indicated that a good demand can be expected at the present levels of live prices. Dressed pork at Eastern wholesale markets recorded sharp upturns at the opening of the week and, though reductions were reported later, material net gains were noted for the period. Saturday deals were quoted strong to 10c higher, which trend also rules market price compared with a week ago. A top of $11.50 was paid for a few loads of sorted light hogs, with some at $11.45, while bulk of desirable material averaging downward from 200 pounds cashed at $11.40. Butchers scaling 200 to 225 pounds cleared at $11.25 to $11.40, with 225 to 250 pound kinds holding a spread of $10.85 to $11.25, one load of desirable 230-pound weights $11.10. A load of heavy hogs scaling 321 pounds registered $10.60. Most 130 to 150 pound light lights went at $10.25 to $11.25, with desirable 100 to 130 pound pigs ranging from $9.50 to $10.50. A few packing sows were found at $9.25 to $9.50, according to weight and condition.

Lambs Steady to Lower.

Receipts of sheep and lambs this week totaled approximately 4900, compared with actual arrivals of 6905 last week and 4351 corresponding week last year. Curtailed marketings exerted a bullish influence in lamb trade and the downward course of the market was checked. About midweek some recovery was recorded, but with declining prices elsewhere, prices were set back again on Thursday, and for the week quotations were steady to 25c lower. Sheep, though scarce, declined about 25c. Compared with a year ago at this time, fat lambs sold this week about $5 lower and sheep about $4 lower. At the high time this week city butchers paid $11.75 for a load of choice 73-pound fed native lambs and on the same session the packer top was set at $11.60 for 80-pound Colorados. On later sessions good 87 to 92 pound native and Colorado lambs cleared at $10.75 to $11 on packer account and no choice lambs were offered late. Odd lots of around 100-pound weights finished the week around $10. A moderate number of clipped lambs were offered during the period. Top on clipped lambs was $10.75, paid by a city butcher for 77-pound natives, while packers paid $10 to $10.25 for good 83 to 86 pounds shorn natives and Westerns. Throwout lambs sold largely around $5.50 for wooled kinds and odd lots of fat ewes earned $4 to $5.50.

Horses and Mules.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Feb. 22.—The market this week was on a strong basis throughout, although receipts were again of fairly liberal volume. Buyers were numerous, however, and action was good, a number of mules selling in the alleys before the auctions.

WOULD AMEND CHARTER TO SPEED CONDEMNATION

City Improvement Association Drafts Ordinance Providing for Vote at Aug. 5 Election.

A proposal to amend the city charter so as to permit speedier action in the condemnation of property for street widenings and other public improvements has been prepared by the City Improvement Association, an organization of downtown property owners. It will be submitted to the Board of Aldermen in the form of an ordinance providing for a vote at the primary election next Aug. 5.

John M. Robertson, president of the association, said the proposed amendment was prepared after an investigation by his organization showed the delays in street widenings and other improvements are not chargeable to the city administration but solely to the cumbersome provisions of the charter.

In a statement Robertson called attention to the Market street, Gravois avenue and Natural Bridge avenue widening projects which were authorized more than five years ago and are being held up by the slow-moving condemnation process.

To try to cure this situation, the City Improvement Association asked Guy M. Woods, associate city counselor, to prepare the charter amendment which the association is sponsoring. Robertson said it would be introduced in the Board of Aldermen at its next meeting. Many features of the proposed amendment have been taken from the charter of Kansas City and have been approved by Missouri court decisions, Robertson said.

The principal feature is to simplify the procedure of instituting condemnation suits. Under the proposed amendment the action would be a suit strictly against the property and it would be necessary only to describe the property, and publication of notice would constitute service upon the owner except in cases where the court might require personal service.

Another provision would make it possible to consolidate into one suit the actions to condemn the property for public use and to establish or change the grade of a street where the same property is involved. This now requires a separate suit for each purpose, causing double delay and cost.

The amendment would provide for a jury of six selected from a panel appointed by the Circuit Judges to try condemnation cases just as any other lawsuit. These jurors would be paid $10 a day and would replace the three Commissioners who now receive $5 a day and whose work often drags over many months

The proposed amendment would provide for the issuance of short term bonds or condemnation certificates for the purpose of raising money to start the work. Present provisions requiring certain sums to be paid into court for the benefit of damaged property owners before the benefit assessment can be collected or the work started sometimes cause long delay. These short-term bonds would provide money for this purpose and would be retired from benefit assessments as collected.

REACTIONS IN COTTON PRICES DURING WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The mid-month advance which carried the price of May contracts here up from 15.26c to 16.18c has been followed by reactions during the past week. The buying movement responsible for the recent rally of about $4.50 per bale appeared to taper off after the scattering short interest had covered. Some trade and speculative buying was reported during the progress of the advance, but it showed little disposition to follow the market above the 16c level. This was a disappointment to holders of contracts, no doubt, and reactions were promoted by a variety of features such as continued March liquidation, reports of better progress with farm work, weakness in wheat, and declines in foreign markets.

May sold off to 15.44c, but seemed to meet a little better demand below the 15½c level and fluctuations later in the week were rather nervous and irregular.

Reports reaching here from the South indicate that the campaign of the co-operative organization for a reduction in the area planted is well under way, and that it is receiving a great deal of support from bankers and merchants and the press. Apparently, however, there remains more or less uncertainty as to its results, and at present there is a disposition to believe that the market may pivot on the question of acreage this spring.

Liquidation of March contracts has been making rapid progress, much of it has consisted of switching from March to later deliveries and at the close of this week there seemed no very decided opinion as to the probable extent or reception of March notices should they be issued next Tuesday. Some buying was reported on declines toward the end of the week on an idea that further weakness would aid the efforts to secure a reduction in acreage, and probably bring in an improved trade demand.

Spot cotton was 15.30c at the close of week.

PROMPT ACTION IS URGED ON 9-FOOT CHANNEL BILL

Telegrams from the Chamber of Commerce to United States Senators and Representatives from Missouri yesterday urged them to obtain prompt action by War Department engineers on provisions of the river and harbors bill relating to nine-foot channels for the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers and the project for a nine-foot channel from Lake Michigan to the Illinois River, opening navigation from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico.

It was explained that surveys are still in the hands of the War Department and cannot be acted on by the Rivers and Harbors Committee until engineering reports have been made. Unless the proposals are included in the bill soon to be reported, delay would be occasioned by the adoption of other projects, it was said.

"The transportation situation in this landlocked section cannot be relieved until these projects on the Mississippi system can be utilized," the message stated. "Much in solution of the farm problem depends upon their completion."

EMERGENCY MEETING ON GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Board to Discuss Measures Tomorrow — Collections May Be Resumed Tuesday.

Emergency measures for the disposal of city garbage, which has not been collected since Wednesday because of an injunction suit, will be discussed by the Board of Public Service at a special meeting called for tomorrow by Acting Mayor Neun.

There is a possibility that collections may be resumed Tuesday, but until an emergency contract is made householders must dispose of their garbage as best they can. Health Commissioner Starkloff, who says there is no menace to public health, has suggested burning or burying, preferably burning.

A temporary injunction granted Friday by Circuit Judge Pearcy on the petition of a group of South Side householders, organizations and business men, forbids the delivery of garbage to Hog Haven farm on the East Side, opposite Sidney street, holding that the farm would "inevitably constitute a nuisance" because of odors and insects.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks said yesterday he would give Hog Haven Farms, Inc., a day or two in which to locate another place to which it could haul garbage from the foot of Chouteau avenue. However, Samuel F. Elliot, president of Hog Haven, said he had no intention of doing this. The city's only other alternative, so far as is known, is to negotiate with Charles L. Rea, who is said to be willing to continue his expired contract from day to day until an arrangement can be made.

Rea's contract, under which he received 74 cents a ton for hauling garbage from Chouteau avenue to his hog farm 50 miles downstream, expired Wednesday. Hog Haven Farms, under a five-year contract effective last Thursday, would have received 34½ cents for hauling the garbage to the East Side farm. Rea lost the contract by bidding $1.34 a ton, claiming he had lost money under the old rate.

Credit Textbook by St. Louisans.

A textbook on retail credit and collections, in which each chapter was written by a credit man of some St. Louis concern, has been compiled for students of credit in St. Louis. The volume was prepared by the Associated Retail Credit Men of St. Louis, in co-operation with the National Retail Credit Association. The book will be used in courses of instruction given by credit departments of local firms and in the School of Commerce and Finance of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A.

APARTMENT OF 16 STORIES, SKINKER AND SOUTHWOOD

Financial Arrangements for $1,500,000 Project in De Mun Park Completed by Roberts Syndicate.

By Berry Moore.

The feature of the week in realty was the announcement yesterday of plans, with financial arrangements completed, for a 16-story apartment building to cost $1,500,000 for the southwest corner of Skinker road and Southwood avenue, in DeMun Park, opposite Forest Park. A syndicate composed of R. H. McRoberts, attorney, and others whose identity is not announced, will erect the building.

The site has a frontage on Skinker of 120 feet and on Southwood of 144 feet, a total frontage of 264 feet. It was purchased several months ago from the Better Built Homes and Mortgage Co., of which Charles DeLargy is president. While the purchase price was not disclosed, $1500 a front foot on Skinker is suggested as a fair basis for valuation.

There will be 105 units, with seven apartments to the floor, of the efficiency type, with one and two bedrooms. There will be both passenger and freight elevator service. The first floor will be given over to the lobby and the manager's quarters. There will be a garage in the basement reached by the elevators.

Terra Cotta Trimmings.

The exterior will be of reinforced concrete and brick with terra cotta trimmings. Both interior and exterior will be in modernistic style. Construction is scheduled to begin this spring.

The McRoberts syndicate erected the Versailles, a 10-story fireproof apartment building at the southwest corner of Skinker road and Rosebury drive, and is now building a 16-story apartment at the northwest corner of Skinker road and Northwood avenue, both in De Mun Park.

Negotiations have been renewed for the vacant half block on Skinker road between Rosebury drive and Northwood avenue in De Mun Park belonging to the Better Built Homes Co. Many offers have been made in the last two years for this site.

It is understood a construction

APARTMENT OF 16 STORIES, SKINKER AND SOUTHWOOD

Financial Arrangements for $1,500,000 Project in De Mun Park Completed by Roberts Syndicate.

By Berry Moore.

The feature of the week in realty was the announcement yesterday of plans, with financial arrangements completed, for a 16-story apartment building to cost $1,500,000 for the southwest corner of Skinker road and Southwood avenue, in DeMun Park, opposite Forest Park. A syndicate composed of R. H. McRoberts, attorney, and others whose identity is not announced, will erect the building.

The site has a frontage on Skinker of 120 feet and on Southwood of 144 feet, a total frontage of 264 feet. It was purchased several months ago from the Better Built Homes and Mortgage Co., of which Charles DeLargy is president. While the purchase price was not disclosed, $1500 a front foot on Skinker is suggested as a fair basis for valuation.

There will be 105 units, with seven apartments to the floor, of the efficiency type, with one and two bedrooms. There will be both passenger and freight elevator service. The first floor will be given over to the lobby and the manager's quarters. There will be a garage in the basement reached by the elevators.

Terra Cotta Trimmings.

The exterior will be of reinforced concrete and brick with terra cotta trimmings. Both interior and exterior will be in modernistic style. Construction is scheduled to begin this spring.

The McRoberts syndicate erected the Versailles, a 10-story fireproof apartment building at the southwest corner of Skinker road and Rosebury drive, and is now building a 16-story apartment at the northwest corner of Skinker road and Northwood avenue, both in De Mun Park.

Negotiations have been renewed for the vacant half block on Skinker road between Rosebury drive and Northwood avenue in De Mun Park belonging to the Better Built Homes Co. Many offers have been made in the last two years for this site.

It is understood a construction company, with capital available for building operations on a large scale, wants the half-block for lofty twin apartments, one for the northwest corner of Skinker road and Rosebury drive, and the other for the southwest corner of Skinker road and Northwood avenue. These projects, it is estimated, will cost a minimum of $3,000,000. This is exclusive of the cost of the ground.

The half-block is the only remaining Skinker road frontage in De Mun Park of the Better Built Homes Co., which has not been absorbed for apartment building construction.

Once $5000 an Acre.

A sign of the Better Built Homes Co. on the half block on Skinker, sought for the twin apartment projects reads: "Is St. Louis Real Estate Profitable? We purchased this tract in 1923 for $5000 an acre (the tract contains 30 acres now known as DeMun Park. This one acre is now appraised at more than $300,000."

The 30 acres extend from Skinker road on the east to De Mun avenue on the west, and from Southwood on the south to Northwood on the north. It was purchased in 1923 for the Better Built Homes and Mortgage Co. from a client of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. The grounds of the Concordia Seminary form the west boundary of the tract.

The county portion of the streets and alleys in DeMun Park, including Rosebury drive, Northwood and Southwood avenues, has never been dedicated. A committee, composed of J. E. Steffen, David Agastein and Mrs. A. Mueller, has been collecting funds at the rate of 25 cents a front foot on property in this district to defray the cost of repairing the streets. This cost will fall on the property owners until the streets are dedicated and turned over to the municipality of Clayton, which will not accept them until they have been put in repair.

DeLargy has written to the committee, stating that the company is ready to proceed with dedication of the street, whenever a substantial majority of the property owners so desire.

NEW HOUSE FOR HEAD OF MARY INSTITUTE

Colonial Type Dwelling Being Built From Plans of Study & Farrar.

Washington University has begun building a house for the principal of Mary Institute on the new institute grounds at Warson and LaDue roads.

The house was designed by Study & Farrar, architects, in the Colonial style of architecture and will form part of the institute group, of which the academic building is the central unit. The design was inspired by a professor's house which Thomas Jefferson designed for the University of Virginia.

The front entrance of the dwelling will have stately white pillars. All materials will harmonize in color and quality with those in the school building. The house has been located on a piece of ground which was a second gift of land made to Mary Institute by Mrs. Newton R. Wilson and which lies directly to the north of the 17 acres comprising the first gift. This land, with the $500,000 to build the new academic hall, was given to Mary Institute about a year ago. Wilson Hall is now nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy in the spring term.

In planning the principal's house the architects kept in mind the many receptions which the head of a school must hold. A large hall will run back through the house to the principal's study. Opening off this hall on one side will be the dining room and on the other, the living room. There will be four master bedrooms and servants' quarters.

GERLING CO. LETS CONTRACTS FOR 23 FIVE-ROOM BUNGALOWS

The Gerling Realty and Building Co. has only three houses left of the 114 bungalows built last year in Mayfair Park.

Contracts for the construction of 23 five-room bungalows on West Florissant avenue have been let by the firm recently.

Three New Homes in Bel-Nor.

Three more new homes have already been started in Bel-Nor, the construction of three others is to commence in the next two weeks, and many of the present owners are planning to build later. Bel-Nor is between the Bellerive and Normandie Golf Clubs on Natural Bridge road. Knickmeyer-Fleer Realty and Investment Co. is the agent.

PLAYGROUND ADJOINS APARTMENT BUILDING

Recreation for Children of Tenants to Be Provided at Pierre Chouteau.

The sixteen-story Pierre Chouteau apartments, under construction at 4440 Lindell boulevard, is to be completed this spring.

This new apartment home will offer many unusual features ranging from its modernistic fixture equipment to decorations by a well-known St. Louis interior decorator. It was planned and constructed by Harry C. Felter, builder of the President Apartments, 4615 Lindell boulevard. Harold E. Willson, president of the Willson Realty Co., supervised all financing details and was counselor in construction. The Willson Realty Co. will lease and manage the property.

The Pierre Chouteau is said to be the first apartment structure in St. Louis to offer its tenants a garden and children's playground immediately adjoining the apartment building. Property at 4426 and 4430 Lindell boulevard was recently acquired through the Willson Realty Co. and the houses are now being wrecked to make way for a playground more than two-fifths of an acre in area. The frontage of the playground will be 85 feet with a depth of 213 feet and it will have a playhouse well equipped for the entertainment of children. There will be a wading pool in the center. Although the building will not have its show apartment ready for three weeks, several leases have been taken.

Joins Staff of Owen Firm.

Ed Holmes, former district sales manager of the Continental Casualty Co. of Chicago, has joined the sales executive staff of the B. P. Owen Organization, real estate subdividers, it was announced yesterday by B. P. Owen, president. Holmes was former manager of the insured savings department of the State National Bank of S. Louis, prior to the merger of that institution with the Mississippi Valley Merchants State Trust Co. He is a graduate of Cornell University and is past president of the Cornell Club of St. Louis.

American Furniture Makes Lease.

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co. reports leasing the five-story building at 1114 Olive street to the American Furniture Co. for sales and sample rooms. The company will take possession March 1. The officers of the company are Joseph Lasky, president, and Ed Lasky, secretary.

WEBSTER TILTON HOME WILL BE LEASED

Owner of 300-Acre County Estate to Move With Family to New York.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Tilton on Mason road, St. Louis County, is to be leased, furnished, for a period of years. Mr. and Mrs. Tilton and their children are soon to remove to New York, where he is to represent Oliver J. Anderson & Co.

The Tilton home is one of the show places of the county. It consists of 300 acres of high, rolling ground. The residence, one of the oldest in the county, and in Colonial style, was recently modernized.

REAL ESTATE CARDS

AT FIRST THEY ALL SAY
"IT CAN'T BE DONE"
What! Fly on wings of steel? Talk half around the earth? It can't be done!
WE DO IT THOUGH
Along comes a chap who says "Folks will visit a real estate office if there's any reason why they should." To prove it he sets up a plan to render folks a real service, at no cost to them; a chance to sell; to trade; to buy; just like in a modern store. Look in on us and see the answer for yourself, and get your slice of free service.

The Modern Casket Receptacle

GARDNER GRAVE VAULT

Guaranteed for Fifty Years

Built of Rust-Resisting Steel
Rust-Proof, Air and Water Tight

Gardner Grave Vault is built for endurance, to defy the severe test of time. It gives absolute protection, because it is constructed of Rust-Resisting Steel, which makes this vault secure against all known hazards of decay. It locks permanently at the grave, swiftly, silently and securely.

Comfort the living and protect the dead with the Gardner Grave Vault.

People of only moderate means can afford this necessary vault to protect the remains of loved ones. With each vault a 50 year guarantee is furnished.

Suggest to your Funeral Director to provide a Gardner Grave Vault. He will.

The Modern Casket Receptacle
GARDNER GRAVE VAULT
Guaranteed for Fifty Years

Rust-Proof, Air and Water Tight

Gardner Grave Vault is built for endurance, to defy the severe test of time. It gives absolute protection, because it is constructed of Rust-Resisting Steel, which makes this vault secure against all known hazards of decay. It locks permanently at the grave, swiftly, silently and securely.

Comfort the living and protect the dead with the Gardner Grave Vault.

People of only moderate means can afford this necessary vault to protect the remains of loved ones. With each vault a 50 year guarantee is furnished.

Suggest to your Funeral Director to provide a Gardner Grave Vault. He will.

IN MEMORIAM

BARTZ—In loving memory of Ida May Bartz, who died Feb. 19, 1925:

Time speeds on: five years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadow passed
Within our home, where all seems bright,
And took from us its shining light;
We missed that light and ever will;
Her vacant place, there's none to fill.

MOTHER, DADDY AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

CAHILL—In memory of my dear husband, Bernard M. Cahill, who died Feb. 25, 1929:

One year has passed,
Since that sad day,
The one we loved
Was called away.
God took him home,
It was his will;
But in our hearts
He liveth still.

Sadly missed by his wife,
HELEN M. CAHILL AND SONS. (c)

CLARK—In loving memory of Mary Clark, died Feb. 24, 1929. Sadly missed by Thomas Clark, Birdie and Raymond Rieser. Mass St. Philip Neri Church Monday.

ELCHINGER—In loving memory of Mary Elchinger:

Dear mother, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by—HUSBAND AND SON.

EMERY—In loving memory of Charles Emery, passed on April 9, 1922; Loretto Emery, Feb. 25, 1925, and Charles H. Doettling, Feb. 3, 1926.

DOETTLING AND EMERY FAMILIES.

Darling Loretto, we miss you so.

MOTHER AND MELBA. (c)

EYLER—In loving memory of my dear husband, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 24, 1929.

My lips cannot tell how I miss you;
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss you,
In a home that is lonesome today.

Sadly missed by WIFE, IDA EYLER.

GRAFMAN—Treasured memories of our darling Myrtle, who departed this life Feb. 26, 1923.

When days are lonesome and friends few,
Dearest darling, how I think of you.
If I needed a pal you would be there,
And all of my trials you'd willingly share.
Although our life is dark without you,
For your sweet face I must not pine,
For Jesus will keep with infinite love
That sweet flower that was once mine.

PARENTS.

GROTPETER—In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Elmer W. Grotpeter, who departed Feb. 23, 1925.

We are thinking of you today, dear Peter;
Thinking of the past;
Picturing you in memory,
Just as we saw you last.
God took you from us; we cannot forget.

Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER, BROTHER-IN-LAW AND NIECE.

HACKER—In loving memory of our dear father, William Hacker, who departed this life nine years ago, Feb. 24, 1921:

There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went.
There is someone who thinks of you always
And tries to be brave and content.
Our hearts cannot tell how we miss him.
Our lips don't know what to say;
God only alone knows our sorrow,
In our home that is lonesome today.

Sadly missed by
LOVING WIFE, CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

HAUSDORF—In memory of Edward Hausdorf, who died Feb. 19, 1925:

No more upon this earth we'll see
Your sweet and loving face;
There is no one in this wide world
Can ever take your place.

Sadly missed by—HIS CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

HEUER—In loving memory of my father, Henry Heuer, who departed this life Feb. 25, 1929. Sadly missed by his daughter, MRS. ELIZABETH BRUEKAMP.

HUNT—In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother, Margaret E. Hunt, who departed this life Feb. 21, 1926:

A faithful mother, so kind and true,
We always pray and think of you.
You are not forgotten in our minds,
To us you were so good and kind,
For all of us she did her best,
God grant her eternal rest.

Sadly missed by:
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

JUENGLING—In memory of our dear brother, Walter J. Juengling, who departed this life Feb. 22, 1929:

Heavy are our hearts today;
Memory brings you back once more
To the time when you were with us
And the happy days of yore.

Sadly missed by BROTHERS.

KASEBERG—Anna (nee Ziebold) in loving memory of our dearly beloved wife, mother, sister, sister-in-law and aunt, who departed this life Feb. 24, 1929.

Sadly missed by CHILDREN AND SISTER.

KOENIG—In loving memory of our dear husband and father Ernst Koenig, who died Feb. 20, 1929:

We do not forget you nor do we intend,
We think of you often and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.

Sadly missed by WIFE AND SONS.

MARSCHEL—In loving memory of our mother, Frances Marschel, who died Feb. 22, 1928:

Sleep on, sleep on, dear mother,
Oh, how sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

CHILDREN.

MAY—In loving remembrance of our darling son and brother, Charles O. May, who departed this life nine years ago on Feb. 23, 1921.

Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death just the same.

Sadly missed by PARENTS, BROTHER AND RELATIVES.

MEADE—In loving memory of our darling mother, Cora Anna Meade, who departed this life two years ago, Feb. 24, 1928.

Safe within the heavenly harbor
Sweetly may she rest.
Though we loved you very dearly
Jesus loved you best.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

MUELLER—In loving memory of Anastasia C. Mueller, who departed from us two years ago today, Feb. 23 1928.

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome;
In the midst of our joys we are blue;
With smiles on our faces, we have heartaches,
Longing, dear Stasia, for you.

ROLVES-NIEMAN—In memory of our dear mother, Alice Rolves-Nieman, who departed this life Feb. 23, 1917:

Gone but not forgotten.

Sadly missed by CHILDREN, SON-IN-LAW, SISTER AND RELATIVES.

SCHAEFER—In loving remembrance of our dearly beloved husband and father, Charles C. Schaefer, who departed this life Feb. 24, 1929.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

SCHNEIDER—In memory of my dear wife, Julia Schneider, who died Feb. 21, 1929.

Sadly missed by HER HUSBAND.

IN MEMORIAM

STROSS—In memory of Mrs. Anna Stross, who departed this life one year ago today.

Dear wife and mother you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, SON AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

VONDERLAGE-SCHROEER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Vonderlage-Schroeer, passed away Feb. 22, 1929.

The sun shines upon dear mother's grave,
One we loved so dearly and tried so hard to save;
Her smiling ways and pleasant face are a pleasure to recall,
She had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all.
When we lost our dearest mother, we lost our dearest pal.
We love and miss you, and forever shall,
So rest in peace, dear mother, your place is heavenly bower.
The day that we shall meet you grows nearer every hour.

Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

PART TEN. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 23, 1930. PAGES 1—4F

Cohan Comes in Own Play

Brings "Gambling" to the American Theatre After Absence of Many Years—"Journey's End," Fine War Drama, Returns to the Shubert—Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee" and the Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers" on the Way as Counter Attractions—"Skidding" Continues at the Orpheum.

GEORGE M. COHAN, who has just torn up a million dollar contract, more or less—a few zeros, one way or the other, mean so little in the movie business—to make talking pictures out in Hollywood, comes to the American Theater tonight in his own play, "Gambling," a piece which was tremendously successful in New York and elsewhere. Cohan started out to take the play to the West Coast and then begin his new work in the studios. Something happened and now he will bring "Gambling" to an end shortly and return to New York for another stage production.

In the meantime the tremendously effective drama, "Journey's End," one of the greatest of the war plays, which was here around Christmas time, comes back to the Shubert tonight for a second visit. Down at the Orpheum the Casey Players will continue with "Skidding."

* * * *

COHAN'S visit to St. Louis this week will be his first in almost 20 years except for a one-night stop with the all-star fund raising performance in war times.

"Gambling," according to all reports, tells a genuine Cohanesque story, moving with the true dash and American humor that has marked some 300 Cohan songs and more than 35 of his plays. A gambler seeks to find the slayer of his foster daughter. He gambles everything to run down the culprit, thereby bringing into the tale a good girl, a bad girl, policemen and pals.

The third act depicts a gambling house in full operation. This is said to be one of the most realistic scenes of the season, showing the gamblers, the Park avenue guests and finally the most thrilling raid ever staged.

Few people know their New York—high hat and slouch cap—as well as Cohan does, and it is from the half world of the night clubs and the gambling resorts where the respectable and not so respectable merge that he has taken his characters. He has lingered over the sketching of these people, but the impression thus created—that those who love and hate and kill in "Gambling" are as real as the more colorful persons whose doings are chronicled in the daily newspapers—compensates for any lessening of the intensity that might come from a rapid-fire succession of thrills.

Among those with Mr. Cohan in the cast are Mary Philips, Isabel Baring, Robert Middlemass, Jack Leslie, Harold Healy, Kathleen Niday, Edward Nannary, Douglas MacPherson, Mark Sullivan and Lyda MacMillan.

* * * *

WITH "Journey's End," which comes tonight to the Shubert, will be the same company that visited this theater Christmas week. Though "Journey's End" has been visiting the principal cities upon the road since last August, and the five companies on tour have covered all of the United States and Canada, so successful have they been, that return engagements are being made in a number of the larger communities. The New York company is still going strong, at this time in its fiftieth odd week, with a likelihood that it will remain there through the summer and not take the road at any time, thus breaking the record of a long run attraction that begins and ends its career in Manhattan. The company to return here is the Chicago one, assembled last August for that city, and the first one to be gotten together after the New York company, and prior to the one organized for Boston and Philadelphia. Besides the many companies still presenting this famous drama in the United States there are, at this time, ten companies offering it in European countries including two in Paris, where it is being given in both French and English, and one in Berlin, where it is being given in German.

The cast includes Henry Mowbray, Reginald Mason, Fred Monti, Edward Wodings, John Williams, Ralph Nairn, Leslie Harris, Royal Beal, Lional Pape and Henry von Zynda.

* * * *

"SKIDDING," a delightful comedy of home town life in Idaho, continues for a second week at the Orpheum, with June Justice and Richard Bender of the original New York cast in the roles of Marion and Andy Hardy respectively. The author of "Skidding" is a former St. Louisan, Aurania Rouveyrol. She spent six months in Idaho collecting data for her play, which won Pasadena University and California Drama League prizes.

Included in the cast are May B. Hurst, original Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch; Arthur Pierson, Grace Troy, Pierre Watkin, Mac Green and Alexander Campbell.

Guy Bates Post will be visiting guest star with Casey Players for two weeks beginning next Sunday night, in "The Play's the Thing." Mary Hart will be featured in "The Shanghai Gesture" for two weeks starting March 16.

* * * *

NEXT Sunday night, at the American, Florenz Ziegfeld presents Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee." The book, which William Anthony McGuire wrote, is based on the original stage play, "The Nervous Wreck." The music and lyrics are by Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn. The settings are said to be particularly handsome and to show Joseph Urban at his best. They include picturesque views of a Mexican estate with its church in the background and handsome haciendas. There will be, of course, the usual array of Ziegfeld beauties, headed by Gertrude Dahl, Dorothy Flood and many others. On the same night, at the Shubert, will come the Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers," a musical comedy which was one of the outstanding hits of the New York stage the past season. George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind are responsible for the book, and Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby composed the music and lyrics.

GETTING back to George M. Cohan, who comes to the American tonight, St. Louis audiences, which have seen little enough of him in recent years, still will look upon him as one of the outstanding figures in the theater today. Cohan was writing vaudeville sketches at the age of 14, and for several years furnished the stage material for his family, The Four Cohans, consisting of his father, mother, sister Josephine and himself. The first of these was "The Professor's Wife," followed by "Money to Burn," "Running for

New York Gets Two New—and Good—Plays

By Robert Littell

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.

DECIDEDLY, the drama is looking up. The dear old corpse is at last winking an eye and giving signs of coming to life again. Like Fred Stone, it can get all smashed up and then jump back onto the stage practically as merry as ever. Within the last week or so we have been shown events as hopeful as the first push of the crocuses through the mud, and more is to come, proving that the chief thing wrong with Broadway is as usual, nothing more serious than a dearth of good shows. For which there is, and always will be, a public.

It is a good week in which plays as interesting as "Topaze" and "The Last Mile" come so close together—in fact a rate of one good play a week is far better than average on Broadway. And when you add to two good plays so touching an occasion as the return of Fred Stone, even if in a show that is inferior to the courageous recovery that it celebrates, you have the kind of week that rarely comes to us oftener than once a month.

A year and a half ago Fred Stone, as he expressed it in his curtain speech on the opening night of "Ripples," discovered the law of gravitation, crashed his airplane into a beet field and broke just about as many bones as the first night audience gave him minutes of applause.

AND so there was something heroic and appealing about his reappearance among us which made it easy for us to believe that his new show was as good as we had wanted it to be. To make the party even more of a family rejoicing, there was Mrs. Stone and Dorothy Stone, who dances as if she had never done anything else, and Paula Stone, the latest of the daughters to follow her father's footsteps—footsteps which, in spite of airplanes and broken bones and beet fields, are as humorously agile as ever.

The show itself, much less important than the triumphant comeback of the star and his gifted family, is a cheerful, ramshackle affair about a modern descendant of Rip Van Winkle, but not quite as cheerful and generous a bouquet as one would like to see Fred Stone hand himself on such an occasion. There are lots of funny things in it, but for these it depends far more on the business supplied by Fred Stone and such excellent comedians as Eddie Foy Jr., than on the words supplied by William Anthony McGuire, who can hardly be said to have arisen to the occasion.

Nor was the music exactly what you would call a treat. Barring the extremely good dancing of the Tiller girls, it is a show that makes one want to get back to the Stones and talk about them alone.

THE condemned men in the death house captured the keepers, sent an ultimatum to the Warden, and, when the warden refused, killed the keepers one by one and threw them out of a cell window. It happened in Colorado, and it happened again last week at the Sam Harris Theater, in the three terrible, bitter acts of "The Last Mile," a play which makes you ask yourself what right men have to kill each other.

If there had been time, and hope, and bullets enough, the prison chaplain would have followed the others out of that window. He tells Killer Mears, leader of the convicts, that it is the Warden's duty not to give in.

"This is my duty," says Killer Mears, with a gun in his hand, "to show the world that I don't like it." The priest's turn comes next. "I'm going to give you a chance," says Killer Mears, "to see that heaven you're always talking about."

It is a grimly effective and honest and agonizing play, brutally frank, sometimes a little too sentimental and, in some of its most terrific moments, too slow to squeeze all the horror and excitement out of its tremendous situations. It might in several ways have been better, but this street of romance and happy endings, this country where death is a headline, are lucky to get "The Last Mile," and could do with a lot more like it.

THE importation from the French of Marcel Pagnol, "Topaze," which Lee Shubert recently presented to us is the most skillfully and delightfully malicious piece seen on Broadway within many months. The background and the characters are French, to be sure, and there are many allusions in it of the kind that do not cross a frontier without paying a heavy duty to ignorance, but the pedantries and crookedness with which "Topaze" has such a good time are international, and I found it singularly fresh after transplantation from a native soil, and thanks chiefly to a very remarkable performance of the title role by Frank Morgan, not much less diverting than when I saw it in Paris last summer.

Monsieur Topaze is a small time schoolmaster whose honesty is equalled only by his density. In the play's first scene, which is in many ways its best, we see him surrounded by small boys in black smocks (they are real small boys, and very capable performers) throwing spitballs and playing tunes on combs while he tries to teach them that honesty is the best policy. Which is, turned inside out, the moral of the play, for Topaze is fired as the result of an excess of honesty—he insists that the zeroes he gave to the son of a baroness are real zeroes—and walks out of humble underpaid school-teaching into a career of crime.

For Topaze, more or less accidentally, becomes the tool of a corrupt member of the town council, whose racket is the assignment to himself of public contracts through a dummy. Topaze is the dummy.

IT is a most amusing racket, the details of which are probably familiar to every inhabitant of a provincial French city. Important feature of it might be called the sidewalk nuisance game. Monsieur Castel-Benac, the town councillor and man higher up, sees to it that the city erects, outside a popular cafe, one of those gallic conveniences from which American cities are free. The restaurant protests, Monsieur Topaze collects for his employer 10,000 francs, and th iron nuisance is promptly removed and rebuilt just opposite cafe No. 2. This profitable little trick, Monsieur Castel-Benac insists, can be repeated four or five times a year.

The change in the state of mind of Monsieur Topaze, and his eventual domination of the whole show, is most subtly built up, and acted by Frank Morgan better than I have ever seen him act before—which is saying a good deal—with all the deft mannerisms and changes of personality that the fat but difficult role of Monsieur Topaze requires.

Holmes Travel Talk On Trip in France

Verbally and by colored "stills" together with motion scenes, France will be placed on exhibition by Burton Holmes at the Odeon tomorrow night. This pictured journey will have its beginnings in the rough cordillere of the French Pyrenees. Though only a few hours by motor from the cosmopolitan sophistications of Biarritz and other fashionable resorts along the Cote Basque, the people live in a world little changed from that of medieval times.

Continuing his pictured tour along the Route des Pyrenees, one of the great scenic motor highways of Europe, Mr. Holmes will make stops at Biarritz, Pau, Lourdes, Gavarnie, Cauterets, Luchon, Carcassonne, Le Puy, Paris, the battlefields, Deauville, and thence into Brittany by way of Mont-Saint-Michel.

Gayety to Reopen With Mixed Revue

The Gayety Theater, which was fitted up during the fall to be the home of the Theater Society of St. Louis, an organization which later gave up the ghost, is to reopen tomorrow with a musical stock burlesque company. Rather, there will be two companies playing, an all-Negro organization and a white company. The new enterprise will be operated by the Crawfords, owners of the building.

There will be daily matinees at the Gayety, commencing tomorrow afternoon with two shows, at 6:40 and 8:50 every evening.

Talkies Have a Birthday

Seventeen Years Ago This Month Edison Introduced a Hook-up With the Phonograph and Produced a Picture Which Really Had Something to Say—Lon Chaney Explains How the Conversational Films Will Raise the Tone of Screen Dramas—A Real "First Night" for St. Louis Reported in the Offing.

DURING the past week talking moving pictures celebrated—which hardly seems the right word for nothing really happened—a birthday. Not one of those three-years-at-one-theater things. Far from it. Instead of three baby candles, seventeen large ones were placed on the cake of this form of entertainment.

For, whereas the development of talking pictures is a recent step, the idea was created and actually produced in 1912 and a talking picture was shown to the public for the first time on Feb. 17, 1913. The announcement read:

> Thomas Edison presents his latest and greatest invention—talking motion pictures, or the cameraphone.

The program consisted of a scene from Shakspeare's "Julius Caesar," a short lecture explaining the device, a violinist, a singer and a pianist. The whole was concluded by the breaking of a china dish.

This program was of the first experiments in talking pictures and was made simply. A phonograph record was selected and then the recording artist was photographed until the synchronization was as near correct as possible. At that time, closeups had not come into popular use and it was difficult to read lip movement in a full-figure shot.

Reviewers received the premiere without enthusiasm.

* * * *

OUT in Hollywood at least two persons commemorated the birthday of talking pictures with amused memories.

Both happen to be working as actors in the same picture, portraying character parts in "The Texan," Paramount's companionate picture to "The Virginian," in which Gary Cooper plays the title role and Fay Wray the feminine lead.

Guy Oliver and Oscar Apfel are the actors.

Oliver worked in a "talking picture" before they actually talked and Apfel directed the first talking pictures which carried a thread of a story.

Oliver's part was played twenty-two years ago. He and his wife had been acting on the stage and Oliver got the idea of having living persons talk with the picture which was being shown. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver and an actor named Hodges made their debut at the Premier Theater on Fourteenth Street in New York. They sat in the orchestra pit, out of sight, and each of them played several different characters, reciting lines as the films proceeded for its length of a reel.

Apfel became one of the first directors of pictures when he joined the Thomas Edison Film Company in New York in 1911.

"Edison sent for me in New York to come to West Orange, New Jersey, where his experimental laboratories were located," Apfel recalls.

"Our studio was a large tent. Here I staged the first talking picture scene, a tableau of the prison scene in 'Faust.' Ernest Torrence, who was a singer made his screen debut in this. He sang the 'Mephisto' role. Lillian Snelling, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang the 'Marguerita' part and George Leon Moore, a tenor, was the hero.

"Our method was crude, as I look back today. It consisted of a camera which was connected by a wire pulley to a phonograph machine back of it, thereby securing synchronization.

"A huge horn extended from the recording machine over the heads of the players, out of range of the camera much as the microphones are used today.

"We were limited to seven minutes since this was the capacity of the disc record and we had to rehearse carefully because the scene must be perfect in action and timing."

Apfel left the Edison company shortly after his session in talking pictures, and in 1914 Jesse L. Lasky sent him to Hollywood to direct a number of Lasky's first films.

* * * *

AND now that we have nothing else but talkies statements to the effect that conversation is going to increase the intellectuality of motion pictures have been emanating from Hollywood, and thereabouts.

Persons who believe now that the movies have begun to talk they will become adult over night, point to the picturizations of Somerset Maugham's "The Circle," Frederick Lonsdale's "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," and "Gypsy Love," with Franz Lehar's music, which was made into "The Rogue Song," with Lawrence Tibbett exercising his grand opera baritone over the sound machinery.

"An increasing appreciation for better drama in motion pictures has been seen every year," says Lon Chaney, the gentleman of a thousand or so faces, discarding the face with which he signs new contracts, and putting on the face with which he discusses progress in cinema art.

"When I first went into pictures cowboy Westerns with plots reminiscent of the old ten, twenty and thirty cent melodrama were the popular form of entertainment. Then came the talking picture, which in its first form had more limitations than had silent pictures. It was Lionel Barrymore who first put flexibility into a talking picture, when he made "Madame X." Since then, the technical side has been making such strides that practically anything in the way of effect is possible now.

"And here is the way that has been found to make the so-called highbrbw drama practical. We save all the clever lines, and mingle them with the older screen technique and the narration which the public liked in the silent picture. It makes a new form of play, but one that fosters a better taste in drama generally."

MR. CHANEY then went away, maybe to wash off the ink that had gotten on his fingers when he was signing a new five-year contract to act and talk for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, or perhaps to practice using the five different voices with which it is understood he will supplement his thousand and odd faces, or possibly to look at his fan mail, which is said to be the largest in motion pictures, or maybe just to tell Mrs. Chaney and the family what his first talking picture is going to be. If he told them, he hasn't told anyone else.

On the way from where he was, Mr. Chaney probably passed the

The Goossens Concertino

And a Few Words About Ravel's Bolero, Which Will Be Played at the Next Symphony Concert —New York Reviews of Molinari.

By Thomas B. Sherman.

TWO of the season's most important novelties will be played by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the concerts next Friday and Saturday given under the direction of Eugene Goossens. They are Mr. Goossens' own concertino and Ravel's "Bolero."

The "Bolero" is described as one of the most remarkable musical tours de force ever heard. The whole effect is gained by the simple process of uttering one theme over and over again in an orchestra that constantly changes in timber and dynamics, but which sticks to the same rhythm from beginning to end.

In reference to the "Concertino" Mr. Goossens himself has sent me a short analysis which is reproduced herewith:

"The Concertino for double string orchestra was originally written in the autumn of 1928 as an octet for strings and as such was first performed by Mangeot and his players in London in February, 1929. The work was written for four violins, two violas and two cellos, consequently, in the orchestral version all the violins are divided into four parts and the violas and cellos into two, respectively. A bass part has also been added." In the latter form it was first heard at a New York Composers' League concert last December and I have since directed it at concerts of the Boston and Detroit Symphony orchestras. The work consists of three well-defined movements played without break and though modeled partly on the old concertino form of Vivaldi and contemporaries, is none the less free in style and polyphonic in treatment. The contrapuntal element is more recognizable in the first and last movements than in the middle one which is modal in feeling as befits a movement based on a motive in folk-song style.

"The theme of the middle section is nevertheless an original one and affords a restful contrast to the more animated and quick moving content of the first and third movements which have a strong idiomatic affinity and thematically much resemble each other. The concertino in performance is well calculated to demonstrate the opulent richness of the orchestral strings playing in subdivided choirs and because of a prevailing diatonic base should present no problems of an atonal nature to the listener. Needless to add I look forward very much to the fine performance it will undoubtedly receive at the hands of the St. Louis Symphony.

"Whether or not the concertino finds favor with my friends, the audience, I unhesitatingly predict an ovation for Ravel's Bolero which has hitherto proved the best surefire hit of the season. First performed as a ballet by Ida Rubinstein and her troupe last summer in Paris and recently produced by Toscanini in New York, it has everywhere created a furore. Structurally the piece is simple, being based entirely on a simple though sinuous Bolero-like subject accompanied by a rhythmic figure in the snare drum.

"Ravel, with consummate craftsmanship, has built up on this simple material a piece which, by monotonous iteration of rhythm and a magical crescendo of orchestration, achieves a climax of sensational brilliance and sonority."

AN out-of-town correspondent wants to know why this department has not printed some of the reviews of Bernardino Molinari's New York concerts. Most of those reviews have been concerned with the soloists appearing with Mr. Molinari and were rather noncommital when dealing with the purely orchestral numbers. Last week, however, Mr. Molinari gave a concert without a soloist and the reviews thereof are printed herewith for what they are worth.

NOEL STRAUS in the Evening World: "After Mr. Molinari had dispatched Mozart's Overture to Don Giovanni' to his liking, at last night's Philharmonic Symphony concert at Carnegie Hall, he launched into a prolonged and riotous carnival of noise. He commenced the bombardment with the Fourth Symphony of Brahms, following up this hectic performance with a triptych of compositions of twentieth century origin. These included Debussy's piano piece, "L'Isle Joyeuse," in Mr. Molinari's transcription for orchestra; Ravel's choreographic poem, "La Valse," and a "Symphonie Episode" from Zandonai's opera, "Giulietta e Romeo," consisting of an "interweaving" of the "Dance of the Wine Press" and the intermezzo "Romeo's Ride," from that lyric drama.

"In spite of its other items, this was a program destined by its very nature to prosper or fail, according to the fate meted out to the Brahms offering. Perhaps it might be possible to make a greater amount of meaningless turmoil with this score than Mr. Molinari's baton engendered, but one may be pardoned for having a doubt in the matter. Of course there were fewer crepitations in the slow movement than in the rest of the composition, but even here the director found plenty of scope for deafening cataclysms of sound.

Samuel Chatzinoff in the Morning World, said:

"Mr. Bernardino Molinari and the Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, essaying heroic heights by way of the Brahms fourth symphony in Carnegie Hall last night, hardly passed the timber-line in that gruelling climb toward Olympian snows. 'How exquisitely melodious it all is!' wrote Elisabet von Herzogenberg of the andante, one fact among many which Mr. Molinari apparently overlooked last night.

"There were moments in the third and last movements when energy, intensity and hysterics were too closely allied. Yet Mr. Molinari did achieve some careful and delicate shading in the first half of the andante, but these intervals were at once obscured by thick, heavy phrasing in that 'soft C sharp minor passage for strings.' The gay apprentices did not 'slouch,' but lumbered home instead. The coda of the andante, despite Mr. Molinari's obvious strivings, held little of haunting tenderness to our ears. The boisterous scherzo seemed to suit his temperament more successfully.

"Mr. Molinari did exhibit an interesting and skillful transcription for the orchestra of Debussy's piano piece, 'L'Isle Joyeuse.' He also conducted Ravel's 'La Valse' and a 'first performance by the society' —a distinction without a difference perhaps—of opera, 'Giuletta e Romeo.' The first American performance of this excerpt is said to have been by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, under Mr. Molinari, Jan. 18 and 19, 1929."

BEHIND THE SCREENS

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood's Last Silent Theatre Gives Up

Alma Rubens to Stage a Screen Come Back

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.

THE last theater on Hollywood boulevard, filmtown's main street, boldly to proclaim its pictures as "all silent" has capitulated to the talkie. Apparently the owner's daring attempt to remain one of the old guard in the midst of an almost 100 per cent dialog-crazed town wasn't a paying proposition.

IRENE RICH

Even in Hollywood, where almost everyone thinks and talks in talkie terms, there are occasional regrets that the good old silent, nondisturbing picture is history. But there aren't enough regretters to keep a silent picture silent.

IRENE RICH, who was in one of Will Rogers' first pictures and in his first talkie, "They Had to See Paris," will be seen as his wife again in his second, "So This Is London." . . . One of Thomas Meighan's old pictures, "The City of Silent Men," will be William Powell's next. . . . Story complications of an unannounced variety will postpone the making of "Oliver Twist," in which Lionel Barrymore was to return to the screen. . . . "Queen Kelly" will stay put until Gloria Swanson completes "What a Widow!" . . . It will be a modern comedy drama and she will sing again, . . .

A PICTURE of Buster Keaton laughing would be as difficult to obtain as one of Ben Turpin looking directly at you. Keaton never laughs for the camera, so the public never has seen him that way.

BUSTER KEATON

Keaton's mother and father were in vaudeville and when Buster was 5 he became a member of the act. His father was an Irish comedian, with red wig, floppy pants and slap-stick shoes. He dressed his son in the same manner and tossed him around the stage.

When Buster was a few years older he learned that laughing at his own falls and antics wasn't funny. Audiences wanted to laugh at him, not with him.

He came to the movies in 1917 as one of the comedians in Roscoe Arbuckle's troupe. When Arbuckle was graduated into feature length comedies, Keaton became a two-reel star.

After four or five pictures had been shown, Keaton was being called "frozen faced" and "blank pan," and a lot of other things that sounded uncomplimentary, but weren't.

Keaton reran some of the picture to see if he had smiled and discovered, somewhat to his amazement, that he had not. The poker face had become a part of him when he was acting.

NEARLY all Keaton's pictures are built around an incident in his or some friend's life. In "The Boat," one of his first two-reelers, Keaton built a cruiser in the cellar of his house and then had to tear down the house to launch the boat.

One of Keaton's friends actually built a boat in the cellar of a theater and had to tear down part of the building to remove it.

Keaton says his first talkie, "On the Set," is merely the story of a small town boy (himself) acting as manager for a girl (Anita Page) who wants to get into the movies. The incident, he says, is simple, and has happened, if not actually, "at least eight times in the movies."

"The simpler the incident," he says, "the easier it is to build up action.

"We have a war story in mind now and if the incident is good enough, we'll use it next. But I'm not any too keen for a war picture. I have a big following in Europe and usually war pictures step on some nation's toes."

ALTHOUGH every studio has its own library and research department, scarcely a day passes that the Los Angeles library isn't asked to dig into its archives to settle technical questions for the movies.

Stories have been figuratively rewritten in the library after research had corrected some technical fault. Many questions on history, religion, art, customs and dress are answered while stories are being written to avoid an incorrect record on film.

Questions asked by movie makers range from simple ones like "Did Shylock ever get his pound of flesh?" to others that may require hours of reading, such as "Where did women wear rouge in 1830—high on their cheeks or low?"

"Did women in 1860 have bustles on their riding habits?" was asked not long ago. Some others were:

"What kind of steering gear did Jules Verne use to manipulate his submarine?"

"What pictures were in the cabin of Columbus' ship?"

"What was the color of Cleopatra's hair?"

A LARGE dose of perspective is about the best cure known for an actor or anyone else who is "going Hollywood."

One way to get that perspective is to "park" over Hollywood boulevard, about 3500 feet up, and look down at the midget life below.

From the good blimp Volunteer, engaged for a day by Mack Sennett in connection with one of his comedies, and "parked" with idle motors high in the air beyond the reach of zealous ticket-giving traffic officers, one looked down on an amazing canvas on which movie-Hollywood is represented only by an occasional splotch.

MOVIES, to avoid being censorable, must punish wrongdoing. Evildoers must be shown, directly or by intimation, paying a penalty for misdeeds.

Therefore, in preparing "Raffles" for the screens, the story doctors were confronted with a problem. It would be slightly out of order to have Ronald Colman, as Raffles, London society crook, cast into the tower forever and a day, and anyway, Raffles never was apprehended in the tales about him and his exploits.

When the story reaches the public, Raffles will be punished by losing the girl with whom he has fallen in love, which may be penalty enough.

STUDIOS which ramble over blocks of earth are but insignificant fragments of the whole crazy-quilt pattern. The teeming ribbon which is Hollywood boulevard, where gay flicker folk congregate about noonday rendezvour, looks like any other of the thousand and one visible streets.

GRETA GARBO

And though John Gilbert and Clara Bow and Ramon Navarro and Greta Garbo —yea, Mary Pickford — may be strolling there, they look no different, in the eyes of the clouds from the thousands of other dwarfs.

There are quite a few film folk who could profit by such a trip, although, strangely enough, they are the lesser lights of filmdom, as a rule. The really important ones, almost without exception, are steadily anchored to the solid ground of common sense.

The extra who has begun to rise, the bit-player who has been singled out for a part, is the fellow most often in danger of letting his mental view of himself rise higher than any blimp could.

A PICTURE that Thomas H. Ince had planned to make the greatest of his career will be remade soon as a talkie. It is "The Last Frontier," written by Courtney Ryley Cooper. Ince had filmed part of the picture, including an expensive buffalo stampede, when his death occurred.

The picture was finished in 1926 by another company under another director. William Boyd played the lead and he will have the same role in the new version.

The picture will be filmed in the same studio where Ince had started to make it.

THE helping hand that Hollywood shows sometimes is making itself felt in the screen comeback of Alma Rubens.

ALMA RUBENS

The Irish-Spanish beauty recently was released from a hospital following recovery from the effects of drugs.

Miss Rubens made her official public "return" in a one-act sketch at the Writers' Club. Other players in the sketch were Edward Everett Horton, stage and screen comedian, who directed it, Marjorie Bennett, sister of Enid Bennett, and Phil Tead.

Horton, seeking to help Miss Rubens through a difficult situation, sought her out and invited her to play. It was her first stage success and she "got over" with great success before the critical audience consisting almost entirely of writers, directors and players.

The former star, a few years ago one of the reigning beauties of the screen, has been given screen and voice tests at several studios and will be given every opportunity to pick up her career where she left it a year ago. Her last picture was "Show Boat," in which she had a small role.

MISS RUBENS believes she has won her battle against drugs. She said the drug habit, which she referred to as a disease, came upon her gradually. She was suffering from a minor ailment and drugs were prescribed. In four years drugs taken as medicine became a habit that nearly cost her her life.

Ricardo Cortez, who stayed near his wife through her ordeal, will return to Hollywood soon from an Eastern vaudeville tour.

RICHARD DIX'S picture, taken from William LeBaron's play "I Love You," has been re-christened "Roughneck Lover," which is neither a sequel to nor a steal from Rudy Vallee's talkie.

And speaking of re-christenings, the little boy (Lawrence McKeen) who has become known in two-reel comedies as "Snookums," now has become "Sonny Jim." This is because the studio now using him does not own screen rights to the comic strip wherein "Snookums" had his origin.

"Sonny Jim," by the way, for all his diminutive size, can boast of having starred on a movie set costing more than most of those used for the greatest stars. It came about this way:

Before it was decided to star Paul Whiteman in the "King of Jazz" revue, a talkie with a plot was planned for him. This called for an elaborate cabaret set, which was constructed forthwith. Then arose the disagreement between Paul and the studio over the type of story Paul should have, and when the revue was chosen, the big cabaret went into the discard.

Before it was torn down, however, one corner of it served as a setting for a "Sonny Jim" comedy —comforting salvage!

Church Players in Comedy.

"The Pollyannas" of Salem Evangelical Church, Shreve and Margaretta avenues, will present "Cupid and Calories," a comedy in three acts by Fannie Barnett Linsky, on Wednesday and Thursday at 8:15. Members of the cast are: Helen Rumpf, Jessie Borgelt, Sophia Naar, Virginia Springmeyer, Melba Lotze, Lydia Dill, Marie Lotze, Esther Becker, Alma Nolte, Bernice Thoele Queathem, Anna Rumpf and Clara Broughten. Staged under the direction of Mabelle Drury Fredeking.

The latter was elaborated into a full-sized play and the Four Cohans appeared in it for a New York run in 1901. The next year it came to St. Louis.

His next success was "Little Johnny Jones," in which George M. starred and having tasted the sweets of success in playwriting, Cohan followed with "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," "The Talk of New York," "Fifty Miles From Boston," "The Man Who Owns Broadway," "The American Idea," "The Little Millionaire," "The Yankee Prince," "Broadway Jones," "The Miracle Man," "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and "Hello, Broadway" and "The Cohan Revue of 1918.

These were followed by "A Prince There Was," "The Meanest Man in the World," "The Tavern," "Little Nellie Kelly," "The Rise of Rosie O'Reilly."

set on which Joan Crawford was making "Montana Moon," a Western picture with music. For now that the films have become high-brow by learning to talk, audiences can hear Indian warwhoops, and clattering of hoofs, and cowboy yells, and songs around the camp fire, which they couldn't hear, of course, when the films were low-brow, and silent.

Dialogue is cutting down on overacting, but it isn't relieving the players of the necessity of keeping their figures. It looks to the experts as if a 28-inch waist still has it on a 28-carat brain—even if the movies are going high-brow.

ACCORDING to the more or less truthful boys in the exploitation department at Skouras Brothers, Hollywood, cinema capital of the world, and recognized as the natural locale for "First Nights," will have nothing on St. Louis in the way of a premiere when "The Vagabond King" opens its run at the Missouri Theater on March 7.

St. Louis has had its "premiere showings" and previews of certain cinema productions, but never before has it had such an opening as the Brothers Skouras promise.

The Grand boulevard amusement palace will be closed on the day of the opening to prepare the house for the one performance which will be given that night.

The entire affair will be broadcast by radio from the lobby of the Missouri and many prominent citizens, including movie critics, will be invited to "say a few words" to the great radio audience. Out in front, the theater will be flooded with arc and spot lights and movies, possibly talkies, will be made of the gathering.

PRINCETON TO TRAIN YOUTH FOR PUBLIC LIFE

President Hibben Announces School of International Affairs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 22.—The founding of a new School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University, to train youths for public life, was announced by President John Grier Hibben, at a meeting of the National Alumni Association here today.

"The school will aim to develop for the country each year a body of young men who will have not only a preliminary foundation for public and international careers, but also a new sense of direction and responsibility for the affairs of their state and country," President Hibben said.

Aiding in the management of the school, will be an advisory board comprising Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, John W. Davis, Owen D. Young, Dwight W. Morrow, Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan; De Witt Clinton Poole, recently counselor to the United States Embassy in Berlin, and William Church Osborn and Albert G. Milbank, trustees of the university.

Certain trustees and friends of the university have underwritten the expenses for the first three years' operation of the school, President Hibben says. Meanwhile, the university will seek an endowment of at least $2,000,000 to provide a substantial foundation for the school.

In concluding his address, Dr. Hibben read a letter from President Hoover congratulating Princeton University on the founding of the new institution.

President Hibben also announced today the completion of the $700,000 endowment of the Princeton Bureau of International Finance, to which the family of the late James Theodore Walker, '27, a St. Louisan, contributed $500,000 in his memory.

LORD WESTBURY'S WIDOW WILL KEEP TUTANKHAMEN RELICS

Titled Englishman Who Ended Life Did Not Fear Pharaoh's Curse, Nephew Says.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Despite the superstition of the curse of the Pharaohs which is supposed to visit all who have had any share in the Tutankhamen excavations, the family of Lord Westbury, who committed suicide yesterday, intend to keep their collection of mementos from the tomb including richly jeweled ornaments and carved Egyptian figures.

A cousin of Lord Westbury, whose suicide was the latest death in a series of tragedies which followed exploration of Tutankhamen's tomb, said today that Lord Westbury had no belief in the "curse of the Pharaohs." He also added that Lady Westbury intended to keep all the relics from the tomb which had been gifts from her late son, Richard Bethell, who helped Howard Carter in the excavations and who died last year.

Coolidges Reach Santa Barbara.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 22.—Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge arrived here this afternoon in company with Mark Requa, a California Republican leader, to pass the week-end. In Gov. C. C. Young's automobile the journey from Los Angeles was made without incident. They will return to Los Angeles tomorrow.

NOTED GYPSY MUSICIAN DIES

BUDAPEST, Feb. 22.—Bela Radicz, "king of the gypsy musicians" is dead. Radicz, who was 63 years old, during his life made himself known in every country in Europe, and in America, where he visited with his band.

Two hundred leading gypsies will play his favorite melodies at his funeral and his favorite violin and bow will be buried beside his body in a grave of honor in the Central Cemetery, donated by the Budapest municipality.

Pryor Again Heads Country Club.

Edward B. Pryor was re-elected president of the St. Louis Country Club yesterday. Other officers are Orion J. Willis and Harrison Hoblitzelle, vice presidents; John R. Shepley, secretary; A. Wessel Shapleigh, treasurer. The new directors were selected—Guy W. Oliver and Edward G. Hotchkiss.

WIL DEPOSITIONS SUBMITTED TO U. S. IN FIGHT ON KWK

They Describe Personal Conduct of Thomas Patrick Convey, Manager of the Latter Radio Station.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Another fat package of soiled linen was received from St. Louis yesterday by the Federal Radio Commission, to be included in the record of the squabble between broadcasting stations WIL and KWK for possession of a certain wave length and power allotment. It consists of depositions taken in St. Louis 10 days ago by counsel for the two stations.

Some of the testimony deals in lurid fashion with the alleged habits, manners and conduct of Patrick Convey, president and manager of KWK, and is offered by WIL in support of its charge that Convey has forfeited his right to use public facilities. WIL is asking the commission to deprive KWK of its present wave length and power allotment and assign them to WIL, which now has a much lower power allotment and is required to divide its frequency with two other stations.

In one of the depositions Joe Hester, barber at Hotel Chase, where KWK is located, gave a diverting account of Convey's attempt to cut in ahead of a Yankee ballplayer who had been waiting for some time and was next, when Convey appeared.

Among the transcripts offered by WIL is one purporting to be that of a telephone conversation between Convey and George Junkin, director of station KMOX, which Junkin took the pains to have recorded by two stenographers. It is noted for the extraordinary vigor of the language imputed to Convey. In the two and a half typewritten pages of the transcript, a certain epithet occurs 16 times, usually preceded by the adjective "lousy."

Chase Around a Desk.

Junkin, the transcript discloses, did not reply in kind, but he reminded Convey of an occasion when "I chased you around a desk six times," and Convey admitted that he was no physical match for Junkin.

The majority of the depositions are stenographic records of appeals broadcast by Convey from KWK, asking listeners to sign petitions and affidavits to be presented to the Radio Commission in support of KWK's application for a higher power allotment. They also contain reports of his broadcast controversies with stations WIL and KMOX.

The barber shop incident described by Hester occurred, according to him, during the last series played by the Yankees in St. Louis last fall. It was Sunday morning and several customers were waiting. Convey wanted one of them to surrender his time.

"He seemed to be in what some folks would call a hurry," Hester related. "They wouldn't give him their turn, so he got a little mad about it, and there was one of the Yankee ballplayers there, and he asked him for his turn, and he said 'No, he didn't have time,' he would have to hurry and get out to the ball park, so Mr. Convey didn't know who he was, and asked him who he was playing with. He said with the Yankees, and then Mr. Convey got real mad with him and said he had given the Yankees a million dollars worth of free advertising but he would never give them any more if they couldn't give him their turn and accommodate him that much."

A little later Mrs. Inez Mueller, 2913 Harper street, Convey's former secretary, testifying as to the condition and conduct of his business, stated that during the primary campaign preceding the last mayoralty election in St. Louis, Lawrence McDaniel was allowed to speak three times over KWK and was only charged for one.

McDaniel remarked that he objected to that testimony, on the ground he was a Democrat, and "a Democrat is entitled to anything he can get for nothing."

Financing of Station.

Allen May, general attorney for the Missouri Life Insurance Co., described the financing of KWK in 1927. He said the old International Life Insurance Co. put up $10,000 and the Hotel Chase furnished space, music and certain improvements. The controlling stock was pledged to guarantee performance of the contract, which provided that at least three times an hour the station would be announced as the International Life station in the Hotel Chase. It was agreed that the International would pay $166.65 a month for this advertising to be deducted from the $10,000 already advanced.

When the wrecking of the International resulted in the reinsurance of its business in the Missouri State Life, the latter took over the contract and is carrying it out, its name being substituted for the International in the station announcement.

In May, 1927, two months after the signing of the original contract, May continued, Convey borrowed $1500 each from the Chase and the International, on notes secured by the balance of his stock in the station.

"This note," he stated, "has never been paid and Convey persists in the feeling that it should be absorbed by the lenders as a gracious support of the station. Until recently he has not been making any money and there has been no point in pressing this collection."

Calls Programs Interesting.

Testifying on cross-examination, May declared that he regarded KWK'S programs as distinctly interesting and entertaining.

Virtually all the testimony contained in the depositions was given over the objection of Convey's counsel, who contended it was incompetent and immaterial, and that much of it was "frivolous." Commissioner E. O. Sykes, who presided over the oral hearing here Wednesday and to whom the depositions have been submitted, will rule later on their admissibility. He told the writer today that he had not started to read the bulky record, which Convey's attorneys characterized as "dirty linen" and that he expected to consume several weeks before reaching a decision.

PLANS TO LEAVE U. S. FOREVER TO AVOID SERVING PRISON TERM

Florida Physician Convicted of Issuing False Drug Prescriptions; Has Choice in Sentence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 22.—Dr. Horace J. Williams, Tampa physician, is going to leave his native country forever, rather than serve five years in a Federal prison.

Federal Judge A. Akerman gave him the alternatives following his conviction of issuing illegal drug prescriptions. The physician said he would go to South America or South Africa before July 1.

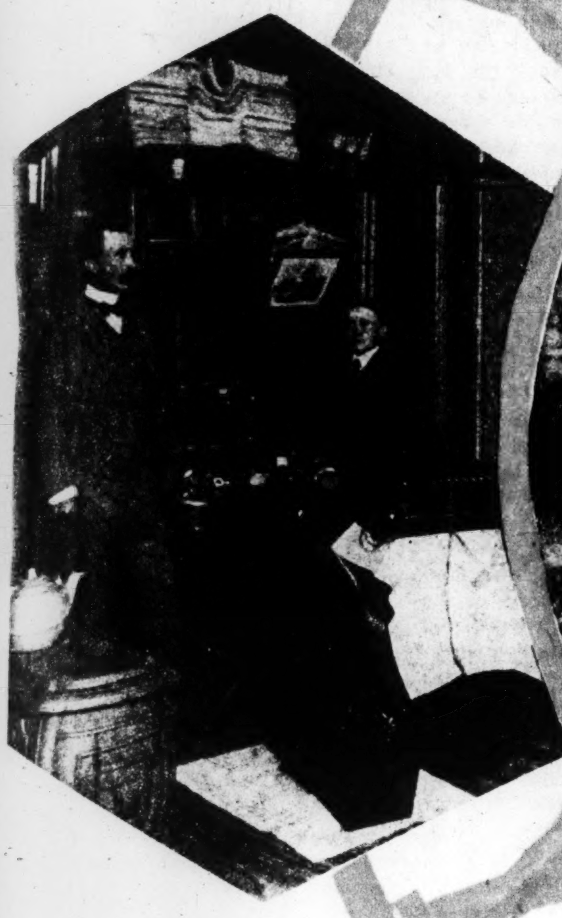
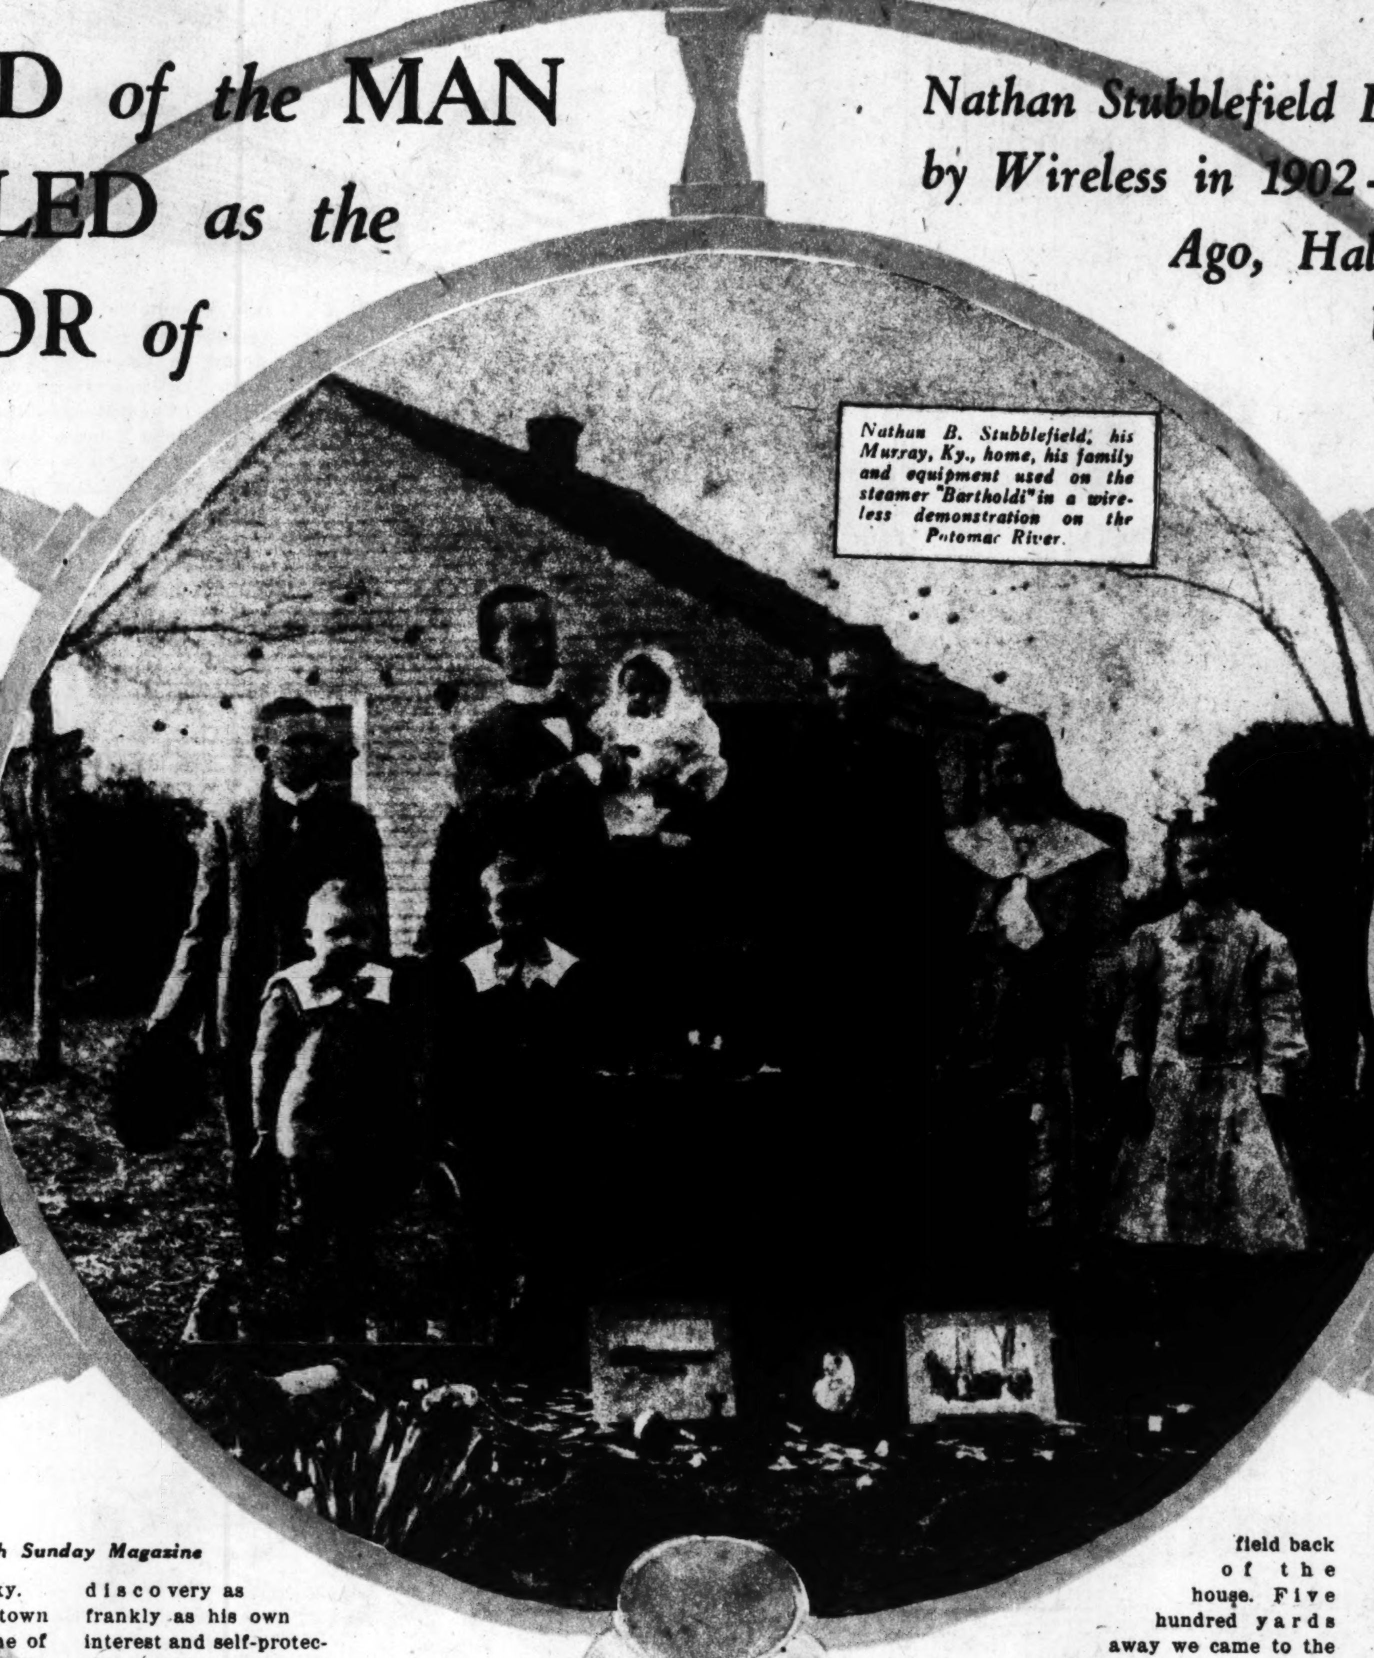
TRAGIC END of the MAN NOW HAILED as the INVENTOR of RADIO

Nathan Stubblefield Broadcast Human Speech by Wireless in 1902—And Died Two Years Ago, Half-Starved, Penniless and Unattended.



The "radio set" in Stubblefield's Kentucky home.



Nathan B. Stubblefield, his Murray, Ky., home, his family and equipment used on the steamer "Bartholdi" in a wireless demonstration on the Potomac River.

MURRAY, Kentucky.

ON MARCH 28 this small Kentucky town plans to dedicate a memorial to one of its former citizens. The monument will be erected to Nathan B. Stubblefield, the man who, according to sound evidence, first sent the human voice through the air by wireless and then translated those sending waves into human voice again—the man who invented the radio.

Nathan Stubblefield died two years ago, two years from the time his memory is to be perpetuated by the dedication of the memorial. His body was found in his little hut near here. He had come to his end unattended, alone, half-starved, a little strange in his actions. Obsessed with his science, his indifference had caused his family to leave him; his peculiar attitude had divorced him from his friends. He died without fame and his body was placed in an unmarked grave.

It would appear strange that a man, whose invention was the forerunner of all the broadcasting and listening-in that is so familiar today, should have died unheralded. Was he given no opportunity to show his wares? He was. Was his the fate of the inventor who has his discovery stolen away from him? That does not seem to be the case. Instead, it seems that Nathan Stubblefield was so suspicious of everyone who investigated his work, with an eye to marketing it, that men finally gave him up and turned away from him.

His fear, his distrust, his suspicion that someone else would wish to share his fame seems to have defeated him, and to have brought him an unhappy, impoverished end instead of the renown he so desired.

Nathan Stubblefield's progenitors were English, his great-grandfather being the first of the line to come to this country. His grandfather came to Kentucky from North Carolina in 1826, settling a few miles from Murray. Nathan's father was a Murray attorney who had served as Captain in a Kentucky regiment during the Civil War. Nathan was born in Murray in 1860.

HE WENT to the county schools and that was the beginning and end of his formal education. But when he was in his early twenties he started his experimentation with electricity, his only guides being books and technical journals. He married and became the father of several children, all of whom he educated himself. One son, Bernard, showed an interest and aptitude for electrical research. He became his father's only aid.

According to Charles Hire, physicist at the State Teachers' College here, who has examined Stubblefield's patent and studied his work, Stubblefield's principles are the foundation of the radio of today.

The first broadcasting of human speech without wires, that is known of, was probably late in 1901, when Stubblefield sent his voice across the Kentucky fields. On January 1, 1902, Stubblefield first gave his fellow citizens a public demonstration.

The Post-Dispatch heard of Stubblefield's invention and sent a reporter to Murray to investigate the matter.

Here, in part, is the account the Post-Dispatch carried in its Sunday Magazine of January 12, 1902:

MURRAY, Ky., Jan. 10.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

"However undeveloped his system may be, Nathan Stubblefield, the farmer-inventor of Kentucky, has assuredly discovered the principle of telephoning without wires, using only the earth's electrical charge for the transmission of the voice from one distant point to another.

"Today he gave the Sunday Post-Dispatch a practical demonstration of his ability to do this and discussed his discovery as frankly as his own interest and self-protection would admit.

"I drove to Mr. Stubblefield's farm, about two miles from Murray, and was received with the usual hospitality of Kentucky. Previously Mr. Stubblefield had never permitted a newspaper correspondent to approach his house nearer than the road that runs before it, so jealously has he guarded his workshop in which his experiments were made. He has worked for 10 years to discover an apparatus by which he could overcome the use of wires in telephoning, during which time he has become a technical electrician of a high order . . . . .

" 'Before speaking of my discovery,' said Mr. Stubblefield, 'I desire to show you my apparatus and give you convincing proof of its ability to perform what I claim for it, the transmission of the voice without wires.'

"He led the way to a tiny workshop built onto the porch on the front of his house. It was just wide enough to hold the transmitter, which stood before the window, and a chair. . . .

"THE transmitting apparatus is concealed in a box about four feet high, two and a half feet wide, and one and a half feet deep. It is this apparatus by means of which vibration of the electric current is produced. Two wires of the thickness of a lead pencil coil from its corners and disappear through the wall of the room, and enter the ground. [illegible] the top of the box is an ordinary telephone transmitter and a telephone switch. This is the machine through which the voice of the sender is passed into the ground to be transmitted by the earth's electrical waves to the ear of the person who has an instrument capable of receiving and reproducing [illegible]

"The son (Bernard) of Mr. Stubblefield [illegible] at the house to send the messages. We went into the cornfield back of the house. Five hundred yards away we came to the experimental station the inventor has used for several months in working out his wireless telephony theory. It is a drygoods box fastened to the foot of a stump. A roof to shed the rain has been placed on top of it; one side is hinged for a door, and wires connected with the ground on both sides run into it and are attached to a pair of telephone receivers. The box was built as a shelter from the weather, and as a protection to the receivers. I took a seat in the box and Mr. Stubblefield shouted a 'hello' to the house. This was the signal to his son to begin sending messages.

"I PLACED the receivers to my ears and listened. Presently there came with extraordinary distinctness several spasmodic buzzings, then a voice which said:

" 'Hello! Can you hear me? Now I will count ten. One-two-three-four-five-six-seven-eight-nine-ten. Did you hear that? Now I will whisper.'

"I heard as clearly as if the speaker were only across a 12-foot room the 10 numerals whispered."

The Post-Dispatch reporter goes on to tell of hearing the boy whistle and play a mouth organ. Then:

"An examination of the station showed that the wires leading from the receivers terminated at steel rods, each of which was topped with a hollow nickel-plated ball of iron, below which was an inverted metal cup. The wire enters the ball at the top and is attached to the rod. The rod is thrust into the ground two-thirds of its length. . . .

" 'Now,' said Mr. Stubblefield, who carried under his arm duplicates of the ball-tipped steel rods, 'I wish you [illegible] lead the way. Go where you will, sink the rods into the ground and listen for a telephone message.'

"[illegible] down a wagon track through the wide cornfield . . . . . We pursued the lane for about 500 yards and struck into the wood. I led the way . . . . . In a ravine I stopped.

" 'How far are we from the house now?' I asked.

" 'About a mile,' Stubblefield answered. 'Place the rods where you will and listen for a telephone message.'

"I took the four rods from Stubblefield. Each pair of rods was joined by an ordinary insulated wire about 30 feet long, in the center of which was a small round telephone receiver.

"Two by two the rods were sunk into the ground, about half their length, the wires between them hanging loosely and with plenty of play. I placed a receiver at each ear and waited. In a few moments came the signaling 'buzz,' and the voice of Stubblefield's son saying, 'Hello! Can you hear me? Now I will count 10, etc.' . . . . . The voice was quite as clear and distinct as it was 500 yards from the transmitting station . . . . .

"The rods were moved here and there but always the message came. At intervals for an hour or more the boy at the house repeated over and over again the message into the transmitter in obedience to his father's request and the demands of the test . . . . .

"Stubblefield bears the stamp of genius. He is a recluse. He has the thoughtful, absent air. He is eccentric. His neighbors shun him, while they respect him. None ever intrudes upon his privacy—they know well that such intrusion means a rebuff long to be remembered . . . "

The Post-Dispatch reporter talked with Stubblefield about his invention:

"I HAVE been working for this 10 or 12 years," Stubblefield said. "Long before I heard of Marconi's efforts, or the efforts of others, to solve the problem of the transmission of messages through space without wires, I began to think about it and work for it. This solution is not the result of an inspiration or the work of a minute. It is the climax of the labor of years of days and nights of thought, of hundreds of hours of experimenting.

"Of course, I worked along the lines all the others are working. The earth, the air, the water, all the universe, as we know, is permeated with the remarkable fluid which we call electricity, the most wonderful of all God's gifts to the world . . . . I have solved the problem of telephoning without wires through the earth as Signor Marconi has of sending signals through space. But I can also telephone without wires through space as well as through the earth, because my medium is everywhere.

"How I have obtained this result is, of course, my secret. My apparatus has not yet been patented. In that small box that you have seen lies the secret of my success. It is not yet perfect, by any means. I can now telephone a mile without wires. When the larger apparatus, on which I am now working, is finished I will demonstrate that messages can be sent much farther—how far I cannot say. The system can be developed until messages by voice can be sent and heard all over the country, to Europe, all over the world. There is nothing to stop it. The world is its limits. This may seem like boasting. It is not. It is a fact . . . . .

"I have as yet devised no method whereby it can be used with privacy. Wherever there is a receiving station the signal and the message may be heard simultaneously. Eventually I, or someone, will discover a method of tuning the transmitting and receiving instruments so that each will answer only to its mate.

"I claim for my apparatus that it will work equally as well through air and water as it does through the earth. . . ."

Stubblefield's secret, then, was "in that small box." What was in the box, what was his process? By speaking into a device similar to a telephone transmitter—corresponding to the microphone of today—Stubblefield noted that a current carrying his voice varied in accordance with

When the Wabash Bottoms Became an Arctic Waste

The Unprecedented Disaster That Fell Upon Indiana and Illinois Farmers When the River Overflowed, Followed by Zero Weather.

A typical ice-choked isolated dwelling caught by the frozen Wabash.

VINCENNES, Indiana.

THE moon "shining bright along the Wabash" these February nights has been falling on a scene of Arctic desolation the like of which was never witnessed before in this sheltered and romantic valley, famous in history and song. The banks of the Wabash—and in this case very literal banks—gave way a short time ago before a freezing flood. For weeks ice covered thousands of acres of rich agricultural land idealized in the familiar song as "fields of new-mown hay." Candle light still gleams through the sycamores occasionally—bare sycamores, with ice and water around their massive trunks—but for several miserable days the gleam of a candle was a token not of a warm and comfortable home but the abode of suffering and hardship. Some 2000 farm homes of Indiana and Illinois were inundated in this disastrous January flood and, in at least 200 cases, their inhabitants were marooned in chilly attics and barn lofts, with little food and no fuel. The ice flood was doubly disastrous because of its unexpectedness. It was as if the trusted and friendly Wabash, suddenly enraged like a pet tiger, had hurled itself upon its people to destroy them.

The situation is well in hand now. Refugees are returning to their water-soaked homes and salvaging what they can from the wreckage. Many of them consider themselves lucky even to be still alive, for there were days when the issue seemed to be in grave doubt. That there were not many fatalities from exposure and hunger is traceable to two factors—the speed and resolution with which relief workers rose to meet the emergency, and the use of airplanes as vehicles of rescue. For the efficacy of this relief work credit goes largely to the American Red Cross and to the air squadron of the Indiana National Guard.

IT WAS one of the whimsicalities of fate that the calamity should have befallen such historic country as the lower Wabash. It is known to every schoolboy who has followed the stirring exploits of General George Rogers Clark. Indeed, it was in the depths of a similarly severe winter in the seventeen-seventies that Clark (then a Colonel) set out to gain the co-operation of the French and Indians of the Mississippi in the cause of American independence. At Vincennes, on the Wabash River, it will be recalled, he encountered a strongly-fortified British garrison under Colonel Hamilton. There was a frozen Wabash then, but Clark, like George Washington at Trenton, delivered a surprise attack and overcame the enemy by fording the icy stream at a time when such an attack was least expected. On the east bank of the Wabash at Vincennes now stands a six-foot limestone shaft bearing this inscription: "Site of Fort Sackville, captured by Col. George Rogers Clark from the British, February 25, 1779, resulting in the United States acquiring the great Northwest territory embracing the States of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota." A few yards beyond the monument one comes upon the northern terminus of the devastated region. For 75 miles southward stretches the valley which now, more than a month later, is just emerging from its ordeal by ice and flood.

Hauling Red Cross supplies by sled 12 miles along the Wabash River.

The trouble began almost with the New Year. For nearly the entire first half of January, rain fell in torrents. Streams were swollen, depressions everywhere were filled with water and the Wabash threatened to spread over its banks and levees. The outlook was such that on January 13 the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington advised National Red Cross headquarters in that city that a serious situation might develop. Telegrams aroused 36 Red Cross chapters to readiness and H. B. Williamson, director of field operations, sped to Vincennes with eight experienced workers.

Meanwhile, the downpour continued. The Wabash went over its banks. Levees were smashed, towns were inundated, farmers were driven to seek safety on higher ground or on the upper floors of their houses and barns. Livestock was overwhelmed and drowned. Winter wheat was submerged and ruined. Then, with the situation already calamitous, there came the knockout blow.

On January 17 a blizzard blew over the harassed region. A bitterly cold wave struck the flood at its crest and halted it in its rush, leaving ice ranging from six inches to six feet thick over some 300,000 acres of countryside. Broken and slushy, this ice left the district as impassable and impenetrable as an expanse of Arctic sea filled with ice hummocks.

Townspeople, public officials, the more fortunate refugees and Red Cross workers, already alarmed at the high water, were horrified when they realized what conditions must prevail in the inundated lowlands now that a blizzard was raging. Doubtless, hundreds of men, women and children, scattered here and there across vast reaches of flooded country, were shivering with cold and hunger. Unless they could be reached promptly, it was evident that relief would be unnecessary. It would be too late.

BUT how to reach the refugees? Boats could not venture out. Two men from Vincennes tried that, and came near losing their lives when the propeller of their outboard motor was shorn off by the ice. Here was a problem in navigation with which only Arctic explorers have ever grappled. It was not merely a flood, like that of the Mississippi River lowlands in 1927, in which launches and packet boats could hasten to the relief of the stricken. There was too much ice for any boats except Arctic icebreakers, with which Indiana towns are not equipped, and yet the ice was not solid enough or uniform enough to permit travel across it on foot. There were wide areas of open water. New relief methods had to be devised, so the Red Cross workers called for airplanes.

The first flight into the flooded regions was made by Lieutenants Lawrence Genaro and Walter Peck of Schoenfield, an army airport at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis. They flew to Vincennes to reconnoiter. At Vincennes, Lieutenant Genaro picked up Tom Ryan, a citizen well acquainted with the section, and loaded the plane with food and clothing wrapped in blankets. At Claypool Hills, south of Vincennes, the flyers espied some 50 refugees running frantically about in a small plot of ground that rose above the water.

Genaro swooped low to allow Ryan to drop the first blanket load. As Ryan stood up in the rear cockpit to release his burden the wind whipped back the folds of the blanket and they were ensnared by the tail and rudder of the ship. The craft started to plunge downward and Genaro was just able to make a hazardous landing on a small expanse of strong ice. The refugees crowded hysterically about to receive the supplies.

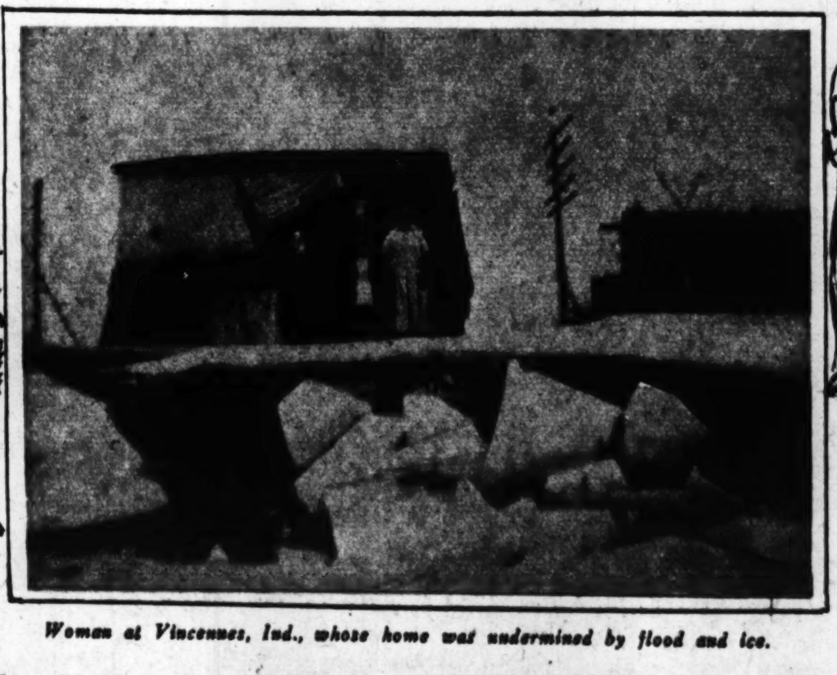
H. B. Williamson, Red Cross Director of Disaster Field Operations, about to take off on an aerial survey of the frozen district.

There followed then several anxious moments for the airmen. How would they be able to take off from such a small field? It looked as if they would be forced to abandon rescue work and wait to be rescued themselves. Then Genaro thought out a plan. While a dozen men clung to the wings of the plane to keep it from moving, he throttled up the motor to high speed so that when the men released their hold the ship started at a faster rate and thus took the air with a shorter run. Returning to his base, Genaro reported on his experiment. Relief workers then were convinced that here was the means of rescue. Airplanes!

THE food packages, of course, would have to be dropped in sacks instead of blankets, to avoid repetition of the accident in the first experiment and the refugees would have to be instructed in the use of the Red Cross air-ground code for communicating with the flyers. Also, the signal panels of the code, to be dropped, with instructions for their use, would have to be dark in color in order to show on the ice—a necessity that never had arisen before.

Red Cross Relief Director Williamson got in touch with officers of the Indiana National Guard Air Squadron, whose equipment was extensive enough for the task in hand. Promptly responding, five National Guard planes, commanded by Major Richard F. Taylor and manned by Captain M. E. Sweeney, Lieutenants Mathew G. Carpenter, Paul Zartman, Cecil F. Reynolds and two mechanics, flew to Evansville, Indiana, where a base was established at the municipal airport. Several of these pilots had served in the World War with distinguished records, Captain Sweeney having 18 German planes to his credit.

For two weeks the planes flew over the stricken area daily, dropping food packages and code-signal instructions prepared by the Evansville Red Cross chapter. They ministered to more than a hundred families. The signal system proved to be invaluable, for by its use the flyers were apprised of many special problems of the refugees which were not apparent from the air. In one instance a cabin plane was called upon to land near the home of an expectant mother suffering from pneumonia. She was taken by plane to a hospital, where she is recovering.



Woman at Vincennes, Ind., whose home was undermined by flood and ice.

The reward of the intrepid airmen, who circled their ships to within 20 or 30 feet of the ground at a speed of 120 miles an hour, was the ecstatic demonstration of the refugees. They danced about wildly, waving their arms and shouting. The work had not gone far before the whole white panorama of the Wabash River basin was dotted with the red and blue signals, arranged on the snow, in letters 12 feet high and two feet wide. The requirements thus made known were promptly met. Before their task was completed the pilots dropped approximately 400 supply packages, each of which contained (usually) eight cans of fruit or vegetables, a quantity of sausage, bread, coffee and sugar. Also, many signaled requests for shoes, especially for children, were met.

Even in Red Cross disaster relief records, which cover about every kind of disaster over the last 49 years, there is no case presenting quite so many unique phases both of problem and solution as appeared in this combat with an ice flood. Ordinarily floods and tornadoes follow traditions pretty closely. And usually the emergency problems are solved within a few days.

Food, clothing, shelter and medical care are supplied quickly and then relief workers visit each family to work out a plan for return to self-support with some permanent form of Red Cross assistance which possibly includes seed, household furnishings, livestock or similar needs.

SUCH has not been true of this experience. The emergency period itself extended over three weeks, with contact being made only from the air. It is not to be forgotten that flyers from Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Alabama, distinguished themselves during the floods of March, 1929, but their services were not needed after 10 days and at no time did they have to contend with zero weather and a vast sea of ice, so much more formidable than a warm-weather flood which reaches its crest and quickly subsides.

Relief operations under Red Cross Director Williamson at Vincennes extended throughout the river sections, with area headquarters in charge of experienced workers at Princeton, Griffin and New Harmony, Indiana, and Carmi and Mount Carmel, Illinois. Backing these workers with a multitude of indispensable services, either in raising relief funds, or in other ways, were countless local Red Cross chapter volunteers, public officials, newspapers, radio stations, business men, churches, ex-service men, railroads, county agents, women's clubs, service clubs and Boy Scouts.

AS THE ice thawed slowly, permitting the marooned to come into the towns, tales of heroism and strange incidents accumulated. Men dragged a rescuing ferry boat across the ice with a block and tackle—a long line of men tied together every few feet with ropes, Alpine-fashion, to prevent drowning in the sink holes. A man took a couple of 200-pound hogs in a skiff to save them, and nearly lost his own life when both animals got on one side of the boat and tilted it. Sledges of food were hauled 12 miles along the levee tops, while the drivers kept the sleds from slipping down the slick earth banks to ruin. A farmer left his cow on a scaffolding above the flood, and returned to find the beast

The NEW MYSTERY about GABY DESLYS' IDENTITY

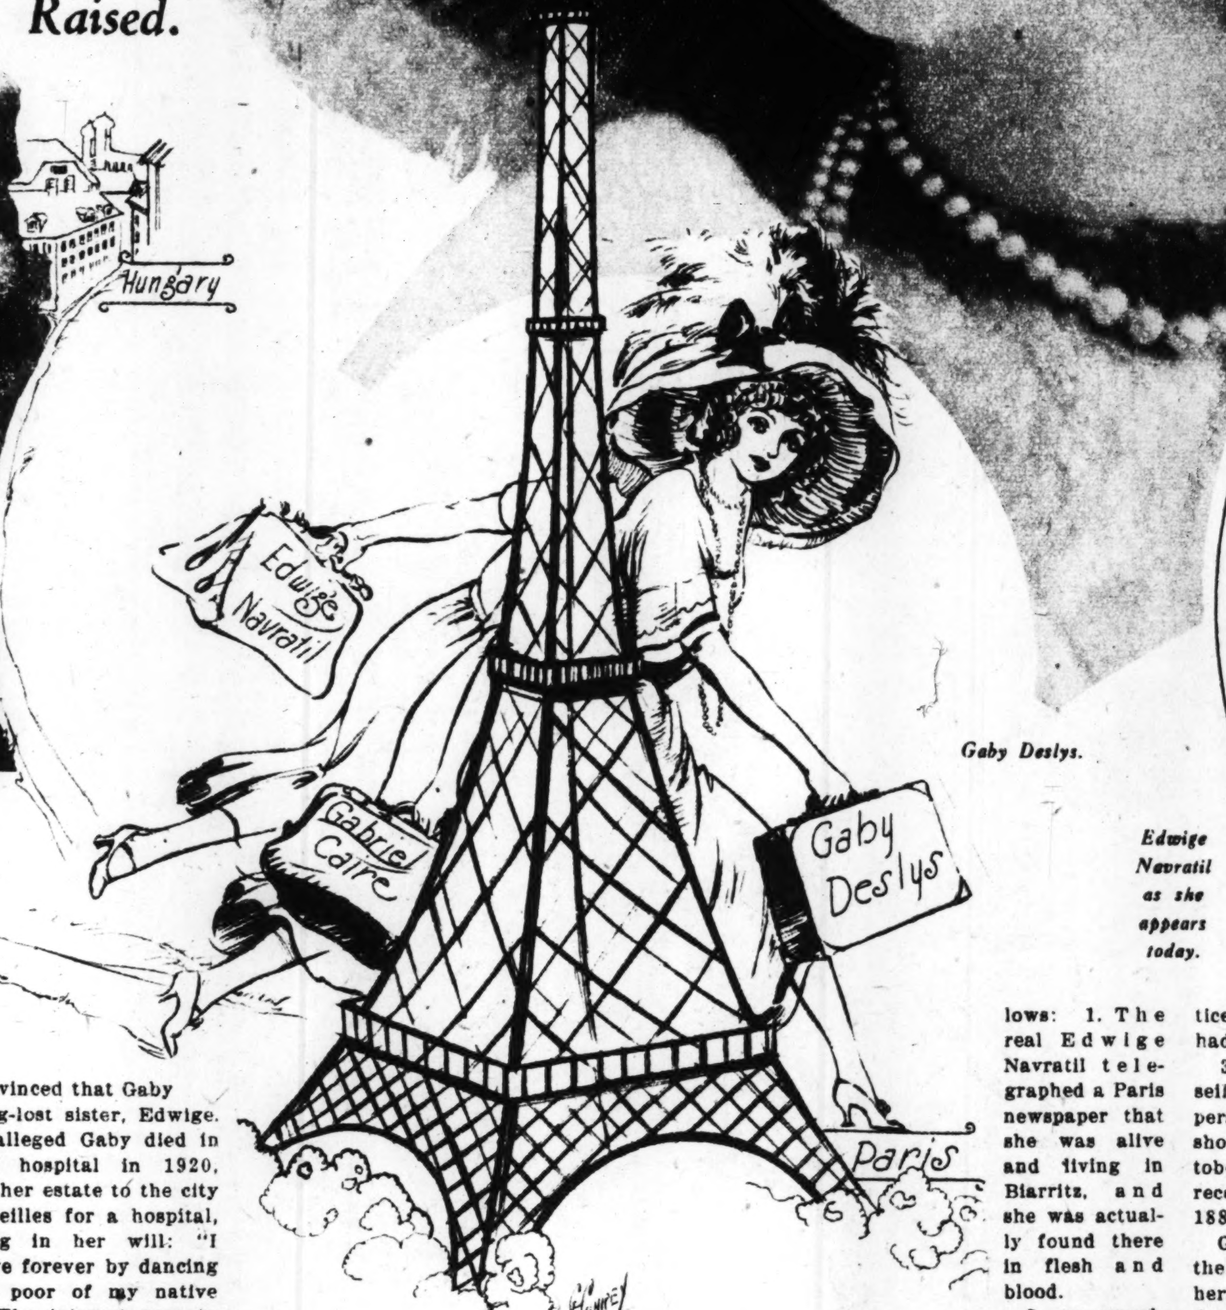
The Suit of an Obscure Hungarian Who Says the Famous Music Hall Star Was Really Edwige Navratil and His Daughter, and the Baffling Questions It Has Raised.

Gaby Deslys, as she appeared during her New York triumph.

Gaby Deslys.



Edwige Navratil as she appears today.

PARIS.

DID Gaby Deslys, the famous French music-hall star, really die in a Paris hospital in 1920, or had the real Gaby died of tuberculosis some years before, and a double been secretly substituted in her place in order to keep the magic stream of gold flowing into the family coffers?

Or is there still another explanation of the strange mystery of the life and identity of the noted coquette—an explanation that may never be known?

A complaint lodged before the public prosecutor of Paris by John Navratil, an obscure Hungarian, alleging that Gaby Deslys was his runaway daughter Edwige, and demanding possession of her $1,000,000 estate, has revealed an astonishing confusion of identities and led to a succession of coups de theatre that has left French justice and the French public utterly baffled.

The Navratil case, which is represented by several of the best lawyers in Paris, is briefly as follows:

Navratil had a daughter named Edwige, born October 31, 1884, at the village of Mastenice, formerly Hungary, today Czecho-Slovakia. At the age of 20 Edwige, who bore a striking resemblance to Gaby Deslys, ran away from home to become a singer and dancer, and traveled all over Europe. She wrote a number of post cards to her family in German, Hungarian and Czech, signed "Your loving daughter, Gaby Deslys," but she never returned. These communications ceased in 1912. The following year Edwige's sister, Mrs. Berkes, went to a Vienna theater where Gaby Deslys was playing and tried to embrace her, but Gaby repulsed her and denied her identity as a Navratil. Mrs. Berkes was nevertheless convinced that Gaby her long-lost sister, Edwige.

The alleged Gaby died in a Paris hospital in 1920, leaving her estate to the city of Marseilles for a hospital, declaring in her will: "I shall live forever by dancing for the poor of my native city." The interest goes to her mother, Mrs. Caire of Marseilles, and her sister, Mrs. Fernand Conilh, wife of a Cuban living in Syracuse, New York, as long as they live. Harry Pilcer, her dancing partner, was also given 1500 francs a month for life. This was almost $300 a month in 1920; today it is $60.

THE proof that Gaby Deslys was Gabriel Caire, born in Marseilles on November 4, 1881, is apparently overwhelming. For one thing, thousands of Marseillaise still living knew Gaby personally; had seen her appear in the music halls there year after year, and had followed her career from the time she left her home town to become a Parisian chorus girl to the very day she died. Many of these persons knew her as the daughter of Madame Caire, who is still living. Furthermore, she bequeathed her estate to Marseilles, calling it her native city. In probating the will the municipality of Marseilles had confirmed that Madame Caire was actually Gaby's mother, before granting her an income from the estate for life. If there was ever an air-tight, water-tight case, that looked like one.

Unable to find sufficient proof for their contention that Gaby Deslys was their daughter Edwige, the Navratils made no claim to her estate when she died.

They recently received some backing from mysterious sources and when John Navratil, the father—the mother died some years ago—filed his complaint charging John Doe with forgery, use of forgery and fraudulent misappropriation of property there were astonishing developments, as follows: 1. The real Edwige Navratil telegraphed a Paris newspaper that she was alive and living in Biarritz, and she was actually found there in flesh and blood.

2. An examination of "Tout Paris," the leading Paris social directory, revealed that in the editions of 1915-16-17-18-19-20-21, in the section where actors and writers give both their real names and stage names, Gaby Deslys had given her real name as Hedy Navratil! Hedy is a diminutive of Edwige. No one had ever noticed this before, or at least attention had never been directed to it.

3. A birth certificate from Marseilles, found among Gaby Deslys' papers at the hospital where she died, showed that she was born there October 31, 1885, although the original records give the date as November 4, 1881.

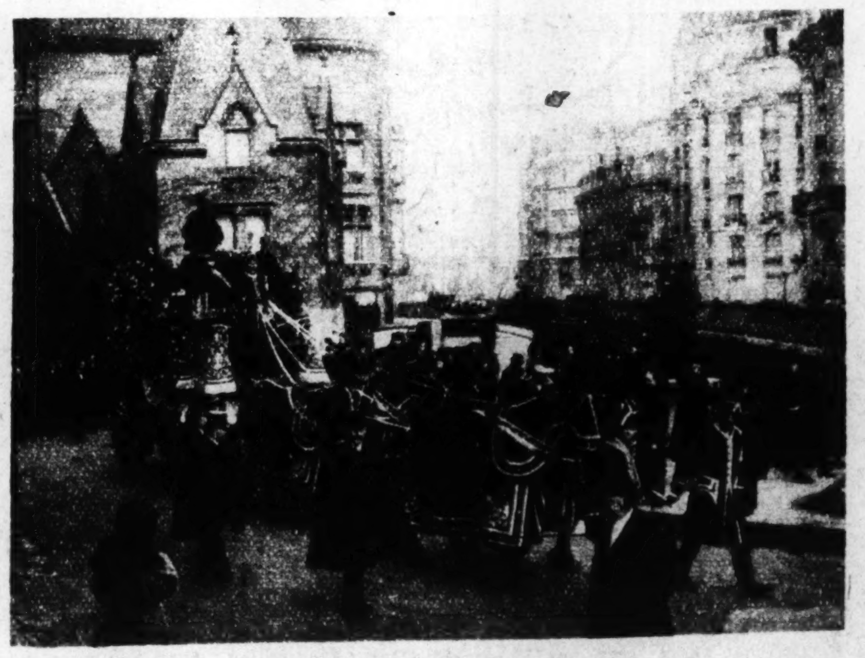
Gaby had obviously scratched off the date of her certificate to make herself younger, but by what coincidence had she written October 31, 1885?

Edwige Navratil was born on October 31, 1884.

4. A certificate of some sort given Edwige Navratil by the Vienna police in 1918 is in the name of "Edwige Navratil, called Gaby Deslys."

5. At the outbreak of the war in 1914, Gaby Deslys had taken some extraordinary measures to prevent her property in France from being seized.

6. A bit of evidence in the hands of the Navratil lawyers, still being kept secret, seems to show that the Gaby of 1907 was positively not the Gaby of 1920.



Gaby Deslys' funeral procession.

WHAT does this strange confusion of identities mean? What curious relationships existed between the two women, or is there still a third mysterious figure in the affair? If the real Gaby did not die in a Paris hospital in 1920, who did die there? Did Gabrielle Caire have two doubles? What became of the original Gaby, who charmed King Manuel and one of the richest peers of England?

The new developments are not airy rumors. They will stand up in any court of law. The real Edwige Navratil in flesh and blood! She must know the key of the mystery, but she absolutely denies it. She admits that she knew Gaby, and strikingly resembled her, but had no relationship whatever with her. And the name, "Hedy Navratil," given in "Tout Paris" for seven consecutive years?

What can it possibly mean? The editor of this highly-regarded publication will testify that for this pen-name and real-name section the actors and actresses themselves furnished the information, and in their own handwriting, too. Why in the world did the supposed Gabrielle Caire of Marseilles say that her family name was Hedy Navratil? How did it happen that no one noticed this when she was alive?

If the Gaby Deslys of 1920 was actually Edwige Navratil, and Edwige Navratil had died under the name of Gaby, the mystery would be cleared up, but Edwige is very much alive.

"After I ran away from home, I sang and danced under the name of 'Miss Roger' in Russia, Poland, Austro-Hungary, Germany, France, England," explained the long-lost Edwige, who has now come to Paris from Biarritz to testify before the investigating Magistrate.

"AS FOR Gaby Deslys, I never had any close relationship with her. I met her in theaters in Paris, London and Vienna at different times; I was astonished by my remarkable resemblance to her; I spoke casually to her, but there was nothing between us. The suggestion that I played under her name in Central Europe is absolutely untrue. I weigh 125 pounds today, and my face has filled out, but if you had seen me 15 years ago, when I weighed only 95, you would have been astounded by the resemblance between Gaby and me.

"I was in Paris when the war broke out, and, being an Austro-Hungarian subject, fled to Spain to escape being interned. I have lived at San Sebastian ever since, though I have made hundreds of short trips across the frontier to Biarritz."

"But why have you kept silent all these years and not communicated with your family?" I demanded.

"I did write to my father several times during the war," Miss Navratil explained, "but there was so much confusion at that time that I suppose the letters were lost. Anyway, the family never replied. If you wish to know more, I have been a sort of outcast. My father, who had old-fashioned ideas, did not approve of my running away to go on the musical stage, and never forgave me.

"It seemed better to break off relations entirely and let them believe that I was dead.

"I have not the slightest idea how my father and sister got the idea that I became Gaby Deslys. I never wrote

PATIENTS turned to stare when Robert Wadlow, a huge figure, walked through the corridors of Barnes Hospital recently with a group of staff doctors. The patients were interested in his tremendous size. He dwarfed the doctors. The doctors were interested in the fact that Robert was only 11 years old and seven feet tall. Robert was interested in a fountain pen one of the doctors carried in his breast pocket.

It was pretty slick; not really a pen at all, but just a pen barrel in which a flashlight was concealed. Robert bent low and confided to the doctor that he had a big, three-cell flash at home, but this fountain pen had it beat three ways. Did the doctor insist, huh, on all these X-ray pictures and things? They were kind of scary, these X-ray machines. Such a racket. The doctor did not insist, but assured him that they wouldn't do him any harm. And if Robert just sat tight and took things calmly, like a soldier, the trick fountain-pen flashlight would be his.

The pictures were taken and questions asked and answered and Robert, smiling over the bargain, went back home with his father, bearing a new trinket to show the kids in Upper Alton.

To the hospital staff there was nothing odd about Robert's childish interest in the flashlight. His unusual bulk made it appear queer. In fact, he was, and is, only a child, perfectly normal in all respects but size. His bodily measurements are proportionate, but scaled considerably larger than normal. Mentally, he is a little bit ahead of other 11-year-olds. He plays the same boys' games, has the same interests, wants to be an aviator. But he is big. He will be bigger, too. Last year he grew four inches and will probably continue to grow until he is 22 or 23 years of age. Physically normal persons ordinarily stop growing at 17 or 18; but "giants" (and as such are persons like Robert known to the medical profession) keep on a few years longer. It is doubtful that the four-inches-a-year rate will continue, but Robert still may become the largest man the world has known. The Irish giant, Byrns, was the largest in recorded history—8 feet 9 inches

This extraordinary growth is due to the over-activity of a small gland called the pituitary, located at the base of the skull. Normally, it is about the size of a pea. X-ray photographs show that Robert Wadlow's is slightly larger. Functioning in its normal way the pituitary regulates the growth of the body, giving each organ and division its proper development.

WHEN it works too fast, one of two things happens. If its over-activity starts in childhood, giantism results. The child develops on a gigantic scale, as has Robert Wadlow, normal in every respect but size. If in adulthood, the results are less pleasing. The adult develops acromegaly, which means that while the body remains unchanged, the hands and feet increase disproportionately, the teeth spread, the lower jaw becomes prognathous, thrust abnormally forward. This type is common in circus life. Everyone is familiar with the man with the "spade" hands or feet, the ugly woman with the lantern jaw and broad nose. These persons give the impression of great muscular power, but are in reality extremely weakened by their disease.

Very likely the giants of mythology and tradition were born in the imaginations of story tellers who saw ordinary giants like young Wadlow and legitimately, so they thought, fancied similar beings on a 40-foot scale. Many European cities have 40-footers in their traditions. At one time, too, it was thought that the human race had originally been gigantic and had degenerated. Since no fossil evidences of this have ever been brought to light, investigators have concluded that the notion arose in fancy, that there were no Cyclopses or similar monsters.

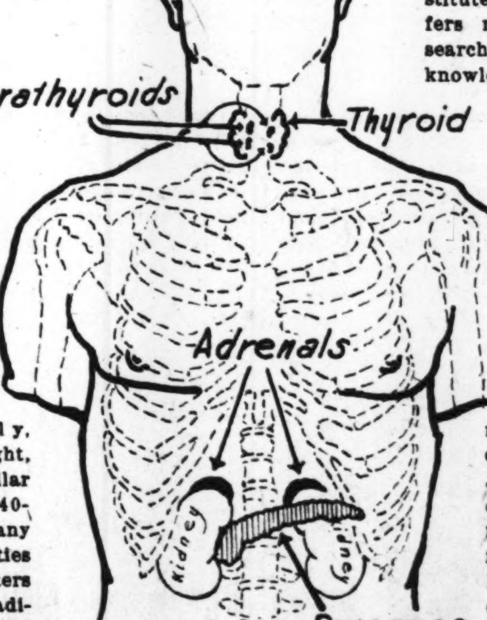

Chart showing the location of the thyroid, parathyroids, adrenal and pancreas glands.

In the victims of acromegaly, which distorts and enlarges the facial features and extremities, authorities trace the origin of the ogres that abound in juvenile literature.

The pituitary is one of the endocrine, or ductless, glands that have been the subject of much recent medical research. This group constitutes a field which offers much to the researcher, for accurate knowledge of them is scant. That they play a very vital part in the maintenance and regulation of life is known, for their removal from experimental animals has resulted in death or malformation. Just exactly, and completely, what their functions are is not known. Knowledge of them is only partial, although considerable progress has rewarded researchers to date and certain methods of regulating the glands have been developed.

The prefix, endocrine, means that the glands originate within themselves a secretion. They are called ductless because they do not convey their secretions to the blood stream through ducts, as do other glands, but through seepage and absorption into the tiny blood vessels that pass through and around the gland dispose of their secretions. Another of the ductless glands is the thyroid, located in the neck. Overstimulation of the thyroid results in the familiar ailment known as goiter, an enlargement in the neck. This sometimes is so strong as to cause the eyes to bulge and is called exopthalmic goiter.

Goiter is endemic, that is, confined to certain geographical regions, such as Derbyshire and other places in England, the Great Lakes region in the United States, parts of Switzerland, the Pyrenees Mountains and mountainous districts in Asia. In such places it is congenital but not elsewhere. Some authorities claim to have traced the cause of endemic goiter to water supply, pointing out that even the fishes living in the lakes and streams are thus afflicted. In the past few years the theory that goiter is due to a lack of iodine in food or water has been advanced. Some cases have responded to iodine treatment but physicians warn against the promiscuous use of iodized foods, such as salt. Unless used under expert guidance, the opposite evil to goiter may result.

THIS is myxoedema. Caused by a thyroid deficiency, its symptoms in adults are increased bulkiness in the body, puffing out of the skin, coarsening and broadening of the features, thickening of the lips, broadening of the nostrils, lowering of body temperature and slowness in thought and action. Normal adults sometimes become positively stupid when attacked by this deficiency. Occasionally such cases can be helped by the injection of thyroid extract but not often.

If the deficiency occurs in childhood, the child is termed a cretin. Usually he becomes an idiot. If he lives, he seldom achieves a higher mental rating than that of a 3 or 4-year-old. The skin is doughy, the hair sparse and coarse, speech is delayed and sometimes the child cannot walk, or even sit up unaided. In rare cases, thyroid extract has been used to good effect but it has to be continued through life or the patient becomes myxoedemic in adulthood. In one extreme instance, a physician so improved a cretin that he eventually became perfectly normal and was able to keep up with university courses.

Women are far more subject to thyroid irregularities than men, the ratio being from 6 to 1 to 9 to 1. Another significant fact is that when a family moves into a goitrous district, the first generation develops goiter and the second cretinism. This shows the unquestionable relation of the two ailments.

Located near, and almost part of, the thyroid gland are the four parathyroids. They are the smallest of all glands, about the size of grains of wheat, yet their removal causes death. Before it was suspected that they were not part of the thyroid they were removed with the thyroid in certain operations. The patient died in convulsions of a disease known as tetany, which is not to be confused with tetanus, or lockjaw.

IDEAS as to the function of the parathyroids are not in agreement. The larger group holds that they control the calcium supply of the body and points to the relief of tetany cases by the use of calcium salts. The parathyroid secretion has never been produced in the laboratory. Parathyroid irregularities make themselves manifest in adults by softening of the bones and bone tumors and in children by rickets.

Primitive peoples are said to have eaten certain glands of animals in order to stimulate their courage. These were the adrenals, or suprarenals, two in number, located just above the kidneys. That the theory of the primitives was not without some basis in fact is held by one authority, who claims that the adrenals furnish the body extra strength in emergencies. In anger or fear, he says, the glands pour their secretion into the blood, speeding the heart beat and raising the blood pressure. The secretion then attacks the liver, the storehouse of the body's sugar, releasing the sugar for use as additional fuel for the muscles. Thus, he says, proper functioning of the adrenals is necessary for the football player, the soldier and the pedestrian whose life is saved by sudden leaps across wide boulevards.

As in the case of the parathyroids, removal of the adrenals means death.

The adrenals, too, have much to do with sex and sex characteristics. When they become overactive in adult life, some of the characteristics of the opposite sex appear; a woman's voice becomes deep as a man's, her curves disappear and her outlines become more masculine; she may develop a beard and such a person is the bearded lady in the circus; a man gets

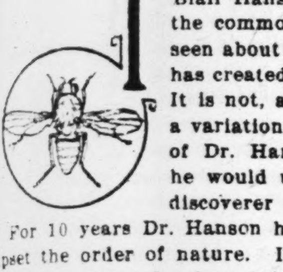
INTERESTING ST. LOUISANS

Dr. Frank Blair Hanson

A NEW FEATURE OF THE POST-DISPATCH SUNDAY MAGAZINE

Washington University Biologist Who Believes He Has Discovered Proof of the Theory of Evolution.

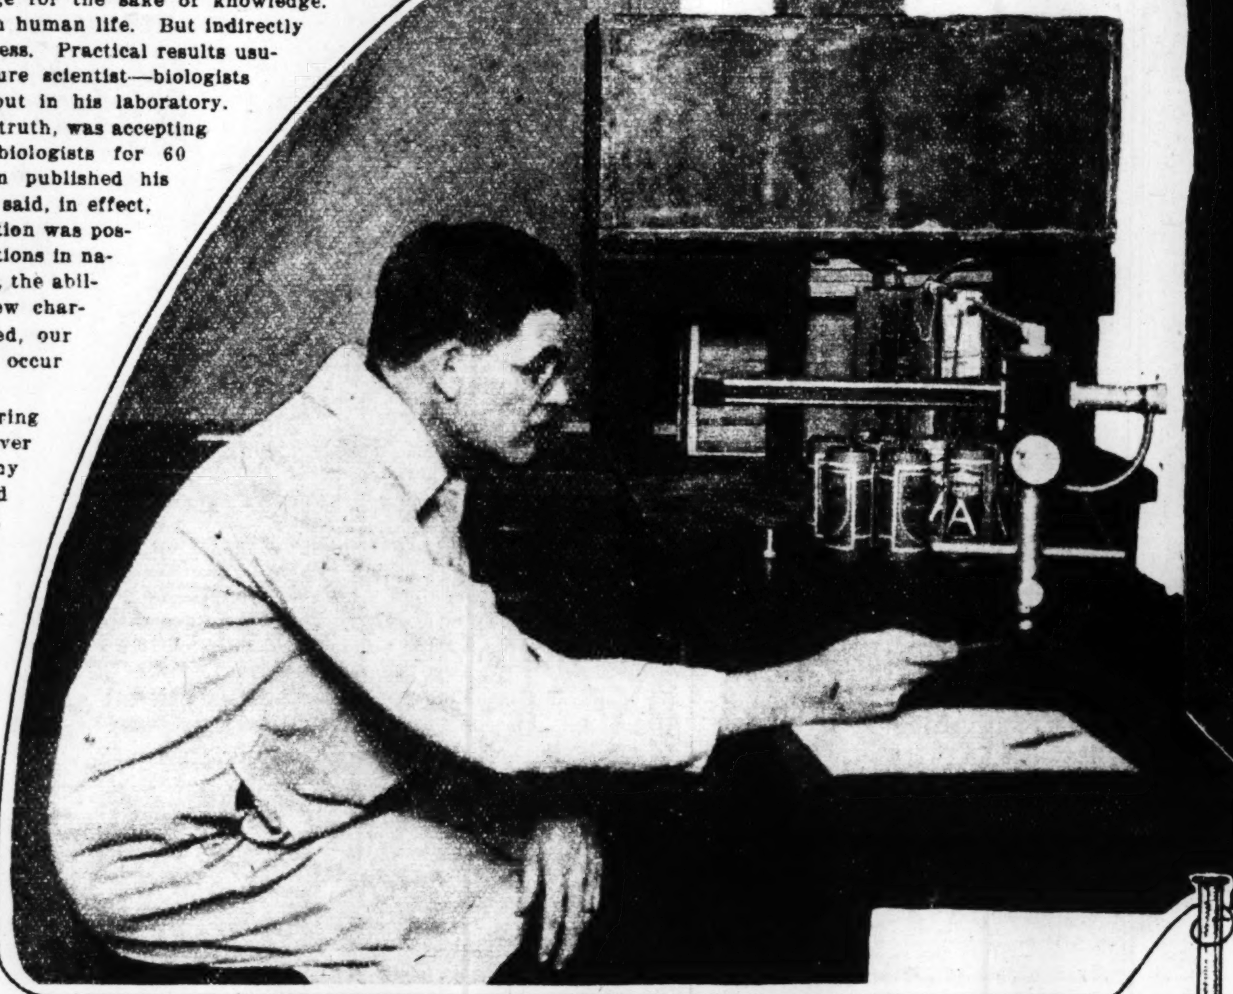
By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff



IN HIS laboratory out at Washington University, Dr. Frank Blair Hanson has played a trick on nature. He has taken the common fruit fly, those small, winged insects that are seen about decaying fruit and, by treating it in various ways, has created what to all intents and purposes is a new species. It is not, as a matter of fact, a new species at all—merely a variation of the old. But if a naturalist were to find one of Dr. Hanson's specialized fruit flies flying at large, he would unquestionably conclude that he was the discoverer of a new kind of insect.

For 10 years Dr. Hanson has been absorbed by this attempt to upset the order of nature. It has been a problem in pure research—a quest for knowledge for the sake of knowledge. It will have no direct effect on human life. But indirectly its possible influence is boundless. Practical results usually follow from what the pure scientist—biologists such as Dr. Hanson—works out in his laboratory.

Dr. Hanson, in his quest for truth, was accepting a challenge that has stirred biologists for 60 years. When Charles Darwin published his "Origin of Species" in 1859 he said, in effect, that the whole theory of evolution was posited on the occurrence of variations in nature—the possibility of change, the ability of a species to acquire new characteristics. But, Darwin added, our ignorance as to how variations occur is profound.



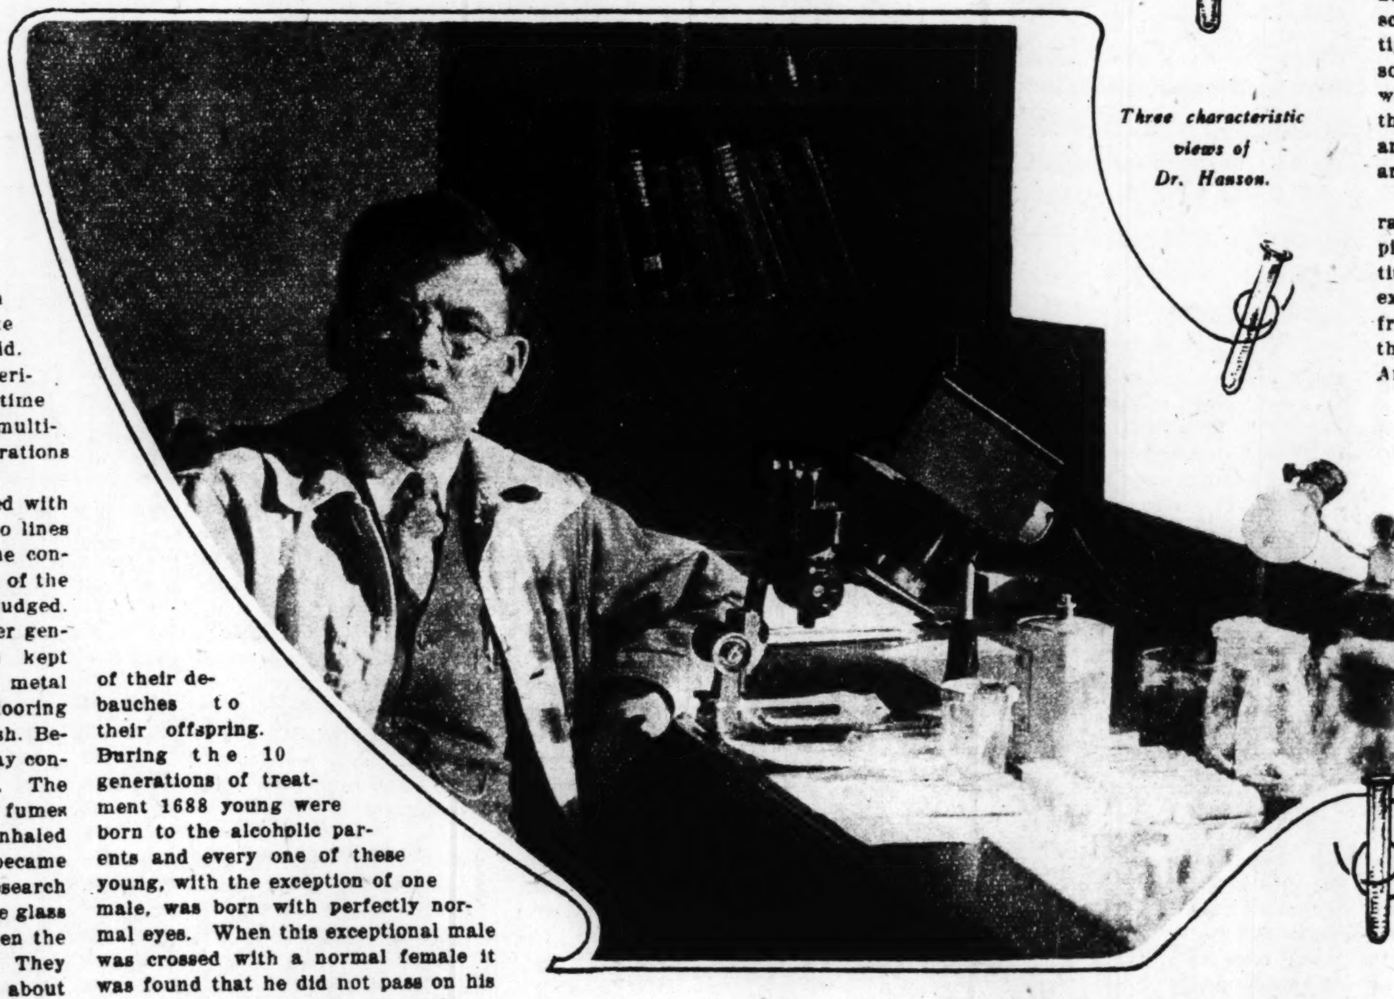
Biologists have been battering at this wall of ignorance ever since. Dr. Hanson is one of many who have been trying to find why variations—or mutations, as they were called later—occur in nature. There was ample evidence that they did occur. For example, out of 20,000,000 fruit flies examined under the microscope at Columbia University 400 variants were found. But no one had succeeded in producing these variations in the laboratory.

They had tried nearly every possible method. They had subjected various forms of animal life to anesthetics, to poisons, to ultra-violet rays, to infra-red rays, to special diets. All with no results. The fruit flies or the white rats or whatever form of life was employed in the tests bred just as true to type as ever before. Experiments of this kind were going forward in laboratories all over the world.

In 1920 Dr. Hanson decided to try the effect of alcohol on white rats. He wanted to make a thorough-going test. He did. Six years he spent on this experiment. And at the end of that time his original pair of rats had multiplied to nearly 3500—15 generations of white rats.

The experiment was performed with the most painstaking care. Two lines of rats were bred. One was the control line, by which the condition of the others, the test rats, was to be judged.

Day after day, generation after generation, these test rats were kept drunk. They were placed in metal cages, with glass tops and a flooring made of loosely-woven wire mesh. Beneath this mesh was placed a tray containing ethyl alcohol, 95 proof. The alcohol evaporated and the fumes filled the cages. The rats inhaled these alcoholic fumes and became drunk. Dr. Hanson and his research assistants, peering in through the glass tops of the cages, could tell when the rats were sufficiently drunk. They staggered, fell down, weaved about dizzily. In short, behaved very much like humans under similar conditions. It was necessary to use this indirect method of getting the rats drunk, for they will not touch food or drink that has been dosed with alcohol, and if it is given to them in capsule form, they become violently ill.



Three characteristic views of Dr. Hanson.

THE effect on the rats of this prolonged spree was appalling. After only a few treatments many of them became totally blind. The eyes were whitish and opaque instead of pink and clear. By the time the alcoholic rats were mature and mated, nearly all were blind. And the more often they were made drunk the longer it was necessary to expose them to the alcoholic fumes.

But the children of these alcoholic rats, even unto the fifteenth generation, were healthy and normal in every way. These drunken rats passed on not a single trace of the evil effect of their debauches to their offspring. During the 10 generations of treatment 1688 young were born to the alcoholic parents and every one of these young, with the exception of one male, was born with perfectly normal eyes. When this exceptional male was crossed with a normal female it was found that he did not pass on his defective eye—it had been merely an anomaly that had appeared in this single case.

Dr. Hanson continued to breed the descendants of the alcoholic rats for five generations more. And the offspring continued to be healthy, normal specimens, fully as fine specimens as those in the control line. It had taken Dr. Hanson six years of painstaking effort to learn that the effects of alcohol on one generation of rats were not passed on to the next. But he knew it for certain.

He went to Berlin in 1927 and read the results of his experiment before the international genetics congress there. It was at this same congress that Dr. Hanson's friend, Dr. H. J. Muller of the University of Texas, gave the results of his experiments showing the influence of X-rays on fruit flies.

As long before as 1921 Dr. Muller and Dr. Hanson had planned to work on this problem together. But Dr. Hanson, for various reasons, had been unable to go through with the plan. For one thing, his own research had taken up his time. Dr. Muller had found a definite clew, he announced at the genetic congress, as to why variations were possible. At least he had discovered that fruit flies subjected to X-rays show a very much higher rate of variation in their offspring than is found in nature.

To the biologists gathered in Berlin this was a thrilling announcement. It was the first tangible result of 60 years of striving—the first shot in the dark that had hit a mark. Dr. Hanson was so interested that he decided, since he had leave of absence from Washington University, to go back to Texas and work in Dr. Muller's laboratory along similar lines. He got the same results as Dr. Muller. Whereas in nature 400 mutations could be obtained from 20,000,000 fruit flies, 2000 subjected to X-rays would produce the same number. Those are not exact figures, but the proportion was nearly as great as this. Fruit flies subjected to the X-rays produced offspring with short wings, with scalloped wings, with eyes half the normal size. And when these defective fruit flies were in their turn bred they passed on their defects to the next generation—proving that the germ cells had been definitely affected and a new type produced.

Dr. Hanson took this clew and started to work from it. And the successive steps by which he arrived at his final hypothesis are like those by which the super-detective of fiction solves a crime. Returning to St. Louis, he first accumulated some fruit flies. This is easily done, as the fruit fly is one of the commonest of insects, found around decaying refuse in enormous numbers. If the weather is warm, it is only necessary to put a piece of decaying fruit outside for a short time to attract a sufficient number for the scientist's purpose. And they multiply so rapidly that the scientist soon has an almost unlimited number with which to work. In the laboratory they are kept in rows of milk bottles and test tubes, all neatly catalogued and indexed.

First he subjected his fruit flies to radium at the Skin and Cancer Hospital, where there is a sufficient quantity of this rare metal for purposes of experimentation. He subjected male fruit flies to the effects of radium and then bred them to untreated females. And he found that radium rays, like X-rays, produced a considerable percentage of mutations.

HERE was another clew to be coupled with the first. This was the question that now confronted Dr. Hanson: Why was it that these two things, radium and X-ray, and these two alone of all the hundreds of experiments, had proved effective? And what was the common principle in the X-rays and the radium rays that was able to produce this upset in nature?

Dr. Hanson started to find out. He began by eliminating various components from the radium rays with sheets of lead of ever-increasing thickness. Radium rays can be dissected into alpha rays, gamma rays and beta rays. In effect, Dr. Hanson was able to eliminate all but the beta rays. It was possible to measure with an electroscope the ionization, or electrical discharge, of these beta rays.

And Dr. Hanson was able to show that as the increasing thickness of the sheets of lead reduced the ionization of the beta rays, the percentage of mutations was correspondingly decreased. This corresponding fluctuation was very clearly shown by charting two curves—one for the decrease in ionization, one for the decrease in percentage of mutations. They fitted each other nearly perfectly.

He was very close, Dr. Hanson felt, to a discovery of great importance. "It was too perfect," he says, looking back at that time. "Those curves fit so perfectly. It was like destiny."

For he now felt with some certainty that he had hit upon the fundamental cause of variation in nature. The secret lay, he believed, in the electron, that smallest entity of physics, given off in the ionization of the beta rays as they are discharged from radium. But if it was true that radium in the laboratory would produce this effect, then it should follow that similar radioactive substances found in their natural state should also speed up the process of variation, Dr. Hanson argued.

This was the next deduction from which Dr. Hanson worked in his tireless quest for truth. He packed up his bottles of fruit flies and a specially devised electroscope that could be transported easily and started on a long series of excursions. During all of last summer he made almost daily trips with an assistant or two to the caves in the state park at Sullivan. Here, he believed, he would find the radioactive substances he was seeking.

Picture Dr. Hanson, then, flashlight in hand, following dim paths through the endless series of caverns at Sullivan. Behind him is an assistant with the bottles and test tubes of fruit flies and the electroscope. The latter must be carried with extreme care, for it is a very delicate instrument. They stop, set up the electroscope, and take a reading. No results. Little or no ionization. They go on. It is a hunt with an elusive, intangible aim.

THEY penetrated one of the caves to a distance of nearly two miles. But the search was in vain. It was discovered that the ionization in these caves was not great enough to afford a test of Dr. Hanson's theory. Next, since radioactive minerals are often found in conjunction with lead, a number of abandoned lead mines in Southwest Missouri were tested. No more positive results were obtained here.

Toward the close of the summer, with very little time left to carry out his experiment, Dr. Hanson decided to give up the search in Missouri. He went, with a research assistant, several suit cases packed with bottles of fruit flies and the electroscope to Boulder, Colorado. He knew that near Boulder there were several springs that possessed the radioactive property to a very high degree. But Dr. Hanson soon discovered that if the radioactive property of the springs was to have any effect on the fruit flies, they would have to be submerged in the

WHEN DO WE READ?

One Could Keep Up With Literature, After All.

THE public's growing apathy toward literature is beginning to alarm our already well-frightened leading thinkers. But these boys ought to know how it is. After the average library has been stocked with a lamp, a chair, a print of Whistler's "Mother" and a goldfish there's no room left for any reading matter with the possible exception of the preamble to the Constitution.

As the modern residence has no space for those collections of great literature in 65 volumes from "Aag to Bip" to "Zop to Zug," it looks like the authors will simply have to stop writing great literature and we will have to make talkies out of what has been written already. Of course, if publishers learned how to make paper out of gnat wings, they could take this collection and bale it into one volume, labeled "Aag to Zug," and people could store it in the chimney. But it isn't likely that the book would enjoy a good sale except among trunk movers and blacksmiths and brawny Mayors who are in nice condition from laying corner stones. Citizens in some of the larger communities feel that they are doing right well when they look up a number in the telephone directory.

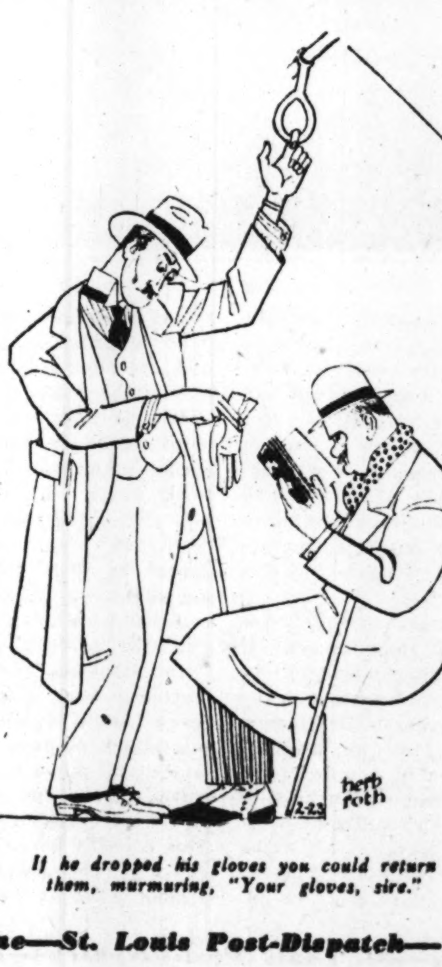
At first thought, people will fail to see where this apathy stuff comes in. A business man reads a morning newspaper, his correspondence and a barrage of circulars and then goes downtown, where he reads a trade magazine, his lodge magazine, his business correspondence and another load of circulars. He then goes home, where he reads an afternoon newspaper and another circular that he overlooked in the morning about a waterproof coat that comes direct from the maker for $12.50, and will be accompanied by a combination can opener and curling iron if he remits within 10 days and incloses the names of three friends. But what the educators refer to is classic literature, which is put up in volumes of about 582 pages that are entirely free of illustrations save where the publisher has a lizard or a frog for a trade mark.

Undoubtedly a book of this character has a much better influence than one of those magazines that has a cover showing a girl with a lot of teeth and a purple hat standing on the deck of a yacht with a tennis racket over her shoulder. A gentleman who lays any claims at all to cultural attainments must be pretty well up on his classics, as he will find out for himself when he attends a smart gathering somewhere and finds the guests fairly bombarding each other with quotations from Virgil, Ovid, Seneca, Horace, Quintilian, Socrates, Confucius and Babson.

OBVIOUSLY, it would not do to reveal a dumb expression while overhearing such well-known remarks as "Mutato nomine de te fabula narratur," "L'imagination galope, le jugement ne va que le pas," "Volto sciolto i pensieri stretti," and "Knowledge of divine things for the most part is lost to us by incredulity."

Of course, you could get a few snappy phrases off of courthouses and other public buildings, for instance, "Salus Populi Suprema Lex Esto," "Excelsior" and "Regnat Populus," but it is rather difficult to work in these sayings and it would be best to tackle the reading. Then if a hostess offered you a piece of candy with the remark, "Lucent syrops, tinct with cinnamon," you could blurt out, "Say, I read that, too."

Detective stories now form one of the most popular types of literature, and it is not only a mark of distinction to read them, but frequently a mark of nobility. If, when on the street car, you should spot a pop-eyed man bent over a book with a monstrous dragon on the cover and a title of "The Murders in Murdock Manor," you should take care not to tread on his toes, as he may be the head of a great corporation, a member of the United States Supreme Court or even King George traveling incognito. In fact, if he dropped his gloves, you could pounce on them and return them, murmuring, "Your gloves, sire," and he would probably thank you in some language you do not understand. Of course, the man might be an immigrant engaged in the old-clothes business, but more likely he is a foreign Duke or Baron and his words mean: "As a token of my gratitude I shall have the royal chamberlain give you a decoration at the earliest opportunfty." Think how proud you would be to show your neighbors a glittering medal and how lucky you would be that you didn't have to swim the English Channel, wrestle Plestina or conduct a symphony to win it.



If he dropped his gloves you could return them, murmuring, "Your gloves, sire."

If Dickens could have imagined that time in 1930 would move about five times as fast as it did in 1860 he probably would have gone a lot easier on the vocabulary. He probably wouldn't have written "Oliver Twist" in a 400-page book but in snappier form, something like this: "Girl Bares Giant Gyp Plot. Fagin, notorious principal of Fagin's Pickpocket Institute, 3245 Brompton Road, south, was in the custody of the police today, following the confession of a young woman an associate that he had forcibly educated Oliver Twist, 17-year-old co-heir to a large fortune. Arrest came in time to prevent young Twist from receiving the degree of Graduate Grabber. The plot to frame young Twist was developed by the other co-heir, a half-brother, giving the name of Monks, who sought to gain possession of the entire estate. Also arrested in connection with the scheme are Bill Sikes, no address, and John Dawkins, alias 'The Artful Dodger.' By a strange caprice of fate, young Twist was reared in a foundling asylum, where he once asked for more gruel. Seen in his suite at the Cecil, he said he had no plans for the future beyond a complete rest and golf."

An invention that would help matters greatly is a waterproof book that could be read in the bath tub. The invention would enable the bather to put in his time to better advantage than by screaming popular songs and differs from other inventions in that it would be welcomed by users and non-users alike.

IN HALF-HEARTED attempts previously made to read in the bath tub it has been found that the reader invariably suffers a severe strain of the wrist trying to keep the book above sea level and that even then, despite rigid care, the lower corners will get wet and the words of the next page will show through the page being perused. What is needed is a special bath-tub edition of the world's classics, with cork pages and pneumatic covers that can be blown up by lung power. One popular volume would be entitled, "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire: It Floats." The reader could read comfortably until the breakfast bell rang, when he would wring the book out and hang it up on a nail to dry.

Shakspeare's plays might be printed like some of the weekly magazines, with notations telling how much time is required to read each part. Thus, a gentleman could order a medium-boiled egg for breakfast and peruse a section of "Antony and Cleopatra" headed: "It will take you three minutes to read this scene." Then he could ride down to work engrossed in another section labeled: "You can read this act from Eighty-seventh street to Fourteenth street in an express train." At noon he could take the book with him to a restaurant and find a section headed: "You can read this scene while waiting for a ham sandwich, a cup of coffee and a piece of apple pie."

Another way to inculcate classical gems into the hurried public would be to ring them in over the ticker tape when things are rather dull in the market.

For instance, a broker would be idly looking over the yardage some morning when he would find a poem by Kipling, viz.: "BZZT 2.89.90 1-2 ...RRK 23...On the cooshie Baliwar by the oofty Galmagar with a runkle and a bunkle and a boom...AWK 2s 80 1-4.3.1-2....It was rap, rap, rap, it was yap, yap, yap, when we sent those Fuzzy-Wuzzies to their doom... FZZ 18.23. 4s23...Blime, you haythen Millalahs! Abaft wi' yer blinkin' shillalahs!...ULP 6.60 3-4.21.1-2," etc.

Or perhaps there would be a little story by Edgar Allan Poe, viz.: "Brokers' loans up $96,726,325...I picked up the skull and shuddered with horror as a poisonous tarantula crawled out of the socket of the left eye and jumped on my throat. I yelled for assistance......FZZ 23 1-2...but it availed me naught. My faithful servant was on the ground writhing in agony as the cobra bit him again and again...AWK 5s81...and as for Dirk, my poor companion, he was now quite dead, having hung himself by his blue necktie with the neat geometric design....BZZT 5.90 1-4....Overhead wheeled a large flock of greedy buzzards...The rent was due and there wasn't a single drop of water left in the canteen...BZZT 90 1-2."

The Reumann-Hof, one of the tenement houses built by the municipality of Vienna. It contains about 480 flats, 11 studios and 19 shops, and houses 1800 people.

VIENNA.

TO THE small American householder who, in the large cities if not in the smaller towns as well, must pay out something like 25 per cent of his salary for house rent, the Vienna working man offers his sympathy and condolence. It is a misfortune which he, in Vienna, does not have to share. So far as the rent problem is concerned, the Viennese is "on top of the world." He is able to get his living quarters for approximately 3 per cent of his earnings, and in so doing he gets better housing than does the average American who forks over a fourth of his income to the landlord every month without complaint.

The explanation of this particular advantage of residence in the Austrian capital is that the Social Democratic municipality of Vienna has become a landlord on a big scale. With tax funds it is building flats by the block and renting them at approximate cost to persons of small or moderate income. The city is virtually banishing its slums. Where the poor family of New York, Chicago or St. Louis huddles in its cramped and dilapidated tenement with almost no facilities for health and sanitation, the Viennese laboring man, on a much smaller income than the American, is able to maintain his family in quarters which, in beauty, convenience, sanitation, lighting and playground facilities are comparable to America's best apartment buildings. The larger "flats," as they are called, even have kindergartens and swimming pools for the children, flower gardens and spacious courts with fountains and sculpture. And for quarters in such palatial tenements the tenant pays, on the average, from $2 to $4 a month, depending on the size and location of his flat.

The municipality of Vienna has been a big-scale landlord now since 1923, and in that time has built some 60,000 new flats, which represents an increase of about 10 per cent in the number of flats in the entire city.—It came about in this way: At the end of the World War, Vienna was confronted with an acute housing shortage. While the population had declined by about 170,000 during the war, the standards of living had been raised by the revolution and there had been a great number of marriages during and after the war, so that the total number of households had grown by something like 40,000. In the years immediately after the war it was very difficult to build new dwellings. The Rent Restriction Act put an end to the building of new houses by private enterprise, and the State was too impoverished to attempt it.

A tenement house in the Weimarerstrasse, showing many balconies and their flowers.

AT THIS juncture the Social Democratic municipality of Vienna rose to meet the emergency. The first step was the levying of a housing tax. In February, 1923, it passed the so-called Wohnbausteuer, which provided for a tax on every flat in Vienna on a progressive scale. For working-class dwellings the tax was low, but for luxurious flats and villas, very high. On a house or flat which before the war paid an annual rental of $75 the housing tax amounted to about $1.70; for a middle-class flat paying $500 a year before the war, the tax came to $16.25, and for a luxurious flat, paying a pre-war rent of $2000, the tax came to about $250.

With this revenue accumulating, the municipality could start upon its own building program, so in September, 1923, an act was passed calling for the erection of 25,000 flats. In 1927, 5000 more were added, and in this same year a more extensive program was decided upon, calling for 30,000 additional flats in the period 1927-32. This program is already nearing completion.

Most of these flats are built in large blocks, some of the newer tenement houses containing as many as 1200 flats. The new municipal blocks in the Sandleithen district house some 8000 persons. They are veritable cities in themselves. The flats, however, are mostly small. They range in size from three to five rooms or from about 40 square meters of floor space to 60 square meters. Rental charge is reckoned from the number of square meters of floor space. The smaller type of flat usually consists of a living room, bedroom and kitchen, with a small anteroom. There is another type with 49 square meters which affords two bedrooms in addition to living room, kitchen and anteroom, and still another of 57 square meters which affords two living rooms. Besides these types there are tiny flats for bachelors and even studio apartments.

AS FOR equipment, little is left to be desired. Each flat has modern gas hearths, central heating, electric light and a pantry with built-in sinks. Each flat has also its own entrance from the staircase, this to avoid friction among the tenants.

Particular care is taken to provide plenty of free space outside for the occupants, at least 50 per cent of the ground being left for courtyards. On the eastern and southern fronts of each huge tenement block, balconies and verandas are built and the balconies are usually of large size, to enable the occupants to bask in deck chairs in the summer sun. Each block has a garden and the big blocks with over 400 flats are provided with roof terraces, these being both for sun bathing and for use by the children as playgrounds. In a great many of the buildings swimming pools have been built and there is a liberal provision of fountains in the courtyards, some of them decorated with excellent sculptures by first-class artists.

Houses with more than 400 flats are equipped with a central laundry, with modern washing machinery, central drying plant and steam heating. The individual flats do not have bathrooms, but each house has many baths in the basement. An extra charge is made for use of these. A shower bath costs 2 to 3 cents; whereas a tub costs about 9 cents. Extra charges are also levied for heating and laundry. Use of the laundry costs 25 cents a week on the average. Other items, such as staircase lights, chimney sweeping and garbage, are covered in the rental charge for the flat.

As to the class of tenants admitted, the municipality enforces but one restriction. The tenants must be persons of small or moderate income. The wealthy are not admitted because they, the municipality argues, can buy flats for themselves. So these buildings are strictly reserved for the poorer people and no distinction is made between manual laborers and office workers. Thus, many low-salaried clerks and state or municipal officials are to be found among the tenants, and quite often one finds artists, musicians and sculptors.

IN VIEW of the fact that building costs have increased 70 per cent since the war and interest rates on loans have jumped so high that virtually no building loans can be had for less than 10 1-2 per cent, the municipality's achievement in building 60,000 flats that can be rented for less than $5 a month appears doubly remarkable. The average American would declare it couldn't be done. But since it is being done, the question is, how?

In the first place, the building program is carried on with tax funds and not with borrowed money. Rents, therefore, do not have to carry the burden of interest on loans. In the second place—and this is the real secret of the low cost—there is collective buying of building material and direction of building operations through a central office.

"We buy wholesale," the director of the building department told the correspondent. "We ordered our brick supply for five years ahead, and for so huge an order, guaranteeing the brick works steady occupation for years, we got greatly reduced prices. We order 35,000 windows and 25,000 doors at a time. Instead of consulting architects and incurring heavy fees, we have 12 architects employed on salary, and similarly we have one engineer on salary for every three buildings. Consequently, the average cost during the last four and a half years of a flat of 47 square meters of floor surface amounted to 11,500 Austrian schillings, or about $1700.

"IN ADDITION, we have houses for one or two families. The cost to us of a one-family house in Floridsdorf, where the ground is level, with about 65 square meters of floor surface and 200 square meters of garden, is only 13,500 Austrian schillings, or $2000. In the Liebhartstal, where the surface is hilly, the same house would cost 16,000 Austrian schillings, or about $2350.

"The huge Reumann-Hof, with 480 flats, cost us 7,500,000 schillings, or $1,100,000. The Fuchsenfeld-Hof, with 480 flats, and the Am Fuchsenfeld, with 600 flats, a total of 1080, cost us $1,425,000. The buildings at Sandleithen, 1700 flats, cost $3,675,000."

The Vienna municipality has encountered stern opposition to its plan of municipal housing from several sources. The bitterest criticism comes from the Christian Social (Catholic Clerical) group, on the ground that the inhabitants of the houses are overwhelmingly Socialists. The reply of the municipality is that the working classes, who were hardest hit by the terrible housing conditions in Vienna, happen to be overwhelmingly numerous in the Social Democratic party. Any large number of working people who need municipal housing facilities, therefore, is likely to show a preponderance of Socialists.

Tragic End of Radio Inventor

the vibrations of the transmitter's diaphragm. But the inventor discovered that to carry his voice without wires as guides he had to increase the frequency of the current, i. e., he had to provide radio frequency. This radio frequency source seems to have come from a battery of his own invention, a "primary battery," or "earth battery," that was recognized as early as 1898 in an article in an electrical magazine. But the box? To vary the amplitude of his current, he needed a "modulator." And that was what was in the box. His receiving apparatus in principle consisted of the two basic parts of the modern receiving set, an apparatus for tuning the circuit and a detector whose function it was to translate the radio frequency waves into the low frequency vibrations of speech. By tapping his receiving coil at certain intervals he provided a means for roughly adjusting the inductance. He didn't devise fine tuning, and his detector cannot be found, but he said, "Vibrations produce sounds tuned to convey them to the distant ear."

Stubblefield told his St. Louis interviewer in January, 1902, that he could talk by wireless through the air as well as through the earth. He proved it a short time later when, invited to Washington, he demonstrated his invention by talking from the deck of the steam launch, "Bartholdi," on the Potomac River to scientists on the river bank. In a photograph, made on this occasion, he wrote: "First Marine Wireless Telephone demonstration in the world by Nathan Stubblefield. Four-hour test cost twenty-five $'s." This demonstration took place on March 20, 1902.

In Philadelphia, on Decoration day of the same year, he again demonstrated his invention before scientists, business men and newspaper reporters.

He obtained patents on his invention; in the United States on May 12, 1908, United States Patent 887,357. In the Canadian patent, numbered 114,737, and dated October 20, 1908, he anticipated radio installation in motor cars, for in the original patent is a drawing made by Stubblefield of a "horseless carriage" containing a broadcasting as well as a receiving set. The same idea was to be used in trains and steamships, the patent says.

Still, fame and fortune eluded him through his lifetime, and little enough of the former has come to him since his death.

Dr. W. H. Mason, a local surgeon, says that he once saw a written offer to Stubblefield tendering him $40,000 for a part interest in his invention, and that on another occasion Stubblefield refused a half-million for his discovery because he thought it was worth twice that much.

It is the belief of President Rainey T. Wells of the Murray State Teachers' College here, who as an attorney assisted the inventor in getting his patents, that Stubblefield lacked executive ability and that "he was so suspicious of every investigator that he would not sign a contract for the commercializing of the venture. He was naturally suspicious of everyone. He thought he would be cheated."

It is possible, also, that some minor but necessary part in the invention escaped him, making it unmarketable. He himself admitted his invention was imperfect, and it is obvious that he lacked sufficient electrical power to broadcast for great distances.

There are tales, too, that his invention was stolen. His cousin, Vernon Stubblefield, believes this to be the case. The inventor kept his apparatus in a trunk, and it may be that this trunk was stolen from him while on a visit to Washington in 1912, for on the back of an old map of the capital he scrawled, "Will I ever see this trunk again?" The writing was signed "N. B. Stubblefield" and carried the date of "Feb. 13, 1912." Anyhow, after his return to his home from one trip to the East he spoke of some of those he had met as "damn rascals."

His failure to receive his due accentuated his eccentricities, turned him into a morose, disconsolate creature who repudiated his fellow men. He trudged to a spot six miles from here and with his own hands built a poor, barren shelter, which he lined with cornstalks in an effort to keep out the cold winds. There he lived alone.

When his brother came to him, he curtly sent him away with, "When I want help, I'll call for it." His daughter, grown wealthy, came from Mississippi to see him. He drove her out.

Then two years ago, they found his body wracked by starvation, two days after death had come in his shack.

Now a monument to his memory is to be raised by the people who knew him. Once, at the peak of his career, he planned a technical institution, "Teleph-on-delgreen, The Home of the Nathan Stubblefield Industrial School and Experiments in Wireless Telephony." The site he chose for his school was the swamp land over which he had conducted his early experiments. Today it is the campus of the Murray State Teachers' College. On a corner of that campus will be placed the monument commemorating Nathan Stubblefield's success — and his tragedy.

"It's . . . the last you'll see of your old Dad, Will."

HE CERTAINLY was suffering. It was written on his pale, rather puffy young face. Not all the pride of his jade-colored muffler nor the tilt of his hat could disguise the sort of dejected croup his body seemed to be giving, nor hide the round, apprehensive animosity of his eyebrow and his eye. No one had recognized Willoughby at the depot. That, at any rate, was to the good. He had hung back for a few wobbly minutes to let the crowd make its getaway, the queer, dowdy, slow bilge of a crowd. Why did the elderly women in black have to protrude so? It was hideous. And why did so many of them have to carry oranges and knitting and sodden ham sandwiches in little wicker baskets, which the children also used?

They shuffled out into the asperity of the December noon, and Willoughby hung miserably behind them. He hated the much-trodden, much-handled, scrofulous ticket office. He had always hated it, and though it was three years since he'd been home, it was just the same as ever, he hated it just the same. He couldn't bear to go into the toilet, with its greenish painted walls and half-wiped-out obscenities, which he always read. Until the cars and people were gone outside, he'd wait in the draughty ticket office and smoke a cigarette.

As he stood on the threshold buttoning his soft wool overcoat and pulling his hat over his eyes, he shivered at the prospect before him. His cheeks were still burning from the train, and his body was hot, but his hands and his feet were frozen, and he felt rotten from having had to be up so early to catch his train from New York. But it wasn't physical, his suffering. It wasn't the unlovely landscape before him in the gritty light—an earth rudely disemboweled, dried weeds impeding defunct newspapers in their effort to bury themselves, and flowering out of this horror a crop of screaming one-story buildings. It hurt Willoughby to see these things, but the really painful prospect was up the hill, out of sight, in that home to which he was returning, the home where his father was waiting for him.

"My heart has gooseflesh!" he said to himself. "How did I ever live in this hole?"

THE wonder of this accident occupied Willoughby as he walked up the hill. Luckily it was noon, and people were eating lunch or something. The streets were practically empty, so that, by switching his nose as a sort of tiller the minute he thought he was being identified, he never at any one moment offered more than a disappearing profile, and thus averted any excessive ovation. But his speed in walking—a rapid, uneven lurch that remained pre-war in spite of everything, but that carried him along—saved him from being greeted while at the same time, Oh good God, it brought him nearer home.

Where would he eat? He hadn't been mad enough to try the buffet, with its zincy coffee. But to eat home—no! He'd stop at a lunch room. The Palace Lunch. A name in white porcelain, a clouded window through which red and green foods flagged the public, a door that opened on a moist, spongy warmth and many odors almost revolted Willoughby in an indecorous manner. He sincerely hated it. But it was that or his mother's cooking.

He tried clam chowder, and wished he hadn't. "Tastes metallic." Then he ordered black coffee and cream. A baked apple consoled him. "Real. Something is still real."

They wouldn't be worrying about him, he knew that, and this delay was worth it. He felt stronger to meet his father, after the three years. His mother? Well, poor old thing, she was so self-effacing it didn't matter so much. It was Daddie that mattered, and especially now.

Willoughby braced himself for the awful plunge into the domestic atmosphere. All the way down Conger Street he kept telling himself he'd have to be sympathetic anyhow. "But I'll catch the six train back, damn it. I have to get back to town!"

His mother opened the door.

"There you are," she said, looking up at him and putting her arms around his neck, mixing herself up with his hat and his muffler, "we kind of expected you."

Mrs. Putney was small and lean, with glasses raised onto her brow, which always remained there, even when she was reading. She had a slight pretension to prettiness in the white collar to her gray dress, but it was furtive and ineffectual. Her appearance was not improved by carpet slippers of a vast size.

"How is Father?" Willoughby inquired, as he went into the "setting" room. The house was warm, anyway. He had shed his coat with relief, and blew his nose to fill up the blank in conversation.

"You'll see for yourself, Willoughby. He's had his bad spells, but he'll tell you. I'm afraid you'll be cold. We've had trouble with the furn—"

"No, it's lovely. Really. Oh, there's the Zodiac."

"Yes, we get it. We lent your piece to Mr. Samson, and he brought it back yesterday. No, it was day before yesterday."

"Did he like it, Mother?" A tiny edge came into Willoughby's voice. And then he added, nonchalantly, "Poor old Sam, I guess he didn't make much of it, did he?"

"Well, Willoughby, you know us; we're not up to those sort of things. It's too high-brow for me, I guess. But Mr. Samson is very proud of you. He said he enjoyed it very much, indeed."

HER sincerity was certain. Then she said, after the tiniest discreet interval, "I've never asked you if you was hungry. I was all ready for you. It's waiting downstairs."

"No, no," Willoughby said, raising his hand. "Stop, Mother, I have eaten. I didn't want to give you the trouble."

"Oh, but, Willoughby, the nurse got it for you. It's no trouble. And it is really very dainty. Can't you have a little?"

He shook his head. "No, really. Thanks a lot."

"Then, I think Father's expecting you. Maybe," and she waited hesitatingly.

"Go ahead. I'll follow you up."

He followed her up the narrow stairs, to the big room on the next floor, the room he was born in and the room his father now occupied.

"Will, boy. Come in. Let me have a look at you."

The father, his beard as white as the pillowcase, lifted himself on one elbow. His temples were sunken, and his eyes hollow, the skin around them almost transparent.

"Don't tire yourself, Father," Mrs. Putney admonished in a firm voice. "Don't let him tire himself, Willoughby."

"Gracious sakes, I'm not tiring myself. You look fine, Will."

He gave up the effort of looking, with a lurch, and Willoughby was too late to help him easily down.

"Glad to see you, Dad," said Willoughby, at the head of the bed, gazing down at the emaciated face, while his father, his eyes faintly filmed and yet wide open, sent up a glance that had in it a queer vacancy and yet a fixed intention, like a feeble hand clutching into the air.

"It's . . . the last you'll see of your old Dad, Will. That's a sure thing," and the words mumbled into nothingness.

"Sit down, Willoughby, it'll be easier for him. Now, don't tire yourself, Father. He's here now, and you can take your time."

The man in the bed said nothing. He plucked at the bedclothes with bluish hands, to pull them up around his shoulders. He was cold. But the bedclothes did not obey his tug, and he hadn't the strength to pull them, and he gave up, rolling his eyes a little and then closing them.

Willoughby waited a second, and then tip-toed over to his mother, who was mixing a drink at the washstand.

"He's terribly thin, isn't he?"

"Oh, he's been that way for three months. He's just a shadow. You'd be surprised how light he is. I can—"

"I know," Willoughby cut in, "but it can't be good for him, the excitement."

The young man's face was uneasy.

"No, no, Willoughby, you sit still. I'll give him the mixture, and he'll be all right for a few hours, anyway. He likes to have you around."

Willoughby pulled his collar with a kind of nervous jerk. He suffered at the thought of being in this room much longer, unless he could be "some good."

"If I could be some good," he mumbled.

"You are some good," his mother said, without the faintest dryness. "Just you sit there by the head of the bed."

WILLOUGHBY tip-toed back to his chair by the head of the bed in the corner. His father's eyes were still closed. The skin of his face was a terrible hue, an ivory that looked as if it had been bleached for centuries and yet had the stain of earth-mould in it. Only the little blue veins, a pallid blue, showed that there was still blood in that feeble frame.

"Are you still there, boy?"

"Yes, Dad."

There was silence. And then Mrs. Putney came over with a drink.

The ceremony of the drink required her to slip her arm behind Mr. Putney's head and lift him up, and while he was propped up with his head lying on her flat bosom, to feed him his drink very slowly, guiding his faltering yet assertive hand.

As he drank the dark fluid, his eyes opened. "'T's better," he blurted between the spoon and the glass. "'Anks, Mother," and he sank back.

She put away the glass, and, as Willoughby politely made way for her, she returned and tucked in the sick man, covering the sharp points of his skinny shoulders with three thicknesses of bedclothes, so that he gave her a grateful glance.

"Tell me about yourself." His voice was almost curt. "How are you making out?"

How am I making out? Willoughby did not know what to say. Making out? In money? In work? In reputation? Was his father thinking of his book, "The Cadaver and Other Tales," or was he thinking of his criticism, especially his withering criticism of Walt Whitman which had at last wiped out forever the illusions of all the poor fools who mix up art and ideas.

"Oh, pretty good, Dad. Nothing to kick about."

"I read that piece on Whitman."

Willoughby was silent. His father, he had forgotten, was a bit of a crank on Whitman. Well!

"You didn't like it? I can guess that."

"No, it's not that. I—you know. I always liked Walt Whitman. But I could see. You know."

Mrs. Putney, by the washstand, spoke up.

"That's right, Willoughby. He thought it was real clever, what you said. But," her voice sank, "he made me read him Whitman that night, just the same."

"'When lilacs last in the dooryard bloomed.' I always fell for that, Will."

Like a voice in a key that reached a sensitive nerve, these confessions rasped something in Willoughby's soul. Whitman—yes, yes, but they didn't see the point, they didn't see! Whitman had to be disposed of. There seemed to him something bordering on the foolish in the words that had just come out of this muffled, sunken mouth. He had tried hard to make his own ideas clear, his idea that poetry should be pure, his idea that it should have no ideas. And here he had to meet it in the plane where loyalties intersect, and so on. He squirmed. He had his loyalties, too, his fierce, esthetic loyalties. But what was the use?

The bourgeoisie are the bourgeoisie, even if they are your father and mother.

Half-cocking his free eye at Willoughby, the old man realized that his son was having pity for him, and on him, and he was glad he was being shown pity. He thought his boy was clever, oh, marvellously clever. He thought he was a sort of Human Fly who could find foothold where no other human being had ever found foothold, and he rejoiced that no one had ever seemed to be able to dislodge Willoughby, in all the articles he ever read on the same themes. But his own notions on these things—holy mackerel! He didn't think to oppose them to Willoughby's, he didn't have the vitality or anything, he didn't have a dog's

"Gets clothes whiter" says Mrs. E. V. Launer of St. Louis

"My neighbor always used to get whiter clothes. I wondered why, until she told me about the hard-water soap, Rinso, and how its rich, safe suds loosen dirt. I've been using Rinso in my washer since then! I love the way it gets clothes sweet and clean, so quickly, even without boiling. A little Rinso goes so far, too—even in our hard water. And it certainly makes dishes shine!"

It was green tea, which he didn't like, and the cups were of the same watery white as the milk itself, while the cake crumbled with its excess of soda; but Willoughby accepted these things with a subdued deference. He wasn't thinking of them. He was thinking of his father.

His father was dying. He could see that. He wondered he was still alive. And in the face of his father's dying, their least acts seemed to be tied with invisible cords that tugged and knotted and tangled, till he choked with the confusion of his feelings. He hadn't anything, he couldn't find anything, to say.

His mother's hands spoke for her, as she served him, and he tried dumbly to answer in the same language, by picking up the tea-things and carting them out to the kitchen.

The kitchen, too, was cheerless. But it was not so cheerless as his own sense of himself. He tried for words, and he found he had no words.

"I'm afraid it's been bad for him."

"Oh, Willoughby, you're wrong, child. He's been looking forward to your coming. He needs to rest up a bit, that's all."

Willoughby pursed his face, looking into the sodless yard. If only his mother could express herself, could say something, could help him. But he knew it was hopeless, he looked out blindly on the dimming blank walls.

His mother spoke:

"We'll let him sleep now, till the nurse comes tonight."

"When does she come?"

"She's due at seven-thirty. Seven-thirty in the evening to eight-thirty in the morning. It lets me get a whole night's sleep. I didn't want to do it, Willoughby, but the doctor said there'd soon be two sick people in the house instead of one. You can see I lost weight."

She waited for confirmation, but Willoughby was silent.

"Of course, it's a big expense," she admitted weakly, "but we could see no way out."

Her words struck on Willoughby's tightened nerves like little hammer blows. Expense. He hadn't asked about that. But he didn't want to think about it. He had meant to be so sympathetic, so full of understanding, so intuitive. He suddenly felt overwhelmed. He didn't want to think about the sickroom, the long nights of nursing, the strange woman who was coming at seven-thirty. "The wrong of unshapely things is a wrong too great to be told." That was Yeats. The line haunted him every second his mother was talking.

She was sitting now, looking at him. Willoughby moved his chair with a squeak and stood up.

"I WISH I could stay on," he said with a cough, "but I had to plan to get back tonight. And there's only one good train. The six."

"Yes, that's the only good one." She stood up, too. "Oh, it's not like seeing you at all, Willoughby. You can't spend the night?"

He had expected her to reproach him, and he put all the softness he could into his voice. "No, Mother, you see, they're expecting me. I have to be on hand first thing tomorrow morning, and the other trains are so awful!" He stopped.

"We must go on back up to Father." She led the way, her hand gliding up the banister, her feet toiling each step with the same deliberate, efforted measure. Willoughby followed at the same pace, his head a maze of embroiled emotions.

The daylight had seeped away from the sickroom, and in its place there was a ghostly obscurity.

"I think he's still asleep," Mrs. Putney whispered. "Yes, I hear him."

Her son pulled her sleeve. He pointed to the door, and stole out on tip-toe. Outside on the landing he whispered, "Let him sleep. It's too cruel to wake him."

"Oh, but, Willoughby!"

Willoughby stole downstairs, followed by his mother, who descended with carefully uncertain steps.

"Oh, he'll feel so badly. I really think I ought to wake him. He'll find it hard to forgive me." She looked anxiously at her son, her hands together.

"No, no," he picked down his muffler, still whispering. "It's much better for him. It'd stir him up. I'll just slip away."

"You need a light," she said bewilderedly, turning around. "Where are the matches?"

Willoughby was halfway into his coat. "It's all right, I don't need a light." He took down his hat. "Good-bye, Mother," and he kissed her, his cold nose touching her cheek.

Once down the wooden stoop, Willoughby hurried. He pushed along Conger Street with no emotion except to get to the corner.

Turning the corner into the brighter Hill Street, he no longer dammed the feelings that had been gathering. Underneath his pain that was like a raw wound, he felt a mad mortification. He had not thought he'd find his father like this. He was all unprepared for it. The man was dying, that was sure, and he had never before seen any one who was dying. Why hadn't he been told, why hadn't he been prepared? It was so unjust to him to have let him tumble in on this so suddenly, and what good could he be unless he knew what he had to look for? His mother and the nurse were doing everything, anyway, he could only be clumsy, he wasn't used to such things. It was best to get away. But to get away was also painful. That was what confused him. They hadn't said a thing, of course, and, he couldn't tell, perhaps they wouldn't say anything. But it was hard, they made it hard. What was the good of his having come? They had so little in common.

ALL the way to the depot Willoughby churned with his feelings. It was all so sordid, so painful, so ugly. That was the thing. He pulled his jade-hued muffler tighter round him, his bird-like eye accusing the whole world of its ugliness. He shivered as he came down to the empty lots at the foot of the hill, the last block before the station. The station clock said five-thirty-five from its dirty face. Willoughby noted it while he continued his interior argument.

"When a man loves beauty the way I do—" he said. He did not finish the sentence. Anyway, he was back at the depot, and he wanted to go right through to the platform.

The New Mystery About Gaby Deslys' Identity

Miss Navratil has telegraphed her father at Hatvan, Hungary, to drop his demand for possession of Gaby Deslys' $1,000,000 estate, but up to date he has refused. Although he admits that his long-lost daughter has been found—she has passports and other documents to prove her identity—he is still convinced by "Tout Paris" and other evidence that there was an interchange of identity between his daughter and the real Gaby Deslys that is still to be cleared up. In the face of all this confusion the French investigating Magistrate is entirely at sea.

Another mystery of the affair is that in the complaint lodged in Paris several weeks ago, Mr. Navratil charges that Madame Caire of Marseilles, who was named by Gaby in her will as her mother, and who receives most of the revenue of the estate, was not her mother at all, but only her manageress and chaperone!

"IT IS all a wicked plot," Madame Caire, who is the widow of a dry-goods merchant, told me. "I can call 10,000 witnesses among the best-known people of Marseilles to prove that there was only one Gaby Deslys, that she was my daughter Gabrielle Caire, and that it was Gaby who died in Paris in 1920.

"If the girl who died in Paris was not from Marseilles, why would she have left all her fortune for a hospital for the poor there, and the revenue of the estate to me as long as I live?"

Maitre Chapuis, the principal French counsel for the Navratil family, is absolutely convinced of the contrary.

"I cannot reveal all my evidence," he told me, "but I can tell you positively that the Gaby Deslys of 1919 was no more Marseillaise than I am Czecho-Slovak! There was a secret substitution. The Gaby Deslys who died in Paris was not Gabrielle Caire of Marseilles, the original Gaby Deslys."

Harry Pilcer, a naturalized American of Polish origin, who was Gaby's dancing partner for many years, laughs at these tales of substitution.

"There was only one Gaby Deslys," he told the Magistrate, "the one who died in Paris in 1920. She spoke French and also the Marseillaise patois, but not a word of any other language except a little English she had picked up in London."

Among the pieces of evidence in the Navratil complaint is the bankruptcy report of a Vienna jeweler, made several years ago, showing a sum of $200 due from "Hedy Navratil, called Gaby Deslys," and several other such bills.

THE lawyers for the Navratil family admit that the long-lost Edwige, who has just turned up at Biarritz, might have paraded about Central Europe as Gaby Deslys, but they ask why Gaby gave her family name as Hedy Navratil in "Tout Paris" for seven consecutive years.

As to the real, original Gaby, there is no doubt but that she was the daughter of Monsieur and Madame Hippolyte Caire of Marseilles.

She was a beautiful child, with glorious blonde hair, the color of ripening wheat. After being educated in a religious school, Gaby, which is the French diminutive for Gabrielle, attended the conservatory of music at Marseilles, where she developed an excellent voice.

The great Paris Exposition of 1900 was just ready to open about that time and, like many foolish girls, she ran away to the capital, became a chorus girl in a little Montmartre cabaret and took the name of Deslys, or Gaby of the Lilies.

By a strange coincidence, it was just at the same epoch that another little blonde girl named Edwige Navratil ran away from her home in Hungary to win fame as a singer and danseuse.

It was not long after that that the fascinating little Gaby of the Lilies attracted the attention of King Manuel of Portugal, and he showered a fortune in jewels on his favorite.

INCIDENTALLY, the outcry raised in Portugal by the enemies of the monarchy over his extravagance caused him to lose his throne and be driven from his country. Manuel's downfall brought Gaby a flood of publicity that made her famous, and from that day she became a music-hall star of the first magnitude.

Kings, Princes, Grand Dukes paid homage to her beauty and begged for the privilege of hanging another pearl necklace around her snow-white neck.

She lived like a Queen, maintained magnificent houses in Paris, London and Marseilles, and in spite of vast sums spent on clothes built up a fortune that is estimated at a round million dollars today.

Even Dr. Hanson, who is a quiet, undemonstrative man, must have had difficulty in restraining a shout of triumph. For there, etherized under the lens, the fruit flies disclosed the eccentric variations that had marked the results of the experiments with X-rays and radium in the laboratory. Not a high enough percentage to say with absolute assurance that variations are caused by the action of electrons. But enough so that Dr. Hanson could write in his report of the experiment in a scientific journal: "The least that can be said for the results is that they strengthen definitely the plausibility of the suggestion . . . to the effect that natural radiation may be responsible for the mutations which are the grist of the natural selection mill with the resulting evolution of new forms."

He was not content to rest with that. He is now subjecting his fruit flies to the action of the newly-perfected cathode ray tube, which receives a current of 125,000 volts and gives off a stream of pure electrons. Within a short time he will be able to determine the results of this latest test. And then he will be able to say definitely, he believes, whether or not it is the effect of the electrons in natural radiation that causes species to change, thereby making possible the whole upward trend of evolutionary development.

DR. HANSON was born in Bloomington, Illinois. He took his B. A. degree at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., earning his way through school by means of a civil service job in the Pension Bureau. Graduate work and a Ph. D. followed at the University of Illinois. He has done all of his 14 years of teaching at Washington University, where, in recent years, he has been given a most favorable opportunity to carry on his research. Too, he has been aided by grants from the Rockefeller Foundation and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The other day he was given an appointment to go to Paris for two years to supervise the fellowships in the natural sciences for the Rockefeller Foundation in Europe. In this capacity he will pass on European scientists who seek aid from the foundation for research. Dr. Hanson will spend a little more than half of his time traveling, the remainder in Paris.

He has been granted a leave of absence from the university and will sail shortly after commencement in June. His wife and three children will go with him and they will establish a home in one of the Paris suburbs.

Though the Rockefeller appointment is one which will require a great deal of routine administrative work, Dr. Hanson cannot bring himself to give up his research work entirely. He will take a number of bottles of fruit flies to Paris with him and work there in collaboration with scientists of the College de France.

It contracts the arteries and checks the flow of blood and relieves bronchial asthma, hives and hay fever. In one freak case it was used to revive action in a heart which had stopped beating a few moments before.

In recent years an important medical announcement was the discovery of insulin, a cure for diabetes. Insulin is nothing more than the secretion of the pancreas, a part of the digestive system and another of the ductless glands.

One of the functions of the pancreas is the regulation of the use of sugar by the body. When it is not sufficiently active, or degenerates, too much sugar is poured into the blood stream by the liver and a dangerous condition obtains. The injection of insulin checks this production of sugar, the hypodermic needle performing the same function as the pancreas. In some cases, use of insulin causes the gland itself to go back to work again.

Glandular study and therapy are still in their infancy and warnings have been issued against home treatment with advertised gland medicines. These should be used only under the direction of a physician, as abnormalities might result from promiscuous use.

Abnormalities of gland operation are responsible for the production of most social misfits, Dr. Ralph Arthur Reynolds of San Francisco, former president of the American Medical Society, announced recently after a survey of convicts in San Quentin prison. He stated that every murderer and forger he examined had malsecretion of either the thyroid or pituitary gland.

host to a cat, a squirrel and a rabbit. Then the cat ate the rabbit, leaving tufts of fur to show another sacrifice to the situation.

Horses froze up to their knees in the ice. Eight people, among the few hidden to view from the air, lived a week in a barn loft on crude meal "Johnny cakes," made from corn they found and cooked over a fire of the cobs. A woman, alone in a barn, gave birth to a baby that died. Another woman became the mother of a healthy infant in a corncrib.

The Red Cross has written a cheerful final chapter to many a catastrophe, but when it writes finis to this one it will have something to remember. The battle with the polar wastes will not be soon forgotten.

January broke all river and weather records in the Wabash country. During the first half of the month the Wabash at Vincennes rose steadily from 9.2 feet to 25.25, a new high mark. At this juncture, the bitter cold set in. It was 12 degrees below zero on January 18 and for twelve days thereafter the temperature was never above the freezing point. Indeed, for most of the period it was under 10 degrees. The total snowfall was 6.5 inches. Snow was present on 16 days of the month and there were only nine clear days.

How a warm room and "B.O." (Body Odor) cost her another admirer

LAST NIGHT when they skated together in the park, she had seemed so attractive. But here in the close, warm room her charm completely vanished.

She felt his coolness. The same old story. Why did she always attract men—but never hold them? It had happened so often.

But not now! Today she makes friends and keeps them. For she discovered her fault and the simple way to correct it. Let her tell you how.

"I could have cried when my uncle, who is a physician, warned me in an indirect way about 'B.O.'—body odor. For I thought I had been so careful.

"But, as he explained, our pores are constantly giving off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart daily. We're so used to this familiar odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do—especially in an overheated room with windows closed. And it always offends.

"So now I've adopted this simple precaution. I wash and bathe with Lifebuoy—and I love it! Lifebuoy makes me feel so gloriously fresh and clean—so safe. For its rich, creamy antiseptic lather purifies pores—banishes every trace of 'B.O.'"

New complexion beauty

Lifebuoy is a marvelous complexion soap. Its gentle searching lather clears away all impurities from the pores. Dull skins freshen. Complexions fairly glow with clear, healthy, radiant beauty. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—just tells you Lifebuoy purifies. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

25TH ANNIVERSARY

Old Dutch Cleanser on its 25th birthday celebrates the greatest achievement in modern cleaning efficiency

Healthful Cleanliness

1930

Twenty-five years ago Old Dutch Cleanser was originated to simplify and make household cleaning easier, more convenient and economical and to bring to the home the protection of wholesome, hygienic cleanliness

This important event was based on the scientific discovery of the extraordinary cleaning and detergent qualities of the natural material which forms the basis of Old Dutch Cleanser.

Through progress and development the uses for Old Dutch Cleanser have steadily increased with the evergrowing demand for a higher standard of cleanliness and safety in cleaning. Today Old Dutch is recognized as the greatest achievement in modern cleaning efficiency and the sprightly Dutch matron chasing dirt is everywhere accepted as the symbol of Healthful Cleanliness.

Modern household equipment is beautiful. To retain its beauty it must be cleaned safely. Use Old Dutch, the safe, modern way. There is nothing else like it for gayly colored and snowy white porcelain and enamel, tile, kitchen utensils, pantries, floors, refrigerators, marble, woodenware, crockery, metal fixtures, glassware, windows, painted walls, woodwork, etc. It is your big help in housecleaning.

Old Dutch makes cleaning surprisingly easy. Its flaky, flat-shaped particles carry away tenacious dirt, grease and stains with a quick clean sweep. Old Dutch contains no sand or harsh grit. No caustic. No acid. It doesn't scratch and is kind to the hands. Old Dutch is economical . . . a little goes a long way.

Old Dutch safeguards the home with Healthful Cleanliness by removing the health-endangering invisible impurities as well as the unsightly visible dirt.

"Yeast is used constantly in my clinic... its results are Astonishing"

· · says world authority on nutrition, Professor Dr. Carl von Noorden, Geheimrat

A MAGICAL NAME in medicine—Dr. Carl von Noorden . . . founder of Europe's most exclusive clinic, at Frankfort, Germany . . . physician to royalty . . . bearer of titles from all the governments of Europe! Each year hundreds of Americans go thousands of miles for his advice. He says:

"Yeast is used constantly in my clinic. Its results are astonishing. Its regular use can in a short time bring about normal functioning of the bowels. It increases secretion of the digestive juices, improves appetite. For over thirty years it has been used, with surprising results, to cure certain diseases of the skin.

"No other food—and yeast is a food—is richer in vitamin B. When 'irradiated,' it contains great quantities of the 'sunshine' vitamin D.

"Vitamin D strengthens endurance, fortifies against colds and disease. In those of growing age it builds strong bones and teeth. In expectant and nursing mothers it aids in preventing the softening of bones and teeth so common at these periods and protects the unborn or nursing child against rickets.

"Yeast has an extraordinary tonic effect on the whole system."

Learn for yourself the joy of new energy, health, life! Every day eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast. Each cake is rich in two precious vitamins—B and D. At grocers', restaurants, soda fountains. Directions on label.

(Left) "How I dreaded those terrible colds and winter sicknesses!" writes Mrs. R. F. Finneran of Columbus, Ohio. "I felt sluggish, listless—due perhaps to staying indoors too much . . . After eating yeast, my sluggishness disappeared. I had worlds of new pep. And I found I could go through a whole winter without a cold."

(Right) "I am a commercial artist and sometimes have to work late into the night to get my drawings out," writes John C. Pellew of New York. "A year ago I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Fleischmann's Yeast was what pulled me through. It worked wonders in my run down condition."

Famous Specialists give simple health rule . . .

Europe's greatest stomach specialist, Dr. Maurice Delort, says: "Yeast stimulates secretion of digestive juices and encourages the working of stomach and intestines."

Dean of Stockholm's skin specialists, Professor Dr. Johan Almkvist, says: "For twenty-five years I have successfully used yeast for skin troubles such as acne and boils."

Austria's great internal specialist, Hofrat Professor Dr. Gustav Singer, declares: "Yeast is the best intestinal purifier known. Its action causes constipation to disappear."

No More Oily Skin

Makes old-looking skin youthfully clear—refines large pores—corrects oily skin—heals irritations

Cremed magnesia corrects oily skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

Poor-color complexions, oily skin and blemishes are due to acid-skin impurities. And everybody knows there is nothing like magnesia to neutralize acid. So, when the face is massaged with cremed magnesia the skin throws off even the most deep-set pore impurities. It corrects oily skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach.

Cremed magnesia rejuvenates the complexion so quickly that any face looks years younger in five minutes. It changes old-looking, poor-color skin to youthful clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. It's astringent; it reduces enlarged pores to the finest texture and smooths out the telltale lines of age.

It removes make-up better than soap or cleansing cream. And, because it's so mild, it's a blessing for fine, sensitive skin that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Doctors urge their wives, patients and nurses to use nothing but magnesia to cleanse and beautify the complexion.

When you use it you will at once see why druggists find it hard to get enough to supply the tremendous demand.

These new Du Barry Beauty Preparations and the new Du Barry Hand Principle bring the Beauty Salon to your own home!

It's their simplicity of use—and their quickly effective results—that are making women advise their friends to use Richard Hudnut's new Du Barry Beauty Preparations every day.

For these exquisite new creams and lotions and oils are the result of the most scientific research in the Richard Hudnut laboratories both here and in Paris . . . a quest which led to the discovery of several rare, unusual ingredients which makes these preparations at one time pure, safe and effective for daily use in the home.

It is daily care that counts in retaining—or regaining—your beauty. That's why Richard Hudnut devised these Du Barry Beauty Treatments for home use . . . a complete series to correct the marks that age leaves on your skin. Using the new Du Barry Hand Principle and Beauty Preparations, each day you can give yourself the same sort of treatment you would receive at the Beauty Salon. And at less cost!

You'll see the results so quickly. And soon your friends will be saying to you, "I wish my skin were as lovely as yours!"

Each treatment takes but a few minutes, and it's so easy! For instance . . .

This is the Du Barry Way to improve the Appearance of the Cheeks!

First thoroughly cleanse the face with Du Barry Cleansing Cream and Du Barry Skin Tonic and Freshener. Then lubricate the cheek area well with Tissue Cream or Skin Food. (Tissue Cream is best for normal or oily skins; Skin Food best for overdry skins.) Rub the Palmar Muscles thoroughly with Muscle Oil. Begin a rhythmical slapping of the cheeks with the open palm, just hard enough to arouse the circulation. Note the suction that the palm and Muscle Oil create against the cheek. This is a marvelous treatment, too, for bringing up the natural flow of color to sallow, tired faces.

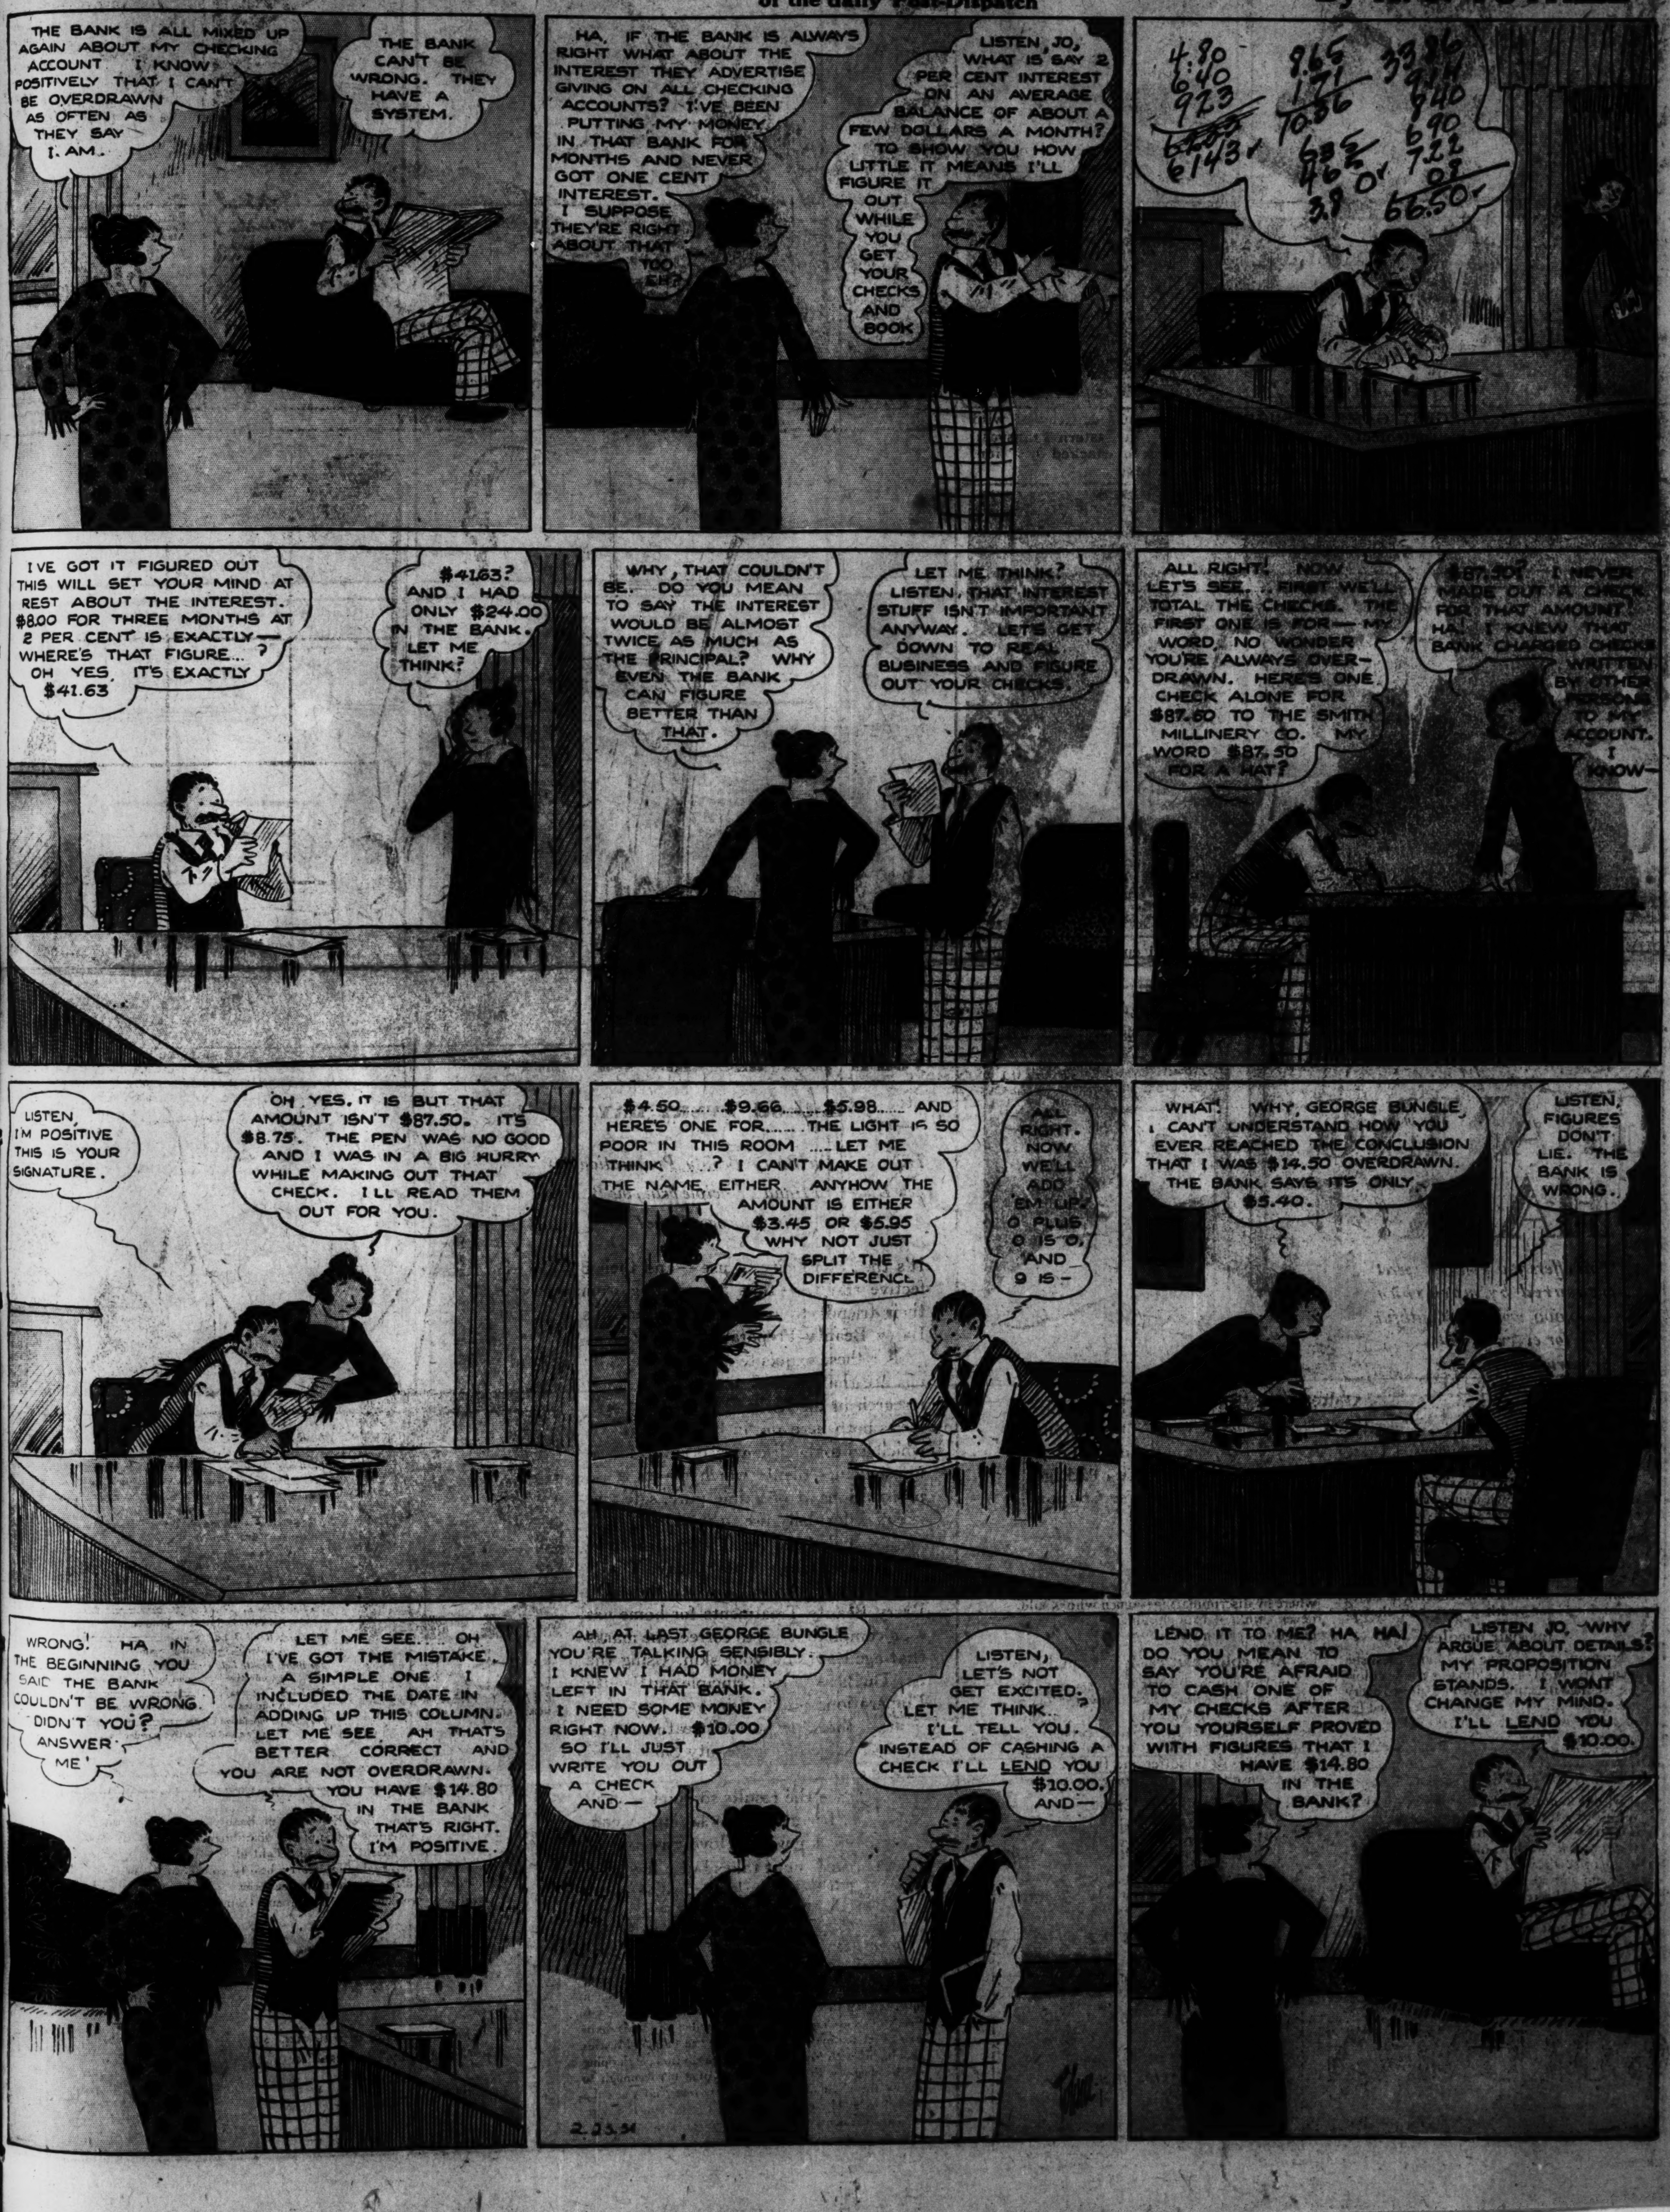
By H. J. TUTHILL



THE BANK IS ALL MIXED UP AGAIN ABOUT MY CHECKING ACCOUNT. I KNOW POSITIVELY THAT I CAN'T BE OVERDRAWN AS OFTEN AS THEY SAY I AM.
THE BANK CAN'T BE WRONG. THEY HAVE A SYSTEM.
HA, IF THE BANK IS ALWAYS RIGHT WHAT ABOUT THE INTEREST THEY ADVERTISE GIVING ON ALL CHECKING ACCOUNTS? I'VE BEEN PUTTING MY MONEY IN THAT BANK FOR MONTHS AND NEVER GOT ONE CENT INTEREST. I SUPPOSE THEY'RE RIGHT ABOUT THAT TOO, EH?
LISTEN, JO, WHAT IS SAY 2 PER CENT INTEREST ON AN AVERAGE BALANCE OF ABOUT A FEW DOLLARS A MONTH? TO SHOW YOU HOW LITTLE IT MEANS I'LL FIGURE IT OUT WHILE YOU GET YOUR CHECKS AND BOOK
4.90 6.40 9.23 ~~62.33~~ 61.43 8.65 1.71 10.36 6.35 4.65 3.8 0 33.36 9.14 6.40 6.90 7.22 .09 66.50
I'VE GOT IT FIGURED OUT THIS WILL SET YOUR MIND AT REST ABOUT THE INTEREST. $8.00 FOR THREE MONTHS AT 2 PER CENT IS EXACTLY— WHERE'S THAT FIGURE...? OH YES, IT'S EXACTLY $41.63
$41.63? AND I HAD ONLY $24.00 IN THE BANK. LET ME THINK?
WHY, THAT COULDN'T BE. DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THE INTEREST WOULD BE ALMOST TWICE AS MUCH AS THE PRINCIPAL? WHY EVEN THE BANK CAN FIGURE BETTER THAN THAT.
LET ME THINK? LISTEN, THAT INTEREST STUFF ISN'T IMPORTANT ANYWAY. LET'S GET DOWN TO REAL BUSINESS AND FIGURE OUT YOUR CHECKS.
ALL RIGHT. NOW LET'S SEE... FIRST WE'LL TOTAL THE CHECKS. THE FIRST ONE IS FOR— MY WORD, NO WONDER YOU'RE ALWAYS OVERDRAWN. HERE'S ONE CHECK ALONE FOR $87.50 TO THE SMITH MILLINERY CO. MY WORD $87.50 FOR A HAT?
$87.50? I NEVER MADE OUT A CHECK FOR THAT AMOUNT. HA! I KNEW THAT BANK CHARGED CHECKS WRITTEN BY OTHER PERSONS TO MY ACCOUNT. I KNOW—LISTEN, I'M POSITIVE THIS IS YOUR SIGNATURE.
OH YES, IT IS BUT THAT AMOUNT ISN'T $87.50. IT'S $8.75. THE PEN WAS NO GOOD AND I WAS IN A BIG HURRY WHILE MAKING OUT THAT CHECK. I'LL READ THEM OUT FOR YOU.
$4.50...... $9.66...... $5.98...... AND HERE'S ONE FOR...... THE LIGHT IS SO POOR IN THIS ROOM ....LET ME THINK.....? I CAN'T MAKE OUT THE NAME EITHER. ANYHOW THE AMOUNT IS EITHER $3.45 OR $5.95 WHY NOT JUST SPLIT THE DIFFERENCE.
ALL RIGHT. NOW WE'LL ADD 'EM UP. 0 PLUS 0 IS 0, AND 9 IS—WHAT! WHY, GEORGE BUNGLE, I CAN'T UNDERSTAND HOW YOU EVER REACHED THE CONCLUSION THAT I WAS $14.50 OVERDRAWN. THE BANK SAYS IT'S ONLY $5.40.
LISTEN, FIGURES DON'T LIE. THE BANK IS WRONG.
WRONG! HA, IN THE BEGINNING YOU SAID THE BANK COULDN'T BE WRONG. DIDN'T YOU? ANSWER ME!
LET ME SEE... OH I'VE GOT THE MISTAKE. A SIMPLE ONE. I INCLUDED THE DATE IN ADDING UP THIS COLUMN. LET ME SEE. AH THAT'S BETTER. CORRECT AND YOU ARE NOT OVERDRAWN. YOU HAVE $14.80 IN THE BANK THAT'S RIGHT. I'M POSITIVE.
AH AT LAST GEORGE BUNGLE YOU'RE TALKING SENSIBLY. I KNEW I HAD MONEY LEFT IN THAT BANK. I NEED SOME MONEY RIGHT NOW. $10.00 SO I'LL JUST WRITE YOU OUT A CHECK AND—
LISTEN, LET'S NOT GET EXCITED. LET ME THINK.. I'LL TELL YOU. INSTEAD OF CASHING A CHECK I'LL LEND YOU $10.00. AND—LEND IT TO ME? HA HA! DO YOU MEAN TO SAY YOU'RE AFRAID TO CASH ONE OF MY CHECKS AFTER YOU YOURSELF PROVED WITH FIGURES THAT I HAVE $14.80 IN THE BANK?
LISTEN JO, WHY ARGUE ABOUT DETAILS? MY PROPOSITION STANDS. I WON'T CHANGE MY MIND. I'LL LEND YOU $10.00.

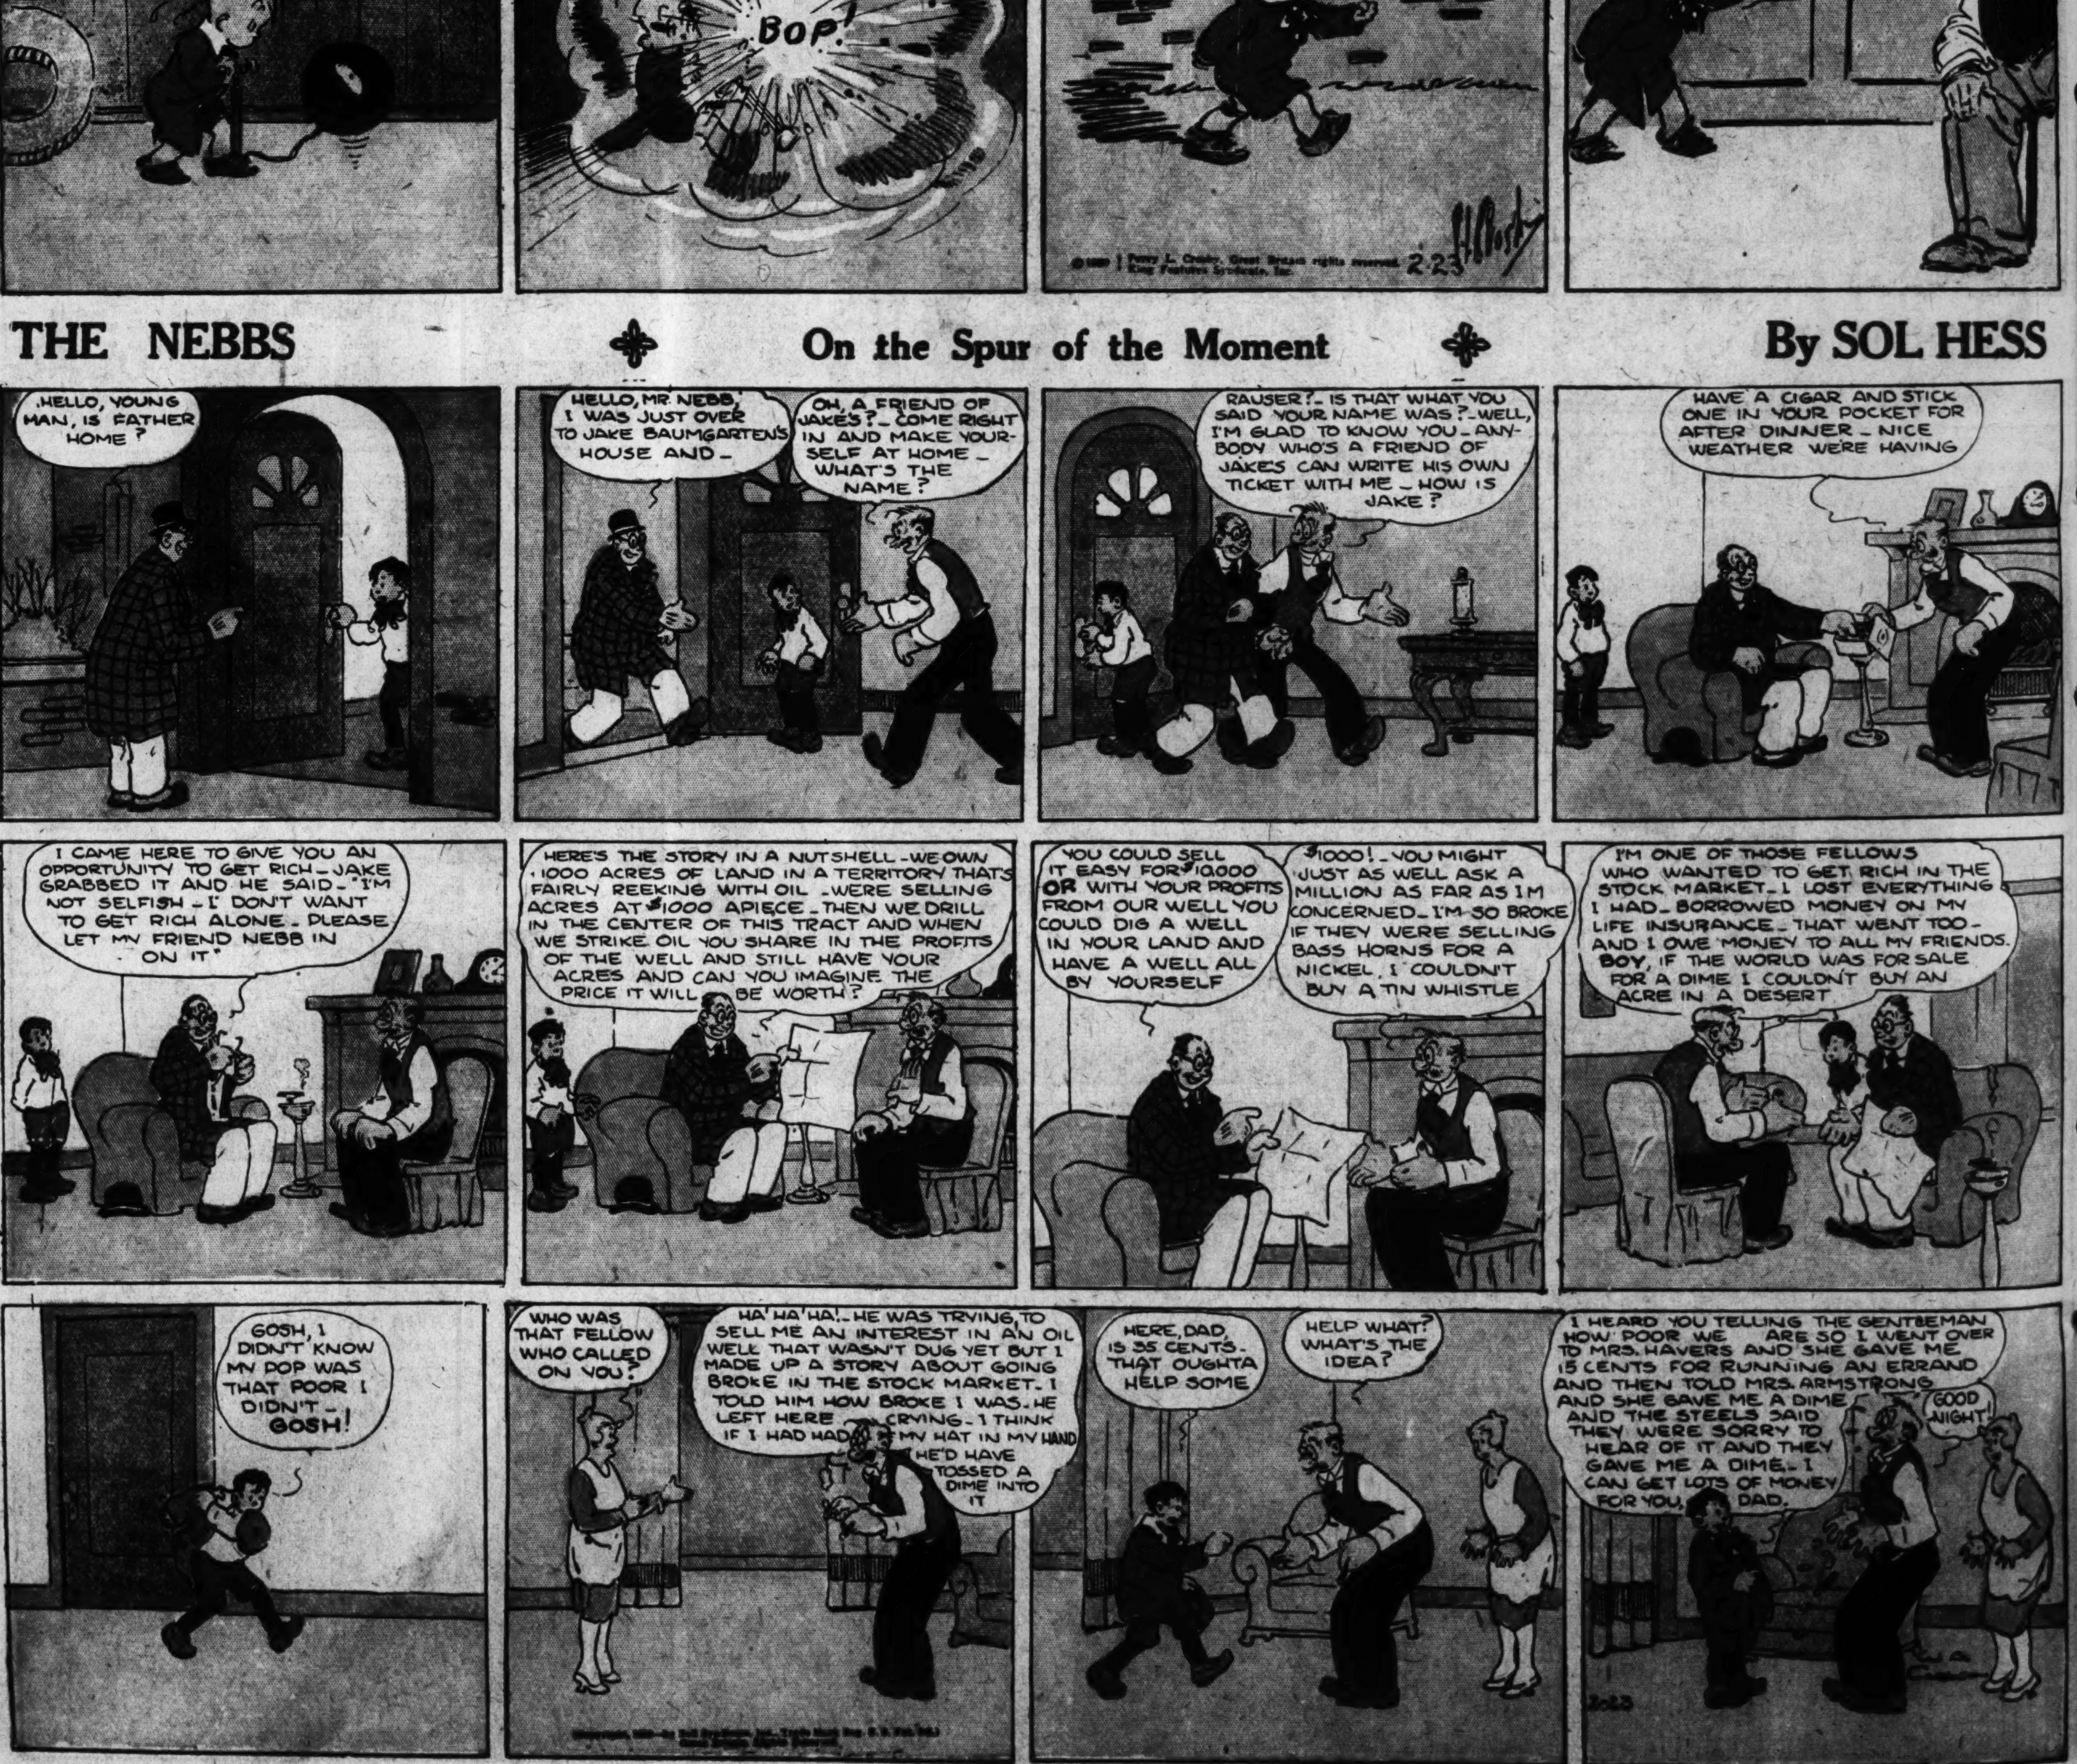
THE NEBBS

On the Spur of the Moment

By SOL HESS



HELLO, YOUNG MAN, IS FATHER HOME?
HELLO, MR NEBB, I WAS JUST OVER TO JAKE BAUMGARTEN'S HOUSE AND – OH, A FRIEND OF JAKE'S? – COME RIGHT IN AND MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME – WHAT'S THE NAME?
RAUSER? – IS THAT WHAT YOU SAID YOUR NAME WAS? – WELL, I'M GLAD TO KNOW YOU – ANYBODY WHO'S A FRIEND OF JAKE'S CAN WRITE HIS OWN TICKET WITH ME – HOW IS JAKE?
HAVE A CIGAR AND STICK ONE IN YOUR POCKET FOR AFTER DINNER – NICE WEATHER WE'RE HAVING
I CAME HERE TO GIVE YOU AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET RICH – JAKE GRABBED IT AND HE SAID – "I'M NOT SELFISH – I DON'T WANT TO GET RICH ALONE – PLEASE LET MY FRIEND NEBB IN ON IT"
HERE'S THE STORY IN A NUTSHELL – WE OWN 1000 ACRES OF LAND IN A TERRITORY THAT'S FAIRLY REEKING WITH OIL – WE'RE SELLING ACRES AT $1000 APIECE – THEN WE DRILL IN THE CENTER OF THIS TRACT AND WHEN WE STRIKE OIL YOU SHARE IN THE PROFITS OF THE WELL AND STILL HAVE YOUR ACRES AND CAN YOU IMAGINE THE PRICE IT WILL BE WORTH?
YOU COULD SELL IT EASY FOR $10,000 OR WITH YOUR PROFITS FROM OUR WELL YOU COULD DIG A WELL IN YOUR LAND AND HAVE A WELL ALL BY YOURSELF
$1000! – YOU MIGHT JUST AS WELL ASK A MILLION AS FAR AS I'M CONCERNED – I'M SO BROKE IF THEY WERE SELLING BASS HORNS FOR A NICKEL, I COULDN'T BUY A TIN WHISTLE
I'M ONE OF THOSE FELLOWS WHO WANTED TO GET RICH IN THE STOCK MARKET – I LOST EVERYTHING I HAD – BORROWED MONEY ON MY LIFE INSURANCE – THAT WENT TOO – AND I OWE MONEY TO ALL MY FRIENDS. BOY, IF THE WORLD WAS FOR SALE FOR A DIME I COULDN'T BUY AN ACRE IN A DESERT
GOSH, I DIDN'T KNOW MY POP WAS THAT POOR I DIDN'T – GOSH!
WHO WAS THAT FELLOW WHO CALLED ON YOU?
HA' HA' HA! – HE WAS TRYING TO SELL ME AN INTEREST IN AN OIL WELL THAT WASN'T DUG YET BUT I MADE UP A STORY ABOUT GOING BROKE IN THE STOCK MARKET – I TOLD HIM HOW BROKE I WAS – HE LEFT HERE CRYING – I THINK IF I HAD HAD MY HAT IN MY HAND HE'D HAVE TOSSED A DIME INTO IT
HERE, DAD, IS 35 CENTS – THAT OUGHTA HELP SOME HELP WHAT? WHAT'S THE IDEA?
I HEARD YOU TELLING THE GENTLEMAN HOW POOR WE ARE SO I WENT OVER TO MRS. HAVERS AND SHE GAVE ME 15 CENTS FOR RUNNING AN ERRAND AND THEN TOLD MRS. ARMSTRONG AND SHE GAVE ME A DIME AND THE STEELS SAID THEY WERE SORRY TO HEAR OF IT AND THEY GAVE ME A DIME – I CAN GET LOTS OF MONEY FOR YOU, DAD.
GOOD NIGHT!

HIS NAME IS ROWDY, BUT HE'S REALLY A WELL-BEHAVED PUPPY!
I THINK HE'S SO SWEET! CAN I HAVE HIM PART OF THE TIME?
BLACKIE'S DAD GAVE HIM THAT BRINDLE BULL PUP FOR A PRESENT!
YEH? WELL, I GOT AN IDEA HOW TO TAKE ALL THE JOY OUT OF THAT PRESENT!
WE'LL GET THE DOG LONG ENOUGH TO WIN ITS AFFECTION! THEN HE'LL FOLLOW US AND REFUSE TO HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH BLACKIE!
I GET YOU! THAT'LL SHOW BLACKIE UP WHEN HIS OWN DOG RUNS AWAY FROM HIM AND FOLLOWS US! ROWENA WILL THINK WE HAVE A GREAT WAY WITH DOGS!
THAT'S LUCKY! BLACKIE TIED HIM OUTSIDE WHILE HE'S CALLING ON ROWENA! NOW'S OUR CHANCE!
THESE RICH CHOCOLATES OUGHT TO WIN HIM OVER! HERE, ROWDY!
THEY SAY DOGS ARE LIKE HUMAN BEINGS, SO THIS MINCE PIE WILL GO OVER BIG WITH ROWDY!
A DISH OF ICE CREAM SHOULD BE THE FINISHING TOUCH! HE'LL BE OUR FRIEND FOR LIFE!
HE SURE LIKES US! LOOK AT HIM EAT!
WE'LL WAIT UNTIL BLACKIE AND ROWENA COME OUT! THEN I'LL CALL ROWDY WHEN BLACKIE UNTIES HIM AND HE'LL COME TO ME!
GOSH, ROWDY, YOU'RE SICK! I'LL BET SOMEBODY'S BEEN FEEDING YOU RICH FOOD!
WHY, THE POOR LITTLE THING IS IN MISERY!
THE DOG DOCTOR SAID THIS MEDICINE WILL FIX ROWDY UP IN NO TIME! THAT'S A GOOD DOGGY!
FEB 23 1930
HERE, ROWDY! HERE, ROWDY!
THIS IS GOING TO BE GOOD!
I SEE IT ALL NOW! ROWDY HATES THEM FOR MAKING HIM SICK! SICK—THAT'S A GOOD WORD! SIC 'EM, ROWDY!
IF YOU LET ME HAVE ROWDY WHEN YOU'RE NOT AROUND, BLACKIE, THEN BULL AND SPUD WON'T DARE COME NEAR ME!

DORA -- THE BOYS ARE PUTTING ON THEIR BIG DANCE TONIGHT --- I'D BE THE HAPPIEST FELLOW IN THE WORLD IF YOU'D GO WITH ME
GEE, ROD -- I CAN'T SAY FOR SURE! BOB ASKED ME A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, BUT I THINK HE'S FORGOTTEN -- IF HE DOESN'T CALL BY SIX I'LL GO WITH YOU
HELLO, DORA! THIS IS BOB --- DON'T FORGET YOU PROMISED TO GO TO THE DANCE WITH ME TONIGHT -- I'LL BE OVER AT EIGHT
OH, NO, I HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN, BOBBY, BUT I CERTAINLY THOUGHT YOU FORGOT ALL ABOUT POOR LITTLE ME
HELLO, ROD --- DORA --- SAY, ROD, BOB REMEMBERED THIS DATE WITH ME -- SO I WON'T BE ABLE TO GO WITH YOU - I'LL SEE YOU THERE
WELL, DON'T GIVE THAT WET CRACKER ALL YOUR DANCES - SAVE SOME FOR ME
ISN'T IT WONDERFUL, MOM? I'M GOING TO THE DANCE WITH THE MOST POPULAR FELLOW IN THE FRATERNITY --- I FEEL SO PROUD THAT BOB REMEMBERED HIS DATE WITH ME
HELLO DORA THIS IS BOB --- AGAIN ----- I'M AWFULLY SORRY, BUT I WON'T BE ABLE TO TAKE YOU TONIGHT --- WHEN I ASKED YOU I FORGOT I HAD ASKED BETTY ---- SHE JUST PHONED ME
OH, DEAR - WHAT A DISAPPOINTMENT
HELLO, ROD --- I'M GOING TO THE DANCE WITH YOU, AFTER ALL BOB GOT HIS DATES MIXED AND WON'T BE ABLE TO TAKE ME
GOOD --- YOU'LL HAVE A BETTER TIME WITH ME
I'D HAVE A SWELL TIME WITH BOB --- HE'S IN WITH THE GOOD CROWD, BUT I GUESS GOING WITH ROD IS BETTER THAN STAYING AT HOME
YOU DIDN'T EXPECT ME DID YOU? WHEN BETTY HEARD I INVITED YOU SHE GOT SORE AND REFUSED TO GO WITH ME ---- GET YOUR COAT ON - YOU'RE GOING WITH ME

STOCKS WEAK; COTTON AND WHEAT PRICES OFF SHARPLY

Grain Tumbles 7 3-8 Cents a Bushel to Season's Low on the Chicago Board of Trade.

FALL OF $2 A BALE IN COTTON MARKET

Active Securities Drop 1 to 10 Points on a Moderate Volume of Trade With Close Near Low of Day.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Pro nounced reactionary tendencies de veloped in all of the leading spe ulative markets today. Wheat a cotton futures broke to new lo levels for the season in unusual heavy liquidating movements, wh prices of active stocks dropped 1 10 points, on a moderate volume trading. A brisk rally in stoc started in mid afternoon, but quic ly played out, with final quotatio generally around the low levels the day.

The break in wheat and cot was held primarily responsible the weakness of stocks, altho the marking up of the call m rate from 4 to 4½ per cent, un tainties over tariff legislation, P
ident Hoover's warning agains and disappointment over the recovery in some lines of t were all mentioned as contrib factors.

The rise in call money fol rather heavy calling of loans, was believed to be due to th that many banks had over l on Friday in order to take a tage of the three day week-e terest period. The time mone ket also was firmer, the 30 day maturities being quoted to 4¾ per cent, as against a per cent rate last week. Th
